NEW CHEVROLET SERIES INTRODUCED SATURDAY

Charlevoix Oil Co. Displays Re-Styled Mechanically Improved Cars

Three completely re-styled series of Chevrolet passenger cars, combining greater length nnd width with much more mnssive appearance, and embodying many mechanical refinements, made their formal public bow last Saturday at the Charlevoix Oil Co., local dealers. Over-all length has been increased 4 3/8 inches, a change which makes the new line outstanding for its sleekness and grace.

Improvements, aside from styling, in which sweeping changes are made, include provision of Chevrolet's exclusive vacuum power shift as regular equipment on all models of all three series, helical syncro-mesh transmission with silent low and reverse as well as silent intermediate and high, and numerous revisions affecting safety, comfort, convenience, performance, and long life. Knee-action and shockless steering are featured on the Special DeLuxe and Master DeLuxe series, conventionnl I-beam front axle with semi-elliptic springs and airplane-type shock absorbers being retained on the Master 85.

In appearance, the 1940 Chevrolet is new from bumper to bumper. Bodies, fenders, hood, and frame are completely re-designed, to embody low-slung grace.

NEW CAR REGISTRATIONS SHOW A HEAVY INCREASE

New passenger car registrations for the first eight months of 1939 totaled 1,821,043, a 43.58 increase over the same period of last year, the R. L. Polk Company reports.

Final tabulations for August showed 182,633 cars registered in the United States compared with 127,954 registrations in the same period last year and 229,308 registrations for July of this year.

Total registrations for the first eight months last year were 1,250,873.

Salt Stops Grease Spatter

Cooks claim from experience that a little salt sprinkled in a pan before putting in fat helps prevent grease from spattering when meat is fried.

OF INTEREST TO FARMERS

By B. C. Mellencamp

Cite Feed Value of Cull Apples

Plans of the Federal Surplus Commodities corporation to purchase sizenble quantities nf Michigan apples to relieve the market of the heavy 1939 crnp mean that thousands of head of livestuck in the state are due to get upples in their diet this fnll and winter.

Fnr every bushel purchased by this federal ngency, the grower is required to divert another bushel of merchantable apples even though these may be culls suitable only for cider.

County agricultural agents, including B. C. Mellencamp in Charlevoix county, will he able to supply growers with blank forms indicating method of handling the npples diverted from the market. The diversion must be for apples handled in some manner since Thursday, September 28th.

In 1937 the federal purchases totalled 1,200 carlots or about a half million bushels. The state's commercial crop this year is estimated at more than eight million bushels or about twice that of a year ago.

At Michigan State college, feeding specialists are pointing out two of the most efficient and productive ways of using up apples that must be diverted as culls or even in other grades. Dairy cattle, swine or horses relish apples chopped or ground. The feeding value is even superior in the form of apple pumace, the residue after cider presses extract the juice. In fact, experienced dairymen prefer to feed the 700 pounds nf pumace that a ton of frsh apples produces when used for cider. Cows should be milked before feeding the pumace. Supplements should be protein-rich.

One point of feeding is stressed from experience. That is, to start out feeding 10 pounds of pumace a day to cows or steers and then gradually build up to a 30-pound daily basis.

LANSING LETTER

teeth of a determined economy crusade) for the express purpose of modernizing state parks throughout Michigan. Through the magic of CCC and WPA, this amount will be pyramided to $2,000,000 or more and the conservation department expects that many dollars to go a long ways to pacify Henry Smith and his youngsters.

Trailer Gypsy

During 1938 the state parks issued a total of 51,000 camping permits. Approximately 188,000 persons lived in tents or trailers for one or more days.

Thirty-three per cent of all camping permits were for house trailers those miniature homes on wheels that go rolling over highways, complete with beds and dishes and other domestic articles. That meant around 60,000 persons. Put that many people in one place and you'd soon have to have everything from a police court to a hospital to take care of them. Many state parks are just busy small cities, located miles from a municipality, but with most of city complications arising just the same.

The house trailer was responsible for 31½ per cent of all camping permits in 1936. In the next year it climbed to 35 per cent, and conservation leaders began to wonder if parks might be overrun someday with the blooming things. Trailerites wanted electricity for lighting. They brought radios along and wanted to plug them into the nearest light socket, just as they did back home. It was new and most perplexing.

Today, 32 of the 56 state parks offer electricity at cost. You purchase "juice" according to the fuse, 50 cents per week up.

The campers, whether they live in trailers or in tents, want other conveniences, too. Chick Sales and Grandfather Smith got along together pretty well, but times have changed! But we're getting ahead of our story.

No Camping Fee

The average picnicker comes with a well-filled basket of food and leaves a few hours later. For him the basic state park law, passed during Governor Groesbeck's administration in 1921, provides that all parks must be open to the public without an admission charge. Indiana charges a park admission of 10 cents per person, but Michigan has always adhered to the idea that state parks should be free.

Concessions are leased on annual contracts. Revenue from such concessions (freshment stands, etc.) go into the state's general funds to be expended later for any purpose whatsoever.

To the Henry Smiths who ask park caretakers why the state does not provide more modern services in its parks, the stock answer has always been: "We are sorry. We do not have sufficient funds to provide these services free."

When Smith goes fishing, he expects to buy a fishing license.

When he goes hunting, he fully is aware a hunting license is necessary.

True, the price of the license in either case is nominal. But multiply the small sum by tens of thousands, and it quickly grows into "big money". Furthermore, the fishing or hunting license revenue returns to promote or conserve the interests of the sportsmen. It enables these services, to an important degree, to be "self-supporting."

Not for the state park camper, however. He pays no fee on a daily or weekly basis, although he expects a lot more service than the casual picnicker. The state department faces the quandry: "Shall we establish a nominal fee for camping privileges in state parks, say 25 cents per day for the entire camping party?"

"If such a camping fee would be acceptable to the Henry Smiths, do we possess legal powers to authorize such a fee or must we ask the legislature for the right?"

First Park in 1917

The state park system isn't old.

Michigan's first park was acquired only 22 years ago when there wasn't such a thing as a state park commission or even a conservation department.

A virgin pine tract at Interlochen faced extinction in 1917 when lumber interests, sensing war-time profits, set up operations to reap a fat harvest.

The state legislature was opportuned to save the forest for posterity. Nearly 250 acres of timber were purchased for $60,000.

Mackinac Island, of course, was transferred from federal to state ownership in 1895 with the congressional stipulation that a separate state commission would be created to preserve the historic forts at Mackinaw City and Mackinac Island.

In 1919 the legislature created a seven-member state park commission. Two years later the Gibesbeck administration merged various bureaus for forestry, fish and game, geology, law enforcement, forest fire fighting, and so on into one department, and called it the "conservation department." To keep conservation out of politics, a non-partisan commission was created. The law also stipulated that preference should be given in choice of park sites to those on the Great Lakes and then, after that, to those on inland lakes or waterways.

Eleven Dodge Parks

John and Horace Dodge, the automobile family of Michigan, presented eleven parks to the state of Michigan. These parks are located in Oakland, Macomb, Livingston, Monroe, Wayne and Chippewa counties. (The upper peninsula park was once a hunting lodge of the Dodge family.)

At Grayling there is the Hartwick white pine state park, a gift from Mrs. Karen Bessie Hartwick.

In honor of the W. J. Hayes of Detroit, his sister presented the state with a park tract in the Irish Hills near Jackson.

J. W. Wells, lumberman of Menominee, was responsible for the state park at Cedar river on Green Bay.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard B. Bloomer of Detroit donated sites for four state parks in the Detroit metropolitan area.

These are a few examples.

Helpful Uncle Sam

Points along the Great Lakes where the federal government once maintained lighthouses have become state parks. The Old Mission park in Grand Traverse county, the Northport park in Leelanau county, and Fort Wilkins in Keweenaw county are illustrations. The state also owns sites for 19 additional parks.

When the Great Depression hit Michigan, times were tough. The state conservation department tightened its belt. No money was available for purchase of parks or for development of existing parks. Operations were curtailed to a low level.

Then came chronologically and alphabetically the CCC, the CWA, the ERA, and recently the WPA, each with millions of dollars of federal relief money. Work projects were needed. The conservation department had a backlog of work, long postponed. Thousands of young men were put at jobs, improving state parks and forests.

Today, four CCC camps are located at state parks. Eight CCC camps are performing forestry work in state forests, some nearby to state parks. The Grayling Winter Sports state park is being improved chiefly thru the assistance of the National Park Service and the CCC.

Maybe This is Why You "Can't Take It"

Dr. Joseph B. Biederman, distinguished specialist on allergy and internal medicine, writing in The American Weekly with the October 22 issue of The Detroit Sunday Times, explains how food, dogs, cats, kisses and even people we love are always causing trouble for millions of people who have inherited allergies. RAINBOW TROUT BEGIN MIGRATION UP RIVERS

Fall "Run" Provides Excellent Sport In Places Open for Fishing

Rainbow trout have begun to make their way up the Manistee river and with colder weather the movement upstream of fish from Great Lakes or connecting waters will begin in a number of rivers in the northern part of the state.

This fall movement of trout attracts increasing numbers of fishermen from southern Michigan points each season. The rainhows remain in the streams until the end of the spring spawning period.

Conservation officers in all sections of the state are reporting fair to excellent fishing success. Many perch are being taken in the east and west arms of Grand Traverse bay and fishing for rainbow trout in Charlevoix and Burt Lakes is good. The trout are taken with spinners and night crawlers.

Rainbow trout may be taken with hook and line during September, October and November from Muskegon and White rivers, Muskegon and White lakes, Muskegon county; White river down from dam at Hesperia, Pentwater and Stoney lakes, Oceana county; Muskegon river down from Rogers dam, Mecosta and Newaygo counties; Pere Marquette river down from Indian bridge; south branch of Pere Marquette river down from Riverview bridge and from Pere Marquette lake, Mason county; Manistee river, Arcadia and Portage lakes, Manistee county; Manistee river down from US-131, Wexford county; Round Platte, Bronson, Lake Ann, Lower Herring and Betsie lakes in Benzie county; Mullet and Burt lakes, Indian and Crooked rivers and Sturgeon river down from dam at Wolverine, in Cheboygan county; Crooked river, Crooked and Pickerel lakes, Emmet county; Lake Charlevoix, Charlevoix county, and channel below new power house at Elk Rapids, Antrim county.

NEW STATUTE TIGHTENS TRESPASS LAWS

More Effective Disposition of Cases Is Expected to Result

Tightening of the trespass law protecting state-owned and tax delinquent lands is expected to result in more prompt and effective disposition of cases involving theft from such public property.

A new law, effective September 29, is a streamlined recodification of conflicting and overlapping statutes dating from 1846. It differs from the old by classing offensea involving damages of $50 or less as misdemeanors, permitting prosecution of petty offenders in justice courts.

Formerly even minor offenses were subject to heavy penalties, making prosecution and conviction difficult. Thefts or damage exceeding $50 remain felonies, with the offender liable to severer punishment.

State-owned lands, now totaling approximately two and a half million acres, will be increased November 3 by an estimated two million acres as titles to tax delinquent land hid in by the state in May, 1938, are conveyed to the state.

The new act is designed to prevent not only the cutting and removal of such forest products as Christmas trees, logs, posts, ties and shrubs, but also to protect the deposits of gravel, sand and marl and even of oil on state-owned and tax delinquent lands. On tax delinquent lands there is also the problem of preventing the dismantling and removal of abandoned farm buildings. Receivers of such property unlawfully removed are subject to the same penalties as those who take it.

MANY FARM TYPES ARE FOUND IN MICHIGAN

State College Bulletin Shows Results of Comprehensive Survey

"Michigan's agriculture is very diverse."

With that brief statement backed up by a map indicating 17 different types of farming areas in the state, E. B. Hill proves in a new Michigan State college bulletin now available for distribution why it is important to know the state thoroughly in order to farm profitably.

Wide variations in soil types, topography, climate and economic conditions prevail. Because of these factors, the author, who is head of the college farm management department, shows how Michigan farmers have found it advantageous to follow types of farming best adapted to the particular regions in which they live.

Casually one might think Michigan can be classed as a dalryIng and general farming state. But only in nine south central counties is this classification typical of the predominating type of farming.

As a picture of the state's agriculture, the illustrations and information offered in the 100 pages form one of the most complete preparations available to farmers or prospective farm purchasers. The issue is Michigan special bulletin 206, "Types of Farming in Michigan."

Forty-three dot maps scattered through the pages give graphic pictures of weather, crops, livestock, population by counties, land values and other details peculiar to the state. Copies of the publication are available through offices of county agricultural agents or by writing the Bulletin Room, Michigan State college, East Lansing.

Premium List Aggregates $1,500; Merchants Put Up Prizes

Fifteen hundred dollars in cash prizes, merchandise and gifts will be distributed among those attending and exhibiting at the Annual Northern Michigan Potato and Apple Show to be held in Traverse City November 8, 9 and 10, according to Hal Elliott, chairman of the finance committee:

In addition to money secured from the state department of agriculture, local merchants have contributed liberally to the list of prizes. Among other things, a 1940 model radio-phonograph combination will be awarded as a door prize to some person attending the show. This prize will be awarded at nine o'clock on the night of Thursday, November 9, in the high school auditorium. In addition, $150 worth of merchandise prizes will be passed out that evening and a similar amount at 3:30 Thursday afternoon,

A new feature of the show this year will be the old-fashioned style show to be held in connection with the farm exhibit on Thursday night. Entries to this are welcomed from any part of the state.

this crop and also that the delicious fruit will be available to those who probably could not afford to buy it otherwise. In most years of heavy surplus, most of the crop had rotted on the ground.

There's been a lot of big game rifle practice hereabouts lately. The boys have been out getting their eye in practice. It would surprise you, though, to know how many of these guys who hit the bull's eye every time in practice couldn't hit a deer if it was as big as a barn. And that remark is gettin' pretty close to home, too.

Took sort of a preliminary inspection trip through the new city hall Tuesday and want to remark that when the building is finished and furnished it's going to be something everyone can be mighty proud of. Hope this fine building so near by will stir the board of supervisors into ambitions for a new court house to match.

Ebb Warren, outdoor editor of the Traverse City Record-Eagle, commenting on a recent meeting of commercial and sports fishermen, says: "For the first time in history commercial fishermen and sports trollers have joined hands in a cooperative move to adopt more strict regulations for the taking of lake trout from Lake Michigan waters." The meeting came about as the result of a petition handed the conservation department asking a longer closed season on both lake trout and whitefish to give them full protection while on the spawning grounds. Dr. John Van Oosten of the Federal Bureau of Fisheries, the fellow who says smelt don't eat minnows, was there along with prominent conservation officials. All very fine, these get-together meetings, but the thing that got my goat was the following excerpt from Warren's article: "Only this summer efforts to rear lake trout at Charlevoix met with little success. So many of the small fish had died by the middle of the summer that the remainder were liberated to save them from the same fate." Wonder what Warren, as well as conservation officials, would think if they knew what killed all those small lake trout was improper food. They were getting along fine until some "swivel chair" official sent up a batch of meat that turned out to be stringy, indigestible trash which killed the fish. It wasn't water conditions that killed the fish, or anything else besides the food, because several troughs of steelhead and rainbow trout belonging to the Charlevoix Sportsman's Club were right alongside the others, only they were fed ground liver, bought locally and known to be good. The Sportsman's Club fish didn't die, they came along in nice shape. It is my hope that if any effort is made to discontinue rearing lake trout because of last summer's experience, local sportsmen will rise up in wrath and demand the truth of why the lake trout experiment failed.

BIG FARMERS DAY EVENT IS PLANNED

KIWANIS SPONSORING PROGRAM NOVEMBER 4TH

County-Wide Produce, 4-H Club, Smith-Hughes Displays — Evening of Free Entertainment

A "Farmers Day" which promises all that the name implies, is scheduled in Charlevoix on Saturday, November 4th.

The Kiwanis Club is sponsoring the event, assisted by B. C. Mellencamp, county agricultural agent, the board of commerce and Charlevoix merchants. The affair replaces the annual Kiwanis "Farmers Night" banquet, to which attendance has been limited to as many guests as there are Kiwanis members, and in its place provides entertainment and activities in which everyone so desiring may take part.

Principal features of the day's program include a county-wide exhibit of farm produce, displays of 4-H Clubs and Smith-Hughes schools, and a free entertainment program in the evening at the school gymnasium with awarding of prizes donated by Charlevoix merchants, who are also offering special merchandising values during the day in their stores.

The agricultural exhibits, according to B. C. Mellencamp, will provide the annual fall achievement day for 4-H Club members. East Jordan and Boyne City Smith-Hughes groups will make displays. Farm displays will include potatoes, apples, corn, beans and canned goods. An attractive cash premium list has been provided. Displaying apples will be such leading county growers as Eveline Orchards, D. D. Tibbitts and Floyd Griffin. Competition will be provided in plates and bushel entries. The produce show will be held at the Benj. Brown building.

O. P. North, superintendent of schools, has charge of the entertainment program to be presented at the gymnasium. He promises many novel and entertaining features, one of which, it is understood, will be the dairy demonstration by which Clare McGhan and Lawrence Ecklund won in state competition and are now in San Francisco, Calif., to compete in the national dairy show.

Inasmuch as plans for the program are still in the stage of formation, full details will not be available for announcement until next week.

KIWANIS PLAN THIRD HALLOWE'EN PARTIES

Free Movie for All Students, Dance for Upper Classes Tuesday

The Charlevoix Kiwanis Club has completed plans for its third annual Hallowe'en party for children of this city—a plan instituted two years ago to provide entertainment in lieu of customary seasonal pranks.

Tuesday afternoon, October 31st, at 3 o'clock, a free show will be given at the Palace Theater through the cooperation of Mrs. Elizabeth Moon for children up to and including the sixth grade. In the evening the movie will be presented free to upper grades and will be followed by a dancing party nt the high school gymnasium. Wexstaff's orchestra will furnish dance music.

A Kiwanis committee will visit the schools to extend to each child an invitation. As in previous years, children will be asked to sign a pledge showing willingness to cooperate by preventing the spread of soap, tallow, and rubbish, or in any other way do damage or become offensive.

KIWANIS CHARITY SALE OPEN NOV. 2

ANNUAL "WHITE ELEPHANT" SALE 3-DAY EVENT

Compaign Aimed to Raise Funds to Aid Under-Privileged Childreo of This Commuoity

At 9:30 o'clock Thursday morning, November 2nd, the Charlevoix Kiwanis Club will open its annual "White Elephant" sale in the See building, first store north of the post office.

Otto Krueger, chairman of the event, says the club, aided by residents of Charlevoix, has gathered a most varied assortment of merchandise for the sale. Everyone will be able to find some useful article at ridiculously low price. Furniture, clothing, dishes, blankets, pictures, toys and hundreds of valuable articles will go on sale and must be sold during the three days allotted—November 2, 3 and 4. The store will be open from 9:30 a. m. to noon, from 2 to 5 in the afternoon and from 7 to 9 p. m. in the evening of each day.

Each year the Kiwanis Club stages this sale in an effort to raise funds for their under-privileged children's work. The money raised goes to many purposes, including the annual Christmas party, Michigan Children's Fund, Boy Scout activities, sending baskets to kiddies at Christmas time and many other charitable endeavors.

The sale has become known as an outstanding event. The public is invited to participate and thus lend their assistance to this worthy cause.

SHOT AT RANDOM

By Ken Usher

The arrest of two Ohioans by Conservation Officer Ed. Deuell for hunting woodcock with a pump gun capable of carrying more than the lawful three shells is a reminder to a lot of fellows to get that little wooden plug for their gun. More than three shells in a pump gun happens to be a violation of the migratory bird law.

After wearing one of those small game hunting tags on my back for two weeks, I've come to the conclusion that I'll propose a law whereby every hunter goes to the game warden first, proves he has a license, and then gets a permit to go about his hunting peacefully. After having the blooming tag torn off my back twice the opening day, I carried it around in my pocket so it wouldn't get lost. Finally had the good wife sew it on the back of my hunting coat, and then along comes weather so blasted warm, I couldn't wear the coat. I ask you—what's a poor fellow to do?

Partridge are not as plentiful as one would have been led to believe by the department of conservation before the season opened. Areas where "pats" were numerous a year ago this year have produced only mediocre shooting and, in some instances, nothing at all. At least this has been my own experience and is the concensus gathered from many other local hunters who have spent a lot of time in the woods. Of course partridge do shift their range quite frequently, but it is seldom they leave a given area almost completely. Guess all sportsmen appreciate the

FLORISTS' SCHOOL SUCCESSFUL EVENT

9TH ANNUAL EVENT DREW A RECORD ATTENDANCE

Floral Fashion Show Staged Thursday Night at School Gymnasium Was Outstanding Feature

Termed one of the most successful on record, the 9th annual convention of the Northern Michigan Florists' Club, held here Thursday and Friday, October 19-20, drew an attendance of 160 persons.

Hotel Hallett, convention headquarters, Hotel Charlevoix, The Bartlett and Grey Gables Inn were filled to capacity and many occupied private homes and cabins.

Thursday was devoted to discussions. The evening banquet at I. O. O. F. hall drew 131 persons, and a capacity crowd filled the school gymnasium that evening for the fall floral fashion show, an outstanding convention feature, staged by Polly-Kay, Inc., and cooperating merchants. The program, with a large group of models whose names were announced last week participating, depicted a hospital reception room, the opening of school, birthday scene and an elaborate wedding presentation, with gowns and costumes and floral decorations for each occasion. Conduct of the revue brought unqualified praise as an entertaining and educational feature and was declared one of the most unique ever staged in northern Michigan.

The concluding evening convention feature was a party of the Owls Club at The Argonne.

Friday morning and afternoon was devoted to demonstrations in the preparation of flowers for various uses. Designers from principal Michigan cities as well as many from out-of-state gave the demonstrations.

Arthur Edwards, representing Edwards, Florists, local concern, had charge of local arrangements. Roland Taylor of Harbor Springs, was named district representative to succeed O. D. Wilson, Petoskey, resigned.

Many of the visiting florists enjoyed fishing and hunting during their stay.

IT'S PLANTING TIME NOW! CHARLEVOIX COUNTY NURSERY

CHARLEVOIX WINS EAST JORDAN TILT

SCORED 13 TO 0 UPSET VICTORY HERE SATURDAY

Completely Out-Played Favored Visiting Aggregation—Meet Harbor Springs Next

Providing the unexpected Saturday afternoon, Charlevoix's Red Rayder football team defeated a favored East Jordan aggregation by a 13 to 0 count at south side athletic field. The victory revenged a 26 to 0 beating at East Jordan a year ago.

The contest saw a superior rated East Jordan team not only out-scored by two touchdowns, but out-played in every department of the game. The Rayders out-gained them in power plays and stole their aerial thunder to score twice.

The Rayders played smart football. They used line play to draw in the East Jordan defense, then shot out unexpected passes which clicked too well. Charlevoix's tallies came mid-way in the second and fourth periods. The first climaxed a gain of 75 yards. Nowland, Bergman and McGhan alternated to advance from the visitors 25-yard strip to Charlevoix's 48, where Nowland shot a long pass to McGhan, who romped untouched over East Jordan's goal. Bergman's placement for extra point was wide.

East Jordan's only serious threat came at the opening of the second half. A barrage of forward passes was successful enough to advance from Jordan territory to Charlevoix's 10-yard strip. Jake White intercepted a toss just short of the goal and returned to his own 20-yard line to end the threat and the Rayders launched their second touchdown march.

Nowland passed to Rowe for a first down on Jordan's 40, completed another to Martin, Bergman added 5 as the quarter ended. Nowland made it first down on Jordan's 31, McGhan added 5 yards, Nowland made first down on Jordan's 20 and then shot a pass to McGhan for the touchdown and hit the line for extra point.

Neither side threatened during the remainder of the period.

FOOTBALL PLAYERS ARE HURT IN AUTO MISHAP

Running-Board Passengers Jammed Between Car, Parked City Truck

Two members of the Charlevoix high school football team, received painful injuries, and several others minor bruises, when a car upon which they were riding on the running board side-swiped a city street department truck Saturday afternoon.

Those more seriously injured were William Ochs, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. I. Ochs, and Junior Wills, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Willis.

The accident occurred at the corner of State and Mason streets when Helen Foster, driver of the car, going west on Mason street, swerved into the parked truck to avoid collision with a machine traveling south on State street. Ochs, who was pinned between the two cars, was crushed, while Willis received a back injury. The others were bruised when thrown to the ground. Examination proved none hurt seriously.

Within a few days Michigan will harvest from thousands of acres of idle waste land a $4,000,000 crop.

Visitors to the No. 1 summer vacation state may wonder at the apparent uneconomic worth of the vast forest areas in the northern counties of the lower peninsula and those in the upper peninsula.

The fact still remains that 34,529 square miles of this territory in Michigan yielded last year an annual income of well over $100 per square mile.

Soon more than 160,000 red-clad hunters will take to the Michigan woods in pursuit of the wily buck. Questionnaires distributed among thousands of hunters indicate that the average hunter spends more than $25 during this 16-day hunting season, a grand total of more than $4,000,000 annually. "Slaughter"?

To the man on the street the idea of 162,301 hunters in 1938 (an average of 4.7 hunters per square mile) all seeking to kill deer might lead to a conclusion that deer are being slaughtered.

The state legislature in 1939 defeated bills which would have permitted the legal removal of additional deer from areas where large numbers of deer starve to death each winter.

Are deer decreasing in number?

Should the sate protect them from wholesale "slaughter"?

These are some pertinent questions which are important to the future of this $4,000,000 annual crop in Michigan. From the state conservation department in Lansing we have gleaned some timely information.

Million Deer

Are deer decreasing in number?

During the past four years it has been possible, through the vast manpower in the Civilian Conservation Corps, tn obtain fairly accurate counts of deer on measured areas. These counts indicate an average of mnre than 15 deer per square mile in the upper peninsula and over 42 deer per square mile in the lower peninsula. If these figures are accurate, and they are certainly more desirable than mere guesses upon which deer management practices have been hased in the past, the conclusion is reached that there are more than one million deer in Michigan today.

Now comes a serious side to the deer question.

After the hunters go home, deep snows completely chnnge the picture. Deer that during November roamed the entire deer area are soon confined to the more sheltered locations by deep snows. As snow depths increase and travel becomes more and more difficult, the winter range is restricted to smaller and smaller areas. By the time the winter is half gone, food begins to rnn low in the more heavily used wintering areas or "yards". In the upper peninsula only about ten per cent of the entire deer range is suitable for winter use. This restricted area is heavily grazed. In the vast Cusino ynrd in Alger and Schoolcraft counties, for example, the present deer herd that winters there is estimated to be less than one tenth of what it was a few years ago.

Of the 253 winteri.g areas covering more than 1300 square miles in the upper peninsula investigated up to and including 1939, only 10 per eent contained an abundance of food for the deer using them. The rest of the land was either in poor or medium condition for winter browsing.

10,000 Deer Perish

The conservation department reports thst lack of food caused the death of more than 7,000 deer, mostly fawns, in the upper peninsula and 3,000 in the lower peninsula during the winter of 1938-39.

In the lower peninsula serious conditions are not quite so widespread, but are much more severe where they do oeeur because of the mueh heavier concentrations of deer.

But these losses are not new. They have been reported from various locations in increasing numbers for the past fifteen years. Similar conditions also prevail in Wisconsin, Minnesota, New York, Pennsylvania and other hunting states.

Artificial feeding has been found to aggravate the condition by causing increasing concentrations about the feed areas and resulting in larger and larger food bills year after year.

It has been proposed that Michigan hunters might profit from the experience of other states such as Pennsylvania or Arizona and harvest the aurplus deer in the fall before they are forced to starve on inadequate range. To conservation authorities it has been evident that an insufficient number of deer are being removed under the existing buck law. We present this viewpoint not as our own, but as that of experts who have made a study of the subject.

Where Hunting is Best

Of the hunters who ventured forth last fall, those hunting in the upper peninsula were 43 per cent successful, while in the lower peninsula 23 per eent succeeded in killing bucks.

This wide variation might lead one to believe that deer were more plentiful in the upper peninsula. Quite the contrary is true. Of the 44,908 bucks bagged by lucky hunters, 26,482 came from the lower peninsula. This was brought about by the fact that 77 per cent of the hunters hunted below the Straits.

It raises the annunl query of just how long the deer herd can stand this "slaughter" of males and continue to reproduce.

During the summer of 1938 conservation officers in the upper peninsula saw and identified 4,094 deer of which 19 per cent were bucks and 49 per cent does, a sex ratio of approximately one buck for each 2.58 does. This does not seem to be a serious situntion after 18 years hunting under a "one buck" law. In the lower peninsula of the 4,758 deer seen nnd identified 766 were males or one buck for each 3.22 does. Fawn production seems to be decreasing slightly each year in compnrison with the number of does seen, but it still holds to slightly less than one fawn for each 1.5 does.

Many will he sorry to hear of the death of Mrs. James McKenney at Bellaire last week. The funeral was held at 2 o'clock at that place Sunday afternoon. The deceased was instrumental in making many decided changes for betterment of the county home.

School officers' meeting was attended by quite a crowd last week, Wednesday, at Bellaire court house. The instructors, Dorr Stack and Earl Corwin of the department at Lansing, gave the people assembled some excellent advise on school education as well as interpreting many of the state laws.

Two boys were involved in a series of accidents last week. Richard Griebe ran a fork tine into his foot, and got Billy Kaiser to come over and do his chores for him. Then Billy caught his foot in a wire and injured it so that it was difficult for him to walk. In the meantime, however, Richard had recovered so that he could do his own work.

The few warm, sunshiny days that we have had lately, have given the farmers a little more time to harvest their corn, potatoes, carrots and beets. Those raising beets and carrots have had to wait until the canners at Ellsworth were ready to take them, making it pretty late to harvest them. Many lost their carrots last year as freezing weather came on before they were ready to take them at the factory. Many ladies of Central Lake have had employment at the factory this fall.

CHARLEVOIX GARDEN CLUB HELD INTERESTING MEETING ON TUESDAY

At the bi-weekly meeting of the Charlevoix Garden Club, held October 24, at the home of Mrs. Louis O'Neill, a timely lesson in window gardens was excellently presented by Mrs. Carl Kohler.

An interesting topic brought up in the discussion which followed was the article, "American Eagle Revolutionists", in the November Nature magazine. One of the members, Mrs. F. J. Fessenden, had taken the illustrating photographs of the nesting eagles near the AuSable river in Crawford county.

The next meeting of the club will be with Mrs. F. E. Cartier, on Tuesday, November 7.

STRAITS BRIDGE MEETING AT ROGERS CITY

Cong. Bradley, Other Officials, to Preside There October 27

From all indications the Straits Bridge-Shore Road meeting scheduled at Rogers City on October 27th, will draw one of the largest crowds of any gathering in the north for some time.

Keen interest is taken in the Straits Bridge and the fact that Don M. Kennedy, chairman of the bridge authority, will have definite information to give out relative to the possibilities of the bridge and to the progress made by the bridge authority to date, will add to the interest. Previous to this time much relating to the matter of the bridge has been prospective and on paper only. The bridge authority, however, in the past year, has taken definite steps to ascertain actual building possibilities, location, etc., and this information will be given out at this meeting.

Congressman Fred Bradley will act as toastmaster. Alpena and Rogers City bands will be present. Plans are made for approximately 600 guests ut the banquet tables.

COMMUNICATION

Octoher 20, 1939

Dear Sir:

This is sort of a written sketch of the trip enjoyed by we Michigan boys, 7 in all. We started from Chicago to Kansas City at 8:45 p. m. Saturday, October 14th. We arrived at Kansas City at 8:10 a. m. Sunday, October 15th. During our stay in the city we viewed the monument for the soldiers of the World War. It is the largest in the world. The monument costing 2¾ million dollars, has a shaft 285 feet high.

We left Kansas City at 10 a. m. Sunday and arrived at Williams, Arizona at 5:30 p. m. Monday, October 16th. We were then taken by busses 64 miles to the Grand Canyon, arriving at 8 p. m. We slept in Bright Angel hotel cabins that night after attending a cowboy program and an informal dance. The next day, Tuesday the 17th, we arose at 6 a. m. to see the sunrise, which they claim wasn't as beautiful as usual, because of the air being rather hazy. During the day we took tours, such as a trip by mule down into the canyon, a horse back ride along the rim, or a bus sight-seeing trip. Many also took long hikes, obtaining many pictures. The Grand Canyon is approximately 250 miles long, a mile deep and 13 miles wide at its widest point.

At about 3:15 p. m. we were loaded into busses and taken to the train, arriving in Los Angeles at 7 a. m. Wednesday, October 18. We then went to the boat dock for our marvelous trip to Santa Catalina. We left at 10 a. m. on the S. S. Avalon and arrived at Santa Cataline at 11:45. The island is 26 miles from the mainland. This island is approximately the same size as Beaver Island, but instead of being flat it is all mountains, a couple attaining a height of over 2,000 feet.

During the day most of us took the wonderful trip on the glass bottom boats, some of us went swimming in the ocean, others walked around, bought souvenirs and took in all the sights available and suited too the pocketbook.

At 4:15 p. m. we came back to Los Angeles, where we stayed over night in the large Clark Hotel. The next morning, Thursday, the 19th, we all started out on a sightseeing trip on buses through Los Angeles, Beverly Hills and Hollywood. We saw homes of a lot of movie stars such as Shirley Temple, Jane Withers, Bing Crosby, Sonja Henie, Clark Gable, Greta Garbo and many others. We also went to see a year around ice skating rink, which is right out in the open. We saw many beautiful flowers, trees and shrubery. We got back to the hotel at about 12 a. m.

We left on the Southern Pacific at 7 p. m. for San Francisco. We arrived in San Francisco at 7:50 this morning. We are now situated at the Bellevue Hotel awaiting our contests and other adventures in our unbelieveable trip.

Yours Truly,
Written by Clare McGhan.

Postural Defects

School examinations of all young children to discover serious postural deformities should be made a routine procedure, according to Dr. Carl E. Badgley. Dr. Badgley offered domestic and foreign statistics to prove that from 10 to 26 per cent of all school children examined had scoliosis or lateral curvature of the spine. Postural deformities were found in 85 per cent of Yale and Harvard freshmen. While these deformities were mild in many cases, they were sufficiently pronounced in a large percentage to preclude their meeting Army qualifications.

Early recognition and correction of defects should be stressed. Parents should acquaint themselves with normal and abnormal postures and if the latter tend to become more pronounced with the passage of time, expert assistance should be solicited.

Accounted as quite normal are the apparent bowlegs of infants, the knock-knees of two-year-olds and the swayed spine associated with the large abdomen of the child three years of age. These are expressions of growth process and all tend to disappear before the end of the fourth year.

The x-ray will demonstrate that the so-called bowed legs of the normal infant are not actually bowed but are given that appearance because of insufficient development of the leg muscles.

A simple test for knock-knees may be made as follows: Hold the child's legs straight out and bring the inner bones of the ankles together. If the child is knock-kneed, the deformity will disclose itself by a separation of the ankle bones of one or two inches while the bones of the knees are touching. The test should be made occasionally and the distance between the ankles estimated. If these bones do not touch by the end of the fourth year, the deformity may become permanent. Early and mild defects of this nature are merely temporary and result from the child's attempt to use as broad a base as possible for its first uncertain essays at walking.

The sway back of the three or four year old is due to an effort to remain in an upright position despite the weight of the abdomen which tends to pull it forward. As the child is put on a more solid diet and the volume of bulky, watery food is decreased. The abdomen should become smaller and the back assume an upright position.

The most common deformity of school children is lateral curvature of the spine to which no particular cause can be assigned. Exercises and nonoperative treatment are recommended. These are also of value in correcting the round backs, prominent shoulder blades and forward thrust head which appear in 35 per cent of all school children more than five years old.

Just as the parental eye is often deceived into seeing deformities where none actually exist, or at least none that time will not eradicate, so, too, it frequently perceives absolute normality when the signs of a serious condition are unmistakable to the expert. A physical examination is inexpensive and, if furnished by the school doctor or gymnasium instructor, it is free. It should be welcomed in all cases where the slightest doubt exists.

MOISTURE RUINS PAINT IN KITCHEN

Another job for electricity is being applied by housewives in Michigan as they learn the advantages of reducing condensation of moisture on painted walls, woodwork and wallpaper.

Or if electricity is not available, information provided by the home economics extension service of Michigan State college shows other methods which reduce troublesome dampness in kitchens, laundry rooms or bathrooms.

Gas, kerosene and gasoline used for cooking or emergency heating give off combustion products that add to the amount of moisture in rooms in the house. All stationary heaters or cooking stoves should be connected to chimneys, and hoods over cooking stoves using oil or gas also should be connected to vents if this is possible.

With or without exhaust fans to blow out moisture laden air, Michigan housewives are learning it pays to shut kitchens or laundries off from the rest of the house while meals or clothes are being boiled. Opening windows and doors to blow the moisture away helps cut down effect on floors, walls, woodwork or wallpaper.

London is offering pillbox air raid shelters for $175 and $200. Thank goodness we don't have to spend our icebox money for a billbox.

90-HOUR WINTER GRIND spared your OIL-PLATED engine

You need your engine OIL-PLATED now by patented Conoco Germ Processed oil to wipe out doubts of decent oiling during atarting—when unplated engines wear worst. (6 or 8 minutes of such wear, repeated 6 or 8 times a day through these cold months, mounts up beyond 90 hours!)... 90 life-sapping hours for engines abandoned to oils that can only "flow fast"... but no oil-starvation in 90 hours or 900 hours, when your engine's OIL-PLATED.

The "magnetic" action of Germ Processed oil gives every square inch in your engine a slippy overlay of OIL-PLATING—attached as firmly as chromium-plating. And could any plating drain down when you park in any cold, for any length of time? Then you know why OIL-PLATING—drain-proof—is ready to lubricate before you're even ready to get out of bed, or away from work. Before any oil-pump could squirt a drop, your drain-proof OIL-PLATING has readied your engine for safe, easy starting. That's how you get the drop on the worst of Winter by OIL-PLATING now with Conoco Germ Processed oil. Keeps up your engine—your battery—your oil-level, too. Change now to Your Mileage Merchant. ARCHERS' DEER HUNTING STARTS NOV. 1ST

All Counties Open to Deer Hunting Open Territory This Year

With all Michigan counties in which deer may be hunted legaliy opened to bow and arrow hunting of deer November 1-14 inclusive, the department of conservation announces that special licenses may be obtained from the varlous district headquarters of the organization or from the Lansing office.

No agents will be supplied with the special licenses but all will have application blanks which may be presented at district offices or mailed to Lansing, together with the license fee.

The legislature during its last session opened all Michigan deer territory to bow and arrow hunters and fixed the dates of the special season. Previously only Iosco and Newaygo counties had been opened to such hunting. About 150 special bow and arrow licenses were issued last season.

Deer will be hunted with guns during the regular season, November 15-30 inclusive.

Sulphanilamide—A Miracle or Menace?

Last year, the people of the United States consumed about 187 tons of suiphanilamide, one of the wonder drugs of modern medicine! It has cured or relieved many thousands of persons suffering from scores of serious diseases. But—how many has it killed? Thomas Parran, surgeon general of the United States Health Service, posts many danger signals for the person who would use this potent drug without a doctor's orders. Don't fail to read his article in This Week, the magazine with Sunday's Detroit News.

PREDATOR BOUNTIES LESS THAN LAST YEAR

Kill Decreased from '38 Figures, Also Number of Trappers

The killing of wolves and coyotes, which cost the state of Michigan $46,000 in bounty payments in the last fiscal year, has been considerably less in the current year than for comparable months of a year ago. Records of the Michigan department of conservation show payment of $9,335 for predator control in July, August and Septemher, 1939 against $11,305 for the same months of 1938.

Contracts with trappers, which assure the predators will be taken in approved manner, number only 349 to date this fiscal year compared with 538 at the same time a year earlier. September's take of 351 coyotes and four wolves compares with a September, 1938 kill of 507 coyotes and 11 wolves.

Bounties are $20 for females and $15 for males regardless of age, for both species. There have been no state trappers in the field since June 30 of this year.

Murdered By An Unseen Enemy!

Police were baffled by the mysterious killing of a spectacular captain of finance on his wedding day. . . but a newspaperman's unwelcome sleuthing finally broke the case and a crafty murderer was brought to justice, as is told in an exciting serial novel of love and intrigue. PROCLAMATION
By the Governor
RED CROSS

Governor Dickinson has issued an appeal for volunteers in the Red Cross roll call in Michigan this year. "In order that the Red Cross may be ready to meet whatever demands may be made upon it at home or abroad, in keeping with its traditional policy of meeting needs without prejudice or favor, it must have the assistance of 20,000 additional volunteers in Michigan who will serve the organization by offering those among whom they live and among whom they work an opportunity to join the Red Cross and share in its work.

"I urge everyone who can devote several hours on a voluntary basis in November or on one or more days immediateiy following to offer his services to the local chapter of the Red Cross whose roll call chairman is endeavoring to develop an organization that will make possible the extension of a membership invitation to every man and woman of good will."

Our fathers and mothers called them "tramps" and "bums". Now we soft-soap them as "transients."

lengthier hunting season, but of late have heard some, after experiences to date, doubting whether the longer season is justifiable.

The lake trout trollers are all hoping for a few days of good weather after the closing season ban is lifted November 10. They claim the way the big ones "hit" during the spawning season is the thrill of a life-time for any sportsmen. And might add that the person who is not getting his share of perch now is because he doesn't go after 'em. The perch are biting, swell.

For your information, that beautiful girl soloist who sang with Russ Morgan's orchestra in a Palace Theater movie short shown Saturday, Sunday and Monday nights, was Carolyn Clark, niece of Mrs. Ira Campbell of New York City, and Don Campbell of Charlevoix. She had everything.

Congratulations to Lawrence Ecklund and Clare McGhan! Latest advices bring the news they won second prize, carrying a scholarship of $100 each, on their dairy demonstration given Monday at the national dairy show in San Francisco, Calif. Charlevoixans have followed the fortunes of these two youths with great interest and are justly proud of them. Tuesday noon the radio spanned the three thousand and odd miles between California and home to bring the voice of Ecklund to home folks during the National Farm and Home Hour program. One of a few out of the 300 4-H Club representatives interviewed, Lawrence spoke of his work at home and events leading up to the California trip.

Despite President Roosevelt's attitude of "To Hell with tradition" by selecting an earlier date for Thanksgiving Day, it will still he the 30th ns far as I'm concerned. You can't break custom, especially one so sacred and time-honored, as easy as all that. Was thinking also about the deer hunters. It is the custom of many to leave the woods so they'll be home for Thanksgiving. If they do so this year, they'll have only 8 days in the woods and you can bet there will be a lot of turkey Father won't carve.

The parents of two Petoskey boys, one 11 and the other 13, face bills aggregating $200 for damage inflicted by the youngsters with airguns on windows of a Bay View cottage. Which all goes to substantiate the fact a gun of any description is a dangerous thing in the hands of a boy and that a parent allowing a boy to own such a weapon should be held responsible.

And in closing—don't forget the Kiwnnis "White Elephant" sale. This event provides your opportunity to guarantee a happy Christmas for some kiddy who might otherwise know the misfortune of n giftless Christmas.

DELINQUENT TAXPAYERS MAY REGAIN PROPERTY

Have 30 Days After November 3 to Act in Their Behalf

Property owners who forfeited lands north of the Muskegon-Bay City line through tax delinquency May 3, 1938 must act in the 30 days between November 3 and December 3, next, if they wish to regain their titles. Procedure for the redemption of those lands that fall to the Michigan department of conservation has been outlined by the department's lands division.

Only the property owners of record at the time of the May, 1938 tax sale are eligible to ask that their forfeited lands be put up at auction, and their applications to the lands division in Lansing must be postmarked not later than December 3, 1939. But at the auction held later, anyone may bid. The former owner then has 30 days in which to match the successful bid, if another hlds higher, but no bid of less than 25 per cent of the 1939 assessed valuation will be accepted.

Successful bidders who were not owners of the land in May, 1938 must pay cash, and mineral rights of the land they get will be reserved to the state. But former owners may recover full and complete title and they may pay as little as 20 per cent cash and get installment contracts to run for not more than 10 years with an interest charge of six per cent on the unpaid balance. No sale is too small to qualify for a time payment schedule.

Details of the redemption process may be learned nt offiees of county treasurers and conservation district headquarters, where application forms are available. Application for land auction must be filed with the lands division of the department at Lansing.

VOLUME 44 NUMBER 44 | TEN PAGES | THE CHARLEVOIX COURIER, WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 1, 1939 | PRICE $2.00 PER YEAR

HARBOR IS VICTOR OVER CHARLEVOIX

SCORED 14 TO 0 VICTORY AT HOME SATURDAY

Were Out-Played in First Half, But Rallied to Wio—Rayders Close Seasoo Saturday at Gaylord

Harbor Springs tallied twice to defeat Charlevoix's Red Rayders by a 14 to 0 score on their home field Saturday afternoon. It was Charlevoix's second defeat in conference competition.

Had Charlevoix maintained its first half pace the result might have been different. Statistics reveal the victors completely out-played in the first two periods. Charlevoix gained four first downs to one for Harbor and had the ball in their possession a greater share of the time. Twice the Rayders were inside the Harbor 20-yard line, only to lose the ball on downs. Plays which spelled East Jordan's downfall a week previous fuiled against the Harborites.

Harbor tallied first mid-way in the third period. They blocked one of Bergman's punts to gain possession of the ball on Charlevoix's 35-yard strip, lost possession on downs and, following an exchange of punts, were still in favorable position. Three yards were gained on as many plays and a forward pass was tossed for the score. A kick netted extra point.

Late in the perlod Harbor returned a Charlevoix punt 40 yards to Charlevoix's 30-yard strip. End runs advanced to the 2-yard line as the quarter ended and on the first play of the fourth a line buck provided the second touchdown. A kick from placement again netted extra point.

The Rayders played without the services of Kerchak, regular halfback, out with a leg injury, and during the second half Ken Wilson, first string lineman, who received three broken ribs and was removed from the game.

The Rayders close their 6-game schedule next Saturday when they meet the conference-leading Gaylord team at Gaylord. Gaylord is undefeated in conference play and only an optimist could vision a Charlevoix win.

STRAITS BRIDGE REAL NECESSITY

HIGHWAY OFFICIAL SAYS FERRY SYSTEM INADEQUATE

Recommend Spanning of Straits Be Started as Soon as Funds Become Available

Donald Kennedy, deputy state highway commissioner, endorsed the proposed bridge across the Straits of Mackinac Friday night at Rogers City, declaring in a prepared address that the present fleet of state ferry boats operating across the straits was "outmoded" and subjected the traveling public to an unnccessary risk.

Kennedy, addressing the annual Straits Bridge-Huron Shoreroad banquet, recommended that work be started as soon as the money is available on the construction of a causeway at St. Ignace that ultimately would serve as an approach to the bridge. He is chairman of the Mackinac straits bridge authority.

"We are rapidly approaching the time," Kennedy said, "when common business instinct will tell us it is folly to dally longer with an outmoded ferry system."

Traffic on Increase

He said a survey indicated that traffic across the straits in 1950 would be 130 per cent heavier than it was in 1936, and that it obviously would be a major task to continue to serve such a volume of traffic by ferry boats.

Engineers working on plans for the proposed bridge, Kennedy said, are convinced it is "no wild dream or monster of modern construction" hut "just another bridge" to build.

Referring to a map of the present routes followed by state ferries, Kennedy asserted:

WISCONSIN FISHING LAWS CHANGE

MADE TO CONFORM WITH MICHIGAN REGULATIONS

Limit Legal Size Commercial Lake Trout and White Fish Forward Step in Conservatioo

Wisconsin regulations on fishing in Lake Michigan will be more nearly in conformity with those of Michigan, effective November 21, F. A. Westerman, chief of the conservation department fish division, reports.

Westerman, H. R. Sayre, chief of the field administration division, and Dr. John Van Oosten, of the U. S. Bureau of Fisheries at Ann Arbor, returned last Friday from a meeting with conservation officials in Madison, Wis. In Wisconsin changes in game regulations must be approved by the governor and the three Michigan officials were invited to help explain to Gov. Julius Heil the need for the changes.

At present, Wisconsin has a minimum size limit on white fish and lake trout taken from Lake Michigan. That will be changed to a weight limit conforming to Michigan's rule —1½ pounds on lake trout and 2 pounds on whitefish. The present size limits permit fishermen on the Wisconsin side of the lake to take fish weighing less than the Michigan minimums.

The minimum weights on dressed fish will be 1¼ pounds for lake trout and I pound 12 ounces for whitefish.

The Wisconsin commission also decided to raise the minimum length on perch from 7 inches to 8 inches. Effective July 1, 1940, the minimum will be 8½ inches, which is Michigan's existing minimum.

In one respect, Wisconsin has gone farther thun Michigan, Westerman said. It has outlawed the taking of wall-eyed pike from the lake by commercial fishermen. The 1939 legislature liberalized Michigan's rule on wall-eyes by reducing the minimum from 16½ inches to 15½ inches. Westerman said that was not regarded as a good conservation measure.

Wisconsin conservation officials also agreed to enforce more rigidly the regulation requiring fishermen to use gill nets with a mesh of not less than 2½ inches in taking chubs from Lake Michigan, Westerman said.

Ninety days in the county jail was the sentence imposed on a Boyne City husband who returned home after a drinking bout, tossed an axe at his wife after dragging her out of bed and took a pot-shot at her with a shotgun when she ran out of the house. He should have got life! And then to show what a damned fool liquor will make out of a man, comes the story in a Petoskey paper about a local young fellow who took to diving in and out of the windows of a beer tavern from which he had been ejected because of bad behavior. He'll probably have plenty of time to sober up in.

You probably have noticed an absent-minded expression on the faces of a lot of local fellows the last few days. It'a a common fall ailment known as "buck-itis," and will no doubt disappear on or about November 15th, the opening day of the deer season. If after that date you still see the expression on some guy's face, you'll know he's some poor devil who couldn't go along with the other boys. And while on the topic of deer hunting, I am venturing the opininn that the preparation for a deer hunting trip is for many about the most attractive part of the whole thing. Groups of fellnws who have found each others companionship agreeable get a big "kick" out of assembling their camping equipment, deciding on a hunting site, and when these details are finished, wait for the "zero hour." There's a lot of pleasure in anticipation.

Barring the possibllity of peace beforefore Christmas, sales expectancies of merchants for the cnming 60 days are now 10 to 12 per cent higher than for the same period last year. Retail sales have shown consistent improvement, so much so that an early forecast of 6 to 8 per cent rise in December nver 1938 has been practically doubled.

One national retail authority is quoted by the New York Times as figuring that the adjusted retail sales index of the Federal Reserve Board would close the year at close to 100, which would cnmpare with 92 in September and 89 in December one year ago.

Oddly enough, while European peace would undoubtedly benefit the United States in the long run and save it from serious trade misplacements that inevitahly must follow a

FOR eighty years A&P has adhered to the principles on which it was founded — the belief that fine food need not be expensive. Still faithful to this policy, we invite you to join us this week in the celebration of our 80th Anniversary. Residents of Norwood and vicinity were sadly shocked to learn of the death of Martin Madson, which occurred at his farm home near Norwood, at an early hour Friday morning, after only a few hours of illness. Mr. Madson was born August 26th, 1879 at Winnetka, Illinois, and on November 11, 1902 he was married to Rosalie Schafehen of Winnetka. To this union were born four children, namely Mrs. Hazel Brady and Miss Mary Madson of Chicago, and a son James of Alcon, Canal Zone, Panama, and n son Charles who died at the age of four years. In 1930 they purchased a farm near Norwood on which they resided, making many life-time friends in this incality. Besides his wife and two daughters and one son, he is survived by two sisters and one brother, Mrs. Anna Johnson and Mrs. Carrie Blow of Winnetka, Illinois, and a brother, Olaf Madson of Wisconsin, and two grandchildren of whom he was very fond. Mr. Madson, who was of a very quiet nature, leaves many friends besides his family to mourn their great loss. Short services were conducted at the farm home Saturday afternoon after which the body was accompanied to Winnetka, Illinois by his wife and other members of his family, where funeral rites were conducted with hurial in the family lot at Winnetka.

I am home in heaven, dear ones,
Oh! so happy and Oh! so bright;
There is perfect joy and beauty
In this everlasting light.

All the pain and grief are over,
Every restless tossing passed;
I am now at peace forever,
Safely home in heaven at last.

Did you wonder I so calmly
Trod the valley of the shade?
Ah! My Jesus' love illumined
Every dark and fearful glade.

And He came himself to meet me,
In that way so hard to tread:
And with Jesus' arm to lean on,
Could I have one doubt or dread?

Dear ones, do not grieve so sorely,
For I love you dearly still:
Try to look beyond earth's shadows,
Pray to trust our Father's will.

There is work still waiting for you,
So you must not idly stand:
Do it now while life remaineth,
You shall rest in Jesus' land.

When your work is all completed,
He will gently call you home.
Oh! the rapture of that meeting,
Oh! the joy to see you come.

Lack of Seasonal Pranks Marked Success Kiwanis Entertainment Plan

Kiwanians Wednesday morning were able to mark down in their record book conclusion of the most successful Hallowe'en in Charlevoix history.

Depredations, there were none, speaking forcefully for success of the Kiwanis plan of providing entertainment in lieu Hallowe'en pranks. That youngsters kept their pledges is proven by the quietest Hallowe'en night on record.

The afternoon free movie at the Palace Theater was shown to 450 children, while the evening show drew 350 and dance which followed at the gymnasium about 200. Ice cream and candy were distributed among the children.

Modern Paul Revere Act

Bangor — Neil Dailey, local fireman, was at work in a factory when a fire call was telephoned to his home. Instead of saying her husband couldn't be reached, Mrs. Dailey, who took the call, sped through town on a bicycle. It worked, too, for they reached the fire almost as soon as the trucks.

Nags Are Still Car Shy

Vassar—Here's at least one team of horses that is still shy of automobiles, and probably will continue to be so. Joseph Caufield, farm hand, was about to turn the team into a driveway from the main road. As he turned, a car attempting to pass was forced into the ditch. The horses were frightened and bolted, with Caufield suffering a broken leg in the melee.

Burglar Alarms Stolen

Detroit—West side police are not only wondering who the culprits in a recent robbery are, but why they robbed a car of burglar alarms. F. E. Murray parked his car overnight, and when he returned a door window was broken. Missing were 360 safety door latches, and 16 burglnr and fire alarms, with a total value of $350.

White Robin Seen

Bad Axe—Hearing a loud chirping in the back yard bird sanctuary she maintains, Mrs. R. S. Wade investigated. She discovered n pure white robin, with a red breast, as the center of attraction for other curious birds. It stayed but a short time, and so was believed to be migrnting.

Someone Remembered

Dexter—Although it was 10 years later, someone remembered that Ira Ott, railroad station agent here, had saved a life. He recently received a framed photograph of a large bronze tablet headed "New York Central Lines, Honor Roll. In recognition of employees who at the risk of their lives saved others." His name was engraved under the heading of 1929. In that year he had leaped in front of a fast train and pulled a man to safety.

Glass Desire Rings Alarm

River Rouge — Remember when you were a little kid and let the sun shine through a piece of glass to burn a hole in paper? Local youngsters seem to think the circular pieces of glass in fire alarm boxes make good lenses for this purpose. When they took one recently, the false alarm that resulted brought out a truck and two cars.

Egg Maps World

Marion—An egg clearly marked with a map of the world on it has been laid by a Plymouth Rock hen near here. It was a light tan ground, with a deep brown. The owner of the hen said that just before the last World War she had an egg which was marked almost identical to this one.

* DISTRICT HEALTH UNIT *

Raw and Heated Milk

The pasteurization of milk has now become a standard procedure in all cities and when a health measure becomes so widely practiced it is always advisable to check the results in order to be sure that the theory works well in practice.

This has been done recently by the U. S. Public Health Service in a survey of the effects of pasteurized milk on the general condition of children.

Do children thrive on raw milk? The study included 3,700 children from ten months to six years of age, and the insignificant difference in the height and weight favored slightly the children who drank heated milk only.

At present we urge mothers to include a number of foods in the child's menu as soon as he is weaned. These, together with egg yolks, cod liver oil, orange and tomato juice more than supply any possible deficiency brought about through heating the milk. The digestive qualities of milk are improved by boiling and this makes it a desirable procedure in preparing milk for all children under the age of two years.

In the survey it appeared that the children taking heated milk actually had less diphtheria, scarlet fever, and rickets than those taking raw milk. These results might be attributed to the fact that in the heated milk group more cod liver oil was used.

The term heated milk applies to exaporated milk, milk powder, boiled milk and pasteurized milk, and there is no evidence that these measures decrease the growth-promoting capacity of milk. Milk-borne diseases still occur in epidemics among the isolated users of raw milk. The gradual decrease in the use of raw milk should be looked upon with general satisfaction.

I only wish my husband could be here, for he loves the sea and has a great interest in all ships. — Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, christening the America.

* EDITORIAL *

AMERICA AT THE CROSSROADS

We wonder how many times that title has been given an editorial. Hundreds, perhaps thousands, but today we are once more facing an issue which must be decided one way or another. It is the issue of what action, if any, we will take in the struggle abroad.

Our neutrality law, as it now stands, forbids the sale of ammunition or arms to any warring nation. This most naturally includes England and France. There can be no question but that this kind of a neutrality law is a definite aid to Germany.

But, our sympathies are against the brutal oppressions of Germany. As the Christian Science Monitor says, our aspirations to create a better world in which to live after the World War has seen the forming of treaties such as the League of Nations treaty, the Kellogg Pact, etc., all designed to settle disputes by peaceful means. The "Monitor" continues, "Now these aspirations have been denied by a reversion to narrow nationalism, exclusive economic policies, racial obsessions, hateful propaganda, ruthless treaty breaking and oppressive attacks on neighbors. Even the neutrals know where the balance of the wrong lies."

This, then, places America's natural sympathy with the democracies. If Germany is allowed to continue she will force herself upon the world, as a ruthless dictator, and the progress of civilization will be halted for n thousand years.

We must make up our mind what to do about neutrality.

Should the president call a special session of congress to write a new neutrality law — Will the American people be willing to see a cash and carry clause put into that law which would enable any nation in the world to come to America and buy arms and ammunition, planes, guns, etc.? All of which would simply mean we were opening our trade doors to Great Britain and France because Britain (at present at least) controls the high seas and could take full advantage of such an act.

It follows only naturally then, that Germany would resent such an act as favoring their opponents in this war. And we must be prepared to face the consequences of such an action.

There can no longer be any doubt in anybody's mind now that the covering up of imperialism in governments such as Russia and Germany by the thin cloak of false idealogies has been bared for the world to see and understand. Germany and Russia are blood brothers under the skin and the pact they wrote proves this beyond any doubt.

What part we will play in this struggle now rests with us. We must make up our minds before it is too late. A cash and carry plan for all nations alike, even though it may (on the face of it) favor the democracies may be the only means of saving our form of government for the world. We do not know. We hesitate to say we should take such a course of action because there is doubt in our minds that our own democracy would be saved here at home providing such a step as that should force us into the present war. One thing is certain. We must think this thing out and by so doing, be prepared for any consequence which may result.

Romance of Geraldine, Half-American Cinderella Queen

The thrilling inside story of picturesque King Zog's wooing of the beautiful but sadly impoverished Countess who mopped floors, set tables, sold postcards and worked as a model before she became queen, begins in the November 5 issue of The American Weekly, the great weekly magazine with The Detroit Sunday Times. Be sure to read this series of astounding and exciting articles.

THE LITTLE BROWN MAN

The most powerful individual in the world today is not Herr Hitler or Signor Mussolini; not even the President of the United States. His name is Gandhi of India, a frail little fellow who boasts not a single bombing plane or battleship. Ideas and ideals constitute his armament, and he gets results.

Gandhi is a fighter, but not with material weapons. He is fighting war, greed, intolerance, economic slavery, the pomp and power of material success.

In the highest sense this little brown man cannot fail because his ideals are fundamentally right, just and true. It is significant that he has only two pictures in his room, "The Washing of the Disciples' Feet" and "The Crucifixion." He does not claim to be a Christian; but acknowledges an unpayable debt to the teachings and example of Christ (Jesus).—Edgar DeWitt Jones in the Detroit News.

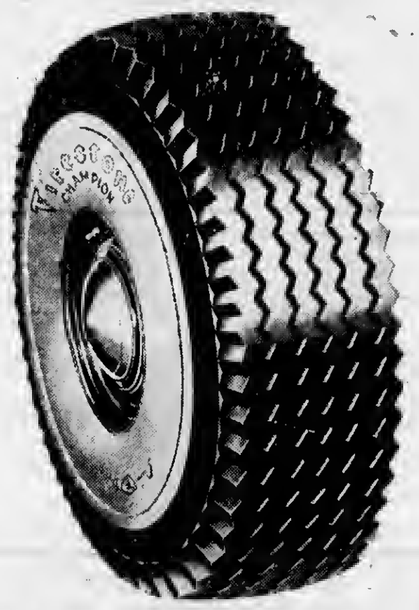
Install New Tires This Fall and Drive with Safety and Comfort!

Wise Motorists are Selecting the

Firestone Champion



Particular drivers everywhere select the Firestone CHAMPION. In thirty-nine years the tire experience the manufacturers of Firestone have never before heard of such instant and unanimous approval of a tire as has been accorded the CHAMPION. When a tire is accepted by the motorists of the world with such enthusiastic approval it is convincing proof that the CHAMPION is in a class by itself. Here is the tire that has everything—the tire with the New Safety-Lock Cord Body and the New Gear-Grip Tread—providing greater safety and more miles under all kinds of wear.

The CHAMPION has been swept to surprising heights of popularity because of its marvelous gripping power. It is truly a great achievement in safety engineering.

STRONGER CORD BODY. The new Firestone CHAMPION Tire is built by an entirely new method in which each and every component part of the tire is locked and inter-locked into a super-safe, inseparable unit of amazing strength. This is accomplished first by the use of a completely new type of tire cord called "Safety-Lock" in which the cotton fibres are more compactly interwoven to assure cooler running and provide greater strength. Then, the fibres in each individual cord, the cords in each ply, and the plies themselves, are all securely LOCKED TOGETHER by a new and advanced Firestone process of Gum-Dipping, which provides amazingly greater strength, and greater safety.

MORE NON-SKID MILEAGE. The new Safety Lock cord construction provides the extra strength needed for the use of the new, thicker, tougher, deeper Firestone Gear-grip tread, which delivers remarkably longer non-skid mileage. This sensational tread is called "Gear-grip" because of its unique design, it has more than 3,000 sharp edged angles, which grip the road with a sure-footed hold to protect against skidding and assure a safe stop. Join the Firestone Save-A-Life Campaign today by calling on your Firestone Dealer and equipping your car with a set of new Firestone Champion Tires, the only tires made that are safety-proved on the speedway for your protection on the highway.

NEW AUTO LICENSE PLATES ARE READY

Sale Opened Monday After Delay of Five Days After First Order

Michigan's big new 1940 silver automobile license plates went on sale Monday morning at the local branch license bureau in the court house, five days after Secretary nf State Harry Kelly had ordered the sale to start.

Non-arrival of the local bureau's plates as anticipated caused the five-day delay.

The 1940 plates are 2¼ inches longer, almost an inch wider and, contrary to last week's announcement, have the lettering "TP" inatead of "CX" as last year. The numerals are black on silver and the series allotted the Charlevoix bureau are numbered from 2251 to 3300, according to Fenton R. Bulow, bureau manager.

Persons who desire to purchase 1940 plates must bring in both their old license plates and their registration certificate before new plates can be issued. Also, weights must be certified on the back of applications for commercial vehicles.

The present 1939 license plates are good until next February.

EDITORIAL

WHY THE AVERAGE MAN REMAINS AVERAGE

In our modest, violet-like way we are trying to persuade people to read more books. Business men, especially, too often neglect this great source of creative ideas.

We like the reply made to a fellow preacher by Reverend William Stidger, of Boston, known to thousands of people all over the country, as Bill Stidger. He's an unusually good writer, a most effective speaker and a most likable table or golfing companion.

Once he told an audience of Methodist preachers how he stepped up his ministry by reading a book a day. After his talk, up jumped a hard-boiled critic, who said: "So you read a book a day, do you? Well, all I've got to say is the average preacher doesn't read a book a month."

The preacher then sat down and acted as if he had settled something or other. Doctor Stidger then made the humble and modest remark: "That's exactly why he's the average preacher, my brother." — Shining Lines.

The Spy Industry — big business. Swarming armies of destroying agents that cost less than troops in the field and do more damage, have superseded the old-fashioned romantic characters who dealth in secret codes and dramatics. OF INTEREST TO FARMERS

By B. C. Mellencamp

Potato Yields and Quality Show Great Variance

This year the yield and quality of potatoes varies greatly from field to field. The results in many cases are disappointing. The yield of potatoes is not as great as was prophesied last August. Never have vines been any larger or more vigorous than they were during August. At that time, indications pointed to one of the largest crops ever harvested.

However, right at this time, considerable rainfall occurred which caused too rapid growth. This was particularly true in the case of potatoes that were planted early. To potatoes planted after the 20th of June, this large amount of rainfall in August was a big help and did not tend to destroy type. Thus, at harvesting time, the majority of fields are decidedly off type and the yield is not as great as was expected a month earlier.

The outstanding field in the county, that I have visited, or have heard about, is the acreage of Russet Rurals on the farm of Lee Sneathen, Charlevoix. He has approximately thirteen acres of certified Russet Rurals and, from six checks made in his two fields, we find that they are yielding slightly more than four hundred bushels to the acre. This is the highest yield reported in the county and, not only that, but the fields contain beautiful type and quality. Lee deserves this break as he sprayed adequately with a high pressure spray. These fields contained an abundance of organic matter largely from plowing down green manures plus a liberal quantity of high analysis fertilizer. Fortunately, this year his potatoes were planted later than usual so the dry weather did not seriously injure them and the rainfall that came in August and September carried them through to maturity without too much rapid growth. Unless I miss my guess, you will hear from Mr. Sneathen in the potato show competition.

In many fields, not over fifty per cent of the potatoes can be graded into U. S. No. 1. Another factor has been a serious infection of late blight which seriously decreased the yield and has infected the potatoes themselves. As one grower said, "Tell me in advance what kind of weather we will have and I will know exactly when to plant and how often to spray, and I will guarantee three hundred bushels of high quality potatoes to the acre." Not being able to do this, potato growers have to trust to fate.

Come to the Charlevoix Farm Day exhibit on Saturday, November 4th, at Charlevoix and see the outstanding exhibits that will be displayed. Watch the papers for further announcements concerning the district potato show to be held at Traverse City on November 8th, 9th, and 10th.

Extension Project Leaders to Have Second Lesson Tuesday, Nov. 7

The second lesson in the home management project will be given in the basement of the Boyne City library on Tuesday, November 7th, beginning promptly at ten o'clock and continuing until four o'clock. Miss Helen Noyes will present the lesson on modern laundry methods. Thirteen different groups are organized to carry on the program. Comments received at the office indicate clearly that the ladies appreciate this help and are receiving suggestions that can be put in practice. It still is not too late for new groups to organize and complete the course of four lessons. We have room for two or three more groups so talk about this to your friends and, if a group can be organized, get in touch with your county agent at once.

Clare McGhan and Lawrence Ecklund Win $100 Scholarships at San Francisco

The best news received for some time was the announcement that Clare McGhan and Lawrence Ecklund of Charlevoix, won second place at San Francisco in the national Dairy Demonstration contest. Each of the two boys has been awarded one hundred dollars as a scholarship. This is certainly welcome news as both boys plan to attend college in the very near future and this scholarship will be of great assistance.

Lawrence Ecklund spoke over the radio on Tuesday noon at one o'clock over WMAQ, Chicago. This was a high honor as only four club members had the opportunity of speaking over the radio during the short period of time. Many interested Charlevoix folks heard his voice and got the thrill of their lives. The boys returned home on Monday and report a most enjoyable trip and one that they can hardly describe.

These boys will give their demonstration, probably for the last time, before a county audience at the Charlevoix Farm Day on Saturday, November 4th. This demanstration will be a feature of the program at the high school gymnasium on Saturday night.

Born in Installments

Nashville—A brood sow on Walter Vickers' farm at Maple Grove surprised her owner recently when she gave birth to only two pigs. Exactly seven daya later, the sow gave birth to seven more.

—Where Tall Corn Grows

Hartford — A nearby farmer has displayed 12 ears of corn mounted on a board as a sample of his current crop. Longest was 13 inches and the shortest, 10. All are perfectly formed. The farmer estimated his crop at 1,600 to 1,800 bushels on 25 acres of land.

Lost Pants, But Still Lucky

L'Anse—George Koskimaki lost his trousers recently, but he was still a lucky man. A lagging truck in which he was riding with two other men overturned, pinning them in the cab as it smashed to the ground. Only injury was the driver's bruised eye.

Horses Cause Fire

Elkton—When a strawstack on the John Kolar farm caught fire, it attracted the attention of a team of horses pulling a wagonload of cornstalks. They rushed to the flaming strawstack, where the cornstalks caught fire, then ran through the barn, setting fire to the building. The blaze spread to every building on the farm, except the house, for a total damage of $4,000.

On The Comeback Trail

Ionia—In 1932 Jess Christensen, then a 10th grade high school student, thought it advisable to quit school and go to work. This fall he returned to school at the age of 25 and took up where he left off. He now wants to go on to college and study to be a mathematics teacher.

Skunk Calms Dogs

Portland—With blood in their eyes, two large dogs rushed down a business street here to chase what they thought was a cat. They were only partly right, however, for the cat proved to be a skunk. As soon as they saw the animal, the dogs calmed down, and meekly stood by while the skunk crossed the street.

Barbecue on Wheels

Dearborn — "I've taken a lot of hogs to market, but those are the noisiest I ever heard," remarked R. Worthington to his helper as he drove a truckload of hogs to Detroit. Just then a pedestrian pointed wildly to the truck, now ablaze from a cigaret the helper had tossed out the window, which landed in the straw. Firemen saved the pigs.

Greed is Fatal

Fremont — A local fisherman recently found a 23-inch bass dead and floating on the surface of a nearby lake. The fish was evidently killed when he tried to swallow a speckled bass weighing 10½ ounces. Apparently the fins held the little fish in the big one's mouth when the latter couldn't quite swallow his victim.

It Tastes Right Because It's Made Right

What makes a glass of beer taste right? The things that go into it . . . yes! And also . . . the things that stay out of it! In the fine art of brewing Schmidt's . . . no sugar . . . no glucose . . . no fattening syrups are added. Instead, Schmidt's is brewed by an exclusive balanced formula . . . of finest rice, malt, buds of choice hops and pure water . . . and, believe it or not . . . that's all! But then . . . by a slow aging process . . . all the goodness of those natural ingredients is imparted to the beer. That's why Schmidt's TASTES RIGHT! It's MADE RIGHT! Try a glass today —won't you.

AT THE MOVIES

"Babes in Arms" Brings Mickey Rooney, Judy Garland to Palace

America's boy and girl stars, present and future, have their day on the screen in "Babes in Arms," elaborate screen version of the Broadway musical success, which comes to the Palace Theatre November 4 for 3 days.

Headed by the incomparable Mickey Rooney and Judy Garland, who are starred, more than two hundred of Hollywood's most talented youngsters combine to present what is said to be one of the most exciting and entertaining musi-films of the year.

Besides Mickey Rooney and Judy Garland, important roles are filled by June Preisser, Betty Jaynes, Douglas McPhail, Leni Lynn and John Sheffield of "Tarzan Finds a Son!" fame. The adult members of the cast are Charles Winninger, Guy Kibbee, Grace Hayes, Rand Brooks and a host of old-time vaudevillians, including such names as Irene Franklin, Harry Fox, Margaret Young and George McKay.

A rare chance to stop, look and laugh your cares away awaits you down at the Palace Theatre, when "Stop Look and Love", the gay new 20th Century-Fox picture, begins unreeling November 7-8.

A fine cast, headed by Jean Rogers, William Frawley, Robert Kellard, Eddie Collins, Minnie Gombell and Cora Sue Collins, plays out this human and hilarious romance of a pretty girl who had no beaus, because her meddling Mama chased them all away by trying to help rope them into matrimony the minute they set foot inside the parlor.

Jackie Cooper emerges as one of the screen's brightest young comedians, according to preview audiences in the Paramount film version of the Broadway stage sensation, "What a Life", which opens on November 9 at the Palace Theatre.

Co-starring with Betty Field, who, reports indicate, repeats the triumph she scored in the stage play, Jackie handles his new type role in the sparkling and finished manner to be expected of a veteran.

DEPARTMENT OF STATE NEWS BULLETIN

Safety a Challenge To Every Citizen

"The present Safety Campaign in Michigan is a challenge to every citizen," says Harry F. Kelly, secretary of state, in an official letter prepared for distribution through his department to citizens making inquiries relative to the issuance of new license plates for 1940.

Oscar G. Olander, commissioner of Michigan State Police, and his entire organization, as well as every sheriff's department in the state, are cooperating with the department of state's motor vehicle division to make effective the new traffic rules, and their proper enforcement.

Lives can be saved and tragedies averted if every driver livs up to the new rules presented in the state department's new booklet, "What Every Driver MUST Know." This booklet is a digest of the more important rules of the road. This booklet is free for the asking.

All employees of the department of state have pledged themselves to help carry this program of safety education to the people they contact in their daily work.

At a recent meeting in Flint, division heads of the department of state explained fully their respective duties so that employees of other divisions might he better informed as to the work of the entire department.

disastrous long conflict, an immediate armistice would have a tendency to stop present speculation due to expected war orders. The decreased employment, resulting from suspension of war orders, would hit purchasing power, it is argued.

In any event, Michigan is likely to have a better Christmas than last year. We should be thankful for that.

Mail Order

The rising purchasing power in Michigan is expected to help retailers in another way.

An important competitor of the community merchant has been the mail order house whose advertising cost in term of each catalog runs well over $1. (Montgomery Ward, $1.08). A recent trade survey in Livingston county, made by a newspaper at Howell, showed that all but 23 of 185 persons received a mail order catalog. The tremendous advertising expenditure by outstate firms indicates the extent of this competition.

With more money in the pockets of farmers and wage-earners, price appeal of merchandise is expected to have less effect than heretofore. Specialty shops and department stores will be the first to regain customers which were lost in many instances to the mail order companies because of the price appeal of the latter.

Exploitation

A fascinating history of the Michigan copper country, written by James K. Jamison, Ontonagon, former deputy auditor general at Lansing, has just come off the press of the Ontonagon Herald, a weekly newspaper.

Dealing with "an American frontier", the book ("This Ontonagon Country") gives an illuminating picture of the exploitation of Michigan's mineral and timber resources by outside interests and the rise of the tourist industry to salvage and rebuild.

Author Jamison portrays the days, 80 to 100 years ago, when Ontonagon was the most thriving town on Lake Superinr. From the early fur trade of John Jacob Astor, whose original headquarters of the American Fur company still stands at Mackinac Island (disgracefully neglected) to the Civil war copper boom and later to pine-cutting spree following the great Chicago firc, Jamison characterizes this pioneer history in one terse word —"exploitation."

He sums it in one paragraph: "The fur trade left no mark upon the Ontonagon country. Its servants were sojourners, nnt settlers. The beaver vanished, and the Indian vanished. But it has always been so with the Ontonagon country. Those who took its great wealth of fur, gave it nothing in return; those who were made rich by its mineral wealth, left nothing to pay for it; those who profited by the exploitation of its enormous resources, dwelt and invested their profits elsewhere."

Mining Boom

Before the Declaration of Independence had heen signed, mining of copper had started in the Lake Superior country.

Alexander Henry, n traveler, visited the Ontonagon country in 1766 and saw the historic pure copper boulder which now rests at the National Museum at Washington. In 1771 the mining of copper was begun by Henry, and an industry was founded which in Civil war years brought tremendous prosperity to this northern frontier.

Because of war demands, the price of copper soared to 56 cents a pound. A five-story hotel, the Bigelow House at Ontonagon, was a testimonial to this prosperous era.

Just as fur profits went into Astor's realty investments in New York City, mining profits went east to Boston. As the war ended, the copper bubble burst; scores of mining camps were abandoned; half the houses in the nnrthern Michigan towns were deserted.

Pine Period

Next came the era of the pine, following the granting of public lands by the government to companies that undertook the building of railroads and canals.

For example, the St. Mary's Ship Canal Land company at the "Soo" was financed by capitalists on the basis of extensive land grants.

"Tha construction job is completed," relates Author Jamison, "the company of capitalists presenta the list of lands they have selected, and patents to the lands are issued, signed hy the President of the United States. Investment, perhaps we should call it speculation, in western lands was a notable capitalistic enterprise of the time."

Thus the best pine lands passed into hands of exploiters.

The land was stripped of its timber to meet the needs of a booming middle west. In Michigan it ia estimated that twelve and fifteen million acres were divested of timber resources. They became cut-over land, a problm to the state for many decades.

Tourist Lure

"Long before the Civil war, Mackinac Island was the summer home of many southern plantation owners," writes Author Jamison in "This Ontonagon Country."

Travel in the early days followed the Great Lakes.

The boat fare from Detroit to Ontonagon was only $14.

The tourist lure of this upper peninsula country and Mackinac Island whose history antedates the founding of the American republic itself, has grown through the years until today it is recognized as the economic hope of tens of thousands of people.

William J. Coates, Alpena county welfare administrator, phrases the possibility as follows: "Considering the fact that the tourist business is now the second largest business in Michigan, one needs not be a dreamer of dreams to see the possibility of doubling, trebling, quadrupling and then going on to even greater developments. This is not a crop to be cut off in one season or succession of seasons and leaving only ugly stumps dotting the landscape. It will become a perennial harvest increasing in value with each recurring season."

The history of the Ontonagon country, so ably related by Mr. Jamison, parallels that of much of the upper peninsula and to a large extent mirrors the past nf northern Michigan.

It brings into sharp focus the sorry exploitation of Michigan's natural resources and the growing importance to modern Michigan of its forests, lakes and streams.

AMERICAN BOY MAGAZINE COMPANION TO THOUSANDS

Hundreds of thousands of boys and young men read The American Boy magazine every month and consider it more as a living companion than as a magazine.

"It's as much a buddy to me as my neighborhood chum," writes one high school senior. "The American Boy seems to understand a boy's problems and considers them in such a sympathetic and helpful way. It gives advice and entertaining reading on every subject in which a young fellow is interested. It is particularly helpful in sports. I made our school basketball team because of playing tips I read in The American Boy."

Many fnmous athletes in all sports credit much of their success to helpful suggestions received from sports articles carried in The American Boy mngazine. Virtually every issue offers advice from a famous enach or player. Foothall, basketball, track, tennis, in fact every major sport is covered in fiction and fact articles.

Teachers, librarians, parents and leaders of hoys cluhs also recommend The American Boy enthusiastically. They hnve found that as a general rule regular readers of The American Boy advance more rapidly and develop more worthwhile characteristics than do boys who do not read it.

Trained writers and nrtists, famous conches and athletes, explorers, scientists and men successful in business and industry join with an experienced staff to produce in The American Boy, the sort of reading matter boys like best.

The American Bny sells on most newsstnnds at 15c a copy. Subscription prices are $1.50 for one year or $3.00 for three years. Foreign rates 50c n year extra. To subscribe simply send your nnme, address and remittance direct to The American Boy, 7430 Second Blvd., Detroit, Michigan. —44t2pd.

Conformance of Wisconsin's commercial fishing regulations with those of Michigan, scheduled for November 21, will be hslied with rejoicing. Perhaps most important of the Wisconsin changes is that limiting the size of marketable lake trout to 1½ pounds and whitefish to 1 pound 12 ounces, which are the Michigan standard. This variance has been a bone of contention for years, as it allowed Wisconsin operators to encroach upon Michigan wsters, take fish smsller and iliegal for the Michigan fisherman to have in possession, and market them. It is said under-sized Lake Michigan lake trout were sold in Wisconsin markets under the name of Mountain trout. Another Wisconsin change rsises the minimum length of perch to 8½ inches, the existing Michigsn minimum, effective July 1, 1940.

Almost needed my snow shoes to negotiate the brush east of Boyne Falls lsst Sundsy. The snow was 5 inches deep when we hit the woods nesr Hoffman lske and there was 7 inches of "the beautiful" when we pulled out wet and empty-handed. The snow belt extended west as far as Horton Bay and it rained the rest of the way home. Would have been u fine morning to open the deer season with such a nice tracking snow. And with but a few days of the bird season remsining, am still of the opinion partridge are decidedly on the decline in this area.

It is to be hoped too much dependence upon welfare does not ereate desperate circumstances this winter in view of the cut in relief which is bound to occur under the new stnte weifare set-up. Those who refuse to lay nside fuel, vegetables and edibies for the coming winter because such things have been provided for them in the past, will find the goin' pretty tough. With the plentifuiness there is all ubout us, it doesn't seem any one should go without the necessities of life.

CONGREGATIONAL CHURCHES

Services for November 5th

Charlevoix: 11 a. m., 7:45 p. m.

Ironton: 12:15 p. m.

The attention of Ironton people is called to the change of time.

Suhject: "An Unmovable Kingdom." This subject was announced for last Sunday. In its development it was such a good Armistice thought that we moved it up to November 5. Generaliy speaking November 12 will be observed as Armistice Sunday and because our churches have their union service on that day we choose to use an Armistice Day subject next Sunday.

Our evening services will begin next Sunday night. The time has been set for 7:45. The subjects that we will begin with will center around the Holy Spirit. There is no part of our religious understanding so weak as thut concerning the Holy Spirit. And there is no subject so vital to the successful Christian life. Our subject for the evening will be "The Holy Spirit in Old Testament Times." We will follow the plan of lust year of turning the service into a discussion group after the presentation of the subject.

Following a custom of long standing of having outside speakers address our C. E., we were favored with a well-prepared address by Miss Ione Smith of the local high school faculty. Her subject was "Pure Thoughts, Clean Speech and Right Deeds." Miss Smith spoke from a nationsl and international view point very effectively. A soclal time followed.

Each year, since we have been in Charievolx, wo have preached a serles of sermons during the winter months. This year we are beginning earlier. Our series will begin November 12, and wo are going to preach expository sormons from the Gospel according to Mark.

O. E. S. ANNIVERSARY PARTY A BRILLIANT AFFAIR OCTOBER 25TH

Charievoix Chapter No. 72, O. E. S., observed the 50th anniversary of its founding with an appropriate celebration last Wednesday evening at the Masonic temple.

With 150 members in attendance, a program arranged by Mrs. O. P. North was presented, beginning with an enactment by past matrons of the Traverse City chapter, in costume, of the presentation of degrees of initiation as it was done fifty years ago. "The March of Time", a pageant depicting the progress of the lodge since its organization, was next. H. R. Fowler, Mrs. G. E. Wollam, Mrs. Sam Sorenson, Mrs. Albert Cook, Mrs. Lloyd Curtis, Mrs. Engle Van-Allsburg, Miss Olive Allen, Mrs. Harry Walstead, Mrs. Harold F. Lamb, Mrs. R. F. Sloan, Mrs. Arthur Wexstaff, and Miss Wilma See were the actors, with Mrs. Harold Miller as accompanist.

In the pageant, a tribute was paid to living charter members and past officers. The charter members are Mrs. Harrison Bedford, Mrs. Alice Hines, Mrs. Jud Markham, and Mrs. William Poole.

Ministure gavels were presented to past matrons and past patrons, as a symbol of the authority they had held. Flowers were given past Star Points, and a beautiful birthday cake with fifty candles was cut by two of the older members, Mrs. Louise Elston and Mrs. Rosa Nettleton.

Gifts were presented to the chapter from Evangeline chapter of Boyne City and Mark chapter of East Jordan, and the event was honored by the presence of several distinguished past Grand Officers.

The affair was a brilliant one, reflecting credit upon Mrs. C. S. Webster, worthy matron and general chsirman, and her committees. Mrs. Robert Bonthron and her committee planned the decoration of the hall, which was done in white and gold, with flowers and lighted tapers; and a committee headed by Mrs. Albert Cook had charge of the refreshments of cake and punch.

OPEN VERDICT IN FATAL SHOOTING

DEATH OF GEORGE M. BALL REMAINS A MYSTERY

Body Ohio Youth, Age 32, Found Friday With Bullet Hole in Forehead Fired From Own Gun

Circumstances surrounding the death of George M. Ball, 32, of Spencerville, Ohio, whose body with a bullet hole in the forehead was found Friday afternoon in a small coupe alongside M-66 between Ironton and East Jordan, remains a mystery.

A coroner's jury, impaneled by Dr. F. F. McMillan, returned an open verdict at an adjourned inquest Tuesday afternoon. The verdict, in part, read: "Death caused from a bullet in the forehead fired from Ball's own 22-caliber rifle at close range."

The verdict embodied circumstances indicating reason for suicide, such as powder burns on Ball's forehead, the fact his car was out of gasoline and low on oil and that he had only seven cents in money. Despite apparent belief Ball's death was a case of suicide, the case remains open to any future developments.

The case was reported Friday afternoon to Sheriff Floyd Ikens by a farmer named Veenstra, whose suspicions were aroused by the length of time the car remained parked in the one place. Investigation revealed Ball's body, with the discharged rifle laying across his legs. It is reported the car was seen at the same location Thursday, the day previous.

In the car was found traps, blanket roll and food supplies indicating a hunting and trapping trip. Identification was established by a hunting license issued at Jackson, and social security numbers issued in Ohio and Michigan. A sister, Mrs. Robert Wicken, was located at Pontiac. Upon her arrival here, she was unable to advance any motive for suicide. She informed officers her brother had left Jackson last Wednesday to seek work in Lansing. He had been unemployed for some time. She revealed it was not unusual for her brother to be absent from home for long periods.

The body was shipped last Saturday to the home of Ball's parents in Spencerville, Ohio.

DEER SEASON TO OPEN WEDNESOAY

EXPECT ARMY OF 175,000 WILL TREK TO WOODS

With Estimated Deer Population of Over a Million and New Open Territory, Hunting Will Be Good

Wednesday, November 15, an army of well over 170,000 big game hunters will invade the northern woods of Michigan to participate in the annual deer and bear hunting season established by legislative mandate. This will exceed by at least 8,000 the number of hunters that participated in this sport last year when 162,301 deer hunting licenses were issued by the state. According to game census tallies the kill of buck deer last year totaled 44,809, which was almost 2,500 more than were killed at any other time since the one buck law went into effect in 1921.

This year, as was the case in 1938, hunters are held to one buck with antlers at least three inches above the scalp and one bear. Contrary to general belief, a deer for camp purposes which is limited to a party or four or more in one camp must also be a buck. The proposal to make this a doe was not authorized by the 1939 legislature. It is expected that the ratio of successful hunters this year will be greater than last when 43 of each 100 hunters above the Straits of Mackinac killed their bucks and 23 out of every 100 were successful in lower Michigan. This prediction is made on a census taken by both the state and federal government that credits Michigan with well over 1,000,000 whitetailed deer.

CROPS SHOW AN OUTSTANDING SUCCESS

POTATO, APPLE AND FARM PRODUCE DISPLAYS OF HIGH QUALITY SHOWN HERE SATURDAY

Kiwanis Sponsored "Farmers' Day" Provided Fine Entertainment Program—Charlevoix Merchants Cooperated in Awarding Long List Valuable Prizes

Agricultural exhibits, a Kiwanis sponsored entertainment program and cooperation of Charlevoix merchants in the event, combined to make last Saturday's "Farmers' Day" a decidedly successful venture.

The crops show, first held here since 1935 when the Kiwanis sponsored a similar event, brought out a total of 86 exhibits in all departments. Potato samples compared favorably with those of master growers, apple displays were of excellent quality, as were also farm crops and forestry exhibits.

Charlevoix county potato and apple growers, 4-H Club and Smith-Hughes school exhibitors divided $75 in premiums. The Kiwanis provided $25, city council an equal amount and B. C. Mellencamp, county agricultural agent, the balance. The quality of potatoes exhibited greatly exceeded expectations in view of a general drop in standard this season.

It is estimated over five hundred persons attended the evening entertainment at the school gymnasium. Program fatures included selections by the school band, appearance of the Wilman Sisters of Traverse City, in tap and acrobatic dance numbers, the inimitable Wilson McDonald of Petoskey, in Scottish songs and skits, and numbers by his piano accompanist, George Porter.

Lawrence Ecklund and Clare McGhan gave the dairy demonstration which won them state and national honors in what was probably the last presentation of the demonstration. Mr. Mellencamp presented the youths with certificates of recognition from the Golden Gates World's Fair Association and medals from the Pheonix Cheese Corporation, sponsors of their west coast visit.

A total of 104 prizes of merchandise provided by Charlevoix merchants were given to holders of lucky tickets at a prize drawing. The list of prizes, running into a high value, was a good will token from local merchants and, as suggested by Clarence B. Meggison, who conducted the drawing, represented a bid to rural residents to "shop in Charlevoix."

B. C. Mellencamp announced exhibit prize winners as follows:

In the open class, russet rural pecks, Lee Sneathen, Charlevoix, won first; Charles Withers, Charlevoix, came in second, followed by Charles Cellner, Charlevoix, and Wm. Behling, Boyne City. In pecks of Chippewas and Katahdins, Elmer Hott, East Jordan, had as nice a sample of Katahdins as one could ever see. This sample should go a long way in statewide competition. He also had the second prize with a peck of Chippewas, likewise very good. In the pecks of any other variety, Curtis Nicloy, East Jordan, won the blue ribbon with a splendid peck of Russet Burbanks; Harry Behling, Boyne City, won second and third places.

In the 4-H Club competition, made up of 12 pecks of russet rurals, first prize went to Delmer Lyon, Charlevoix, followed by Albert Routley, Charlevoix, Albert McDonald, East Jordan, and Iver Lyon, Charlevoix. Two club exhibits from this class will be shown at Traverse City, where they should be a strong competitor. In the Smith-Hughes competition in pecks of russet rurals, Clarence Staley, East Jordan, won first, followed by Marlin Ingalls, Donald Shepard, and Albert McDonald, all of East Jordan. GAYLORD WINNER OF SATUROAY TILT

DEFEATED RAYDERS 32 TO 0 IN SEASON'S FINAL CONTEST

Charlevoix No Match for Undefeated Otsego County Aggregation—Winners Scored Four Times

Charlevoix high school's Red Rayders bowed to an undefeated Gaylord team last Saturday by a 32 to 0 score in the home team's final contest of the season at Gaylord.

In winning Gaylord continued their domination of northern Michigan class C conference play to score four touchdowns and maintain an unblemished record. That the veteran Otsego county aggregation will walk off with conference laurels is unquestioned.

Gaylord's powerful attack was demonstrated early in the contest when they took Charlevoix's kick-off and marched to the initial touchdown. Lovelace and Glazier, a pair of seasoned veterans, alternated with end runs and line bucks to tally. The kick for extra point failed. Charlevoix held Gaylord scoreless during the remainder of the period.

One touchdown in the second period, and two in the third and the final tally in the fourth quarter rounded out the Gaylord performance. Lovelace skirted the ends for the second period score and a kick netted extra point. He opened the third quarter with a 21-yard thrust through center to cross Charlevoix's goal. Glazier's best contribution to his team's victory was a 55-yard run for the final touchdown.

Charlevoix made consistent gains in the final period, but never seriously threatened Gaylord's goal.

Saturday's defeat was Charlevoix's fourth of the season. They lost to Gaylord, Harbor Springs, Boyne City and Rogers City. Two victories were scored, one over Mancelona, the other over East Jordan.

LOCAL GIRL VICTIM AUTOMOBILE CRASH

HELEN FOSTER, 17, KILLED IN ACCIDENT NEAR GAYLORD

"Bub" and Marie McGhan, James St. Arno and Tom Carey Injured In Mishap Monday Morning

Helen M. Foster, 17, Charlevoix high school senior, met tragic death and four other young people were injured seriously in an automobile crash three miles west of Gaylord on M-32 at 12:30 Monday morning.

Miss Foster, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Foster, suffered a broken neck.

Those injured were Marion "Bub" McGhan, 17, driver of the car, serious bruises; his sister, Marie, 17, fracture of both legs; James St. Arno, 18, of East Jordan, leg fracture and one foot badly cut; and Tom Carey, 18, who suffered a sprained ankle, cuts, bruises and injuries of seriousness yet undetermined.

The crash occurred when the car skidded on the snow-covered highway, careened off the left side and lodged between two trees. The impact demolished the right side of the body against a tree trunk. Rep. D. D. Tibbits of Boyne City, who assisted the injured from the car, stated the body, broken loose from the frame, was lifted up from the bottom in order that the youths could be released from the tangled wreckage. Following first aid treatment, the injured were brought to Charlevoix Hospital with the exception of Carey, who was taken to his home.

Miss Foster was born in Charlevoix on June 19, 1922. She attended St. Mary's parochial and later Charlevoix public schools. She was a popular member of the senior class.

Surviving besides her parents are five brothers, William of Petoskey, Bernard of Detroit, Robert and Maurice of Kalamazoo, and Jack, a student at Michigan State Teachers college, Ypsilanti; also her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John Foster of Petoskey.

Funeral services were conducted at 9 o'clock Wednesday morning from St. Mary's church, Fr. Edward F. Neuhecker officiating. School class officers and many of the student body attended the services.

TUG SINKS IN GALE; CAPTAIN IS DROWNED

Capt. John Oling Lost When Tug Badger State Foundered Wed.

Capt. John Oling, master of the 60-foot diesel-powered tug Badger State, was drowned when his boat sank at 2:47 Wednesday morning 3½ miles from South Fox Island.

Jerry Neville of Brimley, engineer, and Chris Nelson, were saved by Str. Bradley of Rogers City. The freighter, answering distress signals, had taken the tug in tow 5 miles west of Grand Traverse light at 11:19 and was headed to lee of South Fox Island when it foundered. The body of Capt. Oling, details of whose drowning were lacking in radio reports received at Charlevoix coast guard station, was recovered. The rescued were taken from small boat in which they had left tug.

Capt. Oscar Smith and coast guardsmen Fred Hardy, Lloyd Hulett and Robert Sommerville braved a 45-mile northwest gale in an unsuccessful attempt to intercept Str. Bradley to bring body of tug captain and two rescued crew members to the Charlevoix station.

Wireless reports listed Badger State owned by John Kozel of Chicago. The boat was built in 1924 at Marinette, Wis., and since that time had been listed under several owners.

SHOT AT RANDOM

By Ken Usher

Alma college is anticipating the best basketball team in years, and three of the reasons for this expectation are Keith. Carey, Danford "Chick" Gallagher and Robert "Tinker" Kirby, a trio of former Charlevoix high school stars. Carey and Gallagher were members of the Red Rayder team which was runner-up in the class C state finals at Grand Rapids two years ago. Carey averaged 18 points per game with the freshman squad at Alma last year and while performing for Charlevoix established an all-time scoring record. Charlevoixans will watch Alma's basketball fortunes with interest.

I certainly do feel bad over a thumping a woman gave me the other day. Said she'd be glad when the hunting season was over so there'd be something else but huntin' gossip in this column. Women never could appreciate a man's feelings, anyway.

And just for that crack I'm going to say the deer hunting season is exactly 7 days away, just as if all the prospective "huntin' widows" didn't already know it. All the usual bunch and probably many new ones are itching to get away. The exodus will start in earnest Saturday for those crossing the Straits. The season lasts 15 days, it'll take another 15 to tell all the tall tales of the chase, and then perhaps the hunting subject will be dropped for a while.

After a week's effort, have given up trying to find out what the letters "TP" on the new 1940 auto license plates have to do with Charlevoix county. Neither of the letters

LANSING LETTER

By GENE ALLEMAN

Field Manager, Michigan Press Association

Effective in Michigan this week is a new statute which strives once more to untangle the age-old problem of land.

It mirrors a major part of the history of Michigan itself. This history is written in the terms of human use of land and of exploitation by outside interests of the land's natural resources and by-products such as fur, timber, iron, copper, oil and gas.

It recalls the hey-day of greedy speculation of land in the Detroit metropolitan area during the boom years of 1924, 1925 and 1926 when a wave of excessive and poorly controlled subdividing swept over the city and its environs, leaving in its wake a trail of tax delinquencies and overdeveloped realty.

It reveals a shameful neglect and indifference by state and local government in intelligent planning and

INDIRECT TAXES IN CLOTHES BILL PRODUCE $10,784,590

Indirect taxes buried in the cost of clothing sold in Michigan's apparel stores last year produced an estimated $10,784,590 for local, state and national governments, the National Consumers Tax commission reported today.

"This tremendous burden of hidden taxes was paid by unsuspecting shoppers as unseen parts of their apparel purchases," Mrs. Melville Mucklestone, president of the NCTC, stated in the report. "These are taxes against producers, manufacturers, shippers and distributors which, of necessity, must be passed along to the consumer. Studies at our Chicago headquarters show hidden taxes take nearly 10 per cent of clothing costs."

Mrs. Mucklestone, leader in the commission's nation-wide campaign to "arouse tax consciousness and to oppose consumer-penalizing taxes," pointed out the taxes refer to clothing sales in apparel stores only and do not include clothing sales in department and general stores.

The study was made public through Mrs. Arlie L. Hopkins, of Bear Lake, national committee member, who, with Miss Leetha C. McGee, of Detroit, state director, heads the NCTC educational program in Michigan. Groups in approximately 5,100 cities and towns throughout the country are active in the tax education program.

The clothing tax figure was computed from NCTC averages based on last available U. S. Bureau of the Census figures which placed 1935 apparel store sales in Michigan at $113,522,000. Government estimates of total sales in the country last year approximate the total in the 1935 study, the NCTC pointed out.

WILL PUT SOCIAL SECURITY NUMBERS ON DEATH PAPERS

The health department is working out a system to place social security numbers on death certificates, S. T. Friant, statistics director, has announced.

The social security board wants it that way, he explained, so that it may pay death claims to beneficiaries with less delay. As soon as the new certificates have been approved by the board they will be sent to county clerks.

DISTRICT HEALTH UNIT

Incidence to Syphilis

Considerable alarm has been expressed by persons as the result of a statement made by Dr. Thomas Parran, surgeon-general of the United States, to the effect that "syphilis strikes one out of every 10 adults."

This is generally, but erroneously, interpreted to mean that in any 100 persons picked at random, 10 will be found infected with the disease. As a matter of fact, the proportion will probably be very much less.

If the careers of 100 babies were followed from the cradle to the grave, Dr. Parran's statement would be found true. But in the group of 100 adults, there will be nothing to represent the number who died before reaching maturity. In the 100, too, there will be many youths who are yet to acquire the disease. And there may be six or eight who have had syphilis but who have been completely cured through timely and adequate treatment and now exhibit a negative blood test.

Thus, in his unselected group of 100 adults, the doctor may find no more than one actually suffering from syphilis.

Dr. Parran's statement, made at the beginning of his anti-syphilis campaign, has been thoroughly justified by the results. Few who read the newspapers or listen to the radio are unaware of the fact that syphilis can be cured — but it must be diagnosed and treated in its early stages and before irreparable damage has been done to the vital organs. Most important, from a public health standpoint, early treatment checks the disease in the affected individual and prevents its spread to others. Much, however, depends on the degree of cooperation the victim is willing to extend to his doctor. Eventually, perhaps, society may find it necessary to exact heavy penalties from those who fail to report syphilitic infection or who refuse to submit to medical treatment. Meantime an appeal to the syphilis victim to avoid quacks and patented "remedies" both for his own sake and for the sake of others with whom he may come in contact, offers the only means of controlling the dread disease.

In the years to come, Dr. Parran's insistence on a nation-wide campaign of education, though it has meant the smashing of many an ancient taboo, may be recognized as the century's contribution to public health.

Loretta Young, David Niven Score as Romantic Comedy Team in Wanger's "Eternally Yours"

With Loretta Young and David Niven starred as the romantic team, Walter Wanger's new comedy romance, "Eternally Yours," will be presented November 11-13 at the Palace Theatre under the United Artists banner. The new picture is one of the finest and funniest pictures to issue from Hollywood in many months and definitely takes its place as one of the season's top-notch films.

In support of the two stars, "Eternally Yours" has a featured cast including Billie Burke, Zasu Pitts, Hugh Herbert, Broderick Crawford and Ralph Graves, and each in turn must be credited with excellent performances. Also, it must be mentioned in passing, that the screenplay from which "Eternally Yours" was filmed was written by two of Hollywood's leading scenarists, Gene Towne and Graham Baker.

Boland-Ruggles Team In New Family Film

Mary Boland and Charlie Ruggles, who have so often delighted moviegoers with their realistic portrayals of man-and-wife on the screen, are coming back to the screen of the Palace Theatre on November 14-15 in "Night Work," new Paramount comedy about the hilarious doings of the "Fitch" family, who were introduced to moviegoers in "Boy Trouble."

Sherlock Holmes Again!

Basil Rathbone again portrays the master-detective, with Nigel Bruce as the inimitable Dr. Watson, in "The Adventures of Sherlock Holmes," 20th Century-Fox picture opening November 16 at the Palace Theatre. Ida Lupino and Alan Marshal are also featured.

Truckers Get Forced Company

Portland—Dale Franks and Jerry Holloway didn't want to roll in a ditch with five hogs, but they couldn't do much about it when their truck collided with another car recently. The crash threw the men out of the cab, broke the truck rack, and released the hogs. Holloway was buried beneath three of the animals, but was not badly injured.

AMERICAN BOY MAGAZINE COMPANION TO THOUSANDS

Hundreds of thousands of boys and young men read The American Boy magazine every month and consider it more as a living companion than as a magazine.

"It's as much a buddy to me as my neighborhood chum," writes one high school senior. "The American Boy seems to understand a boy's problems and considers them in such a sympathetic and helpful way. It gives advice and entertaining reading on every subject in which a young fellow is interested. It is particularly helpful in sports. I made our school basketball team because of playing tips I read in The American Boy."

Many famous athletes in all sports credit much of their success to helpful suggestions received from sports articles carried in The American Boy magazine. Virtually every issue offers advice from a famous coach or player. Football, basketball, track, tennis, in fact every major sport is covered in fiction and fact articles.

Teachers, librarians, parents and leaders of boys clubs also recommend The American Boy enthusiastically. They have found that as a general rule regular readers of The American Boy advance more rapidly and develop more worthwhile characteristics than do boys who do not read it.

Trained writers and artists, famous coaches and athletes, explorers, scientists and men successful in business and industry join with an experienced staff to produce in The American Boy, the sort of reading matter boys like best.

The American Boy sells on most newsstands at 15c a copy. Subscription prices are $1.50 for one year or $3.00 for three years. Foreign rates 50c a year extra. To subscribe simply send your name, address and remittance direct to The American Boy, 7430 Second Blvd., Detroit, Michigan. —44t2pd.

CORRESPONDENCE

CENTRAL LAKE

Friends of Mrs. Hurgett, mother of Mrs. Franklin Geary, will be pleased to know that she is much better, and has the cast removed from her ankle. She has been ill for a long time.

The death of Frank Hockin of North Milton occurred last week from hardening of arteries. He had been very ill for a long time. The death of Mrs. Ison of Eastport occurred Saturday, and the death of Mrs. Cyurrin, Sunday. Mrs. Cyurrin had been a patient sufferer for many years. Of a very kindly, Christian disposition, she will be missed by many relatives and friends.

George Morrow's friends will sympathize with him in his misfortune of having his leg broken by a car last Saturday. He was taken by relatives to the hospital at Truverse City last Sunday. We all hope for his successful recovery.

Mrs. Tommy Clark of south of Central Lake, has been ill for a long time since her car injury.

Mrs. Erma Bradley Drake, who has been convalescing at the Pallster home, Central Lake, has gone to Green River, where she is stopping at the home of her parents.

Orson Barber's family at Greenwood are quarantined with scarlet fever, a disease which appears to be quite prevalent this fall. The little baby at Traverse City Hospital, is reported as much better, and hopes are entertained of its recovery.

George Morrow was out on the road after his cows, below the Morrow hill Saturday evening when Percy Empey of Norwood, in attempting to pass another car, struck Mr. Morrow, breaking his leg just below the knee. Mr. Morrow was taken to Traverse City Hospital Sunday, and he appears to be getting along as well as expected. Mr. Morrow and Mr. Empey have been quite unfortunate in accidents. The former was struck by lightning when standing near his barn, a number of years ago, and rendered almost totally deaf. Mr. Empey was in an accident with his car north of Atwood a few years ago.

Burton Russell came up from Detroit Saturday, and took his wife and child with him. She went to Mancelona to have Dr. Nothstine do some dental work for her Thursday, Arthur Russell taking her over. They report that there was quite a lot of snow fell there Wednesday, the snow plow having to be called out. There was just a slight covering here. Saturday we picked strawherries, and the dandelions were in bloom. The mercury registered 50 degrees above zero.

Mrs. Dick Ison's funeral is being held at Eastport Tuesday of this week. Her husband passed away several years ago. A relative of hers was killed by being thrown from a wagon several years ago. Mrs. Ison was a much respected resident here for years, and will be greatly missed. She passed away very suddenly from heart disease, having been feeling fairly well the day before.

Mr. Workman is repairing the old Fred Doty building in the southeast end of Central Lake, and we understand will utilize it for making herry crates, etc. It had been bought by him from Andy Dunsmore.

The addition to the F. M. parsonage has been framed, and will probably be completed soon.

Lester Dawson and family have returned from their trip to Detroit. His niece, Annabelle, daughter of C. H. Dawson, was married there last week.

Lester Mulder and wife of Zeeland, visited at the A. Snitseler home as they attended as delegates at the State Grange at Traverse City.

WINTER DISARMED

90-hour threat ended by OIL-PLATING your engine today

You can probably agree that these are certainly conservative figures . . .

—4 or 5 months of nasty weather right ahead of you now

—8 or 10 daily cold starts for your car

—6 to 8 minutes per start, till your engine's near-warm

And yet even that can run up your engine's cold-weather "starting-stretch" to right around 90 hours! . . . The foulest 90 hours that Gangster Winter could fire at your engine—your battery. And don't ever hope to halt him with motor oils whose biggest brag is "fast flow." That's not enough—and it's not your money's worth, considering that "fast flow" is mighty slow Winter lubrication compared to OIL-PLATING.

OIL-PLATING in your engine will lubricate before any oil can circulate. That's because the minute you start up with patented Conoco Germ Processed oil it makes OIL-PLATING "magnetize" to all inner engine surfaces, so that it cannot drain down again. It cannot retire to the crankcase as you park the car. Like any other good plating, OIL-PLATING stays right where it's plated by Germ Process action—all over the working parts. They've "got on" their OIL-PLATING all the while you're indoors. They never "take off" their OIL-PLATING. When you come out to start then, your OIL-PLATING can't be delayed even 90 seconds—or one-ninth of a second! And away you go. The battery hardly knows it was working. And it's a good long while before the gauge-stick calls for an added quart of Germ Processed oil. Your Mileage Merchant has your right Winter grade. Change today—to that Conoco station of his. Continental Oil Company

MR. PRESIDENT — A REQUEST

President Roosevelt may be laying plans for a third term. The people of America are sore pressed now as to what action they should take in the present crisis in Europe.

Whatever the truth of the first statement, there can be no douht the people of this country are interested in just one thing, and that is in the preservation of the democratic principle of government. Millions have died for this principle. We do not wish to lose the ground we have gained in our fight to rule ourselves.

Therefore it is our belief President Roosevelt can best serve the ends of democracy by announcing now that he does not have any third term aspirations. This would leave the people of the United States free to make their world choice without fear of having their own democratic institutions crumble about them at home because of the personal ambitions of any one man.

There are other and unquestionably just as capable men to head our government here in the United States as Mr. Roosevelt, war or no war. He may get the idea we shouldn't change horses in mid-stream or some such notion but this could only result in a lack of faith we can little stand today. We must keep our faith in democratic principles intact. No third term president could do that, and it is our belief that any man desiring a third term would not feel he should do that. So we ask the president now—before it is too late—and in the light of the magnitude of the decisions the people of the United States must make regarding Europe's present conflict, to renounce the third term aspirations as his contribution to the furtherance of democratic principles throughout the world.

All we would get out of it (the war) would be bankruptcy and a long list of dead young men.—Captain Eddie Rickenbacker, World War ace.

This will be held strictly confidential, he points out, and no identities will be revealed in any repurts based on the survey.

Millions of Grape Vines

Michigan produces annually such a volume of fruit that grapes in the state sometimes are overlooked. But a statewide estimate indicates there are approximately 18 million vines which in 1938 hore enough fruit to give the state third place nationally.

Origin of Johnny Cake

Eastern historians studying Pilgrim tradition recently found the origin of what is commonly called Johnny cake known also as corn meal cake. The Pilgrims ground corn into coarse meal, mixed the meal with water and baked cakes on a hot stone. Men leaving a settlement would take with them what was known then as journey cake.

MARY BREWSTER CIRCLE HELD ITS ANNUAL BIRTHDAY DINNER ON TUESDAY

The annual birthday dinner of the Mary Brewster Circle, given Tuesday, November 7, at the Congregational church, was attended by 126 members and their guests.

Instead of being decorated to represent each separate month of the year, as before, the candle-lit tables portrayed the four seasons and guests were seated according to the season of the year in which their birthdays came. Three beautifully decorated birthday cakes were on each table. The winter table was set with red and white dishes, surrounded by evergreen boughs, and a small Christmas tree in the center. Colorful fiesta ware set the fall table, with autumn fruits and flowers. The spring table was lovely in pale yellow and white, while the summer table was divided into three sections; one in white for the June bride; red, white and blue for July; and the August section, the central motif, had three mirrors dotted with tiny sailbuats, as a symbol of "the city on three lakes."

Each group contributed something to the program in keeping with their own month. The January group played a snowhall game; February a Valentine game; Mrs. Ray S. Hamilton told an Irish story for March; the April group was instructed to hunt a hidden bag of peanuts, after which they were told it was an April fooler; Miss Margery Edwards played a piano solo, a spring song, for the May group; for June, Mrs. Charles Bellinger and Mrs. A. J. Stelter acted a charade which was readily solved as "the bride's first biscuits"; Mrs. Bellinger also gave a reading on patriotism for July; the August group were asked questions relative to summer sports; September had a spelling-bee; October, a reading on the origin of Hallowe'en by Mrs. Edward Shanahan; for November and December, the assembled guests sang a Thanksgiving hymn, and "Silent Night."

Mrs. Charles Bellinger, assisted by Mrs. A. J. Stelter, Mrs. A. L. Livingston, and Mrs. Carlton Dean, were in charge of the affair. Table decorations were done by committees headed by Mrs Otto Kreuger, winter; Mrs. Louis O'Neill, fall; Mrs. Ray Hamilton, spring; and Mrs. Glenn See, summer.

GOVERNOR PROCLAIMS THANKSGIVING ON 23RD

Follows President Roosevelt's Edict Setting Date Ahead

Michigan officially fell into line with the states that will celebrate Thanksgiving on November 23 when Governor Dickinson issued his proclamation Friday.

"In keeping with established custom," Dickinson decreed that Michigan should give thanks for its blessings on November 23, the day set aside by President Roosevelt, rather than on November 30, the day designated as Thanksgiving day on calendars.

The governor said several weeks ago that his decision to follow Mr. Roosevelt's lead was influenced hy the desires of merchants to start the Christmas shopping season a week earlier.

Electric Lights for Schools

With the coming of rural electrification, country school districts are now in position to partly make up for a deficiency in the natural lighting of their school rooms by hooking on to an electric circuit.

Certain it is that electricity is much better than any other artificial means of lighting a school room. Here are some simple experiments that can be tried to prove effectively which type of artificial lighting is best for school purposes. The experimenta also show which decorative colors are best adapted to brightening the school room for reading purposea.

1. Bring to school a candle and a kerosene lamp. Fill the lamp at school with kerosene. Pull down the shades and make the room as dark as you can. First light your candle. Can you see to read by the candle? How near the candle must you be to read your book? Can you see to read your book? Can you see to read what is written on the blackboard? It will not hurt your eyes to read by the candle for a few minutes at a time, but you should not go on trying very long. Try to thread a needle a little way from the candle. Try to match colors of paint or cloth.

Blow out the candle and light the kerosene lamp. Try the same experimenta you did with the candle. Put out the lamp and turn on an electric light bulb. When you have finished the same experimenta with the electric bulb, answer the following question:

Which is the best light for reading or working?

How many people could read at the same time by each kind of light?

If any of the class have extension cords at home, have two or more of them brought to school. You will need a long electric wire covered with insulation. On one end it should have an attachment to be plugged into a socket. On the other, it should have a socket into which a bulb can be screwed.

Line a box with white paper and another box of the same size with black paper. Cut two small holes in each box. One should be just large enough for the socket of the light bulb to go through. The other should be larger. Screw small bulbs into the sockets inside the boxes. Turn on the light and look through the large opening in each box. Which box seems brighter? Try different colored linings in the boxes. If you wanted a room to look as bright as possible, what colors would you choose for the walls?

For school room purposes, frosted globes and electric lights of from 100 to 200 watts should be provided. These globes should in most cases be suspended so that they are not too far above the work desks.

DEPARTMENT OF STATE NEWS BULLETIN

Avoid Complications

Harry F. Kelly, secretary of state, has requested all purchasers of new 1940 license plates to surrender the 1939 plates at the time of purchase.

Mr. Kelly has deemed it advisable to make this request because of the fact that 1939 license plates if not turned in to the branch office might be used by an unlawful owner. Many persons in the past have been careless about the disposition of the old plates, and have become involved in complications resulting from that carelessness.

Much time can be saved in the issuance of your new license plates by having the old plates ready to turn over to the licensing officials at the time of purchase.

PIES FIND FAVOR IN COOL WEATHER

It takes crust to make a pie but only good cooks turn out pies with flaky crusts that help tempt appetites already whetted by cool weather.

There really is no secret in making a good pie crust, say members of the home economics extension staff at Michigan State college. Some pie eaters like a rich crust, but even that needs to be flaky. Others think the crust ought not to be so rich.

So here's a method of preparing a medium-rich pie crust that ought to turn out flaky if the method is followed:

For a double crust pie, measure out 1½ cupa of sifted flour, five to six tablespoons of fat, three-fourths to one teaspoon of salt and about two and one-half tablespoons of cold water. A blend of soft and hard wheat flours is apparently better for pastry than very soft flour. Lard, lard compound or one of the hydrogenated fats is commonly used.

First cut the fat into the flour and salt. The method is to use a pastry cutter, a fork or a pair of knives. When the fat is in small pieces, each conted with flour so that the mixed product looks somewhat like coarse corn meal, begin to add the water. Sprinkle the water on a little at a time over the flour and fat mixture, combining each dampened part into the dough until all the water is added and the whole is n stiff dough. Roll this out on a lightly floured board.

Some pies need a pre-baked crust which takes about 10 minutes at 400 dgrees Fahrenheit. A fruit pie with n pre-baked crust should then get 25 to 30 minutes baking at 375 to 400 degrees. Double crust fruit pies without the crust baked first need 25 minutes or a little longer at 425 degrees.

conservation.

It reviews a reoccuring cycle of human ambition and disillusionment, success and failure, happiness and heartaches.

Here is a subject so commonplace that it is almost prosaic.

Yet there probably is no one other thing in Michigan which affects so many people. Consider then for a few minutes this paramount problem of land and how our state government is trying to solve it.

The New Land Plan

Confronted with the cold fact that in 1938 advertising of delinquent land in Michigan had disclosed the existence in tax default of approximately 1,500,000 acres in northern Michigan and the upper peninsula and literally millions of dollars in undeveloped residential and business lots in the Detroit metropolitan, the 1939 state legislature arrived at this solution:

(1) Tax delinquent land north of the south line of Arenac, Midland, Isabella, Mecosta, Newaygo and Oceana counties would go to the state conservation department for disposal through its land division. Thus, suitable forest land (and unsuitable agricultural land) could be added to the state forests. Municipalities would be given an opportunity to acquire lots within their boundaries for purpose of school sites, playgrounds or parks.

(2) Tax delinquent land lying south of the above line which extends generally from Muskegon to Bay City would be offered for re-sale by a state land board at a "salvage" auction in May, 1940. All such land will be offered for sale at a minimum of 25 cents on the dollar of assessed valuation. Dispossessed owners may have the privilege of matching the highest bid and of obtaining title again. Former title-holders may enter into an agreement with the state land board to pay such a redeeming price over a period not exceeding 10 years.

If the lands are not redeemed by former owners within the 30 day period, a deed will be issued conveying absolute title to the "salvage sale" purchaser.

Northern Michigan

In northern Michigan and the upper peninsula the state conservation department may dispose of the delinquent tax lands in one of three ways:

(1) Reserve the land for state forests and other conservation units. This would recognize the character of the land as being unsuitable for agricultural use. Speculators could not obtain the land for exploitation after which the land likely would revert to tax delinquency and thus proceed once more through the process of being advertised, offered for sale, and so on.

(2) Offer at public auction after appraisal and establishment of minimum prices—owner at time of tax sale having 30 days following the auction to redeem for the amount of the auction bid. This corresponds with the plan for southern Michigan with one exception that while sale is discretionary in northern Michigan, it is mandatory in southern Michigan.

(3) Exchange with the United States and individuals when such procedure is for the best interests of the state.

In the place of speculation and exploitation, through which hundreds of millions of second-growth trees might be stripped by lumbermen and "timber skinners," northern Michigan land is to be carefully administered by a state department created in 1921 for the purpose of fostering conservation of natural resources.

Southern Michigan

The land problem that exists in southern Michigan is largely the result of a subdivision boom, quite like the Florida boom which developed in the mid-twenties.

Today, in the city of Detroit and in an adjacent area, enough subdivided lots are on the tax rolls to accommodate an increase in population of three million people!

The Michigan Planning Commission, in a survey completed in 1939, found that only 4.3 per cent of subdivision lots in four townships in Wayne county, immediately adjacent to Detroit, were being utilized. The commission also pointed out that a lack of coordinated policy of restrictions had produced "rural slums." Out of 5,323 residences constructed in four townships, 60 per cent are without furnaces, 58 per cent without bathrooms, and 54 per cent without basements.

In thirteen metropolitan townships studied, 65.1 per cent of all subdivision lots platted were advertised in the 1938 tax sale. More than three-fourths of all advertised lots were tax delinquent for five or more years.

The commission concludes: "The return of this land to private ownership, unencumbered by delinquent taxes, will not assure the payment of taxes in the future, unless the return is accompanied by a program which will bring this land into proper use." It would only mean a repetition of existing abuses, another turn in the land merry-go-round.

Responsibility for prevention of such abuses should be vested, the commission continues, with "legally constituted planning authorities having jurisdiction broad enough in scope to encompass the overlapping interests of municipalities, townships, and counties in the area affected by the plat."

Land Grants

Originally all land in Michigan belonged to the Federal government, and prior to that, of course, to the Indians.

In 1837, when Michigan was admitted to the Union, section 16 of every township was turned over to the state with the stipulation that sale proceeds would go to a state primary school fund. Later, the state colleges were given a grant of 30,000 acres for every representative in congress. In 1850 congress passed a swamp land act whereby six million acres came into state ownership for drainage development. The state would give swamp land script in payment for the building of roads and bridges, such script being discounted at banks and purchased by land speculators.

Then came federal land grants to builders of railroads, whereby belts of land six to eleven miles in width were granted outright to railroads. (1866, Lansing to Traverse Bay railroad.) Builders of the Soo ship canal and the Keweenaw ship canal, for example, were given a choice of desirable timber lands.

Between 1870 and 1890 came the timber-cutting boom when lumber interests stripped much of the land of valuable pine and then left the idle cut-over land, tax delinquent, for the state to worry about.

It was not until the 1893 depression that the state, after trial and error process, established a sound general tax law which provided that five-year tax default lands could be sold to homesteaders and land companies.

Into the modern picture comes the 1929 oil and gas discovery in Midland and Isabella counties—an interesting story in itself.

Tax Moratorium

In 1933, the year of the bank moratorium, the state legislature enacted a tax moratorium for relief of distressed property owners.

In May of 1936 a tax sale was to have been held to sell 1933 tax default land and any unpaid installments (10-year plan) on 1932 and previous tax years. The legislature later delayed the tax sale to May, 1938, when the accumulation of all tax defaults were compiled into one gigantic tax list. In metropolitan areas the tax delinquencies had mounted to astounding proportions, and the cost of publication in these counties (despite a 50 per cent reduction by the 1937 legislature) was abnormally large for reasons found in simple arithmetic.

The present grand jury investigation at Lansing into possible mishandling of state funds through the office of the 1937 and 1938 auditor general, George Gundry, and his assistant, Martin Lavan, attorney at Brighton, involves the metropolitan tax lists.

Thus, the lurid story unfolds a history of Michigan from the era of Indian fur trade to the present week. The state once again seeks a solution for an old problem in which speculation and exploitation have had such a prominent place.

"Mortals and Immortals" will be the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Christian Science churches throughout the world on Sunday, November 12, 1939.

The Golden Text (II Cor. 5:16) is: "Henceforth know we no man after the flesh."

Among the Bible citations is this passage (Acts 17:28): "For in him we live, and move, and have our being; as certain also of your own poets have said, For we are also his offspring."

Correlative passages to be read from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, include the following (p. 336): "Immortal man was and is God's image or idea, ever the infinite expression of Infinite Mind, and immortal man is coexistent and coeternal with that Mind."

Clio—A most unusual harvest provided a beauty treat for Clio residents this fall when a local greenhouse rushed to beat the first frost and cut a crop of 8,000 gladioli blooms. All 8,000 stalks were on display at once.

She'll Have Lemonade

Addison—Atmosphere of sunnier climates is a feature of Mrs. Charles Estes' home here. She has a lemon tree over 30 years old that is now bearing lemons. When ripe, the fruit, which has been borne every year, averages from 1¼ to 1½ pounds each, and some have weighed two pounds.

Roses Bloom Late

Finds Easy Hunting

Iron River — Julius Lindsten got his bird early in hunting season with no effort at all. Returning from meeting an early morning train, he found a dead partridge on the porch of his home. Apparently the bird lost its bearings in the city and flew into the porch. Its neck was broken.

Boy Outshines Firemen's Rescue

Lincoln Park—While traffic was at a standstill at an Ecorse intersection, police, firemen, and the dog warden debated on how to remove a three-pound fox squirrel crouched near high tension wires on a utility pole. The warden refused to shoot for fear of hitting the wires, and firemen refused to climb for fear of touching them. Finally a small boy took things in his own hands, shinnied up the pole and got a pet to take home. Traffic moved on.

Wolf Reported Near Clare

Clare—A large grey timber wolf has been reported to have been sighted twice in Clare county. According to the state conservation department, only four wolves have been killed and bounties claimed in lower Michigan in the last several years, all in northern counties. The department said it is possible that the animal seen near Clare is a coyote.

are in the word Charlevoix and cannot find out what association they have with our county. Must say it is a disappointment. Last year when traveling the highways we found a lot to interest us in meeting other cars because we could identify their home county by the letter combination on the license. A car from our own county was easily spotted. But not so this year with the conglomeration of letters adopted.

They say: "Better late than never," so guess I better mention the new automatic stoker unit installed at Herb Wilson's Auto Electric Service garage. The installation, by the way, provides Charlevoix its first completely heated garage.

"Bill" Kerns, genial operator of The Argonne, is keeping abreast of these modern times with the installation of what is known as a CapitolAire Air Washer ventilating system. Wish they'd install such a gadget in the council rooms so that the fellows could see even each other, not to mention getting a breath of pure air.

From the standpoint of official proclamation, Thanksgiving Day this year will be on November 23rd. Governor Luren Dickinson followed President Roosevelt in setting the dato ahead, and that's that. It is admitted the only reason for this break in precedent is a commercial one, influenced by the desire of merchants to start the Christmas shopping season a week earlier. The action is admittedly a Yankee trick, placing commercialism ahead of ideals. Following the same trend of thought, it wouldn't be surprising if the date of Christmas was changed if it could be certain a material gain would result.

Michigan can be sure its lake and commercial fishing interests will be well guarded during the coming year following the appointment of Cong. Fred Bradley to membership on the House merchant marine and fisheries committee. Cong. Bradley's keen interest in the appointment is attested by his resignation from the buildings and grounds and Indian affairs committees in order to give his new duties the time this important work requires.

One thing Charlevoix boosters for re-building of US-31 between Charlevoix and Bay Shore can be certain of, is no concerted support from Petoskey, our neighboring city to the north. At least such a position was indicated Tuesday in a front page editorial in the Petoskey Evening News. Urging public attendance at a dedication by State Highway Commissioner Murray D. VanWagoner of the new re-location of US-31 and 131 as a means of demonstrating intense interest of Petoskey residents in more and better highways, the Petoskey Evening News said, in part: "We want Mr. VanWagoner to complete the paving of US-131; we want M-32 paved to provide a hard surfaced route to Petoskey from US-27; we want US-31 paved with concrete from Petoskey to Mackinaw City." It is rather singular that US-31 south of Petoskey, perhaps one of the poorest pieces of state and federal highway in Michigan, is not mentioned at all. One is left but one conclusion, and that is we'll have to do our own plugging if we ever obtain improvement of this stretch of highway, because if the News editorial is any indication of general Petoskey opinion, they are not interested in US-31 south of them.

"John Came" and "Jesus Came"
Evening: Union Armistice Service, Baptist Church

Sunday morning we will undertake a plan we have never used in Charlevoix. We will take up a series of studies in the Gospel according to Mark. Our purpose in studying this Gospel is to watch the Servant of Jehovah, Jesus Christ the Son of God.

Matthew wrote of the King; Luke wrote of the perfect Man; John wrote of the hidden mystery of His Being; Mark portrays that One who is at once Jesus and Messiah and Son of God, as the Servant of God creating the Gospel.

There will be a break in this series Sunday, November 19, when Rev. Percy V. Dawe will be here to speak. This church has fixed the week of November 19 to make its financial canvass for the coming year. Rev. Dawe is with us to assist in any way he can.

As there will be no union Thanksgiving service this year this church will hold its own service Thursday morning, November 23. The service will begin at 9:30 a. m. and will continue for about three-quarters of an hour.

A meeting of the Charlevoix Junior Farm Bureau was held November 7 at Marion Center Grange hall. Among those present were Harold Fromholz, the president of the Traverse City Junior Farm Bureau, and Carl Bjort, the regional director of the Junior Farm Bureau.

After playing games a short business meeting was held. Delegates chosen to go to the state Junior Farm Bureau convention were: Carleton Smith, Adolph Ecklund, Ed. Vratanina, Ronald Lyons, Muriel Blanchard, and Freda Willis. It was planned for this group to meet at Iva Howe's on Wednesday night to make plans for their trip Thursday.

Elsie Hilton and Freda Willis were chosen for a food committee to plan for the banquet on November 20, at the Marion Center Grange hall. A special meeting is to be held Monday, November 13th, to finish plans for the banquet.

K. OF P. "FEATHER PARTY" SCHEDULED NOV. 20TH

Charlevoixans are asked to keep in mind the annual K. of P. "feather party" scheduled for Monday evening, November 20th, at the Pythian hall. The event is being given the customary wide publicity and is expected to draw the usual generous patronage.

DEER SEASON TO OPEN WEDNESDAY

Although the proposal was made to allow doe hunting in certain overbrowsed areas where deer starvation was prevalent the law makers frowned on this proposition and suggested that other means than through an open hunting season be devised to relieve this situation but just what this will be conservation officials have not determined. Leelanau county in lower Michigan is closed to deer hunting but all the other counties above the Saginaw-Muskegon line are open.

The license fee for residents remains at $2.25, non-residents, $25, and a camp permit, $3, and each camp must have at least four hunters.

Hunters are asked to be on the lookout for ear tags on any deer that may be killed and these should be reported to the department of conservation at Lansing with complete data as to where and when the kill was made. Many deer have been tagged in this manner in order to trace their life and migratory habits.

Deer hunters are cautioned if they desire to hunt snowshoe rabbits during the deer hunting season they must possess a small game license.

DEER HUNTING SEASON OPENED TODAY

BELIEVE NUMBER HUNTERS IS HIGHEST IN HISTORY

Eight Licenses Issued to Bergman Family Believed Record — Deer Are Reported Plentiful

Zero hour today finds hunters scattered over most of the 34,000 square miles of Michigan deer territory, providing the greatest invasion by a red-coated army in the state's history.

Early indications are that 170,000-odd hunters are in the north woods or will move into the deer country before the season ends November 30.

Information gathered from local license agencies indicates the number of Charlevoix hunters is under that of last year. Close to 150 licenses had been issued up to Wednesday, as compared to over 200 a year ago.

Despite the drop in licenses issued, Charlevoix will produce a deer hunting record, it is believed, for if the licensing of eight members of one family is not a record, it will be quite a mark to shoot at. Referred to are Fred Bergman and seven of his nine sons, who have obtained tags and established their camp near Hardwood lake east of Vanderbilt. Besides Fred there are Bill, George, Richard, Robert, Charles, Ted and Eugene. It is safe to gamble, too, that the younger pair, unable to obtain deer licenses, will provide the camp larder with rabbit meat.

Conditions are in direct contrast with a year ago, when snow covered

CASH PRIZE AWARDS SET FOR NOVEMBER 25

LOCAL BUSINESS PLACES SPONSORING CHARLEVOIX MERCHANTS' DAY EVENT

Awarding of Prizes, Dog Parade, Show, Results from Organization Thursday Night of Charlevoix Merchants' and Business Men's Association to Promote City's Interests

Awarding of $30 in cash prizes and the staging of a Dog Parade and Show are scheduled in Charlevoix on Saturday, November 25th.

The program will be known as Charlevoix Merchants' Day, is a follow-up of the successful Kiwanis "Farmers' Day", and the second good will gesture of local business men toward the public of this trading area.

The prize money will be divided in three awards of $15, $10 and $5. Tickets on the drawing to be held at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon in East Park will be given by every Charlevoix business place.

The Dog Show and Parade, promoted primarily as an entertainment feature, will be open to each and every person owning a dog. Cash prizes will be awarded for the largest, smallest, ugliest and best all-around canine. Entries will be open until start of the parade at 2 o'clock. Entrants are to assemble at the Board of Commerce information bureau office. The only restriction is that all dogs be on a leash. The parade will be held on Bridge street with an out-of-town judge picking the winners.

The November 25th promotion is the result of formation last Thursday evening of an organization to be known as the Charlevoix Merchants & Business Mens Association, formed primarily to promote Charlevoix's welfare along business lines.

With eighteen persons present at the meeting, Harry A. Craig was named chairman for a period of a month. The chairmanship will be alternated. Kay Fitch was named permanent secretary. It is planned ultimately to have the cooperation of every business interest in the city in the organization.

Two committees were named Thursday night. Clarence Wood, M. A. Levinson and Ernest Robinette were appointed to handle the Merchants' Day event previously outlined. Another group, composed of Mrs. George Haggard, E. J. Smith and Arthur Bergeon, was appointed to arrange for Christmas decoration of Bridge street, and individual stores, as well, carrying out a plan to be followed by all business places in promotion of the Yuletide season.

Other interests of the association will include promotion of "trade in Charlevoix" efforts, promotion of resort, industrial and kindred interests. The organization is looked upon as the answer to one of Charlevoix's most pressing needs — a business men's organization created to solidify merchandising interests.

TAR TRUCK CATCHES FIRE; IS TOTAL LOSS

Equipment Owned by R. T. Davis Destroyed in Blaze Saturday

A truck equipped with tar heating and spreading equipment was destroyed by fire Saturday at the city storage garage, corner May street and Garfield avenue.

The equipment, owned by R. T. Davis and being used to patch city streets, caught fire when the tar tank overflowed, it is understood, just as workmen were about to resume work after noon. The tar provided a spectacular fire which was kept from spreading to the nearby city buildings.

NEW SERVICE PROVIDED ARMY OF DEER HUNTERS

State Highway Department Has Informatioo Stand at Mackinaw

An Innovation in service to hunters at the Straits of Mackinac was in operation this week by the state highway department.

The department is this year for the first time providing an official information station for hunters crossing the straits into the upper peninsula hunting areas. The stand, which began full-time operations last Friday, November 10, is located at the intersections of US-23 and US-31 at the south limits of Mackinaw City. It is manned by employes of the department who are equipped with maps and other material to aid hunters in selecting routes.

State Highway Commissioner Murray D. VanWagoner said that the service was being tried as an experiment this year. If hunters find it of assistance, it will be continued in the future. He pointed out that hunters occasionally find it necessary to wait for boats during the rush to cross the straits. During this time they can stop at the information stand for maps and other advice on highway travel.

SCENIC DRIVE NOW A COUNTY HIGHWAY

MAINTENANCE TAKEN OVER BY COUNTY ROAD COMMISSION

Plan to Make Highway Passable This Fall and Make More Extensive Improvements Later

Preliminary steps have been taken by the Charlevoix county road commission to bring into the county highway system for maintenance the Lake Michigan scenic drive in Charlevoix and Norwood townships.

This information, embodied in a legal notice elsewhere, in this issue, will be received with enthusiasm by those groups who have long advocated this highway.

To be taken over as a part of the county road system is the portion from the intersection of what is commonly known as McKenzie road south to the road extending west to intersect the scenic drive from the village of Norwood. The Charlevoix township portion is one and eight-tenths miles, the Norwood township portion six and five-tenths miles. The McKenzie road is already part of the county road system.

While no definite plans have been announced to date, it is understood the road commission expects to place the scenic drive in passable condition this fall and will later begin more extensive improvements as funds are available.

Probably the most important result of the transfer will be the establishment of a good highway along Lake Michigan, providing an excellent scenic drive, which, even in its present state, has been used extensively.

PROMINENT SUMMER RESIDENT IS DEAD

A daughter, Mrs. Carl R. Gray Jr. of St. Paul, Minn., survives.

BASKETBALL PRACTICE IS STARTED

OVER THIRTY CANDIDATES REPORT FOR DRILLS

Total Lack of Veteran Players Gives Coach Difficult Task Formiog Team; Schedule Annouoced

With the foothall season over and gear packed away, practice for the 1939-40 basketball season has been started by Charlevoix high school athletes.

Despite the fact over thirty candidates reported to Coach Ray Kipke at the initial practice session last Wednesday, prospects for the current season were not brightened any by the fact the group failed to contain a single veteran. "Buh" McGhan and Tom Carey, only regulars on last year's squad, have not yet reported for practice. Bob Bergman, a sub last season, is available, also Ernie Nowland and Jake White, who played on 1938-39 reserve squads.

This Coach Kipke is confronted with the task of replacing such players as Harry Withers, Bruce Henley, Bert Pearl, Clare McGhan, Lewis Brown and Bob Goss, who graduated last spring. Perhaps most promising among those seeking team positions is Don Carey, who is expected to carry on family tradition.

Charlevoix's schedule, announced by Stewart Coleman, athletic director, provides fourteen contests, including an alumni game during the holiday season. Following is the schedule:

Dec. 8—Petoskey here.
Dec. 15—Harbor Springs there.
Dec. 20—Gaylord here.
Dec. 22—Mancelona here.
Dec. 29—Alumni.
Jan. 5—Rogers City here.
Jan. 12—Gaylord there.
Jan. 16—Petoskey there.
Jan. 19—East Jordan there.
Jan. 26—Boyne City here.
Feb. 2—East Jordan here.
Feb. 9—Grayling there.
Feb. 16—Boyne City there.
Feb. 23—Harbor Springs here.

CLARE NOWLAND GIVEN PURPLE HEART MEDAL

Honored by War Department for Meritorious Military Servicc

Mrs. Robert Bonthron has announced receipt of a Purple Heart medal, awarded her brother, Clare Nowland, in recognition of military merit during the World War.

By War Department order, the Purple Heart established by General George Washington at Newburgh, August 7, 1782, during the War of the Revolution, was revived out of respect to his memory and military achievement. The original decoration, of which only one example is known to exist, was of purple sprigged silk, edged with a narrow binding of silver, and was sewn on the left breast of the uniform coat, over the wearer's heart.

The revised decoration is a heart-shaped medal, gold in color, with its center of purple enamel. On the obverse is a relief bust of George Washington in the uniform of a General of the Continental Army. On the reverse appears the inscription "For Military Merit," with the owner's name engraved beneath. The Washington coat of arms is incorporated in the ring that attaches it to a purple ribbon of watered silk, bordered with a narrow white stripe.

Clare Nowland, who served with 32nd Red Arrow Division, Company F, was wounded in the Battle of Bellaau Woods during the World War.

SHOT AT RANDOM

By Ken Usher

The court house will never be quite the same again because Charlie and Tillie Marshall have moved to their new quarters in the city hall. The court house "gang" gave them a farewell party last Friday afternoon, presenting them with a table and lamp. The affair was not without its sentimental aspects, either, for after all, associations of 20 years are not so easily terminated, even if the move is just across the street. Even Charlie's penny-snatching dog came in for his farewell gift—a big bone done up with ribbons and all.

The Fort Myers News-Press says: "O. W. Trayte of Charlevoix, Mich., has solved the problem of how to make money both summer and winter and still enjoy the entire year." This statement was part of an article telling about the new tourist camp our local resident has built in Cabana City, located near Fort Myers, Fla. Of course we all knew "Cap" Trayte is occupied during the summer keeping the compasses of Great Lakes vessels pointing true north, but many probably were not aware of his latest venture. The newspaper article goes on to relate Mr. Trayte has built 10 cottages, 18x20 feet with complete living and housekeeping accommodations for over-night or season occupation. They're all equipped with electric ranges and refrigerators, too.

It's not too early to remind everyone there are only 33 more shopping days before Christmas, nor to urge everyone to spend their money in Charlevoix.

Editor's Note: This is the first of several articles dealing with state control of liquor.

Governor Luren D. Dickinson, arch foe of John Barleycorn, will have an important appointment to make within the next few weeks.

The term of V. F. Gormley of Detroit, member of the three-man state liquor control commission, expires on Friday, December 15. Other commissioners are Orrin A. DeMass of Detroit, chairman, and Murl H. Defoe of Charlotte, both appointees of the late Governor Frank Fitzgerald.

Following Fitzgerald's death, Mr. Dickinson announced that his fellow townsman, Mr. Defoe, would be his "personal" representative on the state board. Since Defoe apparently enjoys the confidence of the governor and shares his general philosophy as

Crowds Gape at Antarctic Snow Cruiser

Tremendous crowds of onlookers turned out everywhere along the route of the Antarctic Snow Cruiser as it traveled eastward from Chicago to embark on the North Star with Admiral Byrd's expedition to the South Pole. Largest automotive vehicle ever on the highways, the Cruiser dwarfed service stations where it paused for fuel and other supplies. In the 37-ton monster four scientists and technologists expect to reach the South Pole and live there in relative comfort while engines and heaters keep their cabin and workshops warm. They plan also extensive exploration of the Antarctic continent. Standard Oil Company of Indiana has shipped 32,000 gallons of fuels and lubricants to seaboard to be taken with the Cruiser.

TRAPPING SEASON BEGAN NOVEMBER 1

EXTENDED TO LOWER PENINSULA STARTING WEDNESDAY

Regulations Governing Taking of Fur-Bearers Outlined by Department of Conservation

Trapping for Michigan's million dollar fur industry, which began November 1 and reaches its peak in December, will be accelerated November 15 with the opening of the season on muskrat, mink and raccoon in the northern half of the lower peninsula.

For a one dollar license any Michigan resident may use up to 20 traps in taking furbearers on which the season is open, excepting beaver and otter. Additional traps are licensed at the rate of 10 cents each. Non-residents may not trap in Michigan. For resident fur dealers the license fee is $10, for non-residents, $50.

This year the skunk, which furnished 34,485 pelts in 1938 when it was not protected, may be taken only from November 1 to January 31. Removed from the protected list by the 1939 legislature are opossums, of which 18,634 were taken last year. Foxes, of which 3,159 were taken last year, remain unprotected, as are bobcats and weasels.

Muskrat and mink may be trapped November 1 to November 30 in the upper peninsula, November 15 to December 15 in the northern half of the lower peninsula and December 1 to December 31 in the southern counties. A total of 17,546 mink skins was taken in 1938, and 782,924 muskrat skins were taken in the same season, largely from the farmlands of southern Michigan. The law regarding mink has been changed to prohibit hunting of the species before the trapping season opens, and to forbid placing traps closer than six feet to a mink hole or home.

Raccoon trapping is permitted from November 15 to December 15 in the northern half of the lower peninsula and from December 1 to December 15 in southern counties, and is forbidden in the upper peninsula where there are few 'coon. In 1938, 6,501 'coon pelts were taken by trapping, compared with 33,442 raccoon killed by hunting in the same season.

Badger season extends from November 1 to January 31. Last year 503 badger hides were secured in Michigan.

Trappers of coyotes and wolves may collect bounties if they take the animals under contracts with the department of conservation.

Special licenses are needed for beaver trapping, and the season, bag limit and method of taking beaver are fixed by the conservation commission at its January meeting. Advisability of an otter season is considered at the same time. Last year's beaver production was 5,945 skins.

Within five days of the closing of the respective seasons on furbearers, persons having raw hides must notify the conservation department of their kind and number. All traps must be fitted with metal tags bearing the name and address of the owner in legible English.

Charlevoix County Wins High Honors at Traverse City Potato Show

At the Northern Michigan Potato and Apple Show held at Traverse City, on November 8th, 9th and 10th, exhibitors from Charlevoix county walked off with many major awards.

Curtis Nicloy, East Jordan, perhaps won the highest award when his peck of Russet Burbanks received the sweepstakes ribbon for being the best peck in the junior department. Clarence Staley, also from East Jordan, won first on his peck of Russet Rurals in the Smith-Hughes competition, followed by William Korthase, Jr., Boyne City, in second place. William Behling, Jr., Boyne City, won first on a peck of Katahdins in the Smith-Hughes, followed by William Schroeder and Albert Behling with samples of Katahdins and Chippewas, respectively.

In the Smith-Hughes school competition, the East Jordan collection of seven pecks won the blue ribbon easily. The Boyne City Smith-Hughes won second, so Charlevoix county walked away with all top honors in the Smith-Hughes exhibits.

Elmer Hott, East Jordan, won first on his peck of Katahdins in strong competition. A peck of Chippewas, also exhibited by Mr. Hott, was awarded fourth place. A peck of Russet Burbanks, exhibited by Arthur Nicloy, won third. In the Russet Rural competition, Charles Withers, Charlevoix, won fifth with Lee Sneathen in ninth place. In the bushel of certified seed, Lee Sneathen, Charlevoix, won fourth place. However Lee's highest recognition came in the Premier Certified Seed Growers Contest, where his yield of 413 bushels to the acre, plus the high quality and showmanship, gave him the second position carrying with it a premium of eight dollars.

In the 4-H club competition, Albert Routley, of Charlevoix, won fourth place in competition with 77 pecks. Other winners in this competition were Albert McDonald, East Jordan, and Delmer Lyon, Charlevoix, each placing in the next ten best samples. In the club competition, the Charlevoix club, made up of Robert Vratanina and the three Lyon boys, won fourth place.

In the apple department, Eveline Orchards, of East Jordan, won $28.00, winning two blue ribbons on plate exhibits and picking up many seconds and thirds. The apple department included the best quality of exhibits ever seen in northern Michigan. Never before have apples had the rich color that they possess this season and Eveline Orchards deserves much credit for placing well up in this strong competition.

At the close of the show the best exhibits from this county were packed and shipped to the Michigan State College, where they will compete for state honors at the State Seed Show to be held during Farmers' Week this coming winter. You will hear further in regard to the show but you can be assured that many high awards will come to exhibitors from Charlevoix county.

Pays to Feed Grain to Cows

Twenty thousand cows can't be wrong.

So the figures obtained from herds in Charlevoix county and other counties in Michigan prove conclusively that with wise selection of feeds it certainly pays to feed a good milk producer. Dollar returns above feed costs rise surprisingly within reasonable limits.

A year ago a mass of figures went in to federal tabulators in Washington who searched for results from the Michigan dairy herd improvement association's records.

Some of the animals fell into each of the various dollar return groups. In the lower brackets were some 156 pound butterfat average cows whose feed cost $52 and who managed to return the small sum of $24 above feed cost to the dairymen owning them.

Contrast this, says A. C. Baltzer, extension dairyman at Michigan State College, with the top dollar earning cows. Their butterfat production averaged 544 pounds for 12 months, their feed cost was $88, yet their return above feed cost was $159.

For an average of all the records, the cows produced 7,966 pounds of milk which contained 328 pounds of butterfat and gave dairymen an average return of $88 over feed cost.

One state, California, exceeds Michigan both in the number of cows on test in the D. H. I. A. and an average yield of 342 pounds of butterfat. Seven other states exceed the average fat yield, but have only a few hundred or more cows on test.

Paul Gardner will give a talk at Jordaa River at Thanksgiving exercises Sunday, November 26. The Emory sisters of Bellaire will sing.

Miss Laura Ward has returned from Flint for a short visit at home.

The Robert Mason family have moved to the Harry Mason cottage north of Eastport.

Mrs. Herman Telgenhoff of Grand View was ill last week, but the Patton girls are out of quarantine.

Programs have arrived and Mrs. Grace Hooper will play for Christmas song practice next Sunday, and it is hoped all the young people will be out. Jordan River young people have a fine program prepared for Thanksgiving services, Prudy Caukin and the Misses Goldie and Mary Justice and others sponsoring the program. The young people have revived their orchestra and may come over to Turners in the afternoon of November 26th. Their attendance has been the best in the county lately.

The repairs to the Free Methodist parsonage are progressing rapidly and a "bee" is being held this week for its completion. Dormer windows are being placed in the east side of the addition, and the roof raised. Rev. Guy Liskum has been assisting this week.

Mrs. Frances Anderson and children of Creswell visited Saturday at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Dawson. Miss Agnes Dewey of Ellsworth was also a caller there and at Creswell.

Barney Fitzpatrick came over from Creswell Saturday to get his sister, Eleanor, who is attending Central Lake high school. They went home with a motorcycle. Barney says he has made as high as 92 miles an hour with the machine. He says it isn't very cold if you are dressed warm enough.

Not so many cars appear to be passing this year on their way to the hunting grounds for deer. I suppose it is kind of hard on the pocketbook. We agree with the "Shot at Random" that the partridge are very scarce this year. Some claim on account of their having the same disease the rabbits used to have. Others think the pheasants are driving them out. Anyway, it appears that their season should be closed for two or three years.

Also agree with the column about "Thanksgiving Day." Think the excuse for its change was very flimsy. Looks like more dictatorship. One merchant is reported as telling his customers to "do your Christmas shopping early, for you can't tell when Christmas will be." One man having his tooth pulled told the dentist, "If you hurt me, I'll make a Thanksgiving dinner out of you." The dentist replied, "What do you know about Thanksgiving?" The customer said, "What does anybody know about Thanksgiving?" Well, we are going to stick by the Pilgrim Fathers' Thanksgiving and keep the 30th. Of course, if anybody wishes to invite us for dinner on both the 23rd and the 30th, I don't think it would be very mannerly to refuse!

Here's The Key

We know of no sure formula for success. But we do know that hard work, thrift and a strong bank connection has unlocked the door to comfortable circumstances for many people in our community.

We hope you will accept a friendly invitation to stop in and become acquainted and see how convenient and downright helpful a home town bank can be.

LAKE TROUT SPAWN FISHING BRINGS HEAVY LIFTS

Fishermen Bring In Record Hauls Under Ideal Weather Conditions

One nf the best lake trout spawn fishing seasons, opened with lifting of the closed season ban Friday, is nnder way.

Two lifts of 6,500 pounds each made by Jack Cross top the local fishing fleet, while from Beaver Island comes reports of a 7-ton opening day lift by "Shing" Martin, veteran commercial fisherman. Three carloads were shipped to city markets from this port Monday and catches, while somewhat smaller than the opening day, are expected to continue.

Fishermen are required under direction of the department of conservation to strip the fish for spawn. State hatcheries will be supplied with spawn by local fishermen under this arrangement. Spawn will be hatched at Oden for the local hatchery, it is understood, the plan providing rearing here.

While heavy weather attended the opening night and following day, conditions have been ideal compared to a year ago when thousands of dollars worth of equipment was lost and operations stopped completely by heavy seas.

most of northern Michigan and a blizzard held up transportation at the straits.

Reports from conservation officers indicate deer are plentiful. Seven state game refuges that have been closed to deer hunting for from six to 19 years are expected to prove attractive to many hunters. With its own deer herds increasing rapidly, Charlevoix county will provide sport for many hunters. The west end of the county is not excepted, for deer are quite numerous in Hayes, Norwood and Marion townships this year. A decided drop in the number of hunters on Beaver Island is obvious.

THIS THANKSGIVING DAY

Thanksgiving this year, whether you observe it on November 23 or 30, will find this nation in what is actually the tenth year of the depression. The day will dawn upon millions of our countrymen still marching in the ranks of the unemployed, yet hopefully looking toward the future secure in the belief that the time is not far distant when this blot upon our national history will be wiped out.

We should and will return thanks this year with whole hearts, for in spite of the trials that have come upon us this nation is far richer than any other known part of the globe. A fact that is continually brought to our attention by reports from the Old World, where wars and preparations for war have placed their peoples once again in a position of abject misery.

We should be thankful because in spite of these years of adversity 85 per cent of the American people are self-sustaining and there is a notable tendency among those on either direct or work relief to provide for themselves. We should be thankful because even those who are without employment are being accorded a measure of living that would be hailed as riches in other lands, where a poverty not only of wealth but also of spirit prevails.

We should return thanks because as a people we still retain the right to guide our own destinies and as such you as an individual may return thanks by giving a portion of what you have to your neighbor in distress. Thus does God measure the depth of your thankfulness.

GOD'S WATCHING

God's watching men from heaven above—
Legions of men forsaking their love
For others—who are ready to kill.
Is this God's will?
God's watching men in trench and field.
Marching men with weapons to wield
At "friendly" foes—for use to kill.
Is this God's will?
God's watching men—His image fair
Men of God who even dare
A friend in peace, in war to kill.
Is this God's will?
God's watching men who still seek peace.
Men waiting this conflict to cease.
To let men live or war to kill?
What is God's will?

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

Sunday morning service, 10:45.
Sunday school, 12 o'clock.
Meets first Wednesday evening of each month at 7:45 p. m.

Reading room open Saturday, 3 to 5 p. m.

"Soul and Body" will be the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Christian Science churches throughout the world on Sunday, November 19, 1939.

The Golden Text (I Cor. 6:19) is: "What? know ye not that your body is the temple of the Holy Ghost which is in you, which ye have of God, and ye are not your own?"

Among the Bible citations is this passage (Matt. 6:25): "Therefore I say unto you, Take no thought for your life, what ye shall eat, or what ye shall drink; nor yet for your body, what ye shall put on. Is not the life more than meat, and the body more than raiment?"

Correlative passages to be read from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, include the following (p. 228): "If we follow the command of our Master, 'Take no thought for your life,' we shall never depend on bodily conditions, structure, or economy, but we shall be masters of the body, dictate its terms, and form and control it with Truth."

S'MATTER POP— Und Das Iss How It Happened!

By C. M. PAYNE

to the need of liquor control, the conclusion is logical that Dickinson will have an opportunity soon to do something about the "evils" which he has so relentlessly deplored, year in and year out, for the past decade or two.

What is the liquor situation in Michigan today?

Here are some cold facts.

16,202 Outlets

First, it's easy to buy a drink in Michigan.

Today an adult can purchase alcoholic beverages at 16,202 different places in the state.

Of this number, 3,479 are public saloons (tap rooms or whatnot) where hard liquor is sold by the glass. Wayne county has 2,450 of these; it is possible under the present population quota system for Wayne county to have 270 more.

Taverns where you may buy beer or wine by the glass total 4,384.

Then there are 9,566 "special designated merchants" (of which 4,213 are in Wayne county) which sell bottled beer or wine for consumption off the premises. Most of them are grocers. Hard liquor by package may be purchased at 1,358 places of business, chiefly drug stores.

Private clubs where liquor may be served total 397. Hotels licensed to serve liquor are 206 in "Class A" and 327 in "Class B", the classifications being set according to number of rooms.

In addition to all this, the state operates exactly 100 stores of its own in larger communities throughout Michigan. (Note: There is some overlapping in types of liquor outlets as given above; hence the total, 16,202.)

Big Business

Second, sale of alcoholic beverages has become "big business" in Michigan.

Gross sale of liquor (distilled spirits and wines over 16% in alcoholic content) were $37,252,507.92 for the calendar year 1938.

During 1938 a total of 2,627,854 net barrels of beer were produced in Michigan. Outstate breweries shipped 668,653 barrels to the state for sale here.

In terms of gallons—and this may stagger your imagination — the sale of alcoholic drinks in 1938 led to consumption of 5,236,589 gallons of distilled spirits—whiskey, rum, gin, etc. — and 102,873,748 gallons of beer.

It is estimated that approximately 100,000 persons receive full or partial compensation, directly or indirectly, as a result of this consumption.

For example, the state itself employs 730 persons regularly to store liquor in state warehouses and to sell liquor at state stores.

In any man's language, this is a lot of money, a lot of liquor, and a lot of headaches both before and after. Keeping politics (and misuse of power) out of state liquor control is one of the leading problems that is inevitable when a state seeks to regulate liquor through a monopoly control. Sixteen states, in addition to Michigan, are trying to do just that.

Sales Rising

Third, as industrial centers hum again, stepping up the worker's buying power, more money is being spent for consumption of liquor.

Through September, the expenditure increase of 1939 over 1938 in net sales was 18.6 per cent. In payroll dollars, this was $6,929,500—again a lot of money!

Consumption of wine was 44.67 per cent greater through September in 1939 over 1938 for the same period. Michigan ranks 10th among wine-making states, according to figures for August, 1939.

Mr. Dickinson in his "inaugural address" this year as lieutenant governor portrayed an economic picture of millions of dollars being spent for liquor, while the state sought to raise other millions for needs of the unemployed and indigent. He observed tartly: "You will remember we were assured that the return of the liquor traffic would lower taxes, balance budgets, and relieve employment. Didn't the predictors get hold of the reverse end?"

Too Many Outlets?

Is there justification for the complaint that Michigan has too many outlets for sale of alcoholic drinks?

Pennsylvania, another liquor monopoly state, permits no private outlets for sale of bottled beverages. Retail profits are confined to state stores. Ohio licenses less than 75 private outlets other than state stores.

In contrast Michigan's 16,202 outlets stand out rather sharply.

Here is one of the many problems confronting the state commission. It is a mild statement to observe that the December 15 appointment by Governor Dickinson may be of outstanding significance. The possibility of a past president of the State Anti-Saloon league being in a legal position to wield a state-wide whip for liquor control (within limitations of the legislative act) is certainly intriguing, to say the least.

Do You Really Know How to Talk?

Everyone speaks about 50,000 words every day, but the words are often the wrong ones, and our conversation needs a clinic just like a disease, it is pointed out in an absorbing article, which offers you a chance to diagnose yourself as a speaker, and a listener, too, appearing in The American Weekly with the November 19th issue of The Detroit Sunday Times.

The man who waits for just the right time to start seldom gets anywhere.

LIVESTOCK PASTURING RUINS WOODLOT

Foresters Point to Damaging Results of This General Practice

Farm woodlots that dot rural Michigan continue to lose trees faster than Dame Nature replaces them—all because livestock is turned into the sparse growth found in woods used as pasture.

Pointing out that a woods pasture offers little in volume of actual feed, W. Ira Bull, extension forester at Michigan State College, suggests instead attention to the net profits that can be obtained from a well managed woodlot not pastured. It ought to average $4.50 an acre annually by producing one standard cord or three stove cords each year.

A pastured woodlot will grow less than half as much wood, says Forester Bull. There also is the ultimate effect of losing the stand because young trees are not permitted to develop.

Michigan in the last census was credited with four million acres of woodlots on its 196,000 farms. The census also revealed that despite lowered production, three million acres of these woodlots were used for pasture, however, scant most of them proved.

Fuel for the farm home can be obtained easily and at low cost this fall by cutting the cull trees from the woodlot, the forester points out. One standard cord of oak, hickory, beech or maple wood is considered the equal to approximately one ton of coal in heat value.

A pastured woods can be restocked with young trees. If livestock is kept out for several years there will be a growth that ultimately will take care of tree replacements.

AT THE MOVIES

"Hollywood Cavalcade" is Moviegoers' Treat

Movie fans, here's the picture for you, and we do mean you. It's Darryl F. Zanuck's production of "Hollywood Cavalcade," starring Alice Faye and Done Ameche, and filmed in Technicolor. It re-enacts and photographs anew the romance of Hollywood from bnthing beauties to world premieres; tells the great human story of Mike, who wanted to make movies, and Molly, who wanted only to be loved by Mike hut who instead won greatness on the screen. It tells the drnma of the men and women like them who conquered the entertainment world in the romantic, fabulous, zany years of Hollywood's rise.

The 20th Century-Fox film is due November 18-20 at the Palnce Theatre.

Downright Human Story

An excellent murder mystery with plenty of humor as well as melodrama and suspense will be found when the new 20th Century-Fox film, "It Could Happen To Yon," reaches the Palace Theatre on November 21-22.

The film, which was directed fly Alfred Werker, tells a thrilling story of a young advertising man whn returns from a gay party and finds a nmrdered woman in the back of his car. The list of featured players, headed by Stuart Erwin and Gloria Stuart, includes Raymond Walburn, Douglas Fowley, June Gale and Clarence Kolb.

"Quick Millions"

The Jones Family's latest 20th Century-Fox film is "Quick Millions," opening November 21 at the Palace Theatre, and every Jones is good for a million laughs. The film takes the family to the Grand Canyon to elaim a gold mine they have inherited, but it costs them ten for every dollar they get out of the mine.

Jed Prouty, Spring Byington, Ken Howell, George Ernest, June Carlson, Florence Roberts and Billy Mahan are featured.

DISTRICT HEALTH UNIT

Diet As a Cold Preventive

None but a faddist would contend that a particular diet can prevent or cure a cold. Colds, it is generally agreed, result from bacterial infection of an individual living in fairly close proximity to his fellows, in houses more often over-heated than under-heated, getting little or no exercise in the fresh air, exposed to no sunshine and whose respiratory tract and nasal membranes are being continually irritated by dust particles in the environment.

Nevertheless, controlled experiments have demonstrated that some resistance to colds can be established through proper diet and the invasion of the body by the coryza germs rendered more difficult.

Several of the vitamins definitely help prevent colds, according to Dr. Jean E. Hawks, assistant professor of nutrition at Michigan State College, writing in a recent issue of Michigan Public Health.

According to Dr. Hawks, Vitamin A, found in cream, butter, egg yolk and all green and yellow vegetables, affects the linings of the nasal passages so that they resist the action of the various bacilli. Vitamin D, the so-called "sunshine vitamin", found in cod-liver oil, is also considered protective. Vitamin C, contained in lemons and other fruits as well as in tomatoes, increases resistance to colds by stimulating the body cells to proper function. Vitamin F, found in salad oils, is said to lessen the susceptibility to colds and to shorten the period of illness when they are contracted.

Dr. Hawks contends that three good meals a day offer a large measure of cold protection for the growing child and urges an ample school lunch consisting of milk, a fruit or vegetable and one substantial dish—hot if possible.

The daily diet, she asserts, if it is to maintain the tone of the tissues sufficiently to resist invasion by cold and other bacilli, should contain:

1. At least a pint of milk for an adult and three-fourths of a quart to a quart for a child.
2. Two servings of vegetables besides potatoes, one being a leafy vegetable such as spinach, celery, lettuce, cabbage or broccoli.
3. Two servings of fruit—raw, canned or cooked. Tomatoes may be substituted for either one fruit or vegetable.
4. Two servings of whole wheat, either in the form of bread or as a breakfast food.
5. One egg.
6. One serving of meat, fish, or cheese.
7. Two level teaspoonsful, or one ounce, of butter.
8. Some source of Vitamin D, as cod-liver oil, when there is little or no exposure to sunlight.

Perhaps it is a little out of place for a newspaper writer to admit a lot of "huey" finds its way into the newspaper columns. Can hardly help such an admission, however, after reading about that "No work—no kiss" campaign instituted by wives of Chrysler Corporation workers idled by the UAW dispute. If these same wives could get to the CIO organizers with a "No work—no dues" campaign, they'd produce better results.

A sign on the door of Fred Cartier's tailor shop reading "Go to Kip's" had a prospective customer somewhat puzzled Monday morning. The fellow apparently hadn't heard of treasurer hunts and thought Fred had left a note telling where he could be found.

Dan Spayd, who gave his age as 78 years, is apparently the oldest person applying for a deer hunting license at a local agency this year. Dan's seeking the elusive buck over east somewhere. Last year the recognition went to Charles Pierce, Marion township, 81 years young. R. J. Madill and Elmer Ingalls should be mentioned in the "over 70" class.

And when a town the size of Charlevoix turns out around 150 hunters it must be admitted deer hunting has appeal, especially when are included three aldermen, both regular members of the police force and at least three, if not more members of the utilities crew.

Seeing the tons upon tons of lake trout now being brought in by commercial fishermen during the spawning fishing season gives me cause for reflection. I trolled all summer out where they're getting 'em now and ended up the season with one single, solitary fish. Many is the time I not only said myself, but heard others say: "There isn't a darn fish left in this lake." It does make a person wonder where the big ones go during the spring, summer and early fall months.

MARINE CLUB PLANNING ACTIVITIES NEXT YEAR

Named Fleet Captain, Venetian Night Committee Chairman, Wednesday

Plans were discussed and committee appointed to handle 1940 activities of the Charlevoix Marine Club at a meeting held last Wednesday evening.

Henry Partridge was named fleet captain for 1940, Dr. F. W. Young was named chairman of the Venetian night program, and John Nordrum water carnival program committee chairman. The club also named Capt. Oscar Smith and Joseph Howard honorary members for 1940.

Will Bellinger presented detailed drawings of a Club Mast with plans that it be constructed and erected at the northeast corner of the city park adjoining the municipal dock. The club plans to carry this plan to conclusion.

FINGERLINGS RELEASED FROM STOVER CREEK PONDS

German Browns Planted at New Boyne City Power Pond; Brooks in Horton and Monroe Creeks

Bringing to a conclusion a most satisfactory program of fish propagation started last spring, the Charlevoix Sportsman's Club has released fish reared in their Stover Creek ponds.

Forty-five cans of German brown trout, ranging from 3 to 5 inches in length, were released in the new Boyne City power pond on Boyne river. Through the efforts of Charlevoix, Boyne City and Petoskey sportsmen, this pond will he devoted exclusively to browns. Reciprocating for the fish released by Charlevoix sportsmen, Boyne City club members and the department of conservation have agreed to erect a trap below the power dam next spring, trap rainbow trout and hold them until spawn is ripe. The fish will be stripped and the spawn hatched in the local hatchery. Heavier plantings of native rainbow is expected to result from this agreement.

Around 10,000 brook trout, ranging from 3 to 6 inches in length, were planted in Horton and Monroe creeks. In addition, the local club released 22,000 Pacific coast steelhead and 6,000 native rainbow fingerlings at Horton Bay and in south arm of Lake Charlevoix near Isle of Pines. Another release included 1250 4-inch small mouth bass in various inland lakes in this vicinity.

The program just completed, according to Roy Ranger, president of the sportsman's group, was one of the most successful in recent years.

PROCLAMATION IS ISSUED BY GOVERNOR DICKINSON

Over Sixty Million Tuberculosis Seals Mailed for the Fight Against White Plague

In a proclamntion issued today, Governor Luren D. Dickinson called attention to the sale of tuberculosis Christmas seals which opens December 1 and urged the people of Michigan to join in the campaign to eradicate tuberculosis through their generous purchase of the seals.

The proclamation reads:

Help to Protect Your Home from Tuberculosis

"For over 30 years the people of Michigan have waged war on a shadowy hidden foe, a killer of youth, a destroyer of hope, an interrupter of the life-flowering of a nation, the great white plague, tuberculosis.

"Ignorance has been its chief ally and it is at ignorance that the Michigan Tuberculosis Association, organized in 1907, has aimed its heaviest attack. Today the lowest death rate in the history of the state testifies to the effectiveness of the association's repeated charge.

"But with the disease in retreat it is not the time to lay down our arms. Homes are still broken, lives are still taken and the cost to state and nation is still greater than the cost of any other war.

"Therefore, in conformity with long established custom, I, Luren D. Dickinson, governor, hereby call upon the people of the commonwealth to join with the Michigan Tuberculosis Association in its constructive and merciful work through generous purchase of tuberculosis Christmas Seals."

November 26 has been designated as "Christmas Seal" Sunday. Congregations all over the country will hear from their pastors something about the work done through funds raised by the sale of tuberculosis Christmas seals. The sale of the 1939 seal opens on December 1.

WARN AGAINST CUTTING TREES ALONG HIGHWAYS

Prosecution of Violators Will Be Made by Highway Department

State Highway Commissioner Murray D. VanWagoner this week reminded motorists that it is against the law to disturb or cut roadside trees and shrubs.

The commissioner said that he was issuing this warning just previous to the holiday season in order that motorists would not be tempted to cut Christmas trees along state highways. "We have detected this practice in some parts of the state in previous years," the commissioner said. "It is definitely a violation of state law and it results in serious damage to the appearance of state highways."

The department warned that those guilty of cutting Christmas trees or any other trees on state-owned right-of-way would be prosecuted.

LOCAL BUSINESS CONCERNS PROMOTING EVENT

Dog Parade at 2 O'clock to be Followad by Drawing for $30 in Prizes at East Park

If you haven't already done so, mark Saturday, November 25, down on your calendar as Charlevoix Merchants' Day.

Outstanding in significance is the fact the event provides the opportunity for some lucky persons to walk off with $30 in prizes offered by the Charlevoix Merchants' & Business Men's Association, to be drawn for at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon at East Park. There are three prizes, divided $15 for first, $10 for second and $5 for third, with no "strings" attached other than holding the lucky number. Tickets for the drawing have been in distribution the past ten days.

Preceding the prize drawing there will be a dog parade. Just what kind of a spectacle a dog parade will provide can only be determined by coming tp see for yourself. The event holds possibilities, it must be admitted, if nothing more than a good fight. There will be some cash prizes awarded to entrants—one each for the largest, smallest, ugliest and best all-around dog. The parade is scheduled for 2 o'clock and entries may be made at the board of commerce office up to that time. Entrants must bring their dogs on a leash and are to assemble ut the board of commerce office.

Saturday's promotion, the first by the newly formed Charlevoix Merchants' & Business Men's Association, is a good will gesture to those citizens residing in the Charlevoix trading area to "Buy In Charlevoix."

HUNTERS ARE WARNED OF DISEASED RABBITS

Only Four Cases of Tularemia Reported In State During 1939

With an annual cottontail und snowshoe hare kill of approximately 2 million in Michigan, the state has had only four authenticated cases of tularemia in persons to date in 1939 and only 11 in 1938.

Nevertheless, rabbit hunters are cautioned to beware of slow-moving, underweight, sickly-looking animals. With hunters approaching the peak of the rabbit season, S. C. Whitlock of the game division of the Michigan department of conservation warns that animals which get up slowly in front of dogs or hunters should be viewed with suspicion. While laboratory examination is the only certain test for tularemia, many small white spots on the liver are an easier index. Not all spots on the liver indicate tularemia, for most rabbits have u few large white spots on the liver from common, harmless parasites which do not affect their value as food.

Care should be taken in cleaning game, Mr. Whitlock says, and no meat should be eaten unless thoroughly cooked. Grouse and other game animals, as well as rabbits, may have the disease.

HUNTERS SET STRAITS ONE-DAY CAR RECORD

Pre-Season Rush to Upper Peninsula Heaviest This Year

Michigan's upper peninsula has gained in popularity with deer hunter's according to tabulations of state ferry traffic at the Straits of Mackinac by the state highway department.

State Highway Commissioner Murray D. VanWagoner revealed this week that traffic on the state boats during the four days previous to the opening of the deer season was 10 per cent higher this year than a year ago. A new one day record for traffic across the straits during the deer season rush was also established this year.

Reports by the department show that 7,832 vehicles were transported by the state boats during the period from November 11 to November 14 inclusive. During the same period of 1938 the boats transported a total of 7,106 vehicles. The new one day hunting season record was set on Sunday, November 12, when 2,883 vehicles were transported. SHOT AT RANDOM

By Ken Usher

Well, the deer hunting season is a week old today and this column wouldn't hold all the yarns I've heard to date. Think the best one, though, concerns Jess Gregory. Jess wounded a nice buck near Dog lake just nfter daylight the first morning. Before the buck dropped three other fellows got lead into him. At the suggestion of an old-timer the four participants in the shooting drew cuts and Jess won the buck. While not conforming exactly to the old custom of the woods — first blood proving ownership—it was a sensible solution. And here's an opposite! A young lad mortally wounded a buck that after being shot rolled down a steep hill. When the youth reached his trophy another fellow had his tag on it. Unfortunately the woods are too full of such skunks.

"Candy" Nowland tells a rather "tall" one about the young fellow who got an unexpected ride on the back of a buck he had downed and straddled to fasten the tag on its horns. As the story goes, the buck got up and started down through the timber with the hunter on his back. The fellow lost his hat, gloves and gun and hadn't found the rifle when Nowland came home Friday.

Beaver Island produced the finest trophies brought back here. Sixteen hunters had been successful up to Tuesday, according to reports, and several of the deer weighed well over 200 pounds. It was also interesting to note some of the bucks killed were the original stock planted on the Island as shown by the notches in their ears. As far as known, the Increase of Michigan liquor sales for 1939, as compared with 1938, has far excerded the rise in farm and industrial purchasing power.

According to latest stattstics, Michigan's huying income has soared $306,000,000 since January 1, 1939, due chiefly to the revived automobile industry and the resultant demand for parts and accessories much of which are made in this state. In fact, Michigan leads the U. S. A. in point of new buying power. New York is next with $245,900,000, while Ohio is third with $236,000,000.

Putting this into percentages, Michigan workers have 11.4 per cent more payroll dollars to spend than they had a year ago.

Yet they have been spending (January through September) 18.6 per cent more money for alcoholic beverages. Translate all this into dol-

DISTRICT HEALTH UNIT

Good Electric Lamps for Home Use

Light can be bright and still not be really good light. First, a lamp should not let light shine into your eyes straight from the bulb. Light that shines into your eyes hurts them and keeps you from seeing well. Your lamp should have a shade that comes down far enough to hide the bulb. You should not be able to see the bulb as you read.

The inside of the shade should be smooth and white or a light color. The shade should have a wide opening at the bottom so that it will let plenty of light shine downward on your book and desk. It should have an opening at the top, too. This allows part of the light to shine upward to the ceiling. The ceiling reflects the light into the room. It is best to have a fairly good light in the rest of the room as well as enough light on your book.

Little muscles fit your eyes to different amounts of light. You know how the pupils of your eyes grow large in a dim light and smaller in a bright light. If you have a bright light on your book and little light in the rest of the room, you make it hard for these little muscles.

When you read or study with poor lighting, you have to lean over the table evening after evening, and it is hard to straighten up. When you have a good light it is easy to sit up straight.

Still more important, good light helps you to keep good eyes. All your life you will need to use your eyes and it is important that you take good care of them. When you read by a poor light, your eyes have to work hard. They soon become tired. They are strained just as any other part of your body is strained when it is overworked. If they are strained too often for too long a time they may be weakened so that they never become strong again.

When buying lamps, chose good lamps from the standpoint of reading.

The annual Christmas Bazaar and cafeteria supper will be given by the Methodist Ladies Literary and Sewing Club at the Methodist church, Wednesday, Dec. 13.—Adv. 47t2.

Where Will Hitler Meet His Fate?

Charlemagne, Peter the Great, Napoleon and Wilhelm II all tried to conquer Europe yet none of them met any lasting success. Is Hitler doomed to the same fate? News commentator Albert Carr offers an answer in a two-page colored map which traces the various European quests for empire. From this map you see a startling parallel between all of these patterns which aggressor nations have unconsciously followed. Old License Unearthed

Vicksburg — Just about the time 1940 license plates went on sale sewer excavators here unearthed a plate dated 1914. Of highly lustrous enamel finish and made of extra heavy steel, the plate bore red numerals on a white background, with the state seal stenciled in black in the upper left-hand corner.

Old Saying is Proved

Dexter—That saying about "two birds with one stone" has been proved by John McLeod, Jr. While hunting, his companion wounded a pheasant, but they were unable to find it. Going through the same area later, they flushed the disabled bird and McLeod shot at it. When he picked it up, he found beside it another, killed by the same shot.

Takes Pills for Candy

Elkton—A three-year-old lad here was placed in a hospital in serious conditinn after swallowing pills containing strychnine in the home of his parents. The child thought the pills were candy.

Twin Apple Displayed

Brighton—With all sorts of animal twins, triplets, and quadruplets being reported these days, a freak fruit of this nature might be expected. On display in the local newspaper office is a twin apple, one apple grown as two.

"Ghost" Scares Women

Ionia — Two women, unloading household rubbish at a local dump, were frightened when they lifted the lid on a small casket lying among the waste and found what seemed to be the body of a 10-year-old child under a gauze covering. The caretaker explained that the "body" was a discarded mannikin, and the outfit was formerly used by a fraternal organization in its ritual.

Bird Almost Got Cooked

West Branch—A quail that visited here recently can thank George Sarrows, restaurant owner, for its life. The bird flew in the door as some people entered, and was finally caught by Sarrow. The chef wanted to cook it and serve it on toast right away, but, said Sarrows, as he released the quail, "No, I haven't the heart to do that."

Gets Good Results

Bangor — Working alone, Abel Workman, McDonald farmer, has harvested 1,375 bushels of crab apples, 20 bushels of pears, 40 bushels of plums, and $53 worth of cherries. All of this fruit has been grown on the same five-acre plot of ground on Workman's farm. He has done all orchard care, picking, packing, and hauling to market.

Cat is Good Pointer

Mt. Pleasant—Hugh Johnson was hunting alone when, as he crossed a field, a cat leaped ahead of him and pointed a bird for the hunter's first kill. "That cat made a perfect point," Johnson said.

NYA GIRLS' TRAINING SCHOOL OPENS

The training program includes a general course in home management for all the girls. This will include foods, sewing, home furnishing, and child care. In addition there will be courses in resort and hotel work, presided over by an experienced instructor; will include preparation for chamber maids, hostesses, housekeepers, and cooks. Home assistants, cooks, and mothers' helpers will also be trained. Work in child care will be given to prepare girls for nurse maid service.

Provisions are being made for a well balanced recreation program. Art and craft work will be given in addition to the other activities.

Staff members include Mrs. L. Pearl Meads, NYA district director; Mrs. Lela Hallett, resident director; and instructors from the WPA whose names will be announced later. Paralleling the training opportunities, provision will be made for the personal development of the girls so that they may grow in their ability to make adjustments in living into fine and more desirable positions in private employment, according to Mrs. Meads.

Plans for a dedication program are under way but have not yet been completed.

lars (1938 liquor sales totaled over 37 millions) and you have a pretty sum of close to seven millions.

Dead Man's Chest

In Robert Louis Stevenson's "Treasure Island" the lusty cry of peg-leg John Silvers was "15 men on a dead man's chest" with a "yo, ho, bo and a bottle of rum."

Michigan's version concerning the resurrected John Barleycorn calls for three men as members of the state liquor commission and 108 million gallons of distilled spirits, wines and beer in 1938 instead of one bottle.

The state liquor control commission has a responsibility which even Gabriel would shun. It is given the task of controlling the liquor business — preventing abuse, greed and unfair trade practices — safeguarding youth from evils of alcohol-promoting temperance — and so forth. It's a big assignment.

To regulate the profit motive, the state "freezes" prices and turns over to the state general fund a substantial slice of revenue. During 1938, for example, liquor sale netted the state treasury $8,806,810.93, while the sale of stamps, licenses and other tax items brought in $5,084,357.35. (The state welfare appropriation for the present fiscal year was $8,750,000.)

What To Do?

In handling a subject as controversial as liquor, obviously the state commission must strike a "happy medium" much of the time—the middle path between two possible extremes of public opinion.

Hence answers to the following are not easy to arrive at:

First, should the number of liquor outlets be reduced? Through several state administrations since repeal of the 18th amendment, the number of selling places has been gradually increased until today there are 16,202 different spots in Michigan where an adult can purchase a drink. This number is exclusive of the 100 state liquor stores.

In the opinion of many observers, this number is excessively high. Too many liquor dealers invite winking at the law because of intense competition and resultant lessened net profit per outlet. On the other hand, to reduce the number below reasonable needs would only invite the return of the "blind pig" of prohibition days.

Second, when should such places be required to close? The present closing hour is 2 a. m. but there has been some agitation for a midnight limit. This matter is complicated in some places by night work shifts in mass production industry. There is also the "blind pig" alternative.

Third, how can sale of liquor to minors be prevented? The state law forbids sale or serving of drinks to minors 18 years old or under. How is the bartender to know the youth's age? Should the state issue license cards to drinkers? (The tax implication of this one evoked a cloakroom tempest at the 1939 legislative session.)

Politics Again

Fourth, how can politics (or favoritism) be eliminated from the state's handling of liquor goods?

Remember, the state is the employer of 730 persons who handle and sell liquor and otherwise participate in administration and enforcement of the state act and the commission's regulations. How can favoritism be removed from selection of liquor goods by the state for sale in Michigan? (Here is a potential source of major corruption. Even the "gifts" of liquor goods to politically favored individuals at the 1937 Lansing Christmas season caused a mild scandal and a public rebuke from Frank Murphy, then governor.)

It has been said many times that national prohibition was largely the result of an indifferent and selfish liquor industry. Distillers and brewers in their rush for profits condoned or overlooked abuses which finally outraged sensibilities of American voters everywhere. (Contrast to this the voluntary policing of movies by the motion picture industry through Will Hayes; control of baseball by the major leagues through Keneshaw Mountain Landis.)

Hence advocates of state liquor control maintain that "reasonable safeguards against liquor abuses are actually for the best interests of the liquor business itself. Control thus supercedes revenue as the state's primary objective. It is social rather than economic in purpose.

Because of the importance of the above pending problems, considerable importance is being placed by Lansing observers on the appointment to be made by Governor Luren D. Dickinson within the next few weeks. The term of V. F. Gormley, Newberry, expires on December 15th. The appointee must be a Democrat.

Quite a few of our young men have left for the northern part of the state on a hunting trip and vacation.

Some very beautiful weather we might enjoy the pust week. Sunshine every day and farmers took advantage of it by harvesting their erops that were left.

Low hanging gray clouds, clearing away at sunset, to show the thin yellow of the sky as the sun sets farther and farther to the south each day—bare woods, bare trees—blackened, frost-bitten plants hanging forlornly in the garden, and leaves sodden underfoot with the dismal rain. This all in November, but also farm buildings all ready for winter, with barns full of hay and stacks clustering around it and the wood in neat piles. The cellar bins full of vegetables, and the shelves full of the result of your summer's labor. We surely have reasons for a Thanksgiving day.

Last winter while in Virginia, she fell, breaking her leg, and had but recently recovered from that when she suffered a stroke of paralysis a week ago last Wednesday. Chas. Neal, who has been helping Peter Swanson west of town, will go to Ann Arbor some time this week to bring his wife up for Thanksgiving.

Mr. Miles of Bellaire, whose funeral will be held this week Wednesday afternoon, passed away last week. He had been ill for quite a long time. His daughter, Ruth Miles, is a member of the F. M. church here.

Lyle Morse and wife have returned home again. Mrs. Morse visited awhile in Bellaire with her sister, Martha, while Mr. Morse made a business visit to Grand Rapids.

Zibe DeForest has been building an addition to his cottage near Torch lake shore, and getting up wood for his winter's use. He is 83 years of age.

We want to congratulate the Progress on the timely article last week in regard to the candidacy of Vernon Brown for our next governor. Guy and Clifford Morse, Burr Sage and Guy White, have been hunting near their lodge east of Atlanta. Hiler Whitney and Geo. Slocum, about 90 years of age, have also been hunting near there. Several local nimrods went out and got their deer the first day. The Torch will have to be consulted for this, as it is too long a list for ye correspondent. The deer are pretty lucky this year, as there has been no snow here. I would rather see the deer running about than to hunt them. Several have made their feeding grounds around here and near the Bay.

Well, that was a big joke! The president got the states all roiled up about Thanksgiving Day, then is going down to Warm Springs and celebrate the real Thanksgiving Day himself. Wrong way Corrigan hasn't got much the start of him.

Have a nice letter this week from Social Service, Ann Arbor, telling us they accept our offer to teach the cripple children on the ninth floor of the hospital. They have a school each forenoon there for those unable to move around, that we taught for a time when convalescing from our throat operation three years ago. They appreciate such help, and also any old school papers that teachers or others have for them to read and get "busy work" from. It is a much needed help, also, if pastors or church or Sunday school workers of the city of Ann Arbor or elsewhere would come to visit the sick, giving them nice things to eat or just paying them a friendly visit.

Findings from the chest x-ray clinic held on October 24 at Boyne City for Health District No. 3 revealed two tuberculosis suspects and ten childhood type cases.

Forty-five x-rays were taken at this clinic which was sponsored by the Michigan Tuberculosis Association and arranged through Dr. C. Dean, health director for the district. Two childhood types and two tuberculosis suspects were located among the 20 Charlevoix persons x-rayed.

Another x-ray clinic will be held for this district in the spring. Anyone desiring a check-up at that time is requested to make arrangements through his family doctor or local health authorities. The association's clinical work is made possible thru the annual sale of Christmas Seals.

first were placed on the island 14 years ago nnd some 7 years ago. The gray, toothless old buck I saw taken off the boat Monday afternoon must have been one of the original herd.

Three buck were killed in Norwood township. Bert Warner, Albert Thorpe and Archie Brown were the lucky ones. Mrs. Clenn Pemberton was the first local woman to down her trophy. She killed her buck near Dog lake where Jess Gregory, Clarence Murray and Orville Hilton filled their licenses. Bringing home bucks the first day were Harold Richmond, from near Springvale; Earl Waffle at Cecil Bay; Glenn Maxon, over east; Harold Tousley, on the Jordan river. Successful hunters near Hardwood lake, east of Vanderbilt, included Harold Pearl, Earl Smith, Fred Looze and Charles Bergman. Ray Ashdon and "Mike" Hilton bagged theirs on Beaver Island, Ralph Nutter brought home one from Manton, Fitch Tooley filled his license on the Dawson river north of Newberry, and Mr. and Mrs. Herb Wilson, near Ralph in the upper peninsula. There probably are lots of other successful local hunters, but these are all I've heard of up to the present time. Haven't got my own yet, either.

If you don't believe the Courier classified ads bring results, just turn to the classified column and see what "Bill" Fessenden has to say about it!

With the exception, perhaps, of the deer hunters, nobody has complained about the week of wonderful November weather we've had.

I certainly slipped up badly last week in announcing the number of deer hunting licenses sold by local agencies. The 150 sold up to Tuesday morning jumped to over 200 before night and today's total stands at 232, which is an all-time record for Charlevoix. Last year's license sale hit the 200-mark in Charlevoix for the first time and this year is eclipsed by 32. Who said deer hunting wasn't a popular sport?

The recent formation of the Charlevoix Merchants' & Business Association holds wonderful possibilities. That there has been lack of unity among local retail merchants in the past cannot be denied, so if the organization does nothing else but create a better understanding, a great deal has been accomplished.

The annual Christmas Bazaar and cafeteria supper will be given by the Methodist Ladies Literary and Sewing Club at the Methodist church, Wednesday, Dec. 13.—Adv. 47t2.

Awarded 4-H Electrification Medal

Andrew Cermaine of Boyne Falls has been named to receive the gold medal awarded county winners in the national 4-H rural electrification program conducted for the fourth season by the extension service. The presentation will be made by B. C. Mellencamp, county agricultural agent. The medal is one-half by three-fourths inches, worn with a clasp and bears a design of a high line and 4-H clover. It is one of several rewards provided in the program supported by Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Co. for the fourth year to aid in disseminating knowledge on the availability and uses of electricity in rural areas.

Carl Miskotten of Hamilton was named state winner and awarded a trip to the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago, December 1-9, where five college scholarships of $200 each will be awarded to a selected group. Twenty-seven counties participated in the state.

Breeding Rules Milk Fat Level

Cows may not be the "ornery" critters portrayed by the man who picks up the overturned milk pail, yet they do continue to hold the secret of how and why they put definite butterfat percentages in their individual milk outputs.

Research at Michigan State College has failed, as in other states, to find feeds that can increase systematically and efficiently the fat percentage, admits C. F. Huffman, associate professor of dairy husbandry.

The surest way to improve the fat test is by selection aad breeding, he says, suggesting the use of a sire with proven ability to transmit high fat tests and also the feeding of an ndequate ration so that the cow calves in good physical condition.

At Michigan State College the staff tried adding soybean oil to a ration very low in fat. This resulted in one series of tests in a marked increase in milk fat but this lasted but a short time.

"As a matter of faet," says Dr. Huffman, "it is easy to lower the per cent of fnt in milk. When cows are fed a few ounces of cod liver oil the test goes into a nose dive."

AT THE MOVIES

"Dancing Co-Ed" Offers Field Day For Jitterbugs

The modern trend in all its swinging glory will reach a cinematic climax at the Palace Theatre when Artie Shaw makes his cinematic debut with Lana Turner and Richard Carlson in "Dancing Co-Ed." The new picture opens November 25th for a three-day showing.

Two hundred jitterbugs, personally selected by Shaw, act as an animated background for Miss Turner in a dance-infested story of college life as it might be when a Hollywood press agent sends a vaudeville hoofer to a university with the sole purpose of winning a dance contest and grabbing a lot of publicity for a picture. When the dancer upsets the applecart by falling in love with a college editor nnd casts her vote for higher education, the result is said to be hilarious.

In the cast are Ann Rutherford, Lee Bowmna, Thurston Hall, Leon Errol, Roscoe Karns, Mary Field, Walter Kingsford, Mary Beth Hughes, June Preisser and Monty Woolley.

Ingrid Bergman, the beautiful young continental actress, is introduced to Ameriean audiences for the first time in the new David O. Selznick production, "Intermezzo, a Love Story," in which she is co-starred with Leslie Howard and Edna Best. This new picture, a dramatic love story set in modern-day Europe, is scheduled for its premiere showing at the Palace Theatre on November 28-29 through United Artists release.

Miss Bergman, a beauteous blonde with well chiseled features, plays the role of the other woman in "Intermezzo, a Love Story."

WINTER TAX RATE LOWER THIS YEAR

FRACTION OF A MILL DECREASE IS ANNOUNCED

Tax Becomes Payable Friday, December 1, at Office of City Treasurer Fred V. Tyler

Winter taxes, which become payable Friday, December 1, at the office of City Treasurer Fred V. Tyler, will be slightly lower than last year, according to figures just released.

The rate spread will be $18.40 per thousand dollars valuation, compared with $18.64 last year. The 1937 tax was $19.35.

Spread against the city valuation, the winter tax charged to Charlevoix property owners will appear, per thousand dollars valuation, as follows:

County	$10.50
Schools	4.40
School Debt	3.50
	$18.40

The 1938 figures were:

County	$10.64
Schools	4.00
School Debt	4.00
	$18.64

Two divisions of tax money were decreased this year. The amount for county purposes dropped 14c per thousand and for school debt a decrease of 50c. The amount for school purposes increased from $4 to $4.40.

Winter taxes go for county and school purposes entirely. The county realizes funds for general operation expenses and welfare needs. The schools receive a portion for general operating expenses and a debt service which, in Charlevoix's case, goes for retirement of bonded indebtedness.

Taxes are payable without four per cent penalty for collection until January 9th, unless the penalty deadline is not later extended by the city council.

LAND OWNERS HAVE ONE WEEK TO REGAIN TITLE

December 3 Deadline on Application for Auction of Property

Less than a week remains in which former property owners may act to regain titles to tax delinquent lands forfeited to the state November 3. Applications for auctioning of such tax reverted lands must be filed with the lands division of the Michigan department of conservation, in Lansing, and postmarked not later than December 3.

Only property owners of record at the time of the May, 1938 tax sale of delinquent holdings are eligible to ask that forfeited lands be put up at auction. Anyone may bid during the auctioning of such lands. The former owner has 30 days in which to match the successful bid, if another bids higher, but no bid of less than 25 per cent of the 1939 assessed valuation will be accepted.

Former owners may recover full and complete title to tax-forfeited lands, paying as little as 20 per cent cash, the remainder over a period of 10 years with interest at six per cent on unpaid balances.

CHATTEL MORTGAGES WILL BE TAXED IN '40

Register of Deeds Frank F. Bird Announces Adherance to New Law

Frank F. Bird, register of deeds, today called uttention to the ruling by Melville B. McPherson, chairman state tax commission, that chattel mortgages will be taxable in 1940 under the new intangible tax law.

On this account, Mr. Bird stated that all chattels now on file with the various registers of deeds of Michigan which have been satisfied, should be discharged by the mortgagees, as the registers' chattel mortgage files will be the basis of investigation for payment of the intaogible tax on chattels.

Mr. Bird said, "Millions of dollars worth of personal properties are covered by these obsolete chattel mortgages which still remain on file with the registers of deeds of Michigan, and which appear in our files as "live" chattels, on which the intangible tax will have to be computed. It would be much cheaper and easier for the mortgagees to pay the small fee prescribed by statute of discharge these chattels, than to have to include them in the intnngible tax report which will huve to be made prior to March 1, 1941."

FREE XMAS TREES DON'T EXIST IN THIS STATE

Person Must Obtain Permit of Property Owner to Cut Trees

Free Christmaa trees do not grow in Michigan.

The cruising motorist who spies one he thinks would look well in his living room in season, and the trucker who wants to make some quick and easy money, alike are warned that removal of Christmas trees without the written consent of the owner of the land is theft, for which the penalty is $25 to $500 fine and up to three months imprisonment.

Any vehicle bearing a Christmas tree may he stopped by a conservation officer, an officer of the department of agriculture or a regular officer of the law, and inspection of the bill of sale or written consent of the owner demanded. Permission is quite as necessary in getting a tree growing on state-owned land as for one on private land. No Christmas trees are cut in state forests.

The law protecting Christmas trees is broad in its application and covers all wild trees or shrubs, including the well liked spruce und balsam.

POSTOFFICE GETS READY FOR XMAS

PREPARING FOR BIG RUSH OF YULETIDE MAIL

All City and Rural Deliveries Will Be Suspended Xmas Day—Only Special Mail Handled

Organization for the Christmas mailing season is under way at the local post office following the receipt here of definite instructions from Postmaster General James A. Farley as to Christmas Doy service und special preparations for handling the heavy volume of holiday mail.

It is the desire of the post office department, the message from Farley stated, that all postal employes have an opportunity to spend Christmas day with their families and therefore has specified that arrangements be made to complete the delivery of all mail by Saturday night.

Exceptions to this ruling, however, will be made in the case of packages bearing the inscription "gift package", and also on special delivery mail, perishables ond daily newspapers. The postal force to handle this service, however, will be selected from those who voluntarily offer to work on Christmas day, both among the regular employes and eligible substitutes.

On Christmas day all city and rural mail delivery as well as post office window and general delivery service will be suspended. Star routes will operate as scheduled aod the usual collection and dispatch of mail will be handled on the holiday basis.

Regular employes who volunteer for work on Christmas day will be given the privilege of receiving either overtime pay or compensatory time for the service rendered.

The instructions urge postal officials to continue their campaign for early Christmas mailing to avoid the necessity of maintaining a large force on Christmas day to deliver gift parcels and thereby preventing them from being at home with their families on the holiday. Large business concerns und organizations will be requested not to use the mails for sending catalogues, calendars and similar matter from the period between December 10 and January 1, thereby relieving some of the holiday congestion.

SHOT AT RANDOM

By Ken Ushor

If you don't believe there's u Santa Claus, just ask Ed. Heise. Ed. connected with a buck for the first time in quite some years. I always said persistency will win out in the end, and who's better qualified to say so?

Unintentionally left Harry Gregory out of the list of successful buck hunters last week. Harry bugged a 180-pounder the first morning up near the Porcupine Mountains. Harry hunted with Sheriff Ikens and if it had been the Sheriff that done the dirty work, I might huve left him out on purpose just for the fun of it. And you know there's a story circulating around about Ralph Nutter tying one up, or something like that, although I've been unable so far to get to the bottom of it.

A letter from H. H. Raby of Norvell, father of Mrs. Don Clothier, says the last time he heard from Don and the Missua they were at Palm Beach, Fla., and were drifting slowly down to Miami.

Mayor Bob Bridge was back at his desk at Monday night's council meeting looking fitter than ever following his recent operation in Ann Arbor. The three deer hunting aldermen were also back on the job and the boys were at it until the wee hours of the morning in order to make up for lost time. What a life! From the pleasures of a deer camp to the humdrum of every day routine!

It won't be the first time old Santa Claus has come to town when he arrives here Friday evening, Decem-

Editor's Note: This is the first of a series of articles on Michigan's new milk price-fixing act.

A peek into the Michigan milk picture is like Alice's first visit to Wonderland.

You run into some unexpected things.

First, is a somewhat paradoxical situation whereby Detroit drivers of milk trucks receive as much out of the consumer's bill for home delivered milk as do the farmer-producers themselves.

Considering the point that labor has no investment at stake for the distributor furnishes the motor equipment and pays for its operation and maintenance, it would appear at first thought that labor was better off than the farmer who must invest and risk money in cows, land, build-

SPORTSMEN REQUESTED TO RETURN GAME CARDS

License Stubs on Hunting Results Are Due February 15th

Receipt of 1,148 game tally cards, a mere trickle compared with the flood of them to come later, has prompted the game division of the department of conservation to remind hunters to turn in their license stubs.

Stubs received to date include 232 from non-resident hunters and 916 from residents. Fifty-eight bow and arrow hunters have turned in their stubs though only one of the four or more successful Robin Hoods has reported to date. Only three of the first 74 resident deer hunters to return their license tallies failed to get their bucks.

All license stubs are due February 15, but hunters who are putting their guns away for the year now are urged to return their game tallies as soon as possible. Plans for improvement of hunting are determined in part by these reports of the relative success of hunters in different areas.

Nearly a perfect day for Thanksgiving services Sunday.

Prayer meeting will be held again Friday at the Nuckles home, and Friday evening will be the beginning of special services at the Pentacostal church.

Two fine pictures were won by Mrs. Underwood at Bellaire Holiness revival last week, and have been framed and placed on the front wall of the church.

Rev. G. A. Weaver, missionary from Petoskey, visited the neighborhood here and at Creswell last week in regard to his Christmas gifts this year.

Our Sunday schools are preparing Christmas programs which will be given on Sunday, either the 17th or 24th. The exact date will be announced next week.

He has 120 quarts of fruit this fall, harvested 60 bushels of potatoes, and about the same of corn, and built an addition to his cottage. Pretty good for a man of 83 years of age.

Betty Griebe, Marvetta and Marie Hubbell are out of quarantine for measles, but they have missed about two weeks of school, and oh, that algebra. Then, too, when people come for the real Thanksgiving dinner, they must go to school. They don't like the "Franksgiving" business at all.

The new county road building at Central Lake is progressing finely, and the foundation is well along toward completion. It is being built about a half mile south of town on part of what was the Sisley farm. This will be a fine building when completed, and quite a help to the town.

Farmers have had exceedingly fine weather for harvesting beet and carrot crops the past week, and have done considerable fall plowing. The hum of the tractors has been heard the past week. Central Lake people were listening in for the singing of Walter Shooks of this place, on the radio from WLW, Cincinnati, but didn't hear anything of it at 6:30 p. m. Friday evening. TAFFIED APPLES TICKLE APPETITES

Taffy apples delight children, carry approval as a wholesome sweet, prove easy to make, and help consume Michigan's large 1939 harvest.

So home economists ut Michigan State College huve dug out this simple recipe.

One needs one cup of sugar, two-thirds of a cup of water, one-third cup of white corn syrup, six medium sized red apples, 12 cinnamon drops and six wooden meat skewers. Being on good terms with the butcher will pave the way for getting the skewers.

Next the sugar, syrup and wuter is mixed and cooked, stirring until the sugar is dissolved. In goes the cinnamon candy for flavoring and color and the cooking continues until samples dropped in cold water will form a hard piece that cracks easily.

Now place the pan containing the taffy mixture in a pan of boiling water to keep the syrup from thickening. Dip each apple quickly und whirl it on the skewer until the apple is covered smoothly. A wire cake rack makes a good resting place while the apples are cooling, the skewers can be stuck into the rack to that the apples do not touch anything until they lose their stickiness.

Another boost in anti-knock characteristics is featured in the copy along with promise of quick starts, fast warm-up, plenty of power and low cost per mile.

The gasoline advertised is Standard Red Crown, the company's regular-priced brand, as distinct from the premium brand Solite and low-priced Stanolind.

Announcement of the special gasoline was timed to coincide with arrival of colder weather in this territory. The gasoline is reported to be suited for extreme winter weather driving conditions.

MICHIGAN LEADER AS FISHING STATE

Tops All Others of Country in Issuance of Licenses

Michigan continues to maintain its supremacy as the leading sport fishing state in the nation.

Figures just released in Washington, D. C. by the bureau of fisheries of the department of interior rank Michigan first in number of fishing licenses issued during the last calendar year, with Ohio second and New York third.

Of Michigan's 855,037 licenses, 189,304 were issued to non-residents attracted to the peninsula state by a variety of fishing that uffers perch and bluegills fnr the beginners, bass and brook trout for the fly fishermen, muskellunge and lake trout for those who like them big and heavy, and other food and game fish found in conveniently-reached lakes and streams everywhere in the state. Of the licenses issued to Michigan residents, 110,719 were for the privilege of fishing for brnok trout in addition to other species.

Counting wives of resident fishermen and young persons under 17 who need no license, the number fishing in Michigan annually is estimated at more than a million by the fish division of the department of conservation.

HARRY F. KELLY BOYNE SPEAKER

Mr. Kelly is a forceful speaker and is very well qualified to speak on the subject of "Americanism" inasmuch as he is a former member of the American expeditionary forces who made quite a name for himself in France. He fought in the battles of Belleau Wood and Chateau Thierry, and was wounded and suffered the loss of a leg in the battle of Chateau Thierry, and was hospitalized in France for four months. He received the Distingulshed Service Medal and the Croix de Guerre. He was known among his fellow officers as "Two-fisted Kelly."

Mr. Kelly is an able statesman and one of the outstanding attorneys of the state. He has expressed a desire to become acquainted with the people in Charlevoix county. There will be no admission charge to this meeting. An interesting program has been arranged.

Mr. Kelly's presence was made available for this meeting due to the fact that he will be in the northern part of the state this week making official visits to his branch offices.

The office girl reports seeing, on Bridge street Tuesday evening, a trailer comfortably parked in front of the Board of Commerce office, with smoke oozing cozily from its stove-pipe chimney. It was hitched to a sedan which bore a Michigan '39 license, letter "W", and the front fender was beautifully decorated with a great big buck. The Indians no doubt found this lakeshore spot an ideal campsite years ago, and evidently the paleface thinks it a good idea, too.

SPAWN GATHERING PRODUCES GOOD RESULTS

Eggs Taken by Charlevoix Commercial Fishermen in Hatcheries

Largest quantity of lake trout eggs in several seasons, an estimated 15,000,000, taken by Charlevoix commercial fishermen, is being distributed among several state hatcheries by employes of the fish division of the department of conservation.

Thompson hatchery near Manistique on Lake Michigan is receiving the largest quantity of eggs, about 8,000,000. When the work of transferring the eggs to hatcheries is completed it is expected all available facilities will be utilized to capacity.

Favorable weather conditions have facilitated the lifting of nets and the collection of eggs. About 90 per cent of eggs which are hatched will be planted as advanced fry in early spring, when possible on the spawning grounds where taken.

BOUNTIES ON PREDATORS SHOW DECREASE

State Pays Smaller Amount to Trappers During Current Year

Bounties paid by the state on coyotes and wolves taken during the first four months of the present fiscal year total $6,235 less than for the same period in 1938, July through October, the department of conservation reports.

Control of these predators during the last four months has cost $15,635 as compared with $21,870 for a comparable period last year. October payments totaled $6,300, considerably less than the bounty payments of $10,565 for October of last year.

Contracts with trappers, which assure that wolves and coyotes will be taken by approved methods, now number 715 as compared with 1,038 issued for the first four months of the last fiscal year.

DISTRICT HEALTH UNIT

Concerning Pneumonia

A review of the symptoms, causes and treatment of pneumonia is suggested by the high incidence to the disease to be expected during the winter season.

Pneumonia is caused by the pneumococcus and streptococcus organisms which are transmitted from person to person through coughing, sneezing or by means of droplets propelled by the carrier in the course of talking. These organisms invade and inflame the lung tissue.

While some individuals seem more susceptible than others, it seems probable that lowered general resistance paves the way for an attack. Resistance can be lowred materially by reason of influenza, measles, whooping cough, grippe, colds, undernutrition, chronic wasting disease, over-work or over-fatigue, exposure and chilling, alcoholism, accidents and recent operations.

Prevention may be practiced to a degree, even though no vaccine is yet available. Good food, adequate sleep, moderate exercise and warm clothing are requisite. Prompt treatment and bed rest should be employed to cure colds and upper respiratory infections quickly and completely. Pneumonia patients should be avoided as far as possible. The hands should be washed thoroughly and often, especially after visiting a sick room, and should be kept from the face. Large gatherings of persons contribute to the spread of influenza and other seasonal infections and should be avoided.

When the cold sufferer exhibits a sharp rise in fever, a shaking chill, pain in the lungs, cough, breathing difficulty or blood-tinged sputum, it is high time to call a physician as pneumonia has made its appearance. Delay and home doctoring will result, when not fatally, in complications such as empyema, necessitating a chest operation, and in long hospitalization and convalescence.

When the malady has been diagnosed as pneumonia, the sputum is immediately typed and the physician administers the suitable serum. State laboratories supply serum for nearly all cases of pneumonia without charge. Many communities afford the services of a public health nurse when the family cannot engage a private nurse.

Time to Mulch Strawberry Bed

Whether it's just a small home garden planting or a large commercial acreage, it's time for strawberry growers in Charlevoix county to put on a suitable winter mulch.

Materials suggested by Professor R. E. Loree of the horticulture department at Michigan State College include marsh hay if it can be obtained at low cost, or straw from wheat, oats or rye if they are free from weed seeds or grain.

Mulching reduces winter damage, insures cleaner and brighter berries and helps reduce loss of soil moisture.

Effectiveness of the mulch depends on the time and manner of application, says Professor Loree. Application should be soon after the soil begins to freeze in the fall—in Michigan in late November or early December.

How thick a mulch? There should be two to three inches when settled, to provide ample winter protection. Depending on the material, this takes from two to three tons of straw for an acre.

If the mulch is comparatively heavy it will be necessary to open it over the rows next spring when the plants try to grow through. Otherwise the mulch need not be disturbed until after the harvesting season. This one question is one frequently submitted to the small fruits specialist at the college in meetings and thru correspondence.

Some delay in spring can retard blossoming and help escape damage from late spring frosts, but this must be timed well, otherwise plants will smother. Any of the periodic examinations in spring showing indications of bleaching of the plants means the mulch should be opened regardless of the calendar.

AT THE MOVIES

"Rulers of the Sea" Vigorous, Salty Tale of Steam and Sail

A vigorous, compelling motion picture, one with the zest of the open sea in it, one with characters whose actions are motivated by a desire to conquer the Atlantic in a steam-driven ship, scuds across the screen of the Palace Theatre December 2, 3 and 4. As might be expected from the unusual plot conception, and from the handling of it, the picture —Paramount's "Rulers of the Sea" —was produced and directed by the man who has become famous for unusual and great pictures — Frank Lloyd.

His characters are definitely in keeping with the spirit and with the period in which the picture is set—the third decade of the nineteenth century. Douglas Fairbanks Jr., is cast as a young mariner with the rank of first mate. Margaret Lockwood, with tenderness and with firmness, portrays the daughter of an inventor who believes that his steam engine can drive a ship across the Atlantic. Rounding out the starring trio is Will Fyffe, that rough-voiced, slyly humorous Scottish comedian, who is at his very best as the inventor, a man with a dream, and a sense of humor withal. George Bancroft, as the hard-driving master of a sailing ship, Montagu Love, as the owner of a ship foundry, and Vaughan Glaser, as a shipper who believes in the future of steam, head the supporting cast, each hitting just the note in which the character he portrays was conceived.

Exciting

"News Is Made at Night" is the thrilling new crime mystery which opens December 7 at the Palace Theatre. Preston Foster as a crusading editor and Lynn Bari as a brilliant girl reporter head the cast which also features Russell Gleason, George Barbier, Eddie Collins and Minor Watson. Alfred Werker directed the film, a 20th Century-Fox release.

(Too late for last week)

The meeting was opened by the president, Carlton Smith. The secretary's report was read and approved. The group was divided into three sections, a group of all boys, a group of all girls, and a group of boys and girls. These groups decided on what new committees the Junior Farm Bureau should have the coming year. We decided that the new financial, membership and program committee chairmen should be appointed by the executive committee and that these chairmen should choose their own members.

Delegates chosen to go to Chicago for the National Youth Convention were Clifford Struthers, Ronald Lyons, Delmer Lyons, Merle Blanchard, and Ed. Vratinina and Freda Willis as voting delegates.

ing, equipment and who must dig into the purse for taxes and transportation and so on.

But don't rush to any conclusion. You'll quickly find yourself in a daze; milk economics are not simple as the ABC's.

Murphy's Speech

The state's present venture into milk price-fixing had its beginning, so it is confided, in a speech-making jaunt of Governor Frank Murphy to Ubly. The year was 1937, the campaign was on, and the occasion was the dedication of a federally-financed electrical co-op.

Thumb farmers listened to Murphy's oratory with stolid indifference. But when the governor chanced to utter a pledge to provide relief to the dairy industry, the crowd cheered.

The result? A milk study commission. Republicans, not to be outdone, promptly pledged assistance.

The Walsh-Patterson bill, creating a milk marketing board with authority to fix producer and retail prices for market areas was then passed by the 1939 legislature.

Setting the Pace

Because the Detroit milk market directly affected farmers in 20 counties and indirectly affected those as far away as near Grand Rapids, Flint, and Lansing, the metropolitan center has set the pace for Michigan's milk industry.

Last May the price of milk in Detroit was 10 cents n qunrt. Farmer-producers were paid $1.90 per hundredweight for fluid Grade A milk, delivered in Chicago.

The state board held public hearings. A composite audit by Roy L. Brown, certified public accountant in Detroit, showed that Detroit distributors lost $44,415.34 during the first six months of 1939. Retail prices varied throughout the state from 7 cents in Lansing to 12 cents in Kalamazoo, Battle Creek and Saginaw. A breakdown of the dairy industry seemed imminent..

On September 1 the state board raised the farmer-producer price to $2.08 and reduced hauling rates 5 cents, making an increase in revenue of 23 cents per hundredweight. (Producers had asked $2.49).

Then on October 5 the board lifted the consumer price one cent to 11 cents a quart, home-delivered, and 10 cents a quart, "cash-and-carry", a price differential of one cent.

The increase of 1 cent a quart, effective October 5, was split one-half between the farmer-producer and the distributor. Labor received 28 per cent of the distributor's additional revenue.

Who Gets What?

Now comes an illuminating analysis, made by the state department of agriculture and the state milk marketing board, on who gets the 11 cents:

To Producer, income for milk hauled to Detroit—4 cents.

To Labor, wages for milk delivery—4 cents.

Distributor, income for plant, maintenance, delivery trucks, etc.—3 cents.

Yet the Detroit price, home-delivered, is under Chicago and Toledo prices. Toledo consumers pay 12 cents a quart, while Chicago consumers pay 13 cents. (New York prices are 18 cents; Jacksonville, 16 cents.)

In Chicago, where milk prices have gone up recently, the city is experimenting with paper containers as substitute for glass bottles which must be returned, cleansed and replaced if broken. New York distributors are experimenting with two-quart containers, thus affecting a saving in delivery costs.

Labor's Share

The milk driver, whose hours of work are conceded to be abominable, receives $12 a week plus 14 per cent commission on his sales. On his "day off", a substitute worker, known as the "swing man", takes over the route for approximately $12 a day. (Union drivers in large cities make from $40 to $50 a week.)

When the Walsh-Patterson bill was pending last spring, labor was actively for it. Likewise, labor has consistently opposed "cash-and-carry" stores and milk depots because of the obvious threat to employment, eliminating the need for home delivery.

And so the state board was a bit miffed when the Non-Partisan Labor League in Wayne county came out recently, following the footsteps of the county prosecutor in condemnation of the milk price rise. Later it was explained privately that the statement was "unauthorized." Complicating the picture are the existence of four different viewpoints. While producer, distributor and labor divide the revenue, it takes the consumer to pay the bill. Other complications have been a steady drop in milk consumption and a surplus in production. When consumer earnings decline, milk consumption falls. In 1936, for example, milk consumption was 6.89% below the 1929 level.

ber 7th, but it will be the first time in many years the Jolly Old Fellow has been greeted with such pomp and ceremony as is being planned. Be sure and reserve the night of December 7th for the doin's.

It takes a lot of courage to argue with such a learned authority on game and the outdoors as Ben East, outdoor editor of the Grand Rapids Press, but when Ben came out with the statement a deer shot on Beaver Island was so old it didn't have any upper teeth, it made me wonder when it was that deer started growing upper teeth, anyway.

President Roosevelt's Thanksgiving last Thursday was quite a contrast from a year ago. The 1939 Thanksgiving was a regular old-fashioned affair with snow providing the proper setting. This year's weather more represented an early fall day. Perhaps the Weather Man didn't like Roosevelt's idea, so is saving the snow for the Republican Thanksgiving scheduled tomorrow. Folks shouldn't kick too much, though, for it isn't very often we have an excuse to eat turkey two weeks hand running.

It sure beats all how time flies! Do you know it's just exactly 25 days before Christmas?

Hope tomorrow is the day! Haven't got my buck yet, but to tell you the truth, have sort of put off the shooting because of the warm weather. Didn't want to have the meat spoil, and you know, the longer a fellow waits the longer the anticipation lasts.

With no thought of discrimination, whatsoever, the writer feels impelled to remark about the most unusual and unique Christmas decorations in the windows of the Polly Kay Shop. The display reflects originality and no small amount of effort.

TIME CHANGE MODE FOR DEER HUNTERS

AUTO, GOOD ROADS REVOLUTIONIZE THIS SPORT

Trailer Camp Equals Popularity of Lodges Deep in Timber — Increase of Hunters Results

In just two decades the automobile and good roads have revolutionized deer hunting in Michigan.

As recently as the early 'twenties, going deer hunting meant taking a week, and more often two or three weeks, vacation from work. It meant a day's journey, or more, by train and then a ride in a buckboard, or a farmer's cutter through the snow. And it was not unusual in those days for the hunter to trudge the last few miles afoot, with a pack on his back, to a permanent hunting lodge deep in the woods.

Today it is entirely possible for a hunter to drive deep into the deer country in his own automobile in a few hours, towing his hunting lodge—the familiar house trailer—right along with him. Many now go hunting and never make a camp. The hotel at which they make a one-night stop may furnish even the snack for the midday pause in the woods.

Hunting licenses sold tell the story. In the early 'twenties the number of deer hunters averaged about 30,000. Now there are more than five times as many. In 1938 more than 162,000 licenses were issued, and this season is expected to show a further increase.

Concentration of hunters has changed even the methods of hunting. Tracking of deer, especially wounded by a first shot, is no longer practicable when hunters are as thick as 17 per square mile, as they were in Lake county in 1938. Now, the old timers say, by the time a deer has gone another 60 rods he is likely to have another hunter's bullet in him and another hunter's tag on his antlers. Waiting near deer runways has become increasingly popular as a hunting method. In the upper peninsula however, hunters are not yet thicker than four per square mile.

The modern hunter who trundles his trailer into a state park and plugs in the electricity for a week end is not less a sportsman than the full-season hunter of two decades ago who got through the woods without the aid of a network of fire lines and truck trails. Larger numbers of hunters nowadays, however, have complicated and intensified law enforcement problems.

Reinforcing the game law enforcement staff in the deer country in the current season, as disclosed by H. R. Sayre, chief of the law enforcement division of the department of conservation, are northern conservation officers who have returned to their regular stations after doing special duty in southern counties during the small game season. 14 southern Michigan officers and about 80 fire wardens and towermen who will be employed during the deer season, each in territory with which he is familiar. Thirty-five of the 80 officers regularly stationed in northern counties were moved south for the small game season.

Recent closing by the conservation commission of Gogebic county to bear hunting, except during deer season, reduced to eight the counties in which bear are found and in which the animals have no protection. Bear hunting, which yielded 600 pelts last year, is expected to be good.

Seven deer refuges of 1,800 to 11,000 acres, closed to deer hunting for six to 19 years, are expected to draw many deer hunters this season, the first in which deer shooting has been allowed since their establishment. The Alpena, Cusino, Lunden, Pigeon river, Molasses river and Midland refuges are open in their entirety. In the Ogemaw refuge 2,000 acres near the headquarters buildings have been reserved to protect a herd of semi-tame deer.

Increased ferry service has been available at the Straits for upbound hunters since November 10. Near Mackinaw City, at the junction of US-31 and US-23 and 27, the state highway department is maintaining a booth at which hunters may get information about northern road conditions. Highway department workers are taking the precaution of wearing red during the deer season.

TEN-YEAR GROUSE CYCLE LACKS 2 YEARS OF PEAK

The 10-year grouse cycle has still a year or two to go to reach its peak in Michigan, despite a few local indications of decline, in the opinion of D. W. Douglass of the game division of the department of conservation.

Yes, the Golden Rule is still in existence. But everybody seems to think it might work if they tried it.

SUPERVISORS MET SPECIAL SESSION

PROBLEMS OF NEW WELFARE SET-UP DISCUSSED

Additional Funds Granted to Meet Indebtedness Incurred by Discontinued Poor Commission

The Charlevoix county board of supervisors adjourned Saturday afternoon following a two-day special session called to discuss welfare problems.

While active since November 1, Charlevoix county's new social welfare board officially took over the reins December 1, absorbing the county poor commission, the old ERA and other previous agencies dispensing various phases of relief in the county. The two-day session was called to discuss problems brought about by this change.

That the attitude of the board of supervisors is to hold appropriations for relief purposes within funds available was indicated by refusal to grant funds in addition to the $11,300 appropriated in October, at least for the time being. The board did, however, grant an increase of $2,300 to cover bills incurred by the county poor commission prior to November 1 when the commission went out of office.

The October appropriation was divided $3,000 for hospitalization (an item that cost the county $13,000 last year), $2,200 for infirmary, $2,500 for administration expense, $3,600 for direct relief. These funds are augmented by contributions from the state.

Another matter under consideration but not carried to completion at the session last week, was recommendation of the appointment of Supervisor E. E. Cross of Charlevoix as member of the county welfare commission to succeed Harold F. Lamb, who resigned as commission member to retain the position of supervisor of social security and administrator of the commission. Mr. Cross will necessarily have to resign as supervisor to accept the recommended appointment. He has not yet done so.

The lecture and demonstration work will be handled hy A. T. Nielsaen, poultry-disease technician with the Dr. Salsbury's Laboratories. Those having diseased birds are invited to bring them to the meeting for inspection and method of treatment.

All farmers of this area are invited to participate in the meeting.

HOLIDAY SCHEDULE OF FERRY BOATS IS SET

Two Ferries to Operate During Period December 16 to January 8

State Highway Commissioner Murray D. VanWagoner has announced a holiday schedule for the Mackinac Straits ferries, effective from December 16 to January 8, inclusive.

On those days the department will operate the ice crusher, St. Marie, and the state-owned City of Cheboygan. The service will provide trips from Mackinaw City on an hour-and-a half schedule from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m. with an early boat at 7 a. m. From the St. Ignace side, trips will be made each hour-and-a-half from 9 a. m. to 10:30 p. m., with an early boat at 5:30 a. m.

VanWagoner said the new schedule was in recognition of a peak load of passengers during the time it is scheduled to be in effect. In previous years, the department operated only the ice crusher, the St. Marie, from December 15th through the winter months.

JOLLY OLD SANTA CLAUS

Arrives Thursday Night For Big Xmas Program

Treasure Hunts for Both Children and Adults Provide Total Prizes of $22.50

Thanks to the Charlevoix Merchants' & Business Men's Association, Thursday evening, December 7, will provide one of the finest pre-holiday events ever staged in Charlevoix.

Much to the delight of the kiddies, particularly, Santa Claus will arrive to take part in the festivities and incidentally, open this community's 1939 Christmas season. His arrival is scheduled for 7 o'clock, but the method of his advent upon the scene is being kept as a pleasant surprise for the children, so all of them want to be on hand at the hour designated. He will give out favors for the kiddies, too.

The school band will play on the street for the occasion, a group will sing Christmas carols under the direction of Mrs. A. J. Stelter over a public address system during the evening, but outstanding of the events planned are treasure hunts for both children and adults with a total of $22.50 in prizes for the winners.

The junior hunt, for which prizes of $2, $1.50 and $1 will be awarded, starts promptly at 7:30 o'clock for children between the ages of 8 and 16. The adult hunt, with prizes of $10, $5 and $3, follows at 8:30 o'clock. In both events, the first clue will be obtained at the city hall. All other clues will be in the windows of Charlevoix stores, placed there Thursday morning so that all taking port may look them over (if they can find them) prior to the hunt.

Thursday night's program is a Christmas greeting from Charlevoix merchants to the public and a cordial invitation is extended everyone in this district to be on hand. The event culminates two weeks of effort by committees appointed to stage the program. Also through their efforts the most attractive Yuletide decorations in years have appeared in local business ploces and, through the cooperation of the city council, Bridge street boulevard lights have been decoroted with evergreens and provided with alternating colored lights. Two lighted Christmas trees in Memorial and East parks add to the attractiveness of the business district.

DISCUSS TAXES AT MEETING IN TRAVERSE CITY

Regional Conference is Called for Tuesday, December 12th

Taxes are too high and the Michigan Chamber of Commerce wants to know what can be done about it. The cause and the remedy will he discussed at Traverse City on Tuesday, December 12, when a regional meeting will be held at the Park Place Hotel to which all northern Michigan residents are invited.

John Beukema, a member of the tax study commission of Michigan will be one of the speakers and John H. Schouten nf Grand Rapids, Gus T. Hartman, state budget director, A. K. Moore and E. T. Conlon will be others.

"We feel we have had too much politics in our state financial policy," Mr. Conlon said, in discussing this meeting. "This has been provided by both dominant parties, for both have had a hand in boosting our tax rate to where it has become a positive burden to business, industry, agriculture and the worker."

LIGHTHOUSE SERVICE IS SUSPENDED

SOME OFFICIALLY CLOSED DEC. 5—OTHERS DEC. 15

While Tuesday, December 5th, marked the official closing of numerous lighthouses in northern Lake Micnigan waters, transfer of the lighthouse crews to the mainland took place Monday.

Providing an innovation from previous years, lighthouse crews were brought to the mainland by coast guard boats. Charlevoix's unit under Capt. Oscar Smith, brought in the crews from Isle aux Galet and South Fox Island. Likewise, Mackinac Island coast guards brought in the White Shoals crew and Beaver Island station the Lansing Shoals crew.

Tuesday's closing covered the more isolated lighthouses. Others, whose crews have means of transportation from their stations such as Beaver Island lighthouses and Harbor Springs light, will close December 15. Charlevoix and St. James lighthouses will operate as long as navigation is open, it is understood.

Providing something of the unusual, Keeper Green of the South Fox Island lighthouse, presented the Charlevoix coast guard crew with a hasket of snow apples, picked from trees he plunted on the island many years ago. It is believed Keeper Green has been at his stution 31 years, a record only surpassed by Keeper Lowrie of one of the northernmost stations in upper Lake Michigan.

BASKETBALL SEASON OPENS FRIDAY

PETOSKEY NORTHMEN HERE FOR INITIAL CONTEST

Reserve Teams Will Opeo Double Bill—Charlevoix Team Composed of New Material

Charlevoix's Red Rayders will appear on the home hardwood Friday night in the opening contest of the 1939-40 hasketball season.

The initial contest of a 14-game schedule is with the class B Petoskey Northmen and the evening's program provides a double bill with games between varsity and reserve teams of the two schools.

Petoskey will have the benefit of experience gained in their opening contest last Friday night. They defeated Boyne City on their home court by a small margin in a fast, close game.

In direct contrast to a year ago when the Rayders took the court as defending conference, district and regional champs, with a part veteran line-up, Coach Kipke's 1939-40 squad will he composed of players who appear for the first time in varsity competition. It will be a "green" squad, entirely devoid of seasoned players. Tom Carey and "Bub" McGhan, only veterans of last season, have so far been absent from the line-up, the former due to injuries. While Coach Kipke has not named his starting line-up, the center position will be shared by Jake White and Don Stevens, forward positions by Don Carey, "Bud" Kohler, Kenneth Wilson and Louis McKenzie, and guard positions by Bob Bergman, Carl Rowe, Jerry Novotny, Robert Gill and Ernie Nowland.

Two new rules will be initiated by play this year. In one, the captain of the team against which a foul has been committed may waive the free throw and elect to have the ball put in play from out-of-hougds at mid-court by any player of that team. The rule is to prevent intentional fouling of the leuding team in late minutes of play to gain possession of the ball. The other rule provides throw-in of the ball from mid-court following a technical foul by the free thrower or any team-mate whether or not the free throw is successful.

Following the Petoskey contest, the Rayders play at Harbor Springs on December 15 and return to the home court for a contest with Gaylord on December 20.

SHOT AT RANDOM

By Keo Usher

A good conservation man has been taken out of the Charlevoix area with the elevation of Harry Aldrich, supervisor of Boyne City district headquarters, to regional supervisor of Region 2 at Roscommon. Harry is one of those "square shooters" who found it was to the advantage of conservation to make friends with the sportsmen.

Seeings how I didn't get the buck I was looking forward to, an item in the Cheboygan Observer gives me an idea that would also apply handsomely to many other nimrods who ended the season the same as I did. The story concerns the well-known Judge Sprague, whose favorite bird dog came lugging home the front quarter of a deer. Now if all we unlucky hunters would start training our dogs to bring home venison after pointing out bird during the small game season, how it would simplify things. We could save our huntin' money to buy beef and seod the dog out to forage the neighborhood for enough venison to satisfy our appetites for wild meat. It would be sort of an unglorified way of getting venison, but worth looking into at that!

They tell me Lynn Mayne was one of the successful last day hunters—the lucky cuss. Killed one in back of his Dad's farm out Norwood way with a 22-caliber rifle. It's said Lynn hit the buck in the ear the first shot, that the buck shook his head as much as to say: "You can't get away with that." He tarried too long, though, for Lynn placed the next shot where it counted and went home with the

If the farmer thinks that Michigan's new milk marketing act is going to solve all his dairy troubles, he is badly mistaken!

It provides no panacea.

Fixing milk prices for both producers and consumers is a daring innovation, legally upheld by the United States supreme court as being within a state's power. Whether the Michigan state constitution permits this is another matter; two suits now pend which challenge the act's constitutionality.

But the problem of milk control is intricate.

Complications are numerous. Here are a few of them.

OF INTEREST TO FARMERS
By B. C. Mellencamp

Cold Promotes Home Butchering

Low livestock prices and cool temperatures are reviving the homely but economical practice of home butchering on Michigan farms. Freezer lockers, points out G. A. Brown of the animal husbandry department at Michigan State College, are stimulating meat preservation and storage.

Dressing of animals should take place when the temperature is between 15 and 30 degrees so that the carcass can cool, but not freeze, 24 to 48 hours before cutting up. Professor Brown urges farm butchers. Thorough cooling after thorough bleeding means better quality meat.

Meats stored in frozen lockers should be cut first into chops and roasts and wrapped in moisture proof cellophane before placing in the freezing locker within a few days after butchering. In addition to such storage and preservation by canning there is a third method, that of curing in the form of hams, bacon, or corned beef.

For 100 pounds of pork a suitable cure consists of seven pounds of salt, two pounds of sugar and two ounces of saltpeter in four gallons of water. Pork should go into the cure with 48 to 72 hours after dressing out the animal. After the meat is cut up, salt should be rubbed on surfaces and some worked in about the bones at either end of hams and shoulders and the meat let stand for 24 hours before it is placed in the liquid cure.

An earthenware crock thoroughly cleaned and without cracks is most satisfactory for curing. Bacon strips, says Professor Brown, should lie in the cure 2 to 3½ days for each pound. Brine should not become cloudy or ropy—if it does the meat should be washed off and placed in new brine.

"The Home Meat Supply", Extension Bulletin 151, is available in offices of county agricultural agents or by writing the Bulletin Room, Michigan State College, East Lansing. Illustrations and complete information on butchering and curing beef, pork, veal and lamb are included.

EXERCISE

It is strangely out of line with health needs to be eternally on the alert to avoid physical work and to steer away from everything that suggests leg exercise. Muscles were made to use, and if they are not used, thy become soft and atrophied. Inventors and self-appointed human caretakers have been so resourceful and active in wiping out toil and providing uninterrupted leisure that the average fellow doesn't get enough muscle action to keep his physique properly robust. Increasing use of motorized equipment in going and coming is fixing people so they cannot pedal along with the sprightliness intended by nature. More walking is important. All forms of physical endeavor help keep the human anatomy satisfactorily balanced and energized. —Exchange.

POOR DEER SEASON IS GENERAL REPORT

LOCAL KILL LIGHTEST IN RECENT YEARS

Weather Conditions Blamed by Conservation Officials and Hunters for Disappointing Results

Michigan's 1939 deer season, one of the most disappointing hunting periods for this region in recent years, came to a close last Thursday night.

Reports on file at district headquarters of the Michigan Conservation Department at Boyne City, sent in by field officers from all points in the district, show this year's kill to be considerably less than 1938 in view of the increased number of hunters. A fairly large number of bucks were taken from the woods during the first few days of the season, but after the opening days the kill flattened out completely. These results are apparent despite a general increase of deer throughout the district.

The district's kill of illegal deer is believed to be just slightly greater than a year ago when an exceptionally small kill was recorded. Most of the carcasses spoiled because of warm weather before being found, however.

Weather was blamed both by conservation men and hunters for the disappointing hunting. A checkup of weather charts revealed that no precipitation at all was recorded during the entire season. Unusually wurm weather during the days kept the woods extremely dry and consequently very noisy. The same conditions prevailed throughout Michigan's deer area. Lack of snow prevented hunters from tracking their game and the loss of wounded bucks will probably be the heaviest in years.

It is believed the number of bucks brought home by Charlevoix hunters is the lightest in recent years.

LAZARUS WILLIS, WELL KNOWN INDIAN, IS DEAD

Was Identified Many Years With Greensky Hill Indian Mission

One of Charlevoix's well known Indian residents was taken from the community Tuesday by the death at Charlevoix Hospital of Lazarus Willis.

Indian school at Carlisle, Pa., from 1887 to 1892 and during the subsequent years devoted his time to the ministry and working for the Greensky Hill Indian Mission. As the mission depended largely on contributions from merchants and summer residents, Mr. Willis became widely known in this district.

Mr. Willis married Lucy Scott of Elk Rapids, in 1893. She preceded him in death in 1935. Surviving him is a son, Isaac Willis of Detroit, and several grandchildren.

Funeral services will be conducted at 2:30 Thursday afternoon from the Greensky Hill Indian Mission by Rev. John Alexander. Burial at Greensky Hill cemetery.

CADILLAC FOX HOUND TRIALS DECEMBER 9-10

Dog Owners of This Region Expected to Enter Annual Event

Michigan's best foxhounds in full cry over a three-mile course south of Cadillac is a sight expected to draw hundreds to the first Michigan championship foxhound trials December 9 and 10.

The chase reflects revived interest in fox hunting. From a hill two miles south of the city the spectators, with field glasses, may watch the hounds ruce over the full length of the semicircular course. A fox led over the course, on 20-foot leash, half an hour before each trial, scents the track.

A purse of $300 has been posted for the meet. There will be 10 elimination trials, with 10 dogs in each trial. A free-for-all derby, for dogs less than a year old, will be held Sunday, following the main event.

No entries will be accepted after noon Sunday, December 10, according to the Cadillac Chamber of Commerce, sponsor of the trials.

MORNING FROST MAKES HIGHWAYS DANGEROUS

Department Warns Motorists of Hard-Surfaced Trunk Lines

Motorists taking to Michigan's hard-surfaced roads early in the morning have been warned by State Highway Commissioner Murray D. VanWagoner against "frost skidding."

The commissioner explained maintenance crews would not sand roads to eliminate the hazard since it disappears, in the absence of snow and ice, in the first few minutes of sunlight.

"A road may look safe because it shows only hoar-frost," VanWagoner said, "but that thin film of exceptionally slippery frost is a distinct threat to the motorist who depends on it for a braking surface or to hold his car from skidding on abrupt turns.

Sanding of roads by maintenance crews already has begun in some parts of the state where early ice and snow warranted.

the consumer's front gate, transferred it from his containers to those provided by the consumer, and thus pocketed a few pennies profit on each quart. Surplus milk was converted into butter or fed to the cattle.

Then the village grew into an industrial center. Living became complex.

The changed world produced the distributor with an elaborate pasteurization plant, a testing laboratory, and a fleet of delivery trucks and drivers. The farmer sold his milk right at his farm gate; "surplus" not needed for fluid consumption was convertde into butter, cheese or condensed milk — non-perishable commodities which could be kept for months.

From state agricultural colleges came the science of dairying whereby milk production could be controlled by proper breeding and care of cows. Labor discovered the weapon of collective bargaining. The distributor, anxious to have a ready supply of milk close at hand, encouraged farmers to increase milk production. Then a declining birth rate, due to the depression, curtailed consumption of milk.

Thus you have the modern picture of production surplus, higher labor costs, and lagging consumption.

The cry arose for government to intervene—to "save the day." It became the "political" thing to do, and thus Michigan's milk marketing act was born.

Farmer at Fault?

Instead of controlling milk production to meet a constant steady demand (peak consumption comes from September to December inclusively), the Michigan farmer has been inclined to breed his cows so that they freshen in the spring when pastures are green rather than in the fall when feeding costs are high.

Then the matter of better bred cows. The average production of dairy cows in Michigan is 4,800 pounds per cow per year. Yet state-owned dairy herds (which are maintained to provide a steady supply of milk for inmates and employees of state institutions) produce an average of 13,000 pounds per cow per year.

Quite a difference! Fewer animals are needed; feed and labor expense are less; the return of profit to the owner is greater.

These factors tend to increase production costs—costs which must come out of earnings of the farmer.

Distribution Costs

On the other hand the milk distributor is open to criticism that he has encouraged farmers to increase milk production so that a ready surplus of supply would be always available at a low price.

Because milk production lags during the season of higher consumption, the distributor is usually willing to buy heavily at this time. He then curtails buying in the spring when production is up and when consumption is down.

Duplication in distribution costs is another factor tending to keep up consumer prices. A study made in Milwaukee showed that seven companies maintained deliveries in the same 147 blocks; six companies did so in 146 blocks. The alternative to free competition would be to create a milk utility like that for the telephone, electricity, gas or transportation. Who wants that?

Distributors also cater to consumer whims. To retail a customer, the distributor will send a truck on a special trip to deliver a bottle of milk—a trip which means additional expense eventually added to the consumer's bill.

Consumer is Next

We pointed out last week that Detroit labor took as much out of the consumer's milk bill (home-delivery price) as did the farmer-producer. Detroit milk truck drivers, for example, have probably the best organized C.I.O. union in the city—the only large union which has a "check-off" whereby the distributor deducts dues from wages and hands them over to the union.

Next is the consumer, interested in getting a good product and in paying a fair price (the lower the better!)

There is some evidence that the price of fresh-delivered milk since 1933 "has been higher than the index of the entire cost of living." (Quotation from Fortune magazine survey, November, 1939.)

Then per capita consumption of milk dropped 6.89 per cent between 1929 and 1936. Why? Fewer babies were born during hard-times; family earnings were less; milk prices declined 22 per cent in 1932 while consumer income went down 40 per cent.

The 1939 milk marketing act, now functioning in Michigan, is of two years' duration. Being an experiment its permanence will depend upnn how well it works, or does not work. As such, it bears close watching by the public.

Kelly Explains License Plate Letters

What does GB mean on my license plate? Why are these letters assigned to my county? Why do they differ from letters on the license plates in the next county? These and a dozen similar questions have been recently directed to Harry F. Kelly, secretary of state.

To remove any remaining doubt regarding the letters appearing on license plates Kelly went to great length to explain the reasons behind the adoption of the new 1940 plate.

"Primarily, the letters are for identification purposes," Kelly said, "but there is a great deal more to it than that. Following a suggestion submitted by leading law enforcement agencies, safety directors and traffic managers we determined to eliminate entirely all license plates bearing six or seven numbers, because a long series of figures is difficult to read, and almost impossible to remember.

"It was decided that two letter and four figures would be a great deal easier to read and remember than any other combination. Further study revealed that the placing of the letters before the figures instead of in any other position was also conducive of easier reading.

"We were then faced with the problem of devising a code suitable for our own particular requirements. In this most difficult task we were fortunate in securing the services of coding experts who cooperated to the fullest extent in devising a code that is simple, effective and of unlimited scope.

"Our next job was to assign these coded letters to counties. This was done in the one logical way, by assigning letters beginning with AA to the county having the largest automobile registration. Continuing in alphabetical sequence we assigned letters straight through the alphabet to counties in direct ratio to their automobile registration.

The adoption of this system eliminated the possibility of assigning letters "ME" to Mecosta, or "IN" to Ingham for the reason that duplications would result and the plan of uniformity destroyed."

Bags Four-Legged Bird

Croswell — Herald Daley, Sanilac township, shot a four-legged pheasant this season, and brought the bird home to prove it. Two of the legs were normal, one was a three-inch appendage with six toes, and the fourth was a one-inch stub.

Lilacs Bloom in Fall

Plymouth—Maybe the lilacs at the home of Mrs. Rose Haversbaw are no respecters of seasons, or maybe it's that Michigan climate, for several bushes of the flowers blossomed profusely late in October.

Members Are All Liars

Portland—A local club has eight members, and all are liars. Not only that, but all officers are liars. There are eight of these, too, and the club is named "Liars Club of Portland."

Utica—If William E. Gibson has any lucky omen, it is probably the number seven. He was born on the seventh hour of the seventh day of the week (Saturday), on the seventh day of the seventh month of the seventh year in the century (July 7, 1906). There are seven in his family and he is the seventh living grandchild.

Middleville — Local police showed speedy efficiency recently when they recovered two stolen automobiles before either was reported stolen. One was found abandoned at a street intersection and the other was discovered when a driver was stopped on a speeding charge. Owners didn't report them missing until the next day.

Names Pet For Prof.

Wayne—Glea Arnold, now a University of Michigan freshman, wonders if her new pet will help her flunk or pass a history course. A little black kitten followed her to history class and the two became friends during the lecture. She named it "Slosson", because the class was taught by Prof. Preston Slosson.

Steam Shovel Fights Fire

Plymouth—It took a steam shovel to put out a fire in a 3,000-ton pile of coal here. When water from several hoses didn't check the blaze, a big steam shovel was used to move the coal away from the fire. When all unburned coal was moved, flames in the burning fuel at the bottom of the pile just went out.

Caro—Donald Putnam saw a cock pheasant in a fence corner while hunting, and fired. He didn't see two more, hidden in the grass, right in his line of fire. The shot killed all three, according to his grandfather, an eye-witness of the feat.

With Michigan's help, the once lowly and sometimes despised boarding house prune has so many partners in supplying fruit for the table that home economists suggest part of the variety can appear on the table several times daily with no affront to appetites.

Pears and apples, peaches and apricots and figs are among the most likeable additions to the fruits that make good sauce.

Recommendations from the extension staff in home economics at Michigan State College show how these fruits are best treated.

Determine first if one wants a sauce or compote with apples or pears. In the first, the procedure is to cook sparingly with water and add the sugar during the last few minutes of cooking.

But in a compote, in which it is desired to keep the fruit pieces in shape without cooking to a sauce, the sugar is added as the cooking begins. The syrup hardens the fruit pieces.

Apples and pears also are good for baking. Pears are peeled and usually cut in half, but apples can be cored and baked whole with skins intact in a moderate oven.

Dried fruits are prepared much the same except that there is need for a washing and preliminary soaking. One trick that adds to flavor is to cook the fruit in the same water in which it is soaked.

Most dried apricots need no soaking but can be placed directly in boiling water and simmered for 30 minutes. Figs can be started in cold water and simmered for 20 to 30 minutes. Dried peaches are best soaked in cold water for a half hour and then cooked 15 to 20 minutes. Prunes ought to be dropped in boiling water, left there for an hour to get plump and then simmered for a half hour.

Cow is Consistent

St. Louis—A Holstin cow belonging to Allen McPherson, North Star farmer, is a consistent animal. During the past four years she has given birth to four consecutive pairs of twin calves. All were heifers except the last pair, a bull and a heifer.

Lice and mites know all the tricks necessary to put a poultryman's books into a maze of red ink, but an entomologist at Michigan State college knows how to take care of the pests.

Two treatments a year, fall and spring, are recommended, although commercial poultrymen find that it often pays to take necessary precautions more frequently.

Remember that lice live on the birds and that mites inhabit the coop and the roosts, suggests C. B. Dibble, extension entomologist at Michigan State college, for this means that two separate treatments are required.

A simple control for mites after a coop is thoroughly cleaned is to spray the interior with half crankcase oil and half kerosene. The spray must penetrate cracks and crevices and cannot be applied with a paint brush.

Lice are controlled by treating the birds. The simplest method, says Dibble, is to place a thin line of nicotine sulphate on the clean perches just before roosting time. The body heat of the birds releases the nicotine which penetrates the feathers. This treatment must be repeated in 14 days but it will kill all forms of lice found living on Michigan flocks. The repeat treatment is necessary to kill those that hatch from nits or eggs present at the time of the first treatment.

Sunday morning service, 10:45.

Sunday school, 12 o'clock.

Meets first Wednesday evening of each month at 7:45 p. m.

Reading room open Saturday, 3 to 5 p. m.

We cordially invite the public to our service and reading room.

"God the Preserver of Man" will be the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Christian Science churches throughout the world on Sunday, December 10, 1939.

The Golden Text (Psalms 121:8) is: "The Lord shall preserve thy going out and thy coming in from this time forth, and even for evermore."

Among the Bible citations is this passage (John 6:27): "Then said they unto him, What shall we do, that we might work the works of God?"

Correlative passages to be read from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, include the following (p. 442): "Christ, Truth, gives mortals temporary food and clothing until the material, transformed with the ideal, disappears, and man is clothed and fed spiritually."

PRO-UNCLE SAM

Right in the midst of the warring nations of Europe lies Switzerland, whose population is of German, French and Italian descent. But first of all, they are SWISS. The Swiss Germans aren't pro-Nazi and the Swiss-French are not pro-Ally. They are truly neutral because it is the only course for their country to take to keep out of repeated European wars.

They are a wonderful example for the United States. We have only once course to follow and maintain through all the emotional propaganda that floods us. That course is pro-Uncle Sam! It means we can't let indignation and emotions run away with us when Russia, for her German ally, captures an American ship loaded with contraband, while at the same time we permit the news to be "hushed" when England does the same thing!

It means we look at both sides alike, and put German hostile acts and English-French hostile acts in the same dish. Way back to the time of the Napoleonic wars, Great Britain "invited" us to join in her wars! Today is not a new day in this respect, nor is the cause any different. Only Great Britain's former enemy is now her ally.

Remember—First: Pro-Uncle Sam!

OH, THE MORALS

Centuries ago Cicero cried out: "Oh, the times; oh, the morals." He certainly had reason for doing so.

And well may someone so cry out today, someone with intelligence enough to see that back of rotten politics are rotten morals.

We cannot much longer close our eyes to this fact without inviting penalty, for artificiality and superficiality invite degeneration.

What is needed the world over is moral rearmament to give courage and fortitude for assuming responsibility and discharging obligation to God, country and fellowmen.—Frank B. Craig.

No American has the moral right to profiteer at the expense either of his fellow citizens or of the men, women, and children who are living and dying in the midst of war in Europe.—President Roosevelt.

AT THE MOVIES

One of the most poignantly human pictures to come out of Hollywood will open on December 9 at the Palace Theatre. Entitled "Our Neighbors — the Carters," it features a grand cast headed by Fay Bainter, Frank Craven, Edmund Lowe and Genevieve Tobin, and tells a story which, mixing pathos with humor and romance, is designed to appeal directly to the heart. Briefly, it tells how Craven and Miss Bainter, as heads of the Carter family, are happy despite the lack of wealth in the usual sense. Far more precious to them are their comfortable home, their five children, and Craven's business reputation—he's the town druggist, and has been for years. Excitement enters the lives of the Carters when Miss Bainter leaves for Chicago to visit old friends, played by Edmund Lowe and Genevieve Tobin, who have become very successful. The real purpose of her visit, however, is to arrange an operation for one of the children who has been crippled since birth. When she returns, her husband has lost his business to a large competitor. The ensuing events, replete with tears and smiles, lead the picture to a tender and happy climax. Charles R. Rogers produced the picture, with Ralph Murphy directing for Paramount.

"Bulldog Drummond" goes on his most thrilling adventure in pursuit of a daring, dangerous bank robber, his fiancee of long standing, "Phyllis Clavering," threatens to marry another man. Thrill piles on thrill, but "Drummond" is led to the altar at last in the new Paramount film, "Bulldog Drummond's Bride," which opens on December 12 at the Palace Theatre. With John Howard playing "Drummond," and Heather Angel as his fiancee, the H. C. (Snapper) McNeile story tells of the famed amateur sleuth's efforts to recover a portable radio in which the thief has secreted 10,000 pounds in stolen money.

Chan's Biggest Thrill

"Charlie Chun at Treasure Island," the newest 20th Century-Fox mystery thriller, brings Sidney Toler to the Palace Theatre on December 12 in the most exciting adventure in the thrill-packed career of the famous sleuth.

IF HITLER WINS

We are again told that unless we join in the second World War, Western Civilization may be destroyed and we will be the next victim. Therefore, eventually, why not now? That is propaganda to condition the American mind for entry into this war.

Aside from the fact that Britain and France with their empires can defend themselves, if they stay on the defense, great wars do not end that way.

Great wars often enough end in peace before either side is the victor. When one side is the victor in modern wars it is because the other side has become exhausted. At that moment the victors are but one lap behind in the race of exhaustion.

Neither at the armistice in 1919 nor at the end of any other war were the victors or the vanquished ready for or desirous of starting another war. In other words, not even the victor is going to pounce upon a powerful armed neutral. Especially they do not attack 130,000,000 people 3000 miles overseas, who have a capacity of 10,000,000 soldiers and 25,000 airplanes.

Moreover, there are other factors that enter at the end of any great war. The victors want indemnities and possessions. Indemnities can be paid only from the productivity of a people. Nations cannot be made to work by force. They have to be given hope. That means the national independence of the enemy must be preserved by the victor. World trade has to be restored. In other words, even victors have to return to the paths of peace if they wish to restore their own exhaustion.

Beyond all this, when all great wars end, all the peoples take out their sufferings upon their leaders, either by putting them out of office or by revolution. And therefore the whole setting changes.

The voice of experience says we should discard these forebodings about being the next victim.—Herbert Hoover from "We Must Keep Out," Saturday Evening Post.

CONCENTRATE

"The three essentials of success," said Andrew Carnegie, "are honesty, industry, and concentration. Against these three no problem or obstacle can stand, and of the three concentration is the most important." In other words, it doesn't pay to scatter your shot.—Grit.

Buchanan — A plum tree was in full blossom at the Edward Gommol home here early in October. But that's not the only sign of a summer climate here. A snowball bush was recently in bloom the second time at the E. F. Mittan home.

Forty Billion Germs to the Pound of Farm Soil

Instead of being inert and dead, ordinary farm land is teeming with life.

Cultivated soils have anywhere from a few million to five million bacteria in a pound of topsoil; under certain favorable conditions the germ population per pound may run as high as forty billions, says Literary Digest.

So we are told by the service division of the American Agricultural Chemical company. To quote a press bulletin issued by the Mandeville Press bureau (New York):

"These organisms are very small, consisting of single cells only one twenty five-thousandth of an inch in diameter. They are the lowest form of plant life, and contain no chlorophyl, the matter which enables ordinary plants to produce substances suitable for the support of life.

"Most persons think that all bacteria are harmful, but actually, the reverse is (nearly) true. Without the bacteria in the soil, plant and animal life would probably soon disappear from the world. Only a comparatively few bacteria are harmful to mankind. One of the purposes of the cultivation of the land is to promote the growth of beneficial soil bacteria.

"Farmers may increase the fecundity of bacteria in the soil by adopting methods of cultivation and soil treatment which favor their development. Plowing under of organic matter so that the bacteria can make humus, rotation of crops to include legumes on which nitrifying bacteria thrive, draining of wet lands, the adding of limestone to acid soils, and the use of fertilizers are recommended."

Fossils Show Alabama Site of an Ancient Sea

Alabama was at the bottom of an immense sea hundreds of thousands of years ago.

Countless small fossils known as Thamnoraptus pearl, found during the process of opening a road from Calera to Montevallo, furnished this additional proof.

According to an article by Dr. R. S. Poor, for whom the fossils were named, and appearing in Rocks and Minerals, it is evident that large masses of these small animals collected on the surface of an ancient sea over the present state of Alabama. They gathered in much the same manner as the plants and animals that float on the surface of the Sargasso sea collect.

The mode of living of these small creatures was such that it was astounding to find so many perfect specimens in the rocks. Their remains consist of flattened stems, called rhabdosomes, and small saw-toothlike projections, known as hydrothecae, which served as the home of the small organisms. Many rhabdosomes were attached to small balloon-like objects which floated upon the still surface of the water. When detached from this unique buoy they fell to the bottom of the sea, the present Alabama terrain, and were covered by mud.

Resultant decay of the softer parts and pressure caused much of the original material to be lost; the fossil remains consist of the insoluble section of the original organism.

The Paper Tree

The name of the paper tree, from which a cloth is manufactured from its bark, is Aouta. It is a mulberry tree, found at Otaheite, in the South sea, from which a cloth is manufactured that is worn by principal inhabitants. The bark of the tree is stripped off, and deposited to soak in running water. When it is sufficiently softened, the fibers of the inner coat are carefully separated from the rest. They are then placed in lengths of about eleven or twelve yards, side by side, till they are about a foot broad and two or three layers are put one upon another. This is done in the evening. Next morning the water is drained off and the several fibers adhere together in one piece. This is afterward beaten on a smooth piece of wood with instruments marked lengthways with small grooves of different degrees of fineness, by means of which it becomes as thin as muslin. After blenching it in the air, to whiten it, the cloth is fit for use.

Mistake Was Costly

DISTRICT HEALTH UNIT

Communicable Diseases in the Young Child

Whooping cough, measles, tuberculosis and common colds are more dangerous to the young child than they are in later life. These diseases may be mistaken in the early stages for common colds. To guard against exposure to these diseases it is best to keep young children away from any one who is sick, even if only with a cold. Let no one kiss him on the mouth. Wash his hands and face before meals and see that everyone in the household is careful about coughing and sneezing.

Every year diarrhea and enteritis, diphtheria, whooping cough, measles and scarlet fever take the lives of hundreds of Michigan children under five years of age. The responsibility of parents in preventing these needless deaths has been too little understood.

27% of all the communicable diseases reported to the district health department comprising the counties of Antrim, Charlevoix, Emmet and Otsego, occurred in children under five years of age. This number totaled 111, subdivided as follows: measles, 46; scarlet fever, 34; diphtheria, 2; whooping cough 7; and chicken pox 22.

However, science has continued to contribute discoveries whereby some of these diseases may be warded off or at least modified. There are, at present, methods for producing immunity to smallpox, diphtheria, lockjaw, whooping cough, scarlet fever and typhoid as well as modification of measles. But only the inoculation against diphtheria and smallpox have received complete approval. The others do not have a 100 per cent successful incidence of immunity.

In protecting the young children against diphtheria, the Michigan Department of Health advise its administering at the age of nine months. In giving protection against smallpox, this measure may be given as early as two months of age. The earlier in life a person is vaccinated, the milder will be the reaction. Vaccination every five years is advised also.

In the good old days, when wars were just wars, the successful nations levied tribute on the conquered nations to pay for them. Now the idea seems to be to run a charge account with Uncle Sam.

LAZY MAN'S LUCK

By E. P. WARE

Copyright.—WNU Service.

THE black eyes of "Cornpone" Joe Beasley glittered evilly as, crouched in the shelter of a buckeye bush on the steep slope of "Old Whetstone," he looked out over Black river, flowing deep and swift, two hundred feet below. He shifted his long rifle and swore viciously.

"Used to be a trappeh's country!" he complained. "Time was when a right peart trappeh could make his salt hereabouts, an' more! Now it's pearls, pearls! Nothin' but pearls an' mussels, an' back-bendin', an' sweatin'! But danged if I've done it yit, an' danged if I will! An' that settles it!"

Ever since the little flat-bottomed batteaus, bows equipped with windlasses, rope and anchors, began coming into the three mile stretch of water between Black Rock and Powhatan, in Arkansas' Ozark region, Cornpone Joe had ceased his more or less spasmodic activities as a trapper of small fur animals, and thenceforth compromised with work by putting in his time hating and reviling the invading pearlers. When his neighbors, living near the river, caught the fever and began toiling almost night and day, taking mussels, all of them potential treasure-troves, from the laden bars, his bitterness suddenly erupted in various forms of petty deviltry which soon earned him an unsavory name in the river country. He had been invited to stay away from Canaan, the village directly across the river from the point where he now lurked. Cornpone had retired to his cabin in the crotch where Whetstone divided, forming twin peaks resembling the knobby knees of a recumbent giant. There he had brooded alone; for, though nearly thirty years old, Joe was unmarried.

"Keeps me a-humpin' lak th' devil to git enough cawnpone for me an' th' dawgs, let alone a wumman," the lank trapper had once confided to an aequaintance, incidentally conferring upon himself a nickname which was to endure.

But Joe Beasley had never been known to hump himself in any cause whatsoever. His nearest approach to a display of real energy was in the perpetration of malicious mischief or in pursuits likely to yield something for nothing. His hostility toward those who toiled on the river was but a part of his antagonism toward manual labor of all kinds.

"Work! Work!" he spat, this day, loose lips curled back from snuff-stained and broken teeth. "Sweat an' strain! And what comes of it? One in fifty ketches enough slugs an' buttons to barely make his salt. One in five hund'ed makes as much as he could at th' button factory, an' works twicest as hard. Maybe one in a thousan' gits him a fo'tune lak Asey Bright. An' then," he ruminated, an ugly gleam in his eyes, "maybe even that one gits it took away from him!"

Joe Beasley was after something for nothing. News had come up the mountain that morning that Asa Bright had taken a fortune in pearls from his haul the day before. Ten thousand dollars, rumor had it, and the pearls were still to be seen at the Bright cabin in Canaan. Ten thousand dollars in pearls was enough to fire even the imagination of Cornpone Joe, and excite his cupidity—especially as there appeare to be a chance to possess them without any labor whatsoever.

Crouched in the shadow of the buckeye bush, Joe waited for darkness, and as he waited he planned his raid on Bright. The Canaanites were trustworthy and trusting; few ever thought it necessary to lock a door, and somewhere in the Bright cabin (which would undoubtedly be unprotected, Asa being a guileless soul) pearls could be come by—provided the right man went after them.

In Joe's mind there was no doubt that he was the right man.

As darkness came on, the pearlers, one by one, quit the river until only one was left. Dupree, the Frenchman, still toiled, and as he swung the heavy pearling-tongs into his boat for the last time that day, his voice rose clearly from out of the swiftly gathering night; he sang a Creole song about "Mam'selle Fortune," a tune for which he was famous along the river. For Dupree believed in his luck; despite the fact that his year on the bars had netted him nothing in the way of financial return, he still sang of fortune and swore by his luck, believing that sooner or later he would "strike it." Dupree worked early and late and did not count the hours. Singing lustily and musically, he made his batteau fast to a stake, simply and trustingly looping a chain over it, and staggered away along the path that led to his cabin half a mile away, laden with his "cotton basket" of shells to be opened that night.

This was the moment Beasley was awaiting. The Frenchman's batteau lay on his side of the river and it was not locked.

Night came suddenly, moonless and starless, and five minutes later Cornpone Joe was paddling silently up-river, finding the "easy water" close in-shore. At a point half a mile above the village he ceased paddling and using his oar to steer with, dropped with the current until he came abreast of the town. There he gently dropped anchor on a bar, the batteau swung around and lay berthed about two hundred feet off shore.

As Joe shifted about in the effort to find a comfortable posture fur his lank body, having fully two hours yet to wait, his knee struck sharply against the Frenchman's pearling tongs. Angry, he snatched them up and moved to throw them far out into the river, but contented himself instead with easing the unfamiliar implement overside in the position he had observed others place them; then he begon laboriously "tonging" for shells. Here was a chance to prove beyond doubt that his contention concerning the back-breaking qualities of pearling was well grounded. He worked awkwardly, and for a short time only, then raising the tongs above his head he hurled them far out; they sank with a splash such as a fish might make as it leaped above the water's surface. He sank back disgustedly in the boat.

"Goshalmighty!" swore Cornpone under his breath, spitting venomously on the heap of shells and rocks which his industrious impulse had betrayed him into bringing up from the bar. "Theah ain't no doubt about it! It ain't work fitten for a white man to do, an' I was plumb right to steer clear of it!"

Thereafter he lay in silence, recuperating. Two hours passed before he stirred again. Then, the village showing no signs of life, Joe cautiously poled the batteau in to the shore. Stealthily he stepped out on the coarse sand of the bar and reached back after his long rifle.

"Let th' gun be, you!"

The voice was very near, uncanny in the pitch blackness, unexpected—but instantly recognized. It was Lafe Ball, the constable, speaking, and he had addressed Joe before. A pocket light flashed out.

"I figgered it was you, Cawnpone. Gone to pearling after nightfall, huh? I heered your tongs rakin' agin' th' gunneis of your boat—or the Frenchman's boat, I reckon I'd ought to say. Kinda queer, you bein' so 'tarnally sot agin' pearlin', too!" The constable, while commenting, snapped a rusty handcuff on one of Joe's wrists and marched off toward the town, Joe holding back and protesting.

"I jest come over to git me some snuff, Lafe!" he pleaded in defense. "Why can't you let a feller alone when he ain't aimin' to do nobody no harm—"

"Shut up!"

Silently they proceeded through the deserted street to the one compartment log calaboose at the end. In silence, still, the door was opened and closed—and Cornpone, for one night at least, was rendered harmless to his fellow men.

"Theahs othch nights—an' othch pearls," he gritted under his breath, as he composed himself on the narrow bunk to wait for daylight. "An' don't you forgit it, Lafe Ball, fern ye!"

But when dawn came Joe's ears were greeted by certain news that took the fight completely out of him, causing him to sink back on his bunk, inert, too numb to swear.

"Yes, suh!" the constable was saying to a companion, as he unlocked the calaboose door. "French ain't kickin' none! Th' dern galoot tonged up some mussels whilst he was waitin' last night, an' when Dupree opened them this mornin' he run on to a pearl, fust thing, that's as big as a kid's taw—wuth a thousand dollars of any man's money. Cawnpone, th' sneak, had it right under his hand, but he was too doggone lazy to find it! Think of it—big as a kid's taw an' wuth a thousand if it's wuth a dime!"

The Swamp White Oak

The swamp white oak is known to botanists as Quercus bicolor. The name is applied because of the two distinct colors of the leaf in summer—dark green above and almost white underneath. The leaves are not deeply lobed and are wedge shaped at the base. About the easiest means of identifying the swamp white oak is by the acorns. They usually grow in pairs and always stand out prominently on the ends of stems about two inches long. Mature swamp white oaks usually are two or three feet in diameter and 60 to 70 feet tall. The trees are native to most of the northeastern quarter of the country. The wood closely resembles that of ordinary white oak and is used for the same purposes.

Garibaldi to His Troops

After Rome had surrendered to the French in 1848, Garibaldi addressed his men in the square of St. Peter's: "I offer you hunger, thirst, cold—no pay, no barracks, no rations—forced marches, bayonet charges, battles, death. Whoever loves Italy in his heart and not with his lips only, let him follow me! We leave from the Lateran gate." Four thousand men followed him.

Twin Superstition

In Nigeria, twin babies are looked upon by the natives as having been fathered by the devil. One is always either poisoned or thrown outside the village into the bush to be starved and eaten by the wild beasts. Often the mother is thrown out, too. Christian natives will tip off the missionaries, who rescue these unfortunates and nurse them back to health and life.

prize he's been looking for all season. Another last day successful hunter was Ray Shearer and added to the previous list must be Plenny Genett, who bagged one over east.

It's been a long time since I saw more general and prettier Christmas decorations than Charlevoix has this year. Nothing helps generating the old Yuletide spirit any more than plenty of colored lights, tinsels and such seasonal trappings.

See by a news item in the Traverse City Record-Eagle where our genial Myron Culver, owner and operator of Culver & Beaudoin Trolling Camp, has opened a new automobile agency in Traverse City.

Maybe you noticed how Colorado handles the matter of sportsmanship among hunters, but if you didn't you'd probably be interested same as I was. They've drawn up a new code out there, and if the hunters don't adhere to it this year, there won't be a hunting season in 1940. The code is simple. It says only that a hunter shall request permission from a farmer to hunt on his land and that the hunter shall "conduct himself as a gentleman and a sportsman."

It sure is a corker how a man slips sometimes. Last week I told about the 185-pound bear Warren Shapton killed and forgot entirely to mention a 300-pounder Charlie Bellinger bagged up near Racco and a small one Art Staley killed over east of Vanderbilt. My humble pardun, boys.

And just as a reminder—there's only 15 more shopping days before Christmas. And as far as I can find out President Roosevelt hasn't changed the date.

One comforting realization came out of the special session of the board of supervisors held Friday and Saturday to wrestle with the welfare problem. Our county solons have so far shown an inclination to pay as they go as far as welfare is concerned, refusing to appropriate beyond funds available. If such an attitude had been taken a couple years ago, the greater share of Michigan's counties wouldn't be so heavily in debt as they are now. It's the only sensible position to take. So when clients apply at the welfare office for relief and are refused, they'll know it's because relief is only being given to the extent of money avnilahle. That relief is now beyond the stage of abuse by those who applied because it was "easy picking" and is boiled down the the cases of dire need, is as it should have been in the first place.

Talked with one of the boys who is working in Detroit and he said there must be somewhere in the neighborhood of 75 Charlevoix fellows working in one plant. He said the boss wanted to know when the Charlevoix gang, seeings how most of the town must be down there, was going to elect a mayor and other city officials.

Now that the deer hunting season has slipped by without any snow, guess most people would just as soon have the weather continue just as it is. It's been a beautiful fall so far.

With Keith Carey at center, and "Tinker" Kirby and Dan Gallagher at guards, Alma College opens its basketball season Thursday night. The Carey-Gallagher combination was one of the best ever turned out by C. H. S.

On another page in this issue appears the picture of a fellow we all know. It is none other than "Chet" Bonney, with the conservation department at Baldwin. "Chet" used to run the rainbow spearers ragged up on the Jordan river and holds a warm spot in the hearts of all local sportsmen.

The annual Christmas Bazaar and cafeteria supper will be given by the Methodist Ladies Literary and Sewing Club at the Methodist church, Wednesday, Dec. 13.—Adv. 49t1.

ILLEGAL CUTTING XMAS TREES WILL BE CURBED

District Conservation Officers Warn of Campaign Planned

Conservation officers in this district, which comprises of Emmet, Cheboygan, Charlevoix, Otsego and Antrim counties, plan an intensive drive against persons cutting and removing Christmas trees from lands without permission.

In the last several years Christmas tree stealing has become quite a racket, unscrupulous operators have gone on state and private property without permission and cut beautiful stands of second growth spruce and balsam, loaded them on trucks and drove away before property owners had time to discover their loss.

The law provides that it is unlawful to cut, remove or transport Christmas trees or evergreen boughs or other wild trees for decorntive purposes or for sale, without the written consent or a bill of sale from the owner of the land on which the same were grown. The written permission must contain the legal description of the land from which the trees are cut. Truckers hauling them must have this written permit in their possession when so engaged.

Fines up to $500.00 and imprisonment may be imposed by courts for violations of this act and officers plan vigorous prosecution of all persons apprehended.

Officers are also carefully checking state owned and delinquent tax lands to prevent the unlawful removal of Christmas trees as well as other timber.

DASHNER-LEMIEUR WEDDING EVENT OF NOVEMBER 29TH AT PETOSKEY

The wedding of Miss Helen Dashner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Dashner of Petoskey, and Ralph A. Lemieur, formerly of this city, was solemnized in St. Francis church, Petoskey, at 9 o'clock Wednesday morning, November 29.

Rev. Fr. Malachy Cashman, O. F. M., performed the ceremony in the presence of the immediate families and guests. The couple's attendants were Miss Madelin Lemieur, sister of the groom, as maid of honor, and Milton Dashner, brother of the bride, as best man.

A wedding breakfast for the immediate families was served at the home of the bride's parents, with a reception following. After a brief wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Lemieur will make their home in Petoskey.

NEWSPAPER ADS CITED BY SCHMIDTS BREWERY AFTER SUCCESSFUL YEAR

Genrge Schmidt, president of The Schmidt Brewing Company, reports that 1939 will end as one of the most successful years in the history of the brewery.

Inasmuch as newspapers were used primarily to advertise Schmidt's beer, Mr. Schmidt, declares that credit should be given newspaper advertising for the splendid results secured. This fact, combined with a good product, and good sales management made possible the fine results thnt were secured.

Mr. Schmidt further states that newspapers will again receive the hulk of the Schmidt's advertising budget for 1940. Simnns-Michelson Company, Detroit, is the advertising ngency for Schmidt's.

CHARLEVOIX LOSES FIRST CAGE GAME

DEFEATED 38 TO 15 BY PETOSKEY HERE FRIDAY

Reserves Dropped Preliminary by 18 to 15 Count—Rayders Play at Harbor Springs This Week

Charlevoix's Red Rayders were defeated 38 to 15 by the class B Petoskey Northmen in the opening contest of their 1939-40 schedule here Friday night.

Coach Ray Kipke put five players engaging in their first varsity competition on the floor Friday night. They showed their inexperience by doing most everything a "green" player would be expected to do. They revealed a fighting spirit, however, that will go along nicely with the experience they will gain in subsequent contests.

For the first few moments it looked like there was to be a real ball game. Petoskey counted with a goal first and Carey followed with a duece to match the score. Petoskey went on from there to lead 12 to 3 at the quarter, 21 to 6 at the half and 28 to 11 at the third intermission.

The Rayders managed four goals and made good on 7 out of 15 tries from the foul line. White scored 5, Carey 4, Rowe 3, Kohler 2 and Gill 1. Garby was high for Petoskey with 13 points, followed closely by Young with 10. Petoskey made 6 out of 12 free throws.

Charlevoix reserves lost a close contest to the Petoskey reserves in the preliminary by a 18 to 16 count. It was an interesting game with some fine ball handling by the Charlevoix youngsters.

The Rayders go to Harbor Springs for their next contest Friday night. They meet Gaylord here on December 20th, and Mancelona here on December 22nd.

ESTEEMED WOMAN TAKEN BY DEATH

MRS. R. B. ARMSTRONG DIED OF PNEUMONIA TUESDAY

Widely Identified in Women's Clubs, Civic and Political Activities— Funeral Friday Morning

Charlevoix and northern Michigan last one of its most prominent women in the death early Tuesday evening of Mrs. Robert Bruce Armstrong.

Mrs. Armstrong succumbed to pneumonia at Little Traverse Hospital, Petoskey, where she was taken last Saturday. In a futile effort to save her life, an oxygen tent from Charlevoix Hospital was rushed to her aid. She died at 6:40 p. m.

Maude Studor was born in Saginaw, February 12, 1869. She graduated from Saginaw high school and normal and taught school there prior to her marriage to Dr. Robert Bruce Armstrong on June 28, 1893. In the fall of that year the couple came to Charlevoix.

For 45 years Mrs. Armstrong had been active in community life as the wife of one of the pioneer doctors of this region and a leader in all organizations and movements directed toward the independence of women. Early in the century she met Susan B. Anthony in New York City and, inspired by this great leader, pioneered the cause of woman's suffrage. She was a staunch Republican and, as a recognition of her untiring work for the party, was made a Michigan delegate to the national Republican convention at Chicago in 1932.

Mrs. Armstrong was very active in civic affairs. She was a charter member and held many offices in the Shakespeare Study Club and had been president of the Northwestern District of State Federation of Women's Clubs, with which the Shakespeare Club is affiliated, had been a member of the board of education and active in the Woman's Christian Temperance Union. While not a member, she was active in the Congregational church. Widely traveled, Mrs. Armstrong brought her observations and experiences back to the groups with which she was affiliated with beneficial results. Her fraternal affiliations included the Eastern Star and Maccabees.

SHOT AT RANDOM

By Kon Usher

You always can learn something by reading the newspapers regularly. I've often wondered just how it was determined when a person was drunk, and the other day along comes an item in a daily newspaper quoting V. F. Garmley, state liquor control commissioner, as saying: "An intoxicated person is one who has to hang to the 'grass to stand up." There, you have it!

I was quite a bit puzzled over a recent news item regarding the Russian-Finnish war which related "5,000 Russian troops had been 'decimated' in a surprise Finnish attack." I thought at first the war correspondent responsible for the story had sort of "gone soft" and was trying to use a gentlemanly way of saying massacred. But upon looking up the word "decimated" found that it meant "one in every ten", so have come to the conclusion the writer was running true to most of the propaganda coming out of the European struggle to the extent of using "trick" words to make us poor innocent readers believe something really awful had happened. I was kind of let down by the true meaning, too, because my sympathy is with the Finns and I was genuinely sorry they hadn't really killed 5,000 Reds.

As strange as it may seem, there's still a place in Michigan where one can legally hunt deer despite the fact the regular season closed November 30th. That place is North Monitou Island, and the season is November 1 to December 20. The deer on the island do not belong to

"Here is where we came in."

Nearly one year has elapsed since a new administration took control of state government at Lansing, and the prevailing topic is still about the same as it was a year ago: Finances.

You will recall that the late Gov. Frank Fitzgerald held high hopes of effecting substantial economy in the cost of state government. His pledge of payroll reductions was a campaign issue. When Fitzgerald became governor, he emphasized the need of more local control—"home rule" if you please — instead of more and more centralization of power at Lansing, as has been the case for many administrations regardless of their political sponsorships.

This philosophy was shared by Luren D. Dickinson, and when he became governor the creed of economy was continued officially. The state legis-

Of the 3,111,000 brook trout planted, 162,000 were of legal size In numbers, walleyed pike or pike-perch led all the rest with a total of 240,508,000 planted in inland lakes nnd Great Lakes waters. Restocking of heavily fished waters with young fish artificially propagated or reared or transplanted, believed essential to support the fishing pressure of Michigan's million anglers, has been carried on in Michigan since 1873. Sixteen hatcheries, 13 trout rearing ponds and 40 bass and bluegill rearing ponds supply most of the fish planted, except perch, which are simply transplanted.

REFUSE MACKINAC ISLE SUMMER FERRY SERVICE

Highway Department Cites Interruption of Straits as Reason

State ferry boats at the Straits of Mackinac will not include stops at Mackinac Island in their summer schedule it was decided this week by the state highway department.

G. Donald Kennedy, deputy state highway commissioner and chairman of the Mackinac Straits Bridge Authority, rejected a request of the four tourist associations of Michigan that such stops be included in the 1940 schedule. Kennedy pointed out in a letter to J. Lee Barrett, of the Southeastern Michigan Tourist and Publicity Association, that such action would be likely to interfere with the orderly flow of traffic at the Straits. He did point out, however, that should a bridge be built across the Straits in the "reasonably near future, I can see no greater usefulness for our present equipment than to provide a service to the beautiful islands in the Straits of Mackinac."

Only happiness can teach the corners of the mouth to turn up.

"Yes, we have no bananas." So says Secretary Hull. I thought we raised quite a few. He says we import bananas, rubber, etc., etc., from foreign countries and that the farmers' income is up from what it was under the Republicans.' He didn't mention that little matter of the buying power being so much lower that it spoiled the extra income, and that the extra income was caused by the government's priming the pump with a little matter of 22½ billion dollars debt, and that 1,600 people in Cleveland, Ohio, are being fed on squash, onions and apples. He appears to be better in politics than in history and geography. Do we need Dewey? Appears so.

Com. Fischer tells of an excellent meeting of teachers at Kalkaska last week. A Swedish lady in broken English told of things in her native land. MERCHANTS' XMAS PARTY FINE EVENT

HUNDREDS OUT FOR THURSDAY NIGHT PROGRAM

Many Participants in Treasure Hunt for Children and Adults—Prize Winner Announced

If expressed public sentiment may be taken as an indication, last Thursday night's Christmas party staged by the Charlevoix Merchants' & Business Men's Association was one of the most successful holiday events ever conducted here.

From the "black-out" signaling the arrival of Santa Claus to the close of the adult treasure hunt, every feature of the program hrnught unqualified pralse from the hundreds turning out to participate.

The well worked-out details provided an unique feature through darkening of the business street on a aignal from the fire siren for a period of two minutes. Another siren blast brought the lights on again and heralded the arrival of Santa Claus (Sam Sorensen to you older people) atop the city fire truck in a procession led by the city police car, both with sirens screaming. The city band played on Bridge street and a group of carollers under the direction of Mrs. A. J. Stelter, sang from the school bus as it traveled up and down Bridge street.

The efforts of Santa Claus to provide favors for the kiddies nearly proved disastrous to the Jolly Old Fellow for he was literally mobbed by the hundreds of excited and anticipating children. It took three policemen to handle the situation as well as it was handled, but delay and confusion did not bother the youngsters a bit. Old Santa provided a feature of his own by taking the children on a tour of the stores, and in orderly manner, too.

The treasure hunts for children and adults both drew a large entry. In the juvenile hunt, first prize was divided by Douglas Russell, Ray Whitely and Jerome Whitely; second prize by Don and Joe Bellinger and Bill Rowe, and third prize by Don McDogie, Phyllis, Pat, Sarah and Phil Martin.

In the adult treasure hunt, first prize went to Mr. and Mrs. Bill Supernaw and Mr. and Mrs. Dean Davenport; second prize to Ookley Hammond, Harold Withers and Ray Hamilton and wives; third prize divided by Mrs. John Nordrum, Gene Supernaw and Florence Gibson.

EASTERN STAR CHAPTER INSTALLED OFFICERS ON WEDNESDAY EVENING

At installation ceremonies held Wednesday evening, December 6, by Charlevoix Chapter No. 72, O. E. S., Mrs. Arthur Wexstoff was installed in her new office of Worthy Matron, succeeding Mrs. C. S. Webster.

Installing officers were Mrs. Frank Courier, president of the Meguzee association, assisted by Mrs. Glenn S. See, as marshal; Mrs. Leo Carey as chaplain; and Mrs. Harold Miller, organist.

Miss Fannie Siminow took office as associate matron. The other new officers are: Dr. F. F. McMillan, worthy patron; H. R. Fowler, associate patron; Mrs. Charles Bellinger, secretary; Mrs. Engle VanAllsburg, treasurer; Mrs. Joseph Smith, Jr., organist; Mrs. Albert Cook, conductress; Mrs. Lloyd Curtis, associate conductress; Mrs. Robert Bonthron, chaplain; Mrs. C. S. Webster, marshal; Mrs. S. O. Sorenson, warder; and Mrs. Edword K. Shanahan, sentinel. The five Star Points are: Ada, Miss Wilma See, Ruth, Mrs. Harold Lamb; Esther, Mrs. Edgar Behrens; Martha, Mrs. Harry Walstead; and Electa, Mrs. C. M. Bice.

The new matron was presented with gifts from friends and officers of the lodge, and a lovely bouquet of red roses from her husband. She was welcomed by twelve girls who represented the months of the year, and spoke appropriate verses of welcome.

Mrs. Webster, the retiring worthy matron, received gifts from the officers who have worked with her the past year, and a past matrons' pin. She had planned the program, and several committees worked under her supervision to deck the hall with evergreen and other decorations in keeping with the Christmas season. An arch of evergreen, forming the new matrons' name, was lighted with colored lights. Candles lit the dining table, from which a delicious buffet supper was served.

Card of Thanks

We take this method of thanking Veterans of Foreign Wars, the American Legion and the many friends for their gifts and acts of thoughtfulness during the illness of our mother and son. These expressions have been deeply appreciated. Leslie Everts and family.—Adv. 50t1pd.

CHARLEVOIX CENTRAL LAKE

NUMEROUS CHANGES FOR INLAND WATERS

NEW $1 LICENSE IS EFFECTIVE JANUARY 1ST

Limit Changes on Bass and Perch, Daily Catch Limits on Other Species Included in Changes

Limit changes on bass and perch, and the imposition of restrictions upon the daily catch of northern pike, lake trout, white bass and land-locked salmon are important features of the "Michigan Sportsmen Fishing Law" passed by the 1939 Legislature and effective January 1, 1940.

Summarized, the new provisions of the law are as follows:

The closing of Houghton Lake in Roscommon county to spearing thru the ice. The act became effective last summer to prevent spearing this December.

Increase of the limit on large and small mouth bass from five to 10 per day in the Great Lakes and connecting waters. The daily limit remains at five on inland lakes.

Reduction of the daily limit on perch from 25 to 15. This provision, applied to Houghton lake, covers all other inland waters, according to an interpretation by the attorney-general.

New Perch Limit

Daily limits of five on northern pike; white bass, 10; lake trout, five; whitefish, seven, and landlocked salmon, five.

Bluegills and sunfish cannot be taken through the ice from 6 p. m. E. S. T. to 6 a. m. This provision abolishes night fishing for these species.

All fishermen on inland waters must purchase a general rod license costing $1.

The closing of all lakes designed as pike lakes from March 1 to May 15 in the lower peninsula and March 15 to May 15 in the upper peninsula.

Northern pike, walleyes and muskellunge can be taken from the inland waters of inland lakes any time these waters are open to fishing. These species are protected, however, in lakes Erie and Huron and connecting waters from March 5 until April 10, and in lakes Michigan and Superior from April 1 to May 20.

New License Fee

Forty cents out of each $1 license will be used for the purpose of buying land to provide public access to lakes now difficult to reach; for improvement of lakes and streams by construction of wing dams, whirlpools and eddies, and artificial cover for young fish, and for research. This fund will run over $250,000 a year, according to estimates by the conservation department.

The status of many pike and trout lakes has been changed by a special order of the conservation commission. A complete list of these lakes and the changes in fishing regulations will be published this month in a new pocket digest of fishing laws, which will be given to each fisherman when he purchases his license.

This is no backroom brawl. This is Armageddon.—Heywood Broun.

IMPROVEMENT

Something is happening to the American people. We certainly are getting into a better state of mind.

For a long time, after repeated disappointments and discouragements, most of us were living in a state of disillusionment. There seemed to be general doubt about business ever getting any better. Enterprise was apparently dead on its feet. Hardly anybody had much faith left in our economic system. Some had no faith any longer in our political system.

And look at things now, with business and industrial and employment records being broken again, just like old times, and the stores full of buyers and a wonderful Christmas in sight.

We were just as pessimistic for a while about the war. Most of us seemed to feel that it was going to be the worst conflict ever, and that we couldn't keep out of it. Yet here we are, going steadily about our business and most of us already assured that we can go our own way and make our own destiny.

Another thing sincerely disliked about the School of Experience is that it never suspends for a vacation.

OUTLINE FEATURES 1940 FARM PROGRAM

ACREAGE GOALS AND PAYMENTS ARE ANNOUNCED

National Soil-Depleting Crop Goal Between 270 and 285 Million Acres Has Been Set Up

The national acreage goals for principal crops and the rates at which participating farmers can earn payments under the 1940 Agricultural Conservation Program were announced this week.

Commenting on the 1940 farm program, Walter H. Henley, Charlevoix county AAA chairman, said that the new program is basically the same as in 1939, except that it offers more opportunities for soil conservation. Mr. Henley also said that more opportunities for participation by small farms are included in the 1940 program.

A national soil-depleting crop goal of between 270 and 285 million acres has been set. This is the same as the 1939 goal. This acreage, at normal yields, will provide ample supplies for all domestic needs, for export requirements, and for an adequate reserve.

The total wheat allotment is 62 million acres, or 7 million higher than 1939. The corn allotment for the commercial area is about 4½ million acres below 1939. The reduction in the corn allotment has been made because of the large quantity of corn which is now in storage all through the corn belt.

Payments on the normal yields of alloted acreages of corn, wheat, potatoes and commercial vegetables will again be made to participating farmers. Lower acreage goals for corn have resulted in a higher rate of payment.

Following are the 1940 conservation program payment rates on important Michigan crops:

	1940	1939
Corn, per bu.	$ .10	$ .09
Wheat, per bu.	.09	.17
Potatoes, per bu.	.03	.03
Commercial vegetables, per acre	1.50	1.50
General, soil-depleting crops, per acre	1.10	.99

The payments for wheat and corn will be supplemented by parity payments if the 1939 season average price is less than 75 per cent of parity. These payments are designed to lift farm purchasing power to the level it occupied before the World War.

The rates per acre which will be used in computing payments for carrying out approved soil-building practices are practically the same as for 1939. The only exception is the increase in the allowance for non-depleting acreage from 50 to 55 cents per acre. The minimum payment to small farms has been increased to $20, and each farm may earn as much as $30, in addition to all other payments, for planting forest trees.

The change in the amount of credit farmers can earn by soil-building practices is one of the most important revisions in the 1940 program. As a means of obtaining more conservation, the rate of credit has been reduced for several soil-building practices which are normally carried out on a large proportion of farms. By reducing the rate of credit for these practices, increased emphasis is given to soil-building practices which are not normally carried out on a large number of farms. Changes in the credits do not affect the amount which a farmer may earn by soil-building, but merely change the requirements for earning it. As a result of changes in credit for practices, it is anticipated that farmers will use their soil-building allowances for increasing conservation practices badly needed, while maintaining those practices normally carried out.

SOCIAL SECURITY BENEFITS SOON AVAILABLE

Workers at Age 65 May Retire on Benefits After January 1

The enlarged Social Security Act considers the family as a unit, whereas the original plan provided for payment of monthly benefits only to individual workers who retired at age 65 or thereafter. This explanation of the amended old-age and survivors insurance program was given today by W. Scott Hamlin, manager of the Social Security Board field office in Traverse City.

"Under the original program only the worker himself could get monthly benefits, and then after a minimum of five years service in employment covered by the Social Security Act," Mr. Hamlin said.

"Under the new program a worker may retire in 1940 instead of in 1942 as originally provided. If the worker has a wife over 65 his benefits will be increased 50 per cent through supplemental benefits to which the wife will be entitled.

"If an insured worker dies his aged widow, after January 1, 1940, may receive a widow's benefit amounting to 75 per cent of the benefit to which her husband would have been entitled at the time of his death. Benefits also are provided for widows with dependent children and for the dependent children of insured workers who die.

"The Social Security Board is now ready to receive claims for benefits, payment of which will start in January, 1940, "Mr. Hamlin said.

PYTHIAN LODGE OPENS DRIVE AGAINST 'ISMS'

First Meeting Held Sunday Afternoon at Traverse City

The first meeting of the newly organized Northern Area Pythian Organization, to be known in the future as the N.A.P.O., was held Sunday afternoon in Traverse City under the personal direction of District Deputy Grand Chancellor Harold Olsen of Manistee.

Attending from Charlevoix were E. J. Edwards, Earl Shapton and Dan Genett.

Representatives of the northern Michigan lodges were disappointed in not being able to hear the scheduled speaker, A. L. Fitch, who was confined to bed by illness. J. Howard Wendorp substituted as speaker, and the subject of his talk was that which was originally announced, "Americanism." Mr. Wendorp said that a recent survey of the senior class in a southern Michigan high school revealed that 32 per cent of the class favored the Communistic form of government, and urged his audience to make a personal survey in this northern vicinity to try and determine to what extent Communistic activity is being practiced here.

January 14 was selected as the date for the next meeting of the organization, to be held here, and arrangements are being made for a speaker to discuss the various "isms" which are now active in this country.

Tuesday, December 5th. Another Farm Bureau get-together! A large crowd was present and games were fully enjoyed by all, thanks to our faithful game leader, Adolph Ecklund.

A business meeting followed. It was announced that the officers had selected at a special meeting committees to work on our winter program. Two of these are: program committee—Adolph Ecklund as chairman, Iva Howe and Elsie Hilton; finance committee—Lula Mitchell as chairman, Edward Vratanina and Chuck Cellner. A very interesting group discussion took place next, our subject being, "What Might Be Done at Our Meetings." This was followed by a summary of all the groups.

Our delegates, Merle Blanchard, Freda Willis and Edward Vratanina, accompanied by Cal Carey of Traverse City, are attending the National Youth Convention at Chicago this week.

The Junior Farm Bureau is serving the Annual Co-Ops and Senior Farm Bureau Banquet, at which they are expecting about 100 people, on Tuesday, December 12. The banquet will be followed by a program, also sponsored by the Junior Farm Bureau.

Our next meeting will be held on Tuesday, December 19, at the Marion Center hall.

the state of Michigan. They are owned by the Manitou Island Association, which introduced the deer to the island and has control through obtaiping a breeder's license from the Conservation Department each year. Don't get too excited, though, for there are some obstacles that most of us ordinary fellows couldn't hurdle if we got the idea we might go hunting there. First there is a special hunting fee of $75 for a buck or $60 for a doe. Each hunter is required to hire u guide at $9 a day or $5 for four hnurs. Board and room on the island costs $5 per day and you also have to get there. Until I'm convinced otherwise, I'll stick to the contention no deer is worth that much. Estimates place the number of deer on the island at 500, or between 20 und 25 deer to the square mile. That's not as thick as the hunters nre some places over east. You wouldn't have to worry about hunters being tnn thick on Manitou Island though, for they have it arranged so no other hunter hunts in the territory you are hunting, nor are you allowed to hunt in the other fellow's territory.

The Steiners, Carl and the Missus, together with the latter's sister, Rae Graveur, are now located at Mount Plymouth, Fla., for the winter. They wanted to know if we were snowed in up here, so will answer by saying the temperature today (Saturday) is 52 degrees, more like spring than winter, and that we've yet to have our first real snowfall.

Friends of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Martindale helped them celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary on December 5th. The Martindales resided in Charlevoix up to 1900 when they moved to Harbor Springs.

If you think President Roosevelt is going to put it over the calendar manufacturers again by meddling with the Thanksgiving date another year, you've got another guess coming. Got our first 1940 calendar the other day and I sure got a kick out of noticing it had two Thanksgiving dates — one on November 21st and the other on November 28th. Nobody is going to put the calendar manufacturers on "the spot" another year. I'm surprised they weren't just cautious enough to provide two dntes for every holiday.

And speuking about the unusual, there's a bouquet of flowers on a counter at the Min-Eva Restaurant that Mrs. Minnie Gregory picked last Sunday (December 10) nt the Shantz farm home in Hayes township. Our winter doesn't uppear to he any nearer than it was a month ago except thnt the calendar reads December 13th.

Hats off to Charlevoix merchants for their initiative in promoting the most beautiful Christmas street and store decorations we've seen in many years.

HIGHWAY DEPT. TO REMOVE ROADSIDE SIGNS

May Assess Cost to Property Owners Who Disregard Orders

The state highway department has outlined a definite procedure to compel removal of advertising signs within trunk line rights-of-way.

At the direction of State Highway Commissioner Murray D. VanWagoner, directions as to procedure have been sent all highway department assistant district engineers and county maintenance superintendents.

In direct organization counties, responsibility for initiative action was placed on county superintendents and in contract counties on assistant district engineers.

These officials were directed to notify owners of "permanent" signs, those firmly built at considerable financial outlay, 30 days before having crews remove the signs. If the work is done by maintenance crews, the costs are to be assessed against sign owners.

In the case of "nuisance" signs, those of a temporary nature such as lunch room advertisements, only a verbal warning will be given. Removal costs, if the work is done by maintenance crews, will be assessed against owners.

The maintenance division has set up a central office in Lansing to keep records of costs and procedure.

HOLIDAY TREES REQUIRE WATER

It's nearly time to select and decorate a Yuletide tree, which brings up that perennial question of what kind of a tree will best hold its needles or what can be done to a tree to make it hold its needles until the holiday season is over.

Experiences and knowledge of a forester in the extension service of Michigan State College, W. Ira Bull, offer pointers.

Balsam fir and pines hold their needles longer than spruce, Forester Bull says. Pines are readily identified because they have needles two to four inches long compared to the one-inch needles on spruce and fir. Spruce and fir bear single needles, while clusters of two, three or five are found on pine branches.

"Most confusing are spruce and fir," says Mr. Bull. "But here's a little trick. Bluck a needle from each tree and try to turn these needles over and over between the thumb and finger. The needle that turns readily and appears to have three to four sides is spruce. The fir needle is flat, so it will not turn when pressure is applied by the thumb."

Here are the man's tips on tree care: Fresh cut trees keep in better condition in the house than trees cut two weeks or a month before Christmas. There is a wax spray now sold commercially that can be applied to freshly cut trees to prevent needles from falling.

Trees purchased from a store or sales lot are partially dry before they reach the consumer. These trees, however, will keep in better condition if three to four inches of the dried butt end are cut off and the freshly cut stub end placed in water or in a pail of wet sand.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SOCIETY

Sunday morning service, 10:45.
Sunday school, 12 o'clock.
Meets first Wednesday evening of each month at 7:45 p. m.
Reading room open Saturday, 3 to 5 p. m.

We cordially invite the public to our service and reading room.

"Is the Universe, Including Man, Evolved by Atomic Force?" will be the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Christian Science churches thruout the world on Sunday, December 17, 1939.

The Golden Text (Psalms 145:10, 11) is: "All thy works shall praise thee, O Lord; and thy saints shall bless thee. They shall speak of the glory of thy kingdom, and talk of thy power."

Among the Bible citations is this passage (Isaiah 45:18): "For thus saith the Lord that created the heavens; God himself that formed the earth and made it; he hath established it, he created it not in vain, he formed it to be inhabited: I am the Lord; and there is none else."

Correlative passages to be read from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, include the following (p. 256): "All things are created spiritually. Mind, not matter, is the creator. Love, the divine Principle, is the Father and Mother of the universe, including man."

Behind the Scenes of the Christmas Rush

Months in advance, the big department stores have to know what you're going to get for Christmas — and what you plan to give, as well. J. D. Radcliff takes you behind the scenes of a modern big store and shows you how your needs are anticipated and met. Be sure to read this article. It appears in This Week, the magazine with Sunday's Detroit News.

Lady Do You Drive? Are you a female menace on wheels, madam; or just a misunderstood martyr who really drives as well as a man—or perhaps even a little better? There's a simple test that will tell what kind of a driver you are in The American Weekly, the magazine distributed with next Sunday's Chicago Herald-American.

AND CHRISTMAS COMING

Christmas already is close at hand. Federal statistics hold that the people of the nation will have more money to spend than in several years past. Federal agencies of one sort or another hold that employment is on the increase, that it has reached a peak since 1929. They hold, too, that earnings of workers of all kinds are at the top for ten years and that business is more prosperous than at any time since the big crash.

But the money to spend, the employment, the earnings, the prosperity are far from being as great as it might be. Right in the city of Detroit, a strike without reason went on for nearly two months. Employment was available but because of a small coterie no fewer than 150,000 men were unemployed, were earning nothing and the great corporation for which they might be working was not enjoying the possible prosperity.

No less than $3,000,000 a day has this strike taken from the envelopes of the workers and the channels of trade. Nearly 60 days was the strike on. The loss to Santa Claus, to Christmas business, then is $180,000,000. This is a tidy sum to be withheld from Christmas business, from earnings, from employment, from prosperity. That is $180,000,000 needlessly lost to business and that affects almost every conceivable business and almost every conceivable worker. If a dollar is taken from the toy business, that's a dollar which will not be paid to some person who makes toys. If a dollar is taken from the shoe business, that's a dollar which will not be paid to the maker of shoes. And so it goes into every possible line of business and into every home in the nation. Some $180,000,000 already lost to Santa Claus; $180,000,000 withheld from Christmas buying; $180,000,000 lost with no possible good reason. When will the automotive workers awaken to what is happening to him through his following of false leadership?

INTERRUPTED BUSINESS

One reason why business in general is not keen about war orders is that it learned a good deal about war business last time and has not forgotten the lesson. War orders are rarely added to normal orders. Often they mean an end to the normal business, or a sharp reduction, so that the abnormal purchases may be paid for.

Thus war orders of the immediate future may not do any more than fill the gap left by the withdrawal of our war customers' peacetime business, and there is sure to be more disruption before there is effective restoration of such business after a war is over.

Real profit and progress come more steadily from normal business than from non-constructive, specialized war business.

Food Variety Increases

Today and a half century ago show remarkable differences in amounts of protective foods eaten by the average American, say home economists at Michigan State College. Better food handling methods offer more variety year around in supplies of milk, tomatoes, citrus fruits, green leafy vegetables as well as canned fruits and vegetables and meats.

Chairs for Park Visitors

Indian woodworkers, at Pellston, put finishing touches on rustic chairs which will be placed in state park buildings. Several hundred northern Michigan Indians are employed on a WPA Indian handicraft project sponsored by the Michigan department of conservation. Besides furniture, they make snowshoes, baskets and other articles of practical use. The projects will be carried forward during the winter in several localities. Hundreds of pieces of furniture have been fashioned for park buildings and department field headquarters

ECONOMIST SEES GOOD YEAR FOR THE FARMER

Prospects for 1940 Are Claimed to Be Exceedingly Bright

Operators of the state's 196,000 farms can afford to be optimistic about prospects for 1940.

In the opinion of R. V. Gunn, Michigan State College agricultural economist, prices for most farm products should average higher than they did in either 1938 or 1939. His survey is a result of studying probable demands and supplies and estimating Michigan's condition for the next twelvemonth. He has probed possibilities of production and consumption and he has taken war factors into consideration.

"Demand for farm products is expected to be considerably stronger in 1940," says the economist. "Reasons are found largely in prospective increases in domestic business activity and in consumer income levels.

"Don't expect a runaway market because of war conditions. Europe is much better supplied with food and other materials than in 1914. Even if we could expect war price increases we ought to remember that during the World War of a quarter century ago farm prices did not advance materially for the first two years."

MICHIGAN OFFERS CHRISTMAS FOODS

Hail to a state that need bow to no other when it comes to filling nearly all the needs for what will appear on the dinner table at Christmas time.

Turkey, cranberry sauce and many of the trimmings can be Michigan products, it is pointed out by Miss Helen Baeder, instructor in foods at Michigan State College.

Even with the volume and the quality that producers try to maintain in poultry, fruits and vegetables, it still remains good management to do some of the shopping in person. Miss Baeder sees advantages in knowing quality and being able to select topnotch foods for this special holiday meal.

The turkey, she says, ought to be young and that means a soft flexible breastbone on the bird. The dressed turkey's skin should be velvet-like and neither torn nor scuffed from picking feathers. The bird ought to have a broad breast with meat and fat well distributed.

Cape Cod cranberries retain their early lead in volume, but Michigan has some production along with such other states as Wisconsin, New Jersey, Washington and others in the west and east.

Celery is another traditional food to remember for this holiday shopping list. Its quality, especially if it is Michigan grown, is at its height at this time of year.

Among the fruits, Michigan can offer wide volume and good quality in apples. For citrus fruit, however, the shopper turns to what comes from southern states. When selecting oranges, Miss Baeder points out, it is good practice to pick those that have a smooth skin and glossy sheen and seem to be heavy for their size.

AT THE MOVIES

Two Americans Face Death in Drama Packed Film, "Barricade"

With Alice Faye and Warner Baxter together for the first time as a romantic team, "Barricade" stars these two top-notch 20th Century-Fox personalities in a thrilling modern story of startling realism. It opens December 16 at the Palace Theatre and advance reports give every indication that this is an exciting adventure-romance not to be missed.

The veteran character actor, Charles Winninger, is featured in the film with Arthur Treacher, Keye Luke and Willie Fung. Winninger portrays the heroic American consul to whose compound come a little group of American and British refugees fleeing the bandit terror.

Also to this little fortress come Alice Faye, in the role of a night-club entertainer fleeing from murder, and Warner Baxter as a newshawk after her story.

O. Henry on Film

One of the best-loved of all O. Henry stories, "A Double-Eyed Deceiver," comes to the screen as "The Llano Kid" in Paramount's new outdoor action drama, which is scheduled December 21, 22 for the Palace Theatre. With handsome, guitar-playing Tito Guizar playing the title role, "The Llano Kid" tells a rapid-action tale of a daring young desperado who doubles for the long-lost son of a wealthy Mexican family in the hope of robbing it. Guizar is assisted by a large east, including Gale Sondergaard, Alan Mowbray and Jane Clayton, pretty Paramount starlet.

War is the silliest, most stupid of all of man's contrivances. — Henry Ford.

nature resisted many requests for state aid; state welfare appropriations were cut from an expended total of approximately $15,000,000 for the fiscal year ending July 1, 1939 to $8,750,000. On paper the budget was to be balanced; millions of dollars were to be saved.

Payrolls Increase

Reflecting to a certain extent the legislators' mood for economy was its decision to slice drastically the appropriation for administration of civil service. Then the civil service act was overhauled; the revision bill was tagged "ripper bill" by admioistration critics.

In the light of all these efforts for economy, payrolls were expected to decline. Financially, the present administration can not be held responsible for appropriations made for the period ending July 1, 1939. Any payroll statements must be subject to this condition.

Apparently contradictory to the economy efforts was the discovery in October that payrolls of state government had reached a new high for the first nine months of 1939. In dollars the all-time peak of spending was $19,368,651, compared with $18,789,074 for the same period in 1938; $17,214,734 in 1937; $14,417,076 in 1936.

Examination of the payroll record shows that a mere handful of state departments and agencies were responsible for most of the payroll increase. Among the state departments which effected economy in payrolls were the auditor general, attorney general, banking, civil service, governor's office, highway, liquor control, oldage assistance, public service, sales tax, secretary of state, and welfare. Departments showing an increase were agriculture, conservation, employment service, health, labor, public instruction, state police, treasurer, and unemployment compensation.

Federal Aid Agencies

Two state departments — employment service and unemployment compensation — deal heavily in federal funds. Their payrolls appear on the state record, but their major source of income is the money which employers and employees contribute in social security payments. The unemployment compensation commission derives all its funds from Washington; the employment service is financed jointly by Washington and Lansing.

These two agencies, offsprings of the Roosevelt New Deal, represent a total of $643,607 in higher payrolls for the nine month period of 1939.

Of course, the same condition as to these two agencies existed during Frank Murphy's administration. New agencies of goverooment, created usually to meet demands of the public, are usually responsible for payroll increases, and the Dickinson and Murphy administrations are recent examplea of how it works out.

Government costs have grown steadily from $66,559,214 in 1922-23 to $247,084,041 in 1938-39. What has been responsible for this revolutionary change?

Shift in Collections

The major reason for this increase according to state officials at Lansing, has been a decline in local responsibility at home and a corresponding increase in centralized responsibility at Lansing. Aholishment of the state property tax and levying of a general sales tax was one illustration of the process.

Auditor General Vernon J. Brown revealed a few days ago that $129,000,000 collected this year by the state would be returned to local or independent units of government or spent for local rather than for state purposes. This is 80 per cent of the state's spendable revenue.

Governor Dickinson points out that "if we can stop the growth permanently, even if we aren't able to make a reduction in the cost of government, I think we will have made a big accomplishment."

From the office of the state budget director comes comforting news that, despite payroll increases, the state has spent two million dollars less than it did a year ago. Dickinson phrases the financial trend as being at a "pivot" and adds that "if we can start costs downward instead of upward, our administration will have made still more of an accomplishment.

Home Rule?

It is the governor's belief that additional funds for relief, for example, should be financed by home governments. "Counties, cities and townships can legally borrow money, which the state cannot do," he explained. And again, "it is easier to call a special session of a board of supervisors than the state legislature.

Municipal officials, backed by organized labor, are inclined to shift the burden on the state. The relief crisis at Toledo and Cleveland are timely illustrations of the general trend.

Will Governor Dickinson call a special session of the legislature to vote more funds for relief from a non-existent surplus in the state treasury? (Last Thursday night, December 7, Governor Dickinson said "it doesn't look to me that there are any immediate prospects of a special session—or that there will be any prospects very soon.")

Here is a December problem that strangely recalls headlines of one year ago.

Lady Do You Drive? And How Do You Drive?

An exceptionally interesting article, in The American Weekly, the great weekly magazine, with the December 17 issue of The Detroit Sunday Times, presents a questionnaire that enables women drivers to find out, once and for all, whether or not they are misunderstood martyrs, or if the way they drive is disgraceful.

What is neutrality, anyoow? When the teacher read of the crimes of the Roman emperor, Nero, and asked Jimmy Jones what was his idea of the character of Nero the potential politician replied: "He never done nothing to me." Was he right, or just cautious?

Michigan farm prices and farm income for 1940 are expected to average higher than in 1939 or 1938, says R. V. Gunn, agricultural economist at Michigan State College. Spectacular price advance because of the European war, however, are not expected to develop in the next 12 months. In the above graph, prices in 1910-1914 were used for an Index of 100.

YOUR MICHIGAN—AND MINE
Michigan Press Association

Rolling Bottle Explodes

Royal Oak—George Lyons, nine years old, was injured when a beer bottle exploded. An older youth was pushing a bottle along the sidewalk, and George bent over to examine it. As he did so, it exploded, showering him with glass.

It's Michigan Climate

St. Louis—Chalk up another freak of nature for Michigan's climate. Cherry trees at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Peacock worked overtime in November. Boughs which had been stripped of leaves bore white blossoms during one week of this near-winter month.

Did He Try to Even Score?

Harbor Springs—Maybe the deer in this story was trying to even the score for all the deer who have been hit by automobiles. As a group of local persons were driving home from Detroit recently, a deer beside the highway whirled and ran into the rear fender of their car, then jumped up and disappeared into the woods. The reverse accident happened near Roscommon.

Five Generations Living

Kinde — Five generations of one family, all girls, were present when Mrs. Rose Miller observed her 78th birthday recently. She was visited by her mother, daughter, granddaughter and great-granddaughter. Her mother, Mrs. Mary Cieslak, is 102 years old and is still active, doing housework and sewing without using glasses.

Grow's Dixie's Crop

Bangor — Harvest of an unusual crop for this section of the country was reported by Jay Abbot when he displayed several bolls of long staple cotton grown on his farm near here. Of a planting of two 10-foot rows, each plant produced at least one blossome and some cotton. Three plants survived even the first hard frost.

Pop Bottle Gets Pheasant

Nashville — Jimmy Bennett was walking home, carrying a bottle of pop he had just bought, when he came upon a live pheasant near the city park. Jim threw the bottle and bagged his bird, which weighed about four pounds. His father went hunting three times this year, with no luck.

Holds Business Record

Hastings—Henry C. Zuschnett of Nashville holds the Michigan record for continuous service in the hardware business, all of it in one store. He observed his 82nd birthday recently, and has clerked for 64 years in the "Glasgow Hardware" here.

Gets White Squirrel

Perry — Harry Nohel, who lives south of Perry, secured an unusual pet this fall. While in the woods, he captured a white fox squirrel. Except for its tail and the under part of its body, the animal was all white. The pet was quite a curiosity to his neighbors.

Concerning the sale of its Tennessee properties, Mr. Wendell L. Willkie, president of the Commonwealth and Southern Corp., said, "The loss of these properties will not be in vain if it serves to arouse the American people against government invasion of their business."

DISTRICT HEALTH UNIT

Measles Now Prevelent in This Area

Last month in the counties of Antrim, Charlevoix, Emmet and Otsego, we had a total of 56 cases of measles reported. It can generally be said that parents are more and more recognizing the seriousness of this disease. At approximately three-year intervals this disease spreads widely throughout a community, usually subsiding only when the children that have not had the diseuse are so few and so scattered that there are too few unprotected individuals to keep up the epidemic. So far in this District in 1939 we have had more deaths from measles than from any other communicable disease with the exception of tubereulosis.

Measles is a difficult disease to control, the organism causing it being unknown. It is very widespread, highly communieable, causing approximately 10,000 deaths each year among children. It is also interesting to note that nine-tenths of all measles deaths occur in children under five and that the older the child grows the less likely he is to suffer a severe attack of the disease.

As a rule this disease starts similar to a cold in the head, running nose, sneezing, eyes red and watery, usually accompanied by a slight fever. Later on the fever will go higher and small spots will appear in the mouth and red spots on the face and then sprend over the body. One thing the parent should do is to keep the room dark during this illness. Daylight or artificial light is detrimental to the eyes. During this period the patient should be very careful about the use of his eyes. Measles may be followed by nosebleed, laryngitis, ear troubles, bronchitis or pneumonin. For this reason one should not try to treat measles without a physician's advice, and should try to prevent its being spread to others, either in the home or nt school.

At the present time no method is known of immunizing children against measles although several methods of modifying the disease have been recommended. After a child has been exposed to measles it is generally accepted that serum or whole blood from an individual who has recently had the disease assists in preventing or modifying the course of the disease, provided it is given within five days after exposure.

CHRISTMAS

The time is soon at hand when the entire world should celebrate and commemorate the birth of the Saviour. This year it will approach the glorious festival of the nativity with a deep feeling of humility and sadness for those of God's chosen who are engaged in devastating wars. They have wandered far afield, having been led astray by the insane ambitions of mad dictators. For them this glorious holiday season holds naught but fear and suffering, with little hope for the future.

Let us rejoice that we are privileged to live in a country of free men and free institutions, mindful of the fact that we are perhaps the last pulwark of a democratic civilization. Let us dedicate ourselves and the coming season to the task of maintaining that freedom so that when the time comes, as it surely will, we may be in a position to lead a war weary world back into the channels of sane and sensible living.

Twenty centuries ago a humble carpenter lad wrote upon the tablets of human understanding the only course of safety a sinful world could pursue. We may forget His teachings for a time, we may in our ignorance elevate ourselves into a sphere of wisdom beyond our capabilities, but as certain as one day follows another we are at last faced with the truth of the teachings of the Master, and that as human beings we are dependent upon a source of power outside our individual selves for guidance and safety.

There is only one way back and that is the "way of the cross", and we must dwell on this thought as we gather around our hearthstones this glorious holiday season. Pray that peace everlasting will soon become universal.

OLD AGE

Retiring on account of advanced years is stoutly opposed by Roy Helton, writing for a current magazine. Retirement means unhappiness if it does not mean dependence on some pension plan. Forsaking responsibility and active interest in affairs is the most disheartening experience in life. The writer urges that the wisdom of age be retained as needed counsel and ballast for beginners. The consciousness of old age hurts most if one is forced into idleness and into accepting help from the young or from a paternalistic government instead of getting out of the way to make room for youth, the writer would have age help youth, or fill niches where age can best serve. The problem of old age would be best handled by maintaining interest in affairs and keeping busy. Old age at 65 or 70 still needs an opportunity and an independent life. The writer concludes: "We speak of social security for the aged as though all that matters is enough money to live on. That matters to the aging, as to everyone else; but handing out money alone does not give them nor the rest of us any important social security. We must think about the aged in terms of what they really need."—Wayne (Neb.) Herald.

APPLES

A mild controversy over apples has been running in one of the metropolitan daily's letter-box. Whether apples are as good today as in former years, and whether apples are cheap enough so that everyone can enjoy them, etc.

Finally an indignant correspondent suggests that too much space is being devoted to the trivial, such as apples, when the world is in chaos. War and its attendant horrors should occupy all our discussions, infers the writer.

Everyone in this country remembers the strained days while this war was still undeclared and the high-tension nerves of the people. How many continuous days of this sort could normal people stand? In England, for instance, the people immediately discovered that attention to the trivial details of their lives was the means of their keeping their sanity. One woman correspondent writes of how even air-raid alarms can be accepted calmly after one hears them repeated times; and that women friends can even sit through permanent waves or bridge games while the sirens screech.

Apples, or permanents, or bridge, we are grateful to these trivia that adjust our mental balance.

COUNCIL VOTES ADVERTISING FUNDS

CONTINUES RESORT ASSOCIATION SUPPORT

Appropriate $300 for Directory Advertisemeot—Purchase Portion L. P. Adams Property

Following a precedent of several years, the city council Monday night voted to continue its cooperation with the West Michigan Tourist & Resort Association in resort promotional efforts.

By a unanimous vote, the council authorized the expenditure of $300 for a page advertisement in the Association's annual directory, distributed to upwards of 22,000 persons making mail inquiry regarding west Michigan vacation facilities and thru its several information bureaus in mid-west cities.

Council members heard a talk by Hugh J. Gray, secretary of the West Michigan Tourist & Resort Association, who explained the many and varied promotional activities carried on during the year. Mr. Gray urged Charlevoix representation at four approaching travel and outdoor shows scheduled between January 14 and April 21 in Detroit, Cincinnati and Chicago. This city's representation at these shows in the past has been sponsored by the Board of Commerce.

Purchase from L. P. Adams of the east 28x45 feet of his property at 114 Bridge street was authorized at a figure of $500. Part of the parcel, lying west of the sewage disposal plant, has been used several years as a public alley and the east portion had been parked during the general landscaping program which followed construction of the sewage disposal plant.

The low bid of W. H. Wallace for 20,000 gallons of diesel fuel was accepted by the council.

ATWOOD GROUP TO PRESENT CHRISTMAS PLAY

Program at Atwood Reformed Church Sunday, December 24th

The Christmas cantata, "Chimes of the Holy Night", by Holton, will be presented by the choir of the Atwood Reformed church supplemented by several young people of the church. The cantata will be given at the church on Sunday evening, December 24, at 8 o'clock.

The program gives the Christmas story in its entirety in song from the prophecy to the birth of the Christchild and the resulting joys still with us in the present. The cantata is unique in that it incorporates within its anthems several of the old familiar Christmas carols. Solos will be sung by Walter Shooks and Lester Vandenberg and a chorus composed entirely of male voices will sing two of the selections.

The offering which will be received will be devoted to the missionary and benevolent causes of the Reformed church.

Get your car ready for winter driving. Change to Diamond 760 winter Motor Oil, Diamond winter transmission and differential grease and D-X winter lubricating motor fuel, and you will be sure of a quick start cold mornings. D-X Service, 200 Antrim St.—Adv. 51t1.

COUNCIL, SCHOOL BOARD GUESTS AT N.Y.A. DINNER

Project Co-Sponsors Visited Training School Monday Night

The old adage: "The way to a man's heart is through his stomach," was effectively demonstrated Monday night when members of the city council and board of education were dinner guests at the N.Y.A. training school in the Harsha residence on State street.

That the purpose of the school is being successfully attained, at least to the extent of providing a delightful dinner, is vouched for by the group. Their unqualified praise of the dinner was ample proof. The city council and board of education are co-sponsors of the project.

Saturday, December 23, is going to be a big day for youngsters of Charlevoix and surrounding rural communities.

It is estimated 310 children have been included on the invitation list. The program starts at 10 o'clock.

The movie party given by Mrs. Moon has been an annual affair of several years standing. Candy bags will also be distributed following the afternoon program.

RAYDERS LOSE AT HARBOR SPRINGS

DEFEATED BY 30 TO 12 SCORE FRIDAY NIGHT

Play Two Games at Home This Week; Gaylord Here Wednesday Night, Mancelona Friday Night

Charlevoix high school's Red Rayders were defeated by a 30 to 12 score last Friday night at Harbor Springs in their opening conference basketball contest.

It was the first time Harbor had defeated a Charlevoix team in several years and they turned the trick in a decisive manner. Carey tallied a free toss for Charlevoix's lone count in the opening period, while Harbor snared four goals nnd a gift shot for 9 points. The succeeding quarters were repetitions of the first. Harbor led 18 to 4 at the half and 27 to 8 at the third intermission. Charlevoix out-scored the winners 4 points to 3 in the final period.

The Rayders were limited to three goals, one each by Carey, Novotny and White and netted 8 points from the foul line. White was high for the Rayders with 6 points, Carey scored 4 and Novotny 2. Harbor's scoring was evenly divided by Hunna with 7, Davert, McBride and Squiers with 6 each.

Charlevoix's reserves lost another game by a narrow margin, losing 24 to 22 to the Harbor reserves. Gengle led his team-mates with 10 points. Swanson scored 8 and Mitchell 6. Herrick led the victors with 12 points.

The Rayders play at home twice this week. Tonight (Wednesday) they play a veteran Gaylord quintet and Friday night take on the fast-stepping Mancelona aggregation. Both will be exceptionally fast contests. The double hill for both evenings opens with the preliminary at 7:15.

CHURCHES PLAN XMAS PROGRAM

USUAL APPROPRIATE OBSERVANCE SCHEDULED SUNDAY

Pageant, Cantatas, Christmas Trees and Customary Exercises Will Mark Yuletide Services.

Charlevoix churches will observe the Christmas season with customary appropriate programs on Sunday, December 24th.

The Congregational church program is scheduled at 5 o'clock Sunday afternoon and, weather permitting, will be out-of-doors. At a midnight service, the women's choir will present the Christmas cantata, "The Christ Child."

The time and details of Christmas programs in other churches are announced in church notes in other columns of this issue.

The Methodist church school Christmas program will be presented at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon, December 24th.

The program will be given in two parts, the pageant-candle lighting service, "Christ's Pathway to Peace," by the entire church school in the auditorium, and the children's playlet, "Christmas Eve in the House of Friendship," in their department following the candle lighting service. The Christmas tree will be in the children's department also.

"Christ's Pathway to Peace" depicts the church school board planning a Christmas program in the first scene, and commemoration of the first Christmas as depicted by the manger scene in the second. The children gather around the manger singing carols. Others bringing their gift—their offering to the altar as a love gift to the Christ child—receive candles and form a line for candle lighting. When the offering is completed, candles will be lit, forming a complete line around the auditorium.

A prayer of dedication, the hymn "Joy to the World" and the benediction close the service.

The offering to be taken at this service goes to the Michigan Methodist Children's Village, located on Six Mile Road, Detroit, where more than three hundred children including orphans and those from broken homes and juvenile courts, are cared for. Christmas offerings from Methodist churches of Michigan are the main support of the home.

The public is extended a cordial invitation to attend these services.

Of special interest to Argonne patrons will be Mr. Kerns' announcement of installation of air-conditioning equipment which has been placed in operation. A new Baby Grand piano has also been installed.

SHOT AT RANDOM

By Ken Usher

This is rather a small world, after all. At least Mrs. William Kibbe thought so when she picked up a copy of Grit and found a picture of her son, Ernest, dispensing groceries to customers in his store over on Antrim street. Grit is published in Philadelphia, Pa., and how the photo got into the hands of the publishers is somewhat of a mystery which neither Ernie nor his mother can explain.

If this column appears somewhat muddled this week, let me explain by saying I was trying to peck it out while the lights were out Tuesday afternoon. Asked Charlie Heise what was the matter with the danged electric light system and he said ice had plugged up the Bellaire plant. That was a typical Heise answer.

If any one is yearning for a nice mess of perch, they tell me they're bittin' something scandalous out at Ironton these days. Just as a reminder, however, you'll have to get one of those new $1 fish licenses if you delay the trip until after January 1. Costs $1 to fish for every kind of fish this coming year instead of 50c for any species other than trout as heretofore.

LANSING LETTER

By GENE ALLEMAN

Field Manager, Michigan Press Association

The recent 58 day Chrysler Corp.-C.I.O. strike at Detroit, eclipsing in length the famous Flint sit-down row of 1937, and the possibility of a General Motors tie-up in January when the existing C.I.O. contracts expire have served to focus a spotlight of critical scrutiny on Michigan's new labor mediation board act.

Gov. Luren D. Dickinson recently indicated that the 1939 law was weak in not providing legal means for airing of labor troubles prior to the declaration of a strike and invoking of the subsequent five-day "cooling off" period.

To be sure the price of the Chrysler strike was high in terms of sales lost, for both labor and management had a big stake in that. It has been estimated that the three cents an hour increase in pay granted to Chrysler workers will require five

FOREST FIRE LOSS LIGHT THIS SEASON

Three Deliberately Set Fires Added to Loss During 1939

In spite of a 30,000-acre fire loss handicap, Michigan's forest fire suppression forces have held the state's loss in 1939 to 46,876 acres, three-tenths of one percent of the 15,391,838 acres guarded.

Three deliberately-set fires imposed the handicap. One man is serving a prison sentence for his part in the $200,000 fire which swept 30,000 acres in the Presque Isle state forest in Montmorency county the week end of May 7. The 1939 fire report lists 1,140 fires.

Not since 1933 has the fire loss reached as much as one per cent of the acreage protected. In 1935, 1937 and 1938 the loss was one-tenth of one percent and in 1934 and 1936, three-tenths of one per cent.

Prolonged dry weather this fall created an extremely high fire hazard during hunting seasons when careless hunters caused a considerable number of small fires.

STATE OFFICIALS ARE SUBJECT TO PAY UNDER NEW INCOME TAX LAW

School Teachers, County and City Officials Are Included

Giles Kavanagh, collector of internal revenue for the district of Michigan, announces that several thousand new income taxpayers are to be added to his already large list of 370,000 Michigan persons, who will file income tax returns under the provisions of the Public Salary Tax Act of 1939.

This law passed at the last session of Congress puts to rest the old question of public salary taxation. The salary of federal employees has always been taxable, but until this year, beginning January 1, 1939, state salaries were not taxable under federal taxing authority. All public school teachers, all state and county officials, and city and village executives and employees must pay income tax. Some of them have been paying tax on income received from other sources, but until the current year have not been required to include the salary received as a teacher or public official. Married couples, where one or the other has income from the state or a political subdivision, must now combine their incomes to determine taxability.

For 1939 and subsequent years, the tax is upon the net income which is determined by subtracting the allowable deductions and personal exemptions from the gross income. Ordinary deductions are interest paid on indebtedness (like a mortgage on a home), all taxes paid (except income and improvement tax), benevolences to one's church or any organized charity, bad debts which became worthless during the year for which the return was made, and 10% of earned net income. The personal exemption of husband and wife living together is $2500, and an additional $400 for each child under 18 years of age. Single persons without dependents have an exemption of $1000. Persons with a gross income of $5000 or more should file their returns on Form 1040; those below $5000 on Form 1040-A. These forms may be procured from the collector of internal revenue, Detroit, Mich., and will be available after January 5, 1940. These should be executed and mailed to reach his office by March 15, 1940. The forms contain full information relative to their preparation.

The most practical thing ever said on the missionary question was this: "After we get the Christians better civilized thnn they are now, I am in favor of attacking the heathens." What a splendid contrast do the poor, benighted heathen today furnish to the great nations of Christendom, who are cutting each other's throats, hurning each other's houses over their heads, and turning out homeless women and children to starve! And we're sending missionaries to show the heathen the way to heaven!

The United States averages about 35 murders a day and kills nearly 100 persons every 24 hours in automobile accidents. So we don't need to mix in any European war to provide our casualty lists.

AT THE MOVIES

All-Star Cast of Top Comics in Roach Film

Hal Roach's hilarious screen comedy romance, "The Housekeeper's Daughter," filmed from the best-selling novel of the same name by Donald Henderson Clarke, opens on December 23 at the Palace Theatre for a two days' run through United Artists release. Joan Bennett, again appearing as a dark-tressed glamour girl, and Adolphe Menjou, appearing as a screwy newspaperman, head the imposing cast of "The Housekeeper's Daughter." The supporting cast, reading like a blue book of Hollywood topnotchers, includes such prominent players as John Hubbard, William Gargan, George E. Stone, Peggy Wood, Donald Meek, Marc Lawrence, Lilian Bond and Victor Mature. In lesser roles are John Hyams, Leila McIntyre, Luis Albernl, Rosina Galli, Tom Dugan and Gene Morgan.

Third of "Dr. Kildare" Films on Palace Screen

"The Secret of Dr. Kildare," third of the "Dr. Kildare" series, with Lew Ayres and Lionel Barrymore heading the cast, is the attraction starting December 25 at the Palace Theatre.

Lionel Atwill heads the supporting cast, with prominent roles also played by Helen Gilbert, playing her first role since her outstanding success as the dramatics teacher in "Andy Hardy Gets Spring Fever," Nat Pendleton, Laraine Day, Sara Haden, Samuel S. Hinds, Emma Dunn, Walter Kingsford, Grant Mitchell, Alma Kruger, Robert Kent and Marie Blake.

Taylor and Greer Garsoo Exciting Romaotic Team!

Robert Taylor and Greer Garson with Lew Ayres in "Remember?" This is the season's most popular and timely romantic teaming of stars in a gay comedy of married life today, which opens December, 27, at the Palace Theatre for an engagement of three days.

Surrounding the stars is an outstanding supporting cast, featuring Billie Burke, Reginald Owen, George Barbier, Henry Travers, Laura Hope Crews, Richard Carle and Sara Haden.

SUNDAY DINNER SUGGESTIONS

By Cora Anthony
Director of A&P Kitchen

Since Christmas falls on Monday, two special dinners will be planned for that week end. Meat as well as poultry prices are low and each tastes the better in contrast with the other. For the housewife's sake, Sunday should be given over to the simplest of meals as a Christmas dinner requires extra time and labor to prepare.

Eggs continue to be plentiful and remarkably low in price for the season. More fish is coming to market from southern fisheries so that a greater variety is again available.

Citrus fruits and apples are plentiful and low in price.

Warmup Saves Tractor

An occasional starting and warming up of a tractor, even when it is not being regularly used during winter months helps keep internal parts lubricated, suggests H. H. Musselman, head of agricultural engineering at Michigan State College. Inside parts kept well oiled resist rust.

SHAME OR HONOR?

At the conclusion of a talk on the war and the part the United States should play as the "saviour of the world," a woman in the nudience stood up. She said every person there should pray sincerely that God would send us all a sense of humor, which is nothing more than a sense of proportion. Having this, we shall find that we Amerleans are not in the posltion to "save the world" by participation in war.

More and more group discussions, editorials and forelgn correspondents are attempting to shame us into this war. The last war was to save democracy. This war is to save world civilization and "how shameful it is that we allow the British empire and France to do it alone for the rest of us.

God give us a sense of humor when the shamers are at work! But we must understand why we should stay out of this war. If the motive, however, is purely selfish, we do not deserve to keep out. With other nations suffering acutely from war, God has not separated us as a people above such suffering. We shall have much sacrificing to do to maintain our peace, and greater sacrifice to contribute to the adjustments after war ends abroad.

If an individual proves his strength of character by "turning the other cheek," how great would be the nation that knew its own strength and could not be bluffed or shamed or turned aside from its goal—keeping the peace which is its only real contribution to civilization.

OUR CHRISTMAS SEALS

The 1939 Christmas Seals are out and should have a high place on every shopping list. Their sale provides funds for fighting tuberculosis throughout the country, although the money raised in any community is used in that community.

The particular use to which the funds are put depends on local needs and program. One county may give tuberculosis tests and fluoroscope examinations to school children and adults, thus finding active cases promptly and directing them to proper treatment. In another region the money may be used to provide beds for tuberculosis patients. Again, some of the money goes to educate people in the health measures effective in preventing infection and promoting cure.

The Seals are sold only at this season, but the fight against the disease is a year-round campaign.

"Tuberculosis is everybody's business" says a doctor, "because it is the respector of no person. Rich or poor, humble or mighty, can catch it. Christmas Seals, equally impartial, fight for the health and happiness of all, and that is why everyone should purchase as many penny seals as possible."—South Haven Tribune (Dec. 5th).

People are stronger morally during periods of depression, we are told, probably because we haven't the price to yield to temptation.

Take of Perch from Houghton Lake Is 15; 50 from Great Lakes

Houghton lake alone is affected by the reduction in the daily creel limit on perch from 25 to 15, under the new sport fishing law effective January 1, according to the fish division of the department of conservation.

On the Great Lakes and connecting waters 50 perch may be taken in a day. On inland lakes and waters the creel limit is 25 bluegills, sunfish, warmouth bass, rock bass, crappies and perch in the aggregate, or 25 of any one kind. This regulation continues into 1940 unchanged.

A. & P. TO DISTRIBUTE MILLION AND HALF TO EMPLOYES

Employes of the local store divided approximately $100 in Christmas bonuses, Dent Newville, manager, stated.

SPORTSMEN REMINDED TO RETURN REPORT CARDS

License Stub Tallies Should Be In Before February 15th

With 12,000 report cards from small game and deer hunters and trappers received to date, and the number increasing daily, the game division of the department of conservation reminds hunters who have laid away their guns for the season that their license stubs, with the game take tallied, should be returned some time before February 15.

For those who have lost their cards, duplicates are available at district and regional headquarters and at the Lansing office of the department.

When assembled and checked in card sorting machines, a picture of hunters' success is obtained which is valuable in furthering game management.

NEW WINTER HIGHWAY MAPS ARE AVAILABLE

Distribution of 150,000 New Copies Is Now Being Made

The state highway department this week began distribution of 150,000 copies of the newly revised winter highway map.

The new map carried for the first time a designation by symbol of the Mackinac Straight to the Straits Route. It's back is illustrated with Michigan Winter scenes and depictions of winter sports.

The front cover, done in bright colors, illustrated the meeting of an old-fashioned, horse-drawn cutter with a modern automobile carrying winter sport enthusiasts.

"Christmas Ghosts" — A Delightful Short Story

The well-known writer, Christine Jope-Slade, has written a fascinating tale—illustrated in color and to be found complete in The American Weekly with the December 24 issue of The Detroit Sunday Times—which relates romantic experiences of four ultra-modern young people who agreed to spend the Yuletide in the phantom-ridden cottage to prove it wasn't haunted. Be sure to get The Detroit Sunday Times.

A report was given by Freda Willis on the business session of the National Junior Farm Bureau Convention in Chicago, followed by a report by Merle Blanchard on the social part of the convention.

Scholarships were made out for the Junior Farm Bureau leadership training camp at Waldon Woods. Many ideas were discussed for the entertainment of the group during the winter months.

CONGREGATIONAL CHURCHES
G. Russell Parker, Pastor

Our Christmas Plans—

Ironton begins the series of programs Thursday night with the union program of public school and the Sunday school. Mrs. Marion Jackson, assisted by others, sees to it that not a person of the community is missed.

In Charlevoix all of our programs will be Sunday. The Sunday school will meet at the regular time, 10 a. m., and the usual Christmas treat will be issued at that time. This is not the time for the Christmas program.

At 11 a. m. the pastor will tell again the intensely interesting Christmas story "No Room in the Inn" by Ernest H. Shank. This was told last year and at the time many expressed the hope that the story would be repeated this year. Christmas songs by the congregation will intersperse the story.

The Sunday school program will be given Sunday afternoon at 5 o'clock. If weather permits the program will be held out-of-doors.

At midnight a very interesting service will be held at which time the women's choir will present the Christmas cantata: "The Christ Child" by Howley. The soloists for the occasion are Mesdames C. F. Kreighoff and A. L. Livingston. A candle light service will conclude the program and prepare each one to enter the new Christmas day with a true Christmas spirit.

There will be no C. E. in the evening, but, as they have done for several years, the young people will sing carols, leaving the church about 9 p. m.

Finds Third Leg

St. Louis—While dressing a pheasant shot this fall, a local woman discovered a fully formed third leg. It was found tucked away under the bird's left wing, and was only slightly smaller than the other two.

Same Names, Celebration

Ontonagon—Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Schramm of this village had just celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary, when a clipping from a Glidden, Wis., newspaper was discovered. It told of a Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Schramm of Glidden observing their 50th wedding anniversary, just two days before the Ontonagon Schramms.

Really Runs Out of Gas

Portland—Joe Tichvon didn't worry when, while driving near here, he ran over an auto crank. When he noticed a strong gasoline odor, however, he investigated. A stream of fuel was running out of the gas tank on his car, through a hole punctured by the crank he ran over earlier. He reached a service station just as the last bit of gas drained out of the tank.

Lost Contest, Not Bet

Gladstone — What at first might seem to be someone paying off on election bet proved to be the winner of a contest treating the loser, in an unusual transportation incident here recently. Captains of a defeated Lions club ticket-selling team pushed Fritz Skoglund, head of the winning team, about town in a wheelbarrow, along a devious route to the club's meeting place.

Students Sign Death Warrants

Alma—More than 200 Alma college students signed a death warrant in seven hours when the college paper circulated a petition designed to show futility of petitions and gullibility of signers. Apparently a plea for a holiday in honor of a professor's birthday, the fake petition provided that each signer would decapitate (behead) himself on that day.

Found No Curb Service

White Pigeon—Because the state police post here does not provide curb service, the trooper on duty didn't pay much attention to repeated blowing of an auto horn in front of the post. When it continued, the officer investigated, thinking something might be wrong. Interrupted by alcoholic hiccoughs, the driver asked how to get to Louisville. "You don't. You're staying here," replied the trooper. The driver stayed.

Bargainer Recovers Lost Knife

St. Louis—Al Lentz lost an unsheathed hunting knife on Drummond Island in 1938, so he had an extra sheath. When talking with L. V. Lott, he learned Lott had a knife for which he wished to buy a sheath. Al offered to sell his extra one, and when they swapped tales of how they got the separate articles, they discovered that Lott had found the knife Lentz lost.

Lincoln's Death Cost $3.50

Chesaning — Death of President Abraham Lincoln cost the Saginaw county board of supervisors $3.50. This information was unearthed recently when an appropriation bill, dated October 17, 1865, was found. It authorized payment for "Drapery of court house at time of death of President Lincoln."

We can well afford to be tolerant of the opinions of others, because—if we are growing—our own views are certain to change.—Franklin.

WISE FOOD CHOICE MEANS VITAMIN A

There'll be no startling symptoms but anyone who doesn't get a suitable supply of vitamin A will "enjoy" poor health ultimately, members of the home economics extension staff at Michigan State College point out.

Children may have defective teeth or escape normal growth if they lack this vitamin, discovered as a distinct chemical substance a quarter century ago.

There need be no extra spending of money for food, but a wise choice of foods among five principal types of supply will insure the diet contains plentiful supplies of the substance.

Suggestions offered by nutrition specialists include liver as one of the richest sources of vitamin A. Substantial amounts are contained in whole milk or cream or their products such as butter and cheese. Egg yolk and oily fish such as salmon and sardines are other sources.

Fruits and vegetables often indicate they carry these essential carotenes when the products are green or yellow in color. Kale and spinach are typical excellent sources. Leafy vegetables such as cabbage and lettuce carry supplies but the greener the leaves the richer these vegetables are in supplies of the vitamin.

Those who like yellow can pick yellow carrots, yellow fleshed sweet potatoes or Hubbard squash. Apricots and peaches are two yellow fruits that can be added to the list. Rapid cooking or home or commercial canning methods take little away from the vitamin content of these recommended selections.

MICHIGAN BELL TELEPHONE COMPANY ISSUE 13TH ANNUAL ALMANAC

A sure sign of the New Year's approach came today with announcement by C. L. Johnson, manager in this area for the Michigan Bell Telephone Company, that the 1940 Telephone Almanac is ready for distribution.

The new almanac, one of the first for 1940 to make its appearance, is the 13th issued by the company. It covers a period marking the 64th year of the telephone in the world and the 62nd year of the telephone in Michigan.

As a reminder of the past, the almanac is printed, illustrated, and phrased in much the same style and language as the real old-time almanacs. It contains the usual monthly calendars with historical references for each day of the year. There also are the 12 astronomical monthly calendars for 1940, together with sun and moon calculations and instructions for their use.

Through the pages of the almanac also are found the signs of the zodiac, information on eclipses for 1940, a statement as to the chronological eras, and even a rebus for young readers. Illustrations and descriptive material contrast events and customs in the early years of the nation's history with those of the present day.

One of the features of the almanac is a list of 12 historical events in the history of the United States which emphasize the importance of communications in shaping the destiny of the country and of its unity. These events also point to the part the telephone has played in bringing the United States into closer touch with other countries of the world.

DISTRICT HEALTH UNIT

Two-Dose Toxoid to Prevent Diphtheria

Thus far in 1939 in this district, composing Antrim, Charlevoix, Emmet and Otsego counties, we have had two deaths from diphtheria. This is the first time deaths from this disease have been reported since 1931. These deaths are unnecessary as every parent can now safeguard his child from this disease. Diphtheria is prevented by toxoid. If every child were completely immunized with toxoid before his first birthday, diphtheria would become a rare disease. However, we definitely feel that every child should have at least two doses of toxoid, followed in three months by the Schick test to see if he is immune.

Protection against this disease starts developing soon after toxoid is administered, many of the children being completely protected within two months after receiving the second dose.

Childrep catch diphtheria easier than adults and the same person may contract the disease twice although some believe that it does not repeat. Diphtheria may he followed by heart and kidney trouble. It may also injure the eyes and ears. It can be carried by animals. Diphtheria is exceedingly serious und one should call their doctor immediately. When there is an outbreak of diphtheria it is advisable to have your child examined by your doctor. By the use of the Schiek test he can tell whether your child is immune.

Two things to particularly remember about diphtheria are to place the child immediately under a doctor's care and to keep the child in bed for a long enough period.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SOCIETY

Sunday morning service, 10:45.

Sunday school, 12 o'clock.

Meets first Wednesday evening of each month at 7:45 p. m.

Reading room open Saturday, 3 to 5 p. m.

We cordially invite the public to our service and reading room.

"Christian Science" will be the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Christian Science churches throughout the world on Sunday, December 24, 1939.

The Golden Text (Isaiah 52:9) is: "Break forth into joy, sing together, ye waste places of Jerusalem: for the Lord hath comforted his people, he hath redeemed Jerusalem."

Among the Bible citations is this passage (Proverbs 4:10, 11, 13): "Hear, O my son, and receive my sayings; and the years of thy life shall be many. I have taught thee in the way of wisdom; I have led thee in right paths. Take fast hold of instruction; let her not go: keep her; for she is thy life."

Correlative passages to be read from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, include the followipg (p. 76): "The sinless joy—the perfect harmony and immortality of Life, possessing unlimited divine beauty and goodness without a single bodily pleasure or pain—constitutes the only veritable, indestructible man, whose being is spiritual."

Wit and Wisdom of Opie Read, the original "Arknnsas Traveler." A page of selected nuggets of the humor and philosophy of one of the last of the old American pioneers who died as he had lived, spinning a colorful tall story. Don't miss it in The American Weekly, the magazine distributed with the Chicago Herald-American.

years of future earnings before employees even catch up with their lost wages.

But perhaps more significant to the history of labor in Michigan is the fact that the new Chrysler cantract provides for an equivalent of arbitration of grievances through the agency of an appeal board, the decisions of which are to be binding on both management and labor.

Conciliation Board

The original Fitzgerald labor bill had honest-to-goodness teeth. Thirty days' notice to strike waa required, for example. A labor code specified what labor could do and what it could not do. Management was told also to toe the line. Sit-down strikes were outlawed.

Opposed by both labor and management, the Fitzgerald plan was stripped of much of its powers hy the legislaturc. The feeling of many legislators was that the bill was prompted chiefly hy the Flint sit-down strike. When the United States supreme court ruled the sit-down was illegal, more than one legislator was inclined to shelve the mediation plan and call it u day.

And so when finally a bill was passed, after the senate had whacked and trimmed away much of its authority, the result was a three-man mediation or conciliation board financed with a modest appropriation of $21,000. It was a nice gesture at least towards fulfilling an administration pledge.

The idea was fairly simple. When labor made up its mind to strike, the state mediation board would intervene to negotiate a settlement during a five-day "cooling period." (Thirty days if in the case of a utility.) In one respect the act, hy recognizing officially the notice to strike, handed labor a new advantage which it did not previously possess—legal machinery for airing its disputes with management. It is not surprising to note that labor has co-operated almost 100 per cent with the 1939 act, as the records will show.

Dickinson's Plan

Instead of waiting until the horse is stolen before locking the barn door, Governor Dickinson thinks that the state should act prior to labor's declaration of its intent to strike.

Calling attention to the expiration in January of the General Motors contracts with the C.I.O. United Automotive Union, the governor said: "It would seem to be good common sense if we could nnticipate such a condition instead of following along behind it."

As a matter of fact, the 1939 act empowered the state board to act on its own motion, if uuthorized by the governor, to head off a threatened labor dispute. The language of Section 10 seems reasonably clear in this respect: "After the board has received the above notice (strike notice) or upon its own motion in an existing, imminent or threatened labor dispute, the board may, and upon the direction of the governor, the board must take such steps as it may deem expedient to effect a voluntary, amicable and expeditious adjustment and settlement of the differences and issues between employer and employee which have precipitated or culminated in, or threatened to precipitate or culminate in such labor dispute."

"Upon direction of the governor" the state board thus, in the case of an "imminent" or "threatened" labor dispute, could arrange for conferences between labor and management and otherwise seek a peaceful settlement of troubles prior to any declaration of intent to strike.

In any case, labor possesses its right to strike. This is fundamental.

Arbitration Plan

Just as the new Chrysler contract calls for voluntary arbitration of grievances by labor and management, providing both parties can agree upon the third person to preside on the appeal hoard, the state legislature in Massachusetts set up machinery for voluntary arbitration in its new act for "labor conciliation and arbitration."

The Massachusettes plan provides for conferences by state conciliators. If these efforts fail, then the state board seeks to persuade labor and management to submit voluntarily to arbitration hy a local board to be designated by the state board. In advance of the outcome, labor nnd management both pledge to abide by the arbitration decision for a period of six months or more if so mutually agreed upon.

Again, here is a way to labor peace that is dependent entirely apon co-operation by labor and management. No club is to be used. Both sides merely agree in advance to avoid the barbarism of strike warfare by referring the dispute to a special "court" on which both labor and management have equal representation.

104 Cases Pending

The Michigan mediation board, comprising Chairman Arthur E. Raab of Flint, Walter R. Moers of Lansing, and A. C. Lappin of Detroit, was given a $21,000 appropriation by the legislature. Each commissioner draws $20 a day for services performed with a maximum of $5,000 in a year. Two conciliators have been engaged: G. Franklin Killeen of Flint and Edward M. Owens of Detroit. The secretary is Kingsbury Scott, a former newspaperman.

Realizing that the original appropriation was insufficient to meet needs, the state admfnistration board added $20,000.

Of the 291 cases an file December 13 (Wednesday) 181 were settled without a strike; six others were settled following a strike. A total of 104 cases were pending.

Such is a brief history of the state act to date.

The forcigner who had been on relief for fifteen years and who explained that he trumpled the American flag because he didn't like this country, must be cruzy. He showed an amazing streak of ingratitude and ill nature. He should be put on board an outgoing ship and kept going until he reaches his native land.

"In something like 250 fields the government is competing with private business — banking, manufacturing, loans, real estate, public utilities, building construction, agriculture and numerous other fields.

"Bureaucracy reigns, rampant in the federal administration. There are nearly 250 bureaus, boards, commissions, administrations, corporations and other payroll enterprises—a gain of nearly 300 per cent over those which existed in 1914."—W. Homer Hartz, President, Illinois Manufacturers' Association.

Tracks Start Gullies

Moving a wagon loaded with crops downhill may cause a gully more costly than the value of the produce, it is pointed out by soil conservation specialists. In early stages some of the survey work in Michigan counties has shown that a set of wheel tracks has been the source of costly erosion. Where slopes are not too steep it is good farming practice to pull the load across the slope instead of up and down. Where natural terraces or manmade terraces are protecting soil it is unwise to move loads or machinery across the terraces, as the break may permit start of a gully.

People's memories are too short to recall that the World War had raged a couple of years before we had any marked rise of prices. So just buy about what you have been buying and don't disarrange prices by hoarding food now and later on helping to flatten the market while you eat up the surplus you foolishly accumulated.

The fact that the New York world's fair ended its season with a loss of $23,000,000 and the statement by exposition officials that it was a success led the Christian Science Monitor to observe that "the big show must have taken lessons from the achievement-through-finance school of finance.

MAKE HEAVY DEER KILL ON DRUMMOND ISLAND

Report Shows 40.3 Per Cent of Hunters Bagged a Buck

Yearling deer now make up more than half the total kill on Drummond Island, where five years ago they supplied only a quarter of the bucks taken, conservation department records kept at the island's ferry reveal.

The department's five-year record shows also that this year's snowless season brought the biggest kill for the period in which investigation has been underway. Last winter was considered a good one for young deer.

The shift to younger deer in the annual harvest has been progressing steadily, according to game division reports which show the percentage of year and a half old bucks to have been 25.5 in 1935, 39.3 in 1936, 45.9 in 1937, 49.75 in 1938 and 55.93 this season. This year another 26 per cent were two-and-a-half year olds, and just four per cent were over five years old.

The total deer kill also has shown an increase in the five year study period, with 344 bucks in 1935, 338 in 1936, rising steadily since to 406 in 1937, 414 in 1938 and 457 this year.

The 1,135 hunters on the island this season were the most there have been any season in the last five years. Since the increased kill paralleled the increase in the number of hunters, percentage of success remained about the same. This year 40.3 per cent of the hunters got their bucks, while last year 40.7 per cent were successful. In 1935 the percentage was 35.6, in 1936 it was 43.3 and in 1937, 43.6.

STAND BY THEM

It's Christmas Shopping Time again! It doesn't seem possible that another year has rolled around so fast—but it has! It doesn't seem possible either, that it should be necessary to remind citizens of Charlevoix the many opportunities and benefits that are theirs right here at home—but it apparently would be a good idea.

One of the most far reaching of these fine advantages is the fact that the merchants and shopkeepers of Charlevoix are outstanding—they're progressive and they operate on a sound basis, and are ready to serve the public with the very best quality merchandise, merchandise that can be depended upon, and at prices that are right.

Today as never before the need for community cooperation is paramount. It is time for closer fellowship and neighborly understanding between everyone in the community. If this can only be achieved Charlevoix will very definitely be a better place in which to live.

One of the surest ways to bring about this improvement is to resolve or pledge to spend your money at home—at home means in Charlevoix. By so doing there will be more dollars in circulation locally and your own welfare and the welfare of your neighbors will be greatly improved.

And don't think for a moment that your local dealers don't have what you want or can't get it for you as soon as you could get it elsewhere. They "won't let you down." They have stood by you for years and are the best friends that you have.

You should most certainly stand by them.

AT THE FAIR

Exacting exhorbitant wages from foreign exhibitors at the New York fair, labor unions caused bitterness instead of intended good will. Union leaders demanded every job, and by slowing down work and charging extravagantly for overtime pushed up costs from 30 to 40 per cent. In that way exhibitors lost an estimated $4,000,000, according to a sharply worded criticism by Stanley High. Labor unions, dominated by shortsighted leaders, have been so oppressive and tyrannical in exceeding rules of reason that the ground they have gained is likely to be swept aside by indignant public opinion. "It is a heartening fact," says Mr. High, "that the responsible leaders of the American labor movement—sensitive to labor's obligation to society—attempted to halt the profiteering tactics of the locals at the fair. But it is an ominous fact that they failed." When workmen in every branch of endeavor are again privileged to think of their production quite as much as of their hours and pay, relationships will be improved, both employe and employer will be benefited, and conditions will become permanently better. There must be pride in achievement, not the corroding idea of grabbing the most possible pay, the greatest possible ease, for the least possible production.

THE ANIMAL

Milton S. Mayer, assistant to the president of the University of Chicago, writing for the Saturday Evening Post, virtually says war settles nothing, does everything bad and nothing good. It cultivates the animal in men, and a preponderance of animal is a hard blow to social refinements. Making a man able to kill upsets all he had been taught. The writer says: "War destroys democracy in nations; but what seems to me infinitely worse, it destroys the democracy in men." He insists that war does not build a better world, that one war calls for another one, and the result lowers the quality of civilization. War does not necessarily serve justice. He says: "Justice alone knows liberty, equality and fraternity, and justice is a human virtue arising from man's human capacity to reason. We cannot make sense out of justice by looking at the moon or taking dope or building battleships. We can make sense out of justice by using our reason to discover why justice, like wisdom, is better than rubies."

One United States senator declares that the first simple rule of government prohibits spending more than our income. He should recall that the government is not being operated by simple rules any more.

"America had better begin worrying about the dollar," advises Secretary of Treasury Morgenthau. Yes, especially about the 40 billion we spent and didn't have.

Resolution

Resolved by the Common Council of the City of Charlevoix, That

Whereas, the original estimate of the cost of excavation for Charlevoix City Hall under Force Account Contract No. 1 (Docket Mich. 1796-F City Hall) was in the sum of $800.00, which sum was duly authorized by the Public Works Administration on December 30th, 1938 in that sum.

And Whereas, such authorization was subsequently reduced by the Public Works Administration to the sum of $500.00.

And Whereas, the actual cost of such excavation was the sum of $826.61 as appears by the books and records in the office of the City Clerk.

And Whereas, it is believed that the said reduction of the authorization was due to misunderstanding and error resulting in loss to the city.

Therefore Be It Resolved, that the City Superintendent be directed to make application to the Public Works Administration for a correction of the authorization to such Force Account in the sum of $826.61, and to make such representations as to the true facts as the case requires.

Resolved further, that the mayor and city clerk be, and are hereby, authorized to make, execute and deliver to said company a proper release of liability in accordance with this resolution.

Adopted at a regular meeting of the common council held in the city hall in said city, on the 18th day of December, 1939 by aye and nay vote as follows: Ayes—Aldermen Bellinger, Heise, Hooker, Lamphear, Levinson, Wood. Nays—none.

On motion the council adjourned.

IN THAT part of the Province of Quebec where it is possible to search five parishes without finding anyone who can speak English, the inhabitants set great store by their front doors. These doors, frequently placed in the meanest of houses, are stoutly built of beautiful woods and varnished to a point where they rival the gilded domes of the churches across the river.

Yet they are so seldom used that most of them have no steps leading to the ground, several feet below.

Louis Germond owned the finest door in Ste. Madelaine du Lac.

He had bought it in Trois Rivieres with money earned in a Fall river cotton mill, and he intended it for a bridal gift, either to Benedictine Moselle, who lived in one of the white houses flanking his own, on the sandy road that threaded the innumerable little villages like beads on a string, or Marie Boncoeur, of the neighboring parish of Ste. Therese.

But first he must decide which woman he wanted to marry and he could not do that until he discovered which one, if either, loved him for himself alone and not for his Honduras mahogany door, whose magnificence had been greatly advertised.

He resolved to make Marie the first victim of his experiment; partly because he could get hold of Benedictine at any time, and partly because if Marie made good he need seek no further, for he was inclined to believe it was Marie that he wanted.

Consequently, on the day that Marie was to take supper with his mother—and the invitation had been inveigled out of the old lady with difficulty—he removed the old front door with its weather-stained frame and cracked glass window and, in its place, set up the magnificent new one.

Then he summoned his mother to admire it.

When she had returned to her kitchen, he took down the new door and put the old one back, but without its rusted bolts and hinges. A shove from within would send it smashing to the ground, and if Marie, or even his mother, thought it the new door for a little—well, that was just what he wanted them to think.

That evening, when he drove back from Ste. Therese with Marie in the cart beside him, the long Canadian twilight had deepened to darkness. Out on the river, beacons gleamed redly, but no illumination disclosed in detail the front of the Germond homestead. Marie paid no attention to the door which she naturally assumed to be the one that had always been there, and neither Marie nor Louis was aware of a small figure lying pressed to the bare earth, chin in her hands, watching.

During supper the beautiful door was spoken of.

"My son put it up today," said Madame Germond. "You should see it by daytime."

"It has two long glass panels," added Louis dreamily. "Such beautiful glass. It is not possible that again one could chance on such glass. And the wood—not a scratch!".

Afterwards, he led Marie by the hand out into the cold hall leading to the front entrance.

"Kisses in the dark!" thought his mother, with curled lip.

Marie, however, was willing to endure the kisses for the sake of a glimpse of the door. The length of those glass panels, now—if one could estimate it, one could begin for them a patterned lace. A rose, perhaps, and lily intertwined.

Yet, going suddenly from light to darkness, she saw nothing but the bulk of Louis between her and the door as he pulled her on.

Then she felt him stop and his hand tighten on hers. She lifted her face.

The next instant there was a crash, the crunch of shattered glass, a rush of cold river air.

"The door!" screamed Marie. "Louis, you fool."

But hark! What other scream had mingled with Marie's? Was that someone moaning?

With an oath of sheer terror, Louis leaped to the ground and gathered up the huddled form he found there.

"Only my ankle," said the voice of Benedictine, cheerfully. "And glass cutting my arm."

When he had returned from driving Marie home—and she had taken the six miles in utter silence—he went straight to the Moselle kitchen where a light still burned for Benedictine, who lay on a couch nursing her wounds. Unmindful of her mother heating water for compresses, he went on his knees beside the girl. "I'm sorry," he said, humbly.

"That's all right," said Benedictine, easily. "It was fit punishment for my spying. I wanted to see if your arm, perhaps, was around her waist. . . ." She paused, blushing.

"Never mind about the door," went on Benedictine. "It's silly, anyhow. Having a door without steps that one doesn't use."

Louis lifted her unhurt hand reverently to his lips, knowing she lied because she loved him.

"It's lucky, all the same," she said, after a moment, "that it was the old one."

I've heard so many kiddies express the wish it would snow before Christmas that my resistance is beginning to "break down" and I'm wishing the same thing for no other reason than it would make the youngsters happy. And what, may I ask, is happier than a happy child at Christmas time?

Would greatly appreciate it if someone would help me out with a domestic problem brought about by "Butch" asking how Santa Claus was going to get into our house now that we have no fireplace. What's more touching than the faith and simplicity of a child?

There's a lot of right pretty Christmas decorations around Charlevoix this year—more, I believe, than in many a season. For one, would like to mention the Charlevoix Oil Co.

Tuesday was perhaps the darkest day in my experience. Cars were running up and down the street with lights on as late as 9 o'clock in the morning and it never did get very bright out all day.

You readers can help make the afternoons and evenings of a lot of children more pleasant by donating unused card tables and games for use in the play room to be established by WPA recreational leaders after the holidays. Dig up these discarded items and let Pat Hawley know about them. He'll see they are taken care of.

Robert J. Furlong, supervisor of Michigan Conservation Department District 8, comprising Charlevoix, Cheboygan, Emmet, Antrim and Otsego counties, quotes statistics which should make the average sportsman think. Of 124 fires in the district during 1939, 75 were started by smokers who thoughtlessly flip a burning cigar, cigarette and matches into the woods while walking or riding. The resulting fires burned a total of 1,397 acres of woodland and cost the state $2,504.15 to suppress. Railroads, at one time the chief aggressors, caused but 9. A little care would save this loss.

According to Mr. Furlong's report, Charlevoix county had 12 fires which destroyed 42.91 acres for the smallest loss in the district. Cheboygan county has the highest loss, 443 fires burning 1,867 acres.

Reporting on the deer season just closed, Mr. Furlong revealed arrests made for violations in the district totaled 39. Fines imposed aggregated $1,158.05 and jail sentences imposed totaled 220 days. It is worthy of note that only one minor hunting accident occurred in the five counties. The number of hunters was believed the highest on record, the deer kill short of last season, but the number of does and fawns killed greater than a year ago. Due to unseasonable warm weather, carcasses of only 37 illegally killed deer were recovered and turned over to charitable institutions.

RAYDERS LOSE TWO BASKETBALL GAMES

DEFEATED BY GAYLORD AND MANCELONA QUINTETS

Rayder Reserves Won Both of Last Week's Tilts—Rayder-Alumni Contest Friday Night.

Charlevoix high school's Red Rayder varsity squad lost their third and fourth contests last week while the reserves hung up a pair of wins to make it three out of four victories for the season.

Showing improved form despite defeat, the varsity lost 36 to 15 to Gaylord last Wednesday night and dropped a nip-and-tuck contest by a 24 to 16 score to Mancelona, Friday night. The reserves chalked up a 20 to 18 win over Gaylord and downed Mancelona by a 25 to 13 score. They had previously won from Harbor Springs, although the result had previously been erroneously reported.

The Rayders were able to hold Gaylord in check for but a single quarter. McGhan and Tom Carey, put in their first appearance of the season for the Rayders. Carey went out early in the first period with a leg injury, but McGhan played the entire contest and was his team's high point man. Gaylord led 8 to 5 at the quarter, 15 to 6 at the half and 20 to 12 at the third intermission. They scored 16 points to the Rayder's 2 in the fioal stanza.

McGran and Kohler shared scoring honors with 5 points each. Don and Tom Carey netted a goal each.

Gengles and Novotny led the reserves to their 20 to 18 win over Gaylord reserves with 6 points apiece. Swanson scored 4, Mitchell and McKenzie 2 ench.

Charlevoix 16, Mancelona 24

The Rayders played Mancelona on even terms for two quarters Friday night, only to lose through a bad third period. With the advantage changing repeatedly, Mancelona led 7 to 4 at the quarter. The count was tied 10-all at the half. In the third period the Rayders were limited to a free throw while Mancelona counted 6 and the visitors out-scored Charlevoix 8 points to 5 in the final period.

Don Carey had a big night, scoring 10 of the Rayders points. McGhan accounted for the remaining 6.

The Rayder reserves buried Mancelona's second-stringers by a 25 to 13 count in the preliminary. Gengle scored 8, Novotny 6, Staley and Swanson 4 each, Mitchell 3.

The annual Rayder-Alumni tilt is scheduled for Friday evening of this week, following which the team is idle until meeting Rogers City here on January 5th.

RURAL SCHOOLS COMPLETE TB SEAL DRIVE

Walloon Lake and Burgess Are Named County Leaders

The first rural schools in Charlevoix county to complete their 1939 sale of tuberculosis Christmas Seals were the Walloon Lake school at Walloon Lake, Miss Mayme Scroggie, teacher, and the Burgess school near Charlevoix, Ivan Thomson, teacher, the Michigan Tuberculosis Association announced today. A number of schools are sending in requests for more seals.

The seal sale in rural schools is usually conducted on a competitive basis, the children working under "Captain Fleetwing" and "Captain Herald" this year. Seals are sold by children only in districts where it is dificult to reach all purchasers through any other medium.

Funds realized from the sale of Christmas Seals finance a number of health education activities in the schools. The inspirational "Princess Watassa" program is given throughout the school months; sound movies are available to parent-teacher associations and shown to children in the upper grades; and the Wolverine Health Bulletin is distributed monthly to all rural schools.

AWARD PRIZE FOR XMAS DECORATION

RAY HAMILTON RESIDENCE WAS JUDGED THE BEST

Walter Conklin Home, See Funeral Home Given Special Mention Among Fine Decorations

The attractive decorations at the Ray S. Hamilton residence on Belvedere avenue were judged the best in Charlevoix and was thus awarded a prize in the yuletide decoration competition.

The committee in charge named the Walter F. Conklin residence as a close second and stated every street in the city had homes with decorations worthy of mention. The display at the See Funeral Home was also given special mention, although as a combination business place and dwelling was not eligible for competition.

The decoration competition, sponsored by the Charlevoix Merchants' & Business Men's Association, was the first of its kind in Charlevoix, and resulted in the greatest number and most beautiful Christmas home decorations on record. In view of the fine response and as an inducement for greater effort along this line in coming years, plans are already under way to provide more prizes another year.

The Charlevoix Garden Club cooperated with the Association in the plan and from its membership provided Mrs. Ross Alexander, Mrs. Oakley Hammond, Mrs. Carl Konier and Mrs. Allen Campbell as judges. The prize was a beautiful poinsettia plant.

ANNOUNCE REFUNDING BOYNE CITY BOND DEBT

Charlevoix State Savings Bank Agent in Refunding Program

Officials of the Charlevoix State Saviogs Bank have announced completion of the refunding of bonded indebtedness of the city of Boyne City.

While Boyoe City had, by rigid economy during the depression years, reduced its bonded indebtedness from $185,000 to $80,000, refunding was decided upon by its Mayor Melvin C. Sparks and common council in the interest of sound financial policy.

Successful conclusion of the refunding program was due to the energetic efforts of city officials, City Attorney E. A. Ruegsegger, and the Charlevoix State Savings Bank, transfer and paying agent, with the cooperation of the First State and First National banks of Petoskey.

ESTIMATE STATE ELK HERD NUMBERING 500

Violators and Natural Hazards Hold Herd in Check.

A herd of 20 elk has gathered recently at a salt block placed near headquarters buildings in the Pigeon River state forest east of Vanderbilt. It is the first time so large a herd of the animals has been reported seen in the Pigeon River country in several years.

In 1918 about 30 elk obtained from Jackson Hole, Wyoming, and from various zoos and parks were released in Roscoommon, Otsego and Montmorency counties, nucleus of a herd which has been estimated to have increased to 500 animals. However, the elk are scattered over a large area and do not congregate in large numbers.

Elk once were native to Michigan and early explorers reported their abundance. The last of the native elk apparently disappeared about 60 years ago.

Violators of game laws and natural hazards hold the herd in check.

PLANS UNDER WAY FOR BENEFIT BASKETBALL

Former Local Stars May Meet East Jordan Canners Here January 1.

Plans are under way for a benefit basketball game between a team of former Charlevoix high school players and the East Jordan Canners, champions of the Northern Michigan Independent haskethall league.

If arrangements are completed, the contest will be played at the school gymnasium Monday evening, January 1. Proceeds of the contest above expenses will be given to Peggy McGhan, Charlevoix high school senior who is confined to Charlevoix Hospital with injuries received in a recent automobile accident.

The Charlevoix team will be comprised of such former stars as Ed. Radle, Bob Pearl, Bud Potter, Richard Bergman, Charles Richardson, Bill House, Warren Wilmot, Lewis Brown and others. The East Jordan Canners are northern Michigan's outstanding independent team.

The main contest will start at 8 o'clock, following a preliminary to be arranged. An admission of 25c and 10c will be charged. The contest is subject to postponement if arrangements now under way are not completed.

CHRISTMAS MAIL SHOWED INCREASE

VOLUME THIS YEAR 45 MUCH HIGHER THAN IN 1938.

Stamp Sales and Volume of Parcel Post Handled Is Reported by Postmaster J. M. Foster

Charlevoix kept pace with the rest of the nation in reporting a decided increase in Christmas business, indicated particularly hy an increase of postage sales and parcel post deliveries through the local post office.

Postmaster J. M. Foster reports stamp sales this year were $1,578.95 as compared to $1,383.75 a year ago. Comparative figures on stamp sales were:

1½c stamps	25,400	31,500
2c stamps	2,000	4,500
3c stamps	13,500	15,500
	40,900	51,500

The largest volume of incoming parcel post was on Wednesday, December 20, when 127 sacks were handled. Parcel post sacks averaged 100 Monday nnd Tuesday, 90 on Friday and 30 on Saturday.

Annther indieation of the increase is gained from the fact the 1938 season required 63 hours of extra help to handle deliverics, while 90 hours of extra help was required this year.

Charlevoix's record was in keeping with the nation's reported incrense of 20 per cent in Christmas business and as high as 600 per cent in volume of Christmas mail handled.

PLAN ELECTRICAL DEMONSTRATIONS

RURAL ELECTRIC OFFICIALS WOULD AID FARMERS.

Practical Use of Electric Energy for Farm Operations Is Purpose Behind Activity.

(By B. C. Mellencamp)

Officials of the Top O' Michigan Rural Electric Company, cooperating with the county extension agent, are desirous nf organizing several demonstrations in Charlevoix county to show firsthand the advantages of electricity in doing many farm jobs. While it has been demonstrated by many farm cooperators under the direction of the Michigan State College, that electricity can be used to better advantage than the gasoline engine, still we wonder if the same holds true in this county.

Many farmers are now asking how much it costs to milk cows, to light their poultry houses and to grind their own grain. Next, how much can be saved by using electricity instead of the old types of power. In all demonstrations a separate meter will be attached and the total energy necessary to do the work will be recorded.

We are anxious to locate these demonstrations where farmers are thinking about purchasing feed grinders, milking machines, electric ranges, electric refrigerators, or want to light their poultry houses. In this way the cooperator can find out accurately what it costs to operate and not alone this but the results will be of great assistance in helping others to decide on the advantages of using electricity.

It is interesting to note that, in summarizing the results from many representative flocks of poultry recently, the use of artificial light effected a feed consumption of less than one pound of feed more in a season's time than with unlighted flocks. Costs of artificial lighting per hen was on 1.7c for the season. Lighted birds laid an average of 160 eggs but 30 of these were laid in October, Novemher and Decemher. Birds without artificial lights laid an average of 160 eggs but only 21 of these were in the three decisive months. The average hen, under lights, gave 42c return as against but 13c for the hens in flocks not receiving artificial lights. While certainly we do not question the results of these experiments elsewhere, it will be of far more importance if we can get the information in our own county with local cooperators and we would certainly appreciate having any farmers in the county get in touch with us if they would he interested in being cooperators.

SHOT AT RANDOM

By Ken Usher

If I had my own way about things, I'd arrange it so all holidays would come on a week end like they have this year. It's going to be a "break", especially for the New Year's Eve celebrants—all next day to make resolutions. It might be a good thing to speak to President Roosevelt, at that.

There is one thing we should have been particularly joyous about this Christmas, and that is there was no epidemic of sickness to curtail our Yuletide festivities. A year ago this time church programs, Kiwanis activities and almost every function planned for the kiddies were dispensed with due to an epidemic of scarlet fever.

The individual loss to commercial fishermen due to failure of the whitefish spawn fishing season was a general loss to Charlevoix. After withstanding the physical discomforts of two weeks of frigid, stormy weather at the Fox Island grounds, the commercial fishing fleet returned home almost empty handed. The catches of most operators was not sufficient to cover expenses. One local operator stated 9 boats were on the Fox Island grounds when the season opened on December 10th.

Field Manager, Michigan Press Association

"Gning to market" has been the leading agricultural problem in Michigan for 1939.

How to market Michigan's many fnod products so that the grower-producer is assured of adequate returns on his investment and the consumer is assured of a quality product at a fair price are problems which the state of Michigan is striving intensively to solve.

In two instances—milk and apples—the state legislature created a separate commission to seek the solution.

The milk marketing hoard was given the power to fix prices for hoth producer and consumer—the only agency in state government with such authority.

The apple board was given the responsibility of stimulating demand for Michigan graded apples through

SURGERY COVERED BY NEW GROUP INSURANCE

Care at 35c Per Person Made Available by Association.

Benefit payments for every type of operation and fracture are now available to group members of the Michigan Hospital Benefit Association at approximately 35c per month per employee, according to an announcement by the association's medical committee. The committee is composed of the following from the board of trustees: Dr. Louis J. Gariepy, Dr. Stanley W. Insley, and Dr. Malcolm D. MacQueen.

"The medical committee is now working on plans for complete medical coverage in keeping with sound actuarial practices. The plan will be announced in the near future.

"The association is the only non-profit, co-operative community plan for protection against unanticipated hospitalization and surgical expenses in Michigan and is the first in America to offer surgical benefits. More than 600 Michigan employers have already made the association's plan available to 240,000 employees and families," the announcement states.

"The benefits paid are designed to help cover the average cost of surgical care and are obtained from a comprehensive, nation-wide study of medical costs with adjustments made possible because the Michigan Hospital Benefit Association is a co-operative and non-profit organization. Among the most common operations and fractures included and the maximum benefits for them are the following: appendectomy, $100; tonsillectomy, $30; fractures of the leg, $50 to $100; arm, $30 to $60; wrist, hand, ankle or foot, $15 to $30; nose or ribs, $10 to $20; mastoiditis, $75 to $100; delivery of child, $50; Caesarian operation, $100; pelvic surgery, $40 to $100; goitre, $50 to $100; and malignant tumor, $100.

"The association feels that a plan should be available for payment of medical and surgical fees in keeping with what the public can afford to pay. Each member may choose any licensed physician anywhere. The physician is assured payment by this association up to the amount specified in the membership certificate. Every licensed physician is allowed to participate in this plan without making a contact with the association and without assuming any liability or creating any obligation.

"This plan establishes financial independence and responsibility for each member with every physician anywhere in the world, thereby eliminating discrimination between its members and other cash-paying patients. Each member has an equal voice in the business of the association which is operated for the mutual benefit of all members, all doctors and all hospitals under the insurance laws of Michigan as enforced by the State Department of Insurance," the statement concluded.

AT THE MOVIES

"Day-time Wife"

Gay comedy and romantic revelry are the keynotes of "Day-time Wife," 20th Century-Fox picture coming January 1-2 to the Palace Theatre with Tyrone Power and Linda Darnell co-starred. The film presents Tyrone in the light, care-free roles in which he excels and the selection of dark-eyed and lovely Linda to play opposite him is a genuine sensation. It marks her second screen appearance, but her performance in her debut in "Hotel For Women" well justifies the choice. The story tells of the hilariously romantic carryings-on of a husband who goes whistling under the wrong balcony (his secretary's) and a perfect peach of a wife who rests on her oars (but not for long!) Featured in the cast are Warren William, Binnie Barnes, Wendy Barrie and Joan Davis.

"Pack Up Your Troubles"

The eckeyed world will laugh its head off at "Pack Up Your Troubles," the gay 20th Century-Fox comedy which brings Jane Withers to the Palace Theatre on January 3-4, with three new friends — those rolsterous Ritzes!

Jane promises to delight you and thrill you too as the bravest little Ma'amselle in all France. And, as for the Ritzes, they're bringing a whole kit-bag and kiboodle full of new Ritz-tricks, because they're in the army now—and being the Ritzes, of course, they tell the General how to run it!

Jane has two exciting new impersonations — George M. Cohan, singing "I'm A Yankee Doodle Dandy," and Eva Tanguay, singing "I Don't Care!" Jane also sings "Who'll Buy My Flowers," a song by Sidney Clare and Jule Styne.

Lovely Lynn Bari, as a spy, heads the imposing supporting cast. Joseph Schildkraut is seen as Jane's long-lost father. Stanley Fields plays "Angel Face," the hard-boiled Sergeant, under whose supervision the Ritzes play nursemaid to a herd of army mules. Fritz Leiber and Lionel Royce are also prominently featured.

PREDATOR BOUNTIES LESS THAN YEAR AGO

Smaller Number of Trappers Reported Workers for State.

Bounty payments of $21,805 on wolves and coyotes for the fiscal year to date continue to lag behind the $27,920 payments of the same period last year, though for November of this year the take was almost as great, $6,050 to $6,170.

The number of hunters and trappers taking the predators under contract with the department of conservation is about two-thirds as great as the number so engaged last year. Bounties are $20 for females and $15 for male of both species.

BOYNE CITY PLANNING GOLDEN GLOVE EVENT

Expect Heavy Entry for Bouts Scheduled January 15-20, Inclusive

Plans for the secund annual Golden Glove amateur boxing tournament at Boyne City were being perfected there this week by the Ernest Peterson Post of the American Legion, and Gilbert Lindsay, again chairman of the boxing committee, said he expected the show to top last year's, during which more than 2,500 fans saw 70 entries in action in the floodlighted ring during the three night carnival of amateur leather tossing.

The affair is to extend for four nights, January 15, 17, 19, 20. Bill Tryon, in charge of entries, said that queries had already been received from Cheboygan, Charlevoix, Petoskey, CCC Camp Wolverine, East Jordan and Boyne Falls, in addition to high local interest. Entry blanks have been prepared and amateur scrappers, eager to make their bid for fistic fame in the most famous of the non-pro tournaments, may obtain blanks at the Boyne Citizen office, or by writing Bill Tryon in care of the Citizen.

Splendid trophies will be presented to the winners and runners up in each weight division and the winners will be taken to the Grayling Tournament later in the season. Fans expect several of the fighters in this section to carry on to the Bay City show and to the state finals at Grand Rapids. A special, huge trophy is to be given to the city, organization, or individual turning in the largest number of entries.

Training equipment has been installed in the Boyne City gym and the quarters there will be open each week day afternoon, except Saturday, from 1 to 4. The gym will also be open each Tuesday and Thursday evenings from 7 to 9. The Legion invites all prospective entries to make use of the facilities and to train under expert supervision.

"Everything possible will be done," Chairman Lindsay said, "to extend every courtesy and convenience to the boxers entered in what is predicted to be northern Michigan's biggest amateur fight show to date."

Brew Grain Draws Deer

Milford—Almost daily several deer cross pastures on the F. M. Tenny farm and come within 100 feet of the house. A tank of brewery grain, used as cattle feed, is in the barnyard, sending off its pungent odors, which attract the deer.

"The Law" Has a Pet

Wayland—After a storm some months ago, Village Marshal George Douglas found a tiny squirrel lying stunned on the ground. For weeks he fed it evaporated milk with a medicine dropper and saved the squirrel's life. Now the little fellow "rides" about town on Douglas' shoulder. His diet includes candy, melon, ice cream, nuts, and apples.

Finds New Racket

Caro—A local man discovered a new racket by being the victim of it, but prevented continuance of it by tipping off police. From a peddler the man bought what he thought was a carton of razor blades. After the peddler had gone, investigation showed the man bought empty boxes. The peddler was fined in justice court.

Corn Looks Like Paw

Jonesville—Looking like the paw of some clumsy animal, a stalk of corn eight inches long has been on display here. At the stalk end it is like any normal ear, but instead of continuing round and straight, it spreads out until at the tassel end there are all 11 tips or cob points instead of the customary one. The corn is typical yellow dent.

Everything Happens to Him

Brooklyn—One thing after another has been happening to 10-year-old Archie Lawrence, Jr. A few weeks after he fell off the roof of a new building, Archie underwent an appendectomy. He had just recovered and returned to school when he was investigating a belt on a water pump, the pulley caught his right hand and mangled the first finger. He may have to have his tonsils out soon.

No Hitching Post

Portland — When Tom Beaver parked his car and went into the postoffice he probably didn't even think about a hitching post. But when a few minutes later someone rushed into the postoffice and exclaimed that a car had just smashed a big show window in a main street store, Tom had misgivings. He was right; his car had rolled a block from where he parked it, ending up in the store window.

Skunk Rules Household

Fremont—A skunk blundered into the basement of a local house and was caught in a rat trap. For five days, the family living in the house avoided the basement. Finally an experienced skunk exterminator took the matter in hand. He wrapped the animal in a heavy rug and took it outside to be disposed of.

HEAVY TOURIST BOOM IS PREDICTED FOR '40

Four Resort Bureaus Ask State Aid for Promotional Advertising

Michigan's four tourist associations are seeking aid from the highway department and conservation commission in sponsoring a national advertising program in 1940.

Representatives of the Upper Peninsula Development Bureau and the East Michigan, Northeast Michigan and West Michigan Tourist associations discussed the proposal with Governor Dickinson and members of the administrative board last Friday at Lansing.

They asked for a $50,000 appropriation from the 1940 emergency fund but were informed that would be out of the question. Auditor General Vernon J. Brown suggested that a "cooperative" program, to which the highway and conservation department could contribute financial aid, might be worked out.

The 1937 legislature set aside $50,000 for national advertising but the allotment was cut to $5,000 this year. The state appropriation will be spent in the states from which tourist associations have found most of the tourist business comes—Illinois, Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky, Missouri, Iowa and Nebraska.

George Bishop of Marquette, spokesman for the Upper Peninsula Bureau, said 1940 will be a year in which national advertising will be particularly advantageous because of the war.

"The unrest in Europe has opened up for us a new market—a market that amounted to $516,000,000 in 1938, according to U. S. government reports," he said. "That is the amount spent by American tourists in foreign countries annually. In 1940 the travel of these tourists will be confined to the western hemisphere.

"Michigan, Mexico, Canada, the New York World's Fair and 34 other states will be fighting for this new business and try to hold on to what they now have."

Bishop said Pennsylvania is spending $200,000 a year for tourist promotion, Maine, $200,000; Illinois, $250,000, and Ohio, a 'sizable appropriation'."

HARRY F. KELLY MAY SEEK SENATE BERTH

Will Be Candidate If Vandenberg is Nominee for President

Secretary of State Harry F. Kelly has announced that if Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg is nominated for the presidency he will be a candidate for Vandenberg's seat in the senate.

Kelly revealed his intention of seeking the senatorial nomination after he had appointed H. O. Weitschat of Detroit to succeed the late James G. Frey as deputy secretary of state.

Weitschat, a former newspaperman who helped direct the late Gov. Frank D. Fitzgerald's last campaign, has been on the governor's staff since January 1. He handled many important assignments for Fitzgerald and was retained by Governor Dickinson.

"In connection with this appointment, there has been several articles in the press conjecturing as to whether I will be a candidate for governor or for the U. S. senate," Kelly said. "I have no intention or desire to become a candidate for governor.

"If Sen. Vandenberg is nominated for the presidency, as I hope and believe he will be, and the people are called upon to nominate and elect a successor to him, I shall become a candidate to succeed him.

"For the present, my sole desire is to conduct the office of secretary of state in an economical and efficient manner and by so doing to merit the confidence of the people of Michigan."

War's Strangest Victim—Forlorn Pitcairn Island

How one rude beacon on the island in the Pacific Ocean is now shunned by passing ships that grow fewer and fewer, its food supplies almost gone, its only voice to the outside world silenced . . . and the descendants of the "Bounty's" mutineers facing extinction by a war they do not even know about, will be found described in a feature article in The American Weekly with the December 31 issue of The Detroit Times.

I have not educated the German people in vain for the last 20 years. —Adolf Hitler.

a modern advertising program.

Together with an increased inspection program for grading of products—a necessary preliminary to a 1940 program for advertising of other Michigan food products, they constitute a bright spot in the administration's activities since January 1.

Marketing at Fore

Whereas the state and its educational agencies sought for many years to effect better products and better production, the agricultural problem today is that of marketing.

At Washington it has taken the form of extensive subsidies, known as the soil conservation act and other programs designed to effect parity for the farmer with industry and business. Colleges of agriculture and the state and federal extension services have been highly successful in encouraging farmers to grow better products. But in every case it hasn't been easy to solve the new problem of surplus and competition for markets.

Hence, the role of state government as an arbitrator in the milk industry and as a tax collector in the apple industry. Both roles were made possible by acts of the 1939 legislature, and they have occupied much time of Commissioner Elmer A. Beamer.

This extension of state activity, much of which is self-financed by fees, was accompanied, however, by the inevitable increase in payrolls—a fact which has been distrubing to Mr. Beamer amid all the administration's efforts at economy.

Food Inspection

The department's payrolls, increased approximately $75,000 are being offset more than $50,000 in fees collected for inspection services. The remainder is covered by legislative appropriations to permit continuance of testing of Michigan livestock.

Commissioner Beamer estimates that payrolls for the inspection of fruits and vegetables will be increased by approximately $27,000 during the present fiscal year. (As we pointed out two weeks ago, the administration's fiscal year began last July 1). This amount of $27,000 will be returnable in fees paid to the department for inspection of farm commodities.

During recent months the demand for service has been steadily increasing with payrolls for the first five months of 1939-40 fiscal year reaching $23,101.54 compared to $11,494.46 for the same period last year. Records disclose that a large portion of this increase was caused by requests for inspection of apples purchased by the Federal Surplus Commodities Corporation. This federal agency required inspection of apples, and returned $8,000 in increased fees to the state for this service.

Compulsory inspection of onions likewise increased a demand for inspection with a corresponding increase in fees.

Poultry and Beans

Other food products which require inspection by the state in the interest of both the producer and the consumer are poultry products and beans. Poultry products alone were responsible for an added $6,000, while another $6,000 is expected on the basis of present expenditures for inspection of beans due to demands for grading of large quantities of colored beans.

In a discussion of inspection payrolls Commissioner Beamer pointed out the department attempted to provide this inspection service upon an actual cost basis with the producers and processors sharing the cost.

The apple commission, from taxes collected from apple growers, reimburses the state department for the cost of apple inspectors who are deputized by the commission to act in its behalf. The amount of money necessary for payment of this inspection staff is advanced to the department monthly.

Approximately $4,000 in the department's payroll increase will be shown as a result of the newly effective farm produce storage, which is operated upon a fee basis, with fees returnable to the department to make the service self-sustaining.

Milk Producers Gain

As a result of the 1939 milk marketing act, Michigan milk farmer-producers are $527,000 ahead in income for the year.

This amount represents the increase in price granted to producers on 177,000,000 pounds of milk since September 1. In southern Michigan, for example, prices which ranged from $1.50 to $2.45 per hundredweight have been stabilized. Of the increased producer income, $496,000 went to producers in the Detroit milk area; $7,800 to Muskegon area producers; $8,000 to Ann Arbor and $25,000 to Grand Rapids producers the latter increases being made voluntarily by distributors.

For the apple growers, the 1939 act has not had an opportunity to function as it has been challenged for constitutionality and is now in the courts.

SOCIAL SECURITY ACT PROVIDES MONTHLY BENEFITS BEGINNING JANUARY 1

Perhaps the most important change in the Social Security Act, as amended by the Congress in August of this year, is the extension of monthly benefits to family groups.

The original Act had no such provision. It paid monthly benefits only to the insured worker, when he became 65 and retired. The amended Act makes social security not only an old-age, but also a survivor's insurance program.

Workers' families are assured of monthly benefits, under certain conditions, if the wage earner dies before he becomes eligible for monthly benefits at 65. The amended Act provides monthly benefits for the insured worker's widow and minor children. These benefits usually begin soon after the worker's death and continue until his children have reached an age when they should be able to support themselves.

As an example of how this system will work, after January 1, take the case of George Johnson, a printing pressman.

George has a wife and two small children, aged 6 and 8. He works steadily, averaging $175 per month, and dies suddenly of pneumonia at the age of 34. Although he had been thrifty throughout his working life, the cost of providing for his family had made it impossible for him to save more than a few hundred dollars. After the funeral expenses have been paid, his widow and children find themselves very nearly destitute.

But the widow learns, on filing application with the Social Security Board, that she is entitled to a monthly insurance benefit—and that her children will also be entitled in their own right. In determining the amount of these monthly benefits, it is necessary to figure what George's own monthly benefit would have been.

Using the $175 average monthly wage and assuming that George had been insured under the Social Security Act four years, we find that his own benefit would have been $33.80 monthly.

His widow is entitled to three-fourths of this amount, or $25.35 each month. Each of the two children is entitled to one-half of $33.80 or $16.90 monthly, making a total monthly income for his widow and children of $59.15.

These benefits are payable from the month in which the claims are filed until the children reach the age of 16, or, if they continue going to school regularly after that time, until they become 18.

After the children reach 18, they will probably become wage earners themselves and no longer be dependent on anyone. Benefits are, therefore, no longer payable—but George's widow may, when she reaches 65, if she has not remarried, file application for and begin receiving an aged widow's insurance benefit.

If George had died without leaving a widow or dependent children, but had an aged father and mother, both over 65, who were solely dependent on this wage earner for their support, then the payment of monthly benefits to these aged parents also would be possible.

Each parent, on proving his or her age and the fact that George was the sole supporter of the aged person, would be entitled to a monthly benefit of $16.90 in this case, throughout life, provided the condition of dependency continued.

If there were no relative to claim survivors' benefits, then a single cash payment could be made to the person equitably entitled by reason of having paid the funeral expenses of this worker. This could not exceed the burial expenses paid by such person and in no event more than six times his monthly benefit, or a total of $202.80.

MANY WOMEN NEED MORE IRON

Pale blood or mild chronic anemia is much more common among young women than men, according to health records of college students. Young mothers also often lack buoyant health because their blood is not so red as it might be. So nutritionists now believe that young women should eat more iron-rich food than men. Since the body can store very little iron, and foods contain only minute quantities, women especially should make sure of their iron rations every day.

In general, the low-cost iron foods suggested by the home economics extension staff at Michigan State College include all the leafy green vegetables from kale to turnip greens, and peas and beans, especially black-eyed peas and lima beans. Iron from animal foods seems easier for the body to use, so liver and other meat organs, egg yolk, all lean meat and shellfish rate as excellent blood builders.

Even the old iron kettle and the rusty pump may help. Traces of iron go into the food during cooking, and this iron happens to be in a form the body can use. Although foods like apricots, raisins, dates, and cabbage test high in iron, there is evidence that their roughage prevents the body from absorbing much of this iron.

Iron cannot build red blood alone. Protein, traces of copper, and vitamin C also are necessary. So a well-rounded diet is recommended for keeping blood red enough for best health.

LIQUOR LAW UNCHANGED FOR HOLIDAY SEASONS

State to Enforce Hours on Christmas and New Year's Day

The Liquor Commission has acted to head off requests for special regulations on Christmas and New Year's eve liquor sales.

Commissioner V. F. Gormely said sources of communications have been received asking for a special dispensation on Sunday closing hours—because Christmas and New Year's Day fall on Monday. The liquor laws, he pointed out, prohibits hard liquor sales until after midnight.

"I don't think this will reduce sales much; there'll be plenty of time to celebrate Saturday night he said.

Beer sales will be banned, as usual, between 2 a. m. and 2 p. m. Sunday.

4-H Club Program Finishes Most Successful Year

Each year has seen an increase in enrollment in 4-H club work and 1939 was no exception. The final summary for the year reveals many interesting activities and accomplishments. In the first place, a new high was reached when the 103 clubs organized in the county included 883 project enrollments with 837 project completions as compared with 85 clubs in 1938 with 712 project enrollments and 676 project completions. This is over a one hundred per cent increase in the last five years. In the last winter's program every school in Charlevoix County, with the exception of Beaver Island, had some type of 4-H club activity.

When we consider the different types of activity carried on in the county, we find that there were 188 girls starting clothing club projects, 156 boys and girls in handicraft, 254 members in hot lunch and 11 members in electrical club work. Thus the past winter's program shows 609 project enrollments as compared with 484 the previous year. In the summer program there were 47 canning members, 34 food preparation projects, 36 members in dairy, 103 in forestry, 13 in potatoes, 19 in garden, 7 in corn, 3 in beans, 2 in pig projects, 7 in poultry, one in geese, one in farm mapping and one in farm accounts. It will be readily seen that the 4-H club program is a wonderful educational influence in the lives of our rural youth. All interests have been pretty largely incorporated in the club projects as during the past year there were 17 different types of activity conducted.

In addition, many club members received high recognition. Two club members won a trip to the National Dairy Show at San Francisco, three were on the state scholarship roll, six in the state honor roll, seven won trips to the State Fair, four attended the State Conservation Camp, and some 37 were delegates to the Gaylord Club Encampment.

Mason Clark, of East Jordan, was selected as the All-Around County Champion. While Mason has not had as many years of experience in club work as others, he has made an enviable record in the four years completed. As records now show, he is at present leading a handicraft club at East Jordan and last year was on a demonstration team that competed at the State Fair. It can only be hoped that the 1940 accomplishments will be on the same high level as we find in summarizing the year of 1939. The program is only successful in direct proportion to the splendid cooperation given us by the many local club leaders and teachers throughout the county. At this time we want to extend our thanks to the wonderful help from the 79 different individuals who acted as local club leaders this past year and made this report possible.

SUNDAY DINNER SUGGESTIONS

By Cora Aothoey
Director of A&P Kitchen

Continued low poultry prices and slightly lowered meat prices are good news for housewives who plan to entertain for the holiday weekend. Italian chestnuts, pecans, cranberries and kumquats are available for dressing up company meals.

The large supply of oranges, grapefruit and apples is still tending to keep prices low. These fruits make good meat relishes and sauces as well as desserts and breakfast foods.

Vegetables in general continue reasonable and in good supply. The high production of eggs at this season offers good value in all grades. Mild weather has increased the fish supply from southern waters.

over the Christmas week end when nary a call was received, and after it was all over marked down the astounding record of "no trouble" in the county for that holiday period. Charlevoix county was on its good behavior, it appears, and here's hoping the New Year's week end will follow the precedent.

War will be declared, I understand, in just about two weeks! It's the annual Masonic-Odd Fellow cribbage contest, and if you don't believe it is war, just set in on a session some night and note the rivalry. The boys intended to start the fray next Monday night, but New Year's interfered so they'll begin a week later this year.

Guess you can't make a land-lubber out of a fellow who has spent the greater part of his life on the water. At least one would come to that conclusion after learning "Bill" Gibson put in his two weeks' vacation from bridge tender duties on Peter Neilsen's fish tug over at the Fox Island whitefish grounds. "Didn't get any fish, but had a swell time," Bill said.

There are many way of expressing Christmas spirit and one employed at Traverse City stands out as being unique. The Traverse City Record-Eagle reports 80 children from needy families of that comunity were given barber service at the annual haircutting bee conducted at the Salvation Army Citadel.

Edward Heise Jr., currently basking in the torrid climes at Clearwater, Fla., takes exception to a Courier item which had him located at Tampa, Fla., for the winter. I do believe, though, I could detect a note of disappointment in his assertion he was just spending a month's vacation at Clearwater, following which he'd be back to "shovel snow with the rest of you 'damyankees'."

I can only reflect with sadness when I read where Traverse City's chamber of commerce is campaigning for "greater year-around payrolls and more summer vacation dollars," while Charlevoix's board of commerce has slumped to complete inactivity. What a difference circumstances can create in so short a span of time! Seems our local trouble is largely one of money—not so much the amount of money as a difference in opinion over who is to spend it.

If the surveying being done means anything, it looks like M-66 will be re-routed into Charlevoix from the south. The survey stakes show the new route comes across the airport, over Stover Creek, hetween Brookside and the Catholic cemetery to join U. S. 31 just beyond the McDonald oil station and cabin camp. Other contemplated relocation takes the trunk line across the Loeb Farms to Sequanota.

Well, folks, will see you all again next year! In the meantime, accept my sincere wish that the New Year brings you all the good things you would like to have.

HIGHWAY DEPARTMENT REVIEWS YEAR'S WORK

Paiot to $13,500,000 Construction Program During Past Year.

The state highway department, despite financial obstacles and legal delays, drove a $13,500,000 construction program through to completion in 1939.

The expenditures included both actual construction and right-of-way costs, and approximated the program for 1938. Construction emphasis was laid on economical, dust-proof surfacing of out-moded gravel highways.

The program was accomplished in the face of a discontinued appropriation of $5,000,000 annually from the general fund. In addition, the department was limited to installment payments totaling $3,500,000 on a $10,000,000 appropriation of the 1937 state legislature from the general fund, the last of which was not paid until July.

Anticipating n leveling out of federal allocations of aid to Michigan's highway system and the eventual discontinuance of federal emergency grants, the department spread available funds to maintain regular employment. Accordingly, the New Year found an $8,000,000 program launched for 1940 and a construction program similar in scope awaitig approval of the Public Roads Administration in Washington.

A recapitulation showed at the end of 1939 the department had built 63 miles of concrete highways, 240 miles of oil aggregate, 122 miles of gravel road, 37 bridges and four grade separations.

IMPRESSIVE CHRISTMAS SERVICES HELD AT CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH

Christmas was observed with impressive services Sunday at the Congregational church.

The Sunday school gathered at 5 o'clock in the afternoon to celebrate the Nativity. The program consisted of carol singing, orchestra music and a sermonette by the pastor on the meaning of Christmas. Two immense candles on either side of the entrance, also a Christmas tree and many lighted candles inside the church formed beautiful decorations.

Candy and nuts were distributed to the children. Many parents and friends were in the audience.

The services at 11:00 a. m. and 12 midnight were carried out as scheduled. The church was filled to capacity for the midnight service at which the Christmas cantata, "The Christ Child," was presented by the women's choir augmented by singers from East Jordan and Boyne City. Mrs. A. L. Livingston and Mrs. C. F. Krieghoff were the soloists. A candlo light service concluded the very impressive program. Preceding the cantata, Christmas carols were broadcast from the public address equipment in the church steeple.

EARL W. MILLER IS PRESIDENT FOR YEAR 1940

Extensive Program of Activities for Coming Year Outlined at Annual Meeting Wednesday.

Officers and directors were elected and an ambitious program was outlined for 1940 at the annual meeting of the Charlevoix Sportsman's Club, held Wednesday evening at the Pythian temple.

Earl W. Miller was elected prealdent to succeed Roy Ranger, whu retires with the distinction of being probably the most active club head since its organization. R. C. Korth was chosen vice president, Clarence Wood was re-elected secretary, as was Harley Ochs to the office of treasurer. Ray Kipke and C. Y. Marshall were re-elected directors.

While a wide range of activities vital to fish and game management was discussed, principal aims for the year are centered around re-establishment of trout ponds on streams adjacent to Charlevoix. The uld Burns pond on McGeagh creek near Barnard will be the first project and other sites on this stream are under consideration. Ponds on Stover, Inwood and Horton creeks were discussed. Other aims include management of dogs and merganser ducks, improvements to the Stover creek rearing ponds and a movement to form a county-wide conservation organization as a means of unifying efforts of the several clubs in Charlevoix county.

As a means of providing constructive work on both fish and game management, the organizations membership will be divided into two groups, each centering its efforts on the work to which it is assigned.

The business meeting followed an oyster supper. Around 30 sportsmen were present.

ROBERT BRIDGE IS RELIEF CHAIRMAN

HEADS LOCAL CAMPAIGN TO AID FINNISH PEOPLE

Urges Citizens Make Earliest Response to Prevent Suffering in War-Torn Country

Robert Bridge, president of Charlevoix County State Bank, has accepted the local chairmanship for the Finnish Relief Fund in answer to the appeal for funds made by Finnish Relief Fund, Inc., of which former President Herbert Hoover is national chairman. Mr. Bridge is taking immediate steps to get the campaign under way.

"I am most happy to serve in view of the pressing needs of brave women and children in little Finland," Mr. Bridge said today. "Thousands have been driven from their homes in Finland by the bombing and warfare and they must be provided with food, shelter, and clothing. Finnish Relief Fund, headed by Mr. Hoover, is attempting to meet these great needs. American Red Cross provides medical and hospital supplies, but in accord with its traditional international policy, does not attempt civilinn aid for the aged, the women and children. Both groups have a large task in this crisis.

"We must act quickly to prevent suffering nnd death to these honest peace-loving people," Mr. Bridge said. "I know that our city will respond generously."

SOILS PROGRAM IS AIMED FOR COUNTY

COUNTY FARM LEADERS ARE TO MEET AT BOYNE CITY

E. D. Longnecker, M.S.C. Specialist to Lead Discussion at Gathering January 5th

(By B. C. Mellencamp)

A very worthwhile meeting is planned for Friday, January 5th, in the extension office, Boyne City, at which time a discussion will take place for the purpose of determining a soils program for tbe entire county.

In attendance will be representatives of the agricultural committee from the board of supervisors, county committee of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, managera of the various cooperative agencies and others interested in the agricultural development in the county. E. D. Longnecker, specialist from the Michigan State College, will be present and will assist in determining the kind of program that can best serve the agricultural interests.

A soils map, completed some two years ago, will be shown which very accurately indicates the various types of soils within the area. Statistics from the 1935 census will also be available. Mr. Longnecker will bring illustrative material so the picture of the county can be portrayed. Certainly the agricultural development is directly associated with the types and fertility of soils. It is hoped to develop a program that will work over a period of time and not just for the immediate year in prospect. Land planning will receive more consideration from time to time. Some five counties last year participated in this project. It is hoped that Charlevoix county may be included in this survey this new year. In this way an up to date survey would be possible. It is highly possible that certain areas of land should not be farmed. On the other hand, some land that is being farmed could better be used for recreational purposes. Out of this discussion should come something worthwhile that will merit the approval of the public.

ALUMNI WON HOLIDAY CAGE CONTEST

DEFEATED RED RAYDERS BY 16 TO 14 COUNT FRIDAY

Rogers City's Class B. Hurons Come for Contest Here Friday—Boyne City Here January 26th

From a standpoint of points scored, the Alumni proved a better basketball combination than the Red Rayders last Friday night. They won by a 16 to 14 count in a close and interesting contest.

During the course of this annual holiday cage feature, 11 former high school stars were matched against ten members of Coach Ray Kipke's 1939-40 combinntion. Substitutions were frequent and basketball technique at times lacking.

The Alumni led at the close of the first quarter 4 to 1, and at half time 8 to 4. The teams played even in the third period, scoring 5 points each to give the Alumnl a 13 to 9 advantage at the intermission. The Rayders scored 5 points to the Alumni's 3 in the final stanza.

Playing on the Alumni squad were Potter, Bissell, Radle, D. Bergman, Richardson, Goss, Shapton, C. Carey, J. Foster, Nickerson and Beardsley. Bissell scored 5, Radle 3, Potter, Bergman and Nickerson 2, Foster 1.

For the Rayders, Carey was high with 7. McGhan, Rowe and Nowland scored 2 each, Stevens 1.

Two preliminary games preceded the main contest. Two reserve teams played in the first, resulting in a 12 to 3 score. In the second the junior class defeated a team composed of freshmen and sophomores by a 11 to 3 score.

The Rayders play at home Friday night in a game which marks their only local appearance in three weeks. Rogers City's class B Hurons will furnish the opposition. Subsequent games take the Rayders to Gaylord, Petoskey and East Jordan. They return to the home hardwood to meet Boyne City on January 26th.

COUNTY STATE BANK REPORTS PROGRESS

1939 CITED AS BEST YEAR IN BANK'S HISTORY

Gain in Deposits and Strong Finaacial Position is Revealed by Year-End Statement

The year-end statement of the Charlevoix County State Bank reflects a steady and substantial growth in deposits and capital account.

Loans and discounts, including real estate mortgages, have risen approximately $45,000 since December 31, 1938. Holdings in United States government obligations have been reduced, as have investments in other corporate honds. A marked increase of $38,000 in municipal bonds shows a continued trend toward conservatism in the investment account. The cash position remains the same, at approximately 30% of deposit liahility. The carrying value of the bank building has been reduced $500.00 during the year, making a total of $1,500 charged off the huilding since organization in 1934. Demand deposits of firms and individuals have increased $23,600, whilo the savings deposits show another increase of $31,700. Public funds on deposit have decreased $26,000.

The capital account shows a very material increase from a total a year ago of $35,737.00 to $41,288.00, or an increase of $5,550.00. In addition to this figure, stockholders of the bank received 6% dividends on their investment. Earnings for the year have been the best in the bank's history and the increasing of the capital account from this source makes a stronger and more useful bank for Charlevoix. The statement shows that $4,000 of the earnings have been transferred to the surplus account and $4,200 has been held in undivided profits account for the additional protection and security of depositors. Robert Bridge, president, explained that all known losses and douhtful assets were charged off before earnings for the year were calculated.

The marked rise in local loans and discounts, includiog real estate mortgages, indicates the services of this institution to the citizens of the community. A recent survey of Michignn banks made by the American Bankers Association proved that these banks were aiding their various localities by making loans. The Charlevoix County State Bank was one of the banks included in the survey and was above the avernge for new loans and renewals made.

Charlevoix can well be proud of this successful organization as a part of the community.

SHOT AT RANDOM

By Ken Usher

Well, folks, this is 1940, a brand new year. I practiced writing the new date last week, and it's not a bit hard when you get used to it. Nobody can predict what the new year hns in store for us, but there is one thing certain, it will be a whole lot what we make it. With this thought in mind, there's one resolution we could all well make and keep, too. Let's start right away boosting stronger and louder for Charlevoix!

There's going to be no "frills" for relief clients in Grand Traverse county after the first of the year. The order has gone out to the effect that any person receiving direct relief who drives a car or has a telephone will be dropped from the relief rolls. Seems only the right thing when you stop to think about it. There's lots of people who manage to keep off relief who can't afford neither an automobile or telephone.

We all should have known it was too good to last! I mean the swell weather we had up to last Friday when the first real snowfall of the winter came. It snowed from Friday until Wednesday of this week and it looks like the Weather Man has brought winter to stay. Heard some folks grumbling about it, too, and believe they should be reminded it

By GENE ALLEMAN

Field Manager, Michigan Press Association

The right of state government to fix prices was given a disturbing jolt here in a ruling by Judge Leland W. Carr of the Ingham county circuit court holding Michigan's so-called "fair trade" law to be unconstitutional.

Although the court opinion affected only the 1937 statute covering petroleum and bakery produets, it indirectly casts a shadow over the 1939 milk price-fixing act, which is already under judicial scrutiny. This law is now in litigation seeking to test the right of the state to invade private industry in the ostensible intereat of the public.

Judge Carr's opinion will echo in the 1941 aession of the Michigan atate legislature. For if there was anything certain it is the likelihood that retail forces in the state will gird again for battle over fair trade

AT THE MOVIES

Victor Herbert Love Melodies Tune New Film

The world has never stopped singing the immortal love songs of Victor Herbert—now it will hear them from the screen in the first motion picture built around the personality of the great Irish-American comoposer, "The Great Victor Herbert," which Paramount will present next Saturday and Sunday, January 6-7, at the Palace Theatre.

With Allan Jones, Mary Martin and Walter Connolly playing the chief roles in a cast that numbers hundreds, "The Great Victor Herbert" goes back to the daya when Herbert was czar of gas-lit Broadway, and tells a romantic love story played to more than a score of the master's melodies.

Under the direction of Producer-Director Andrew Stone, whose enthusiasm for the great composer and his work goes back to boyhood, the cream of Herbert's music was included in the film. "The Great Victor Herbert" brings back such unforgetable pieces as "Kiss Me Again," "I'm Falling in Love With Some One," "Oh! Sweet Mystery of Life," "A Kiss in the Dark" and "Thine Alone."

A singing cast equal in calibre to Herbert's greatest music performs in the picture. Chief among the players are Mary Martin, who became a Broadway star overnight singing "My Heart Belongs to Daddy," Allan Jones, whose film successes include "Show Boat," "Rose Marie" and "The Firefly," and fourteen-year-old Susanna Foster, a promising Paramount discovery.

MICHIGAN BELL BOOSTS

Michigan's vacation and recreational facilities are again exploited by the Michigan Bell Telephone Co., following a policy established several years ago.

Beginning the second week in January, 250 Michigan newspapers will carry a series of advertisements on the general theme, "Whatever your favorite winter sport, you can find it right here in Michigan." While the advertisements are the first on winter sports, the company has carried a series on summer recreational facilities for several years.

Behind the policy of advertising Michigan's summer and winter attractions, is the company's belief such publicity adds to prosperity in which the company profits with all other businesses. Another commendable line of thought is expressed by the company's Mr. C. W. Hunderford in the statement: "We still believe that the lakes and streams, the hills, and the northern latitude that make Michigan an unexcelled summer playground, make it equally outstanding as a center for winter sports.

The Michigan Bell Telephone Company is to be congratulated!

ASK COOPERATION

In order to aid the city street department in its snow removal operations on Bridge street, a request has been made by city officials asking the public to refrain from parking cars on the street throughout the night. Parked automobiles interfere with the work inasmuch as a complete job cannot be done.

It's pleasant to live in a country where the only pacts we have to worry about are compacts.

GIRLS LEARN HOMEMAKING

In order to provide practical training and work experience in child care, sewing, practical nursing, and home making, the Michigan National Youth Administration is operating several projects for underprivileged girls who wish to secure private employment in these fields. The above picture shows two girls and an instructor in the sewing room at one of the projects.

At the present time there is a project at Charlevoix, where 30 girls reside and work in the project house; one at Detroit which employs 36 girls on a part time basis, and one newly established for Negro girls at Idlewild (near Baldwin). In addition 466 girls are assigned to nurse-aide projects sponsored by 36 hospitals throughout the state. Civic agencies in the communities co-sponsor these projects and endeavor to place these girls in private employment as soon as they have received a sufficient amount of work experience.

BOYNE GOLDEN GLOVES PRODUCE REAL TALENT

Flood of Entries Received for Event Scheduled January 18-20

The Ike Waltons of Grayling, making ready for their Golden Gloves Tournament, are looking anxiously at the preparations in Boyne City for the second annual American Legion Golden Gloves event of the Northwestern District, to be held in the Boyne City gymnasium, January 15-17-19-20.

Judging from the number of entries already received, it will be necessary to handle approximately twenty bouts each night up to the finals. If the competing localities produce leather-slingers of the capacity of last year's Galinski, Dunlap and Taylor from Petoskey; Summerville and Umlor of East Jordan; Duplissie of Charlevoix; Organik, Whitman and Jensen of Boyne Falls, Duffy of Wolverine CCC; Tompkins and Kujawski of Boyne, the spectators will again witness fierce action in the flood-lighted ring. Last year's fans and fans-yet-to-be enthusiastically await the sound of the gong, the cheering of ring-siders, and the "slap" as amateud pugilists hit the canvas in one and two-round knockouts — four whole nights of earnest jubbing, clinching, slugging and snappy footwork!

In order to make keener competition in numbers of entries this year, a trophy will be given to the one bringing in the largest class of entries accepted as to physical and amateur standing. It is expected that Petoskey will bring two classes of real fighters able to make good account of themselves with word that Wolverine CCC hus a long list of fast ones. Harbor Springs has already registered three and other cities are letting it be known that they are liable to make strong bids for the cup.

We wish to thank every one who helped the "Parkers" to have one of the most delightful Christmas and New Year seasons they can remember. Our curiosity got out of bounds when we received a greeting addressed to "The Preacher" and signed "From an Old Rascal." Now who is that "Old Rascal"?

Our first service for 1940 will be a celebration of the "Lord's Supper." Come and enjoy this delightful fellowship.

The 57th annual meeting of our church will be held Tuesday night, January 9th, 1940, at 7:30 in the church. At this time new officers will be elected, reports of the different organizations read, and all necessary business transacted. The committee on nominations is: Mrs. R. F. Sloan, Mrs. Mina S. HUNTING LANDS TO BE OFFERED IN MICHIGAN

State Will Get Two Million Acres Tax Delinquent Property

Dream of many a Michigan sportsman—a cabin in the north woods—may take shape some day as a consequence of the reversion to the state last November of more than two million acres of tax delinquent lands.

Already inquiries concerning available tracts in good hunting territory are being received by the lands division of the department of conservation, designated by law to administer the reverted acreage.

The department is advising the writers that more time will be needed before determination can be made of lands which will be available to prospective purchasers. Deeds to the more than two million acres, now being turned over to the lands division by the auditor general, are being posted and locations, indicated on maps—a monumental task in itself. Later, disposition of such reverted lands as will be incorporated in present or proposed state forests, game areas and refuges, and for other public uses, will be determined. Then, lands which individuals or groups of sportsmen may purchase must be appraised.

The procedure will require several weeks to complete. The department is informing sportsmen that no descriptions will be available before March 1 and that, in many instances, a longer time will be required to complete checks of availability. Purchasers of such lands will be required to make formal application to the lands division for auctioning of such tracts as they may be interested in, and sales will be made to highest bidders at auctions arranged by the department. The state reserves mineral rights on such lands.

HOLIDAY TRAFFIC AT STRAITS SETS RECORD

Christmas Week End Rush Pushes Year's Total Over Peak.

Unexpectedly heavy Christmas week-end business resulted in the breaking of an all-time record for ferry traffic at the Straits of Mackinac, the Highway Department reports.

With two boats operating, 832 vehicles were taken across the Straits Saturday, 289 Sunday and 277 Monday, bringing the total for the year to 278,243. The biggest previous year was 1937 when 274,673 vehicles were transported between the two peninsulas.

OLD PLATES NECESSARY TO OBTAIN NEW LICENSE

Many Persons Are Inconvenienced By Forgetting Law.

Persons who desire to purchase 1940 motor vehicle license plates must bring their 1939 plates with them before new ones will be issued.

That was the reminder issued today by officials at the local license bureau. Many persons make a trip to the bureau to buy new plates and are forced to return home to secure their old plates and present them at the bureau. This ruling by the secretary of state's office is still in effect and the old plates must be turned in at the bureau.

HOUSE PLANTS SUBJECT FOR GARDEN CLUB DISCUSSION HELD TUESDAY

The next meeting will be Tuesday, January 16, at the home of Mrs. Ray Faulkner, and Mrs. Lewis O'Neill will present the subject of wild life conservation.

325 FARM PURCHASES IN 11TH DISTRICT FINANCED BY FCA

With broader farm ownership opportunities made possible under the farm credit act of 1935, over 300 farmers and tenants in the 11th congressional district have purchased farm homes during the past 4 years, it is shown in a report made by the Federal Land Bank of St. Paul. Farm purchases in Charlevoix county were 18 at a cost of $20,300.

More than $348,000 in Farm Credit financing has been provided in this aren to help farm families take over farms of their own. Financing in this county is in the lower brackets, funds for the purchase of farms ranging from $10,000 to $64,000 per county, with the exception of one county which is below these figures.

With the passage of the farm credit act of 1935 land bank commissioner first and second mortgage loans were made available for farm purchases. Land bank financing had always been available for this purpose. A large number of farms were bought from private owners, some of them retired farmers, and heirs of estates. Others were purchased from the land bank and land bank commissioner.

Farm purchase financing is made available to individuals who have sufficient funds for the necessary down payment. Farmers with resources of their own have been able to finance in some cases up to 75 per cent of the purchase price of the farm offered as security.

Over 130 land bank and commissioner loans aggregating $150,000 were made since October 1935 to enable farm families in the 11th district to buy farms. Taking Michigan as a whole, 2,688 farm families have bought farms with land bank or commissioner financing, the aggregate amount for the 4 years ending September 30, 1939 being $5,437,000.

Home Economics Leaders Will Meet for Third Lesson January 9th

The third lesson in our present home economics project, Home Management, will be given on Tuesday, January 9th, in the Boyne City library beginning at 10 o'clock. It is expected that a full attendance of leaders from the thirteen communities will be present.

As we enter the new year, it is interesting to note that the women folks have now participated in extension projects since the spring of 1925 and, during this time, have participated in seventeen different projects. It is significant that there have been some communities that have not missed a single project.

The following communities and leaders are participating in the Home Management project:

Horton's Bay—Mrs. J. A. Koteskey and Mrs. David Smith, leaders; Marion Center—Mrs. Max Davis and Mrs. Bob O'Dell; Burgess—Mrs. Ida Burns; East Jordan No. 2—Mrs. Bud Scott and Mrs. Clifford Brown; East Jordan No. 1—Mrs. Paul Lisk and Mrs. Lester Walcutt; Clarion—Mrs. Henry Hinkley and Mrs. George Malloy; Peninsula—Mrs. Orval Bennett and Mrs. Clayton Healey; South Arm—Mrs. Kenneth Isman and Mrs. Archie Murphy; Charlevoix—Mrs. Jeff Novotny and Mrs. William Higman; Barnard — Mrs. Clyde Warner and Mrs. Clarence Murray; Evangeline—Mrs. Paul Clark and Mrs. Earl Martin; Boyne City — Mrs. Constance VanHoesen; Deer Lake — Mrs. Earl Barber and Miss Sidney Lumley.

Seven Young Sires Recently Purchased by Dairymen

The recent arrival of a truck load of young dairy sires out of high producing herds will do more than anything else toward improving the dairy production in the county. These young sires are between one week and three weeks of age. This importation is due to the efforts of Howard Lytle, Smith-Hughes instructor, in the Boyne City high school, who personally selected the animals during the holidays and who made all of the arrangements.

During the last month a series of night classes were held at which time the discussion was devoted to dairying. From twenty to thirty dairymen from the east end of the county were in attendance each night.

A recent plan developed by the dairy department of the Michigan State College, whereby many splendid young sires could be purchased by dairymen at a very reasonable cost, was discussed during these meetings. Many outstanding herds in the fluid milk market have in the past killed their young male calves at birth. These animals come from cows producing all the way from 300 pounds to 500 pounds of butterfat, yearly. Under the new plan these calves are saved and reports made to the college upon birth. In regard to price, they range from ten dollars up to twenty dollars at two weeks of age and the production is from 350 pounds to over 450 pounds of butterfat. At two to four weeks of age an extra ten dollars is added and an additional five dollars per month from the first month on to a year of age. Thus a person is in a position to get a young sire one month of age for from twenty to thirty dollars depending on the production.

This is a worthwhile accomplishment and indicates that these night classes, being conducted by the Smith-Hughes instructor cooperating with the extension service, are of great value. If nothing else comes from this effort, the purchasing of these splendid young sires to head up seven herds certainly proves that the project has been highly successful. Within another two weeks it is expected that three more sires will be placed in this county. If sufficient interest on the part of dairymen is manifest, we hope to purchase many more young sires throughout the county.

Some scientists say that fish cannot distinguish colors and that they will snap at a red fly as quickly as at a green fly. But the scientists will never be able to convince some fishermen that fish don't know their colors.

BUFFET MEALS ADD TO PARTIES

With a few time-tested tricks to smooth the way, buffet meals can add to the zest of a party, permit the home to entertain more guests than usual and still make the job an easier one for the hostess.

Pointers suggested by the home economics extension service of Michigan State College include serving foods easy to serve and easy to eat, easy to keep hot.

Just the one job of buttering rolls before setting them out to the customers saves guests the trouble and reduces the number of dishes and traffic jumbles during serving. For "stand up" buffets the experienced entertainers have found it's a big help to have small trays on which each guest can assemble a meal.

It's often a good idea to have a hot dish. One way to facilitate serving is to have this hot dish come off the stove in two installments, one for the initial serving and another for second helpings.

Casserole dishes and creamed meats prove popular. Curried chicken is one favorite. Another is macaroni and cheese, macaroni and tomato sauce with meat balls, goulash or piping hot frankfurters.

Good vegetable dishes are scalloped potatoes, sweet potatoes or corn pudding. Scalloped apples may fit the color scheme, if the meal is planned with a definite color scheme in mind.

One item that can wait until the guests have served themselves and are seated is the coffee or other hot beverage.

SUNDAY DINNER SUGGESTIONS
By Cora Anthony

An abundance of citrus fruits and apples continue to arrive in market and is selling at attractive prices. This is a good time of year to put up preserves of these fruits to use in summer when they are not so inexpensive.

New cabbage and iceberg lettuce are the outstanding vegetables for sale, with beets, mushrooms, onions, rutabagas, beets and Hubbard squash also good values.

Meats and poultry as well as eggs continue at about the same price levels. However the supply of fresh fish has diminished due to the unfavorable weather and few fishing expeditions during the holidays. Consequently the prices have risen slightly.

legislation. The past two sessions have been battle scenes, and the 1941 round will be no exception.

What is all the shooting about anyway?

And where does the consumer come in?

NRA and Competition

The fair trade movement is an American hang-over from the idealistic NRA of 1933, the "Blue Eagle" child fathered by the United States Chamber of Commerce and mothered by the Roosevelt administration—a paradoxical couple!

To bounce the business chiseler, to prevent unfair competition and to assure everyone of a decent profit was the modest goal that the Blue Eagle sought to achieve. It was a nice idea at least, and everybody was for it as long as there was a chinaman's chance of it getting somewhere.

But when the United States supreme court unanimously knocked out the national recovery act as an unwarranted invasion of legislative rights, the American business man was left just where he was before—dependent upon himself to solve his business problems.

That is where fair trade legislation came in.

The motive was the same; the scene for action was merely transferred from Washington to Lansing; the state government, not the federal government, was to be the rescuing angel.

"Abridgment," Says Judge

The 1937 legislature received the fair trade orphan with sympathy.

Idealistically, no one sheds a tear for the chiseler, the big bad man of the business world. The "rub" came in when legislators sought to decide how big the fair trade tent should be. When the cutting was all over, the big top was reduced to petroleum and bakery products which had maintained powerful lobbies supported by special contributions. Lawmakers decided that something had to be done in the name of fair trade; a "law" had to be passed, and so the measure was enacted.

Judge Carr of Lansing, however, doubted the wisdom of the act from the consumer's point of view as well as from the retailer's. He said in part:

"In the exercise of the police power the principle has been commonly recognized, and rather firmly established, that the public welfare is best served by freedom of competition, rather than by arbitrary curtailment. This is at least an abridgment of the right of the owner to fix his own selling price."

How About Milk?

The knock-out court opinion on the fair trade act also involved unofficially Michigan's new milk price-fixing law, passed in 1939.

Observers are wondering what Judge Carr would do if he were asked to rule on the constitutionality of this startling step of state government into private enterprise. The milk act vested authority in local milk control boards to fix both producer and retail prices. Through a "check-off" system the expense of maintaining these boards was automatically provided for.

The state of New York was one of the first to experiment on price-fixing for milk producers and consumers. In a test case, the United States supreme court declared that, because of the element of public health, the state possessed police powers under the New York constitution to regulate milk prices.

But Michigan's constitution is a different document. It is being freely forecast in Lansing that the new milk price-fixing law will be declared unconstitutional. Except for the point of public benefit, Judge Carr's legal reasoning would seemingly apply also to the matter of milk prices.

Consumer

The experiment of the state government trying to fix prices for the consumer is not an isolated incident to Michigan.

It is a national trend in which is involved a new movement known as the "consumer movement."

If government is to look out for the organized interests of special groups, who is going to look out for the consumer?

Here again the problem has been taken to the United States supreme court. Legislatures in California and Illinois enacted laws which established minimum retail prices of manufactured products where the manufacturer entered into contract with the retailer. The California and Illinois laws were upheld, the court pointing out that the retailer could remove brand names from a price-fixed product and sell it without regard to the contract price provided he did not refer to the brand or its maker.

These fixing of minimum retail prices has been legalized by Congress through the Tydings-Miller amendment to the Sherman act.

While stabilizing prices of nationally advertised products, the act left a loop-hole for stores which could offer their own private non-advertised brands and thus undersell competitors. Actually the national chain-drug interests appeared before a congressional committee at Washington in support of the minimum price bill.

That the result has been to increase retail prices for the consumer was the substance of a survey made by the R. H. Macey and Co., New York retail store. Average percentage price increases on branded items ranged from 8 per cent for cosmetics, 16 per cent for drugs, 17.6 per cent for books to 16 per cent for miscellaneous items.

Advertising Cost

It was inevitable that the cost of advertising should enter the fair trade picture.

Advertising costs have been a mystery to the average consumer.

Hence it was timely when the Distribution Committee for the Twentieth Century Fund, a Filene enterprise, reported last fall that the total expenditure for advertising probably amounted to less than 3 per cent of the aggregate sum paid by the consumer. As the "American Consumer" magazine stated in December, the Fund study furnishes facts to affirm the opinion of the great bulk of American consumers that advertising in itself is a sound economic device, performing a valuable and profitable consumer service and is not an "economic waste" as has been charged.

Since the cost of advertising is a modest part of the consumer dollar and actually a means to effect lower prices through greater distribution and production—the automobile being a Michigan example—the fair trade problem simmers down to a question of what is best for the consumer, the great American public.

And that is food for thought.

U. S. LAB PROBES FOWL PARALYSIS

First key to unlock the secrets of fowl paralysis has been demonstrated in research at the federal regional poultry research laboratory located on the farms of Michigan State College.

It is sanitation, observes Dr. J. Holmes Martin, laboratory director. This first conclusion comes near the end of the first year of operation in which 7,000 chicks were hatched and subjected to controls and tests designed to point to future operation of the laboratory.

The paralysis preys upon nearly every average farm flock in the United States, exacting a prohable toll of about 25 per cent of the birds each year, costly to the industry. The federal government set up the regional station primarily to serve 25 northeastern and north central states including Michigan, hut the information obtained is to be made available nationally.

Recently an advisory committee of nine men from New York, Massachusetts, Oklahoma, Connecticut, Iowa, Missouri, Illinois, Wisconsin and Pennsylvania met with the laboratory staff and four men from Washington, D. C., to hear of 1939 efforts and plan the 1940 program.

"We definitely have isolated resistant and susceptible strains in poultry," says Director Martin. "The susceptibility factor seems of little value except for research. It still is a mystery how the paralysis is transmitted although there is little doubt it is a virus and a filth-borne disease. Sanitation, therefore, can be a preventive. In three pens with strict sanitary control we found no sick birds in one, one suspicious case in another and one definite case in the third."

Waits for Wife

Birmingham—Police recently received a phone call giving them location of a parked car in which a man was slumped over the wheel. Fearing a suicide, officers rushed to investigate. As they prepared to force open the door, the man looked up and said drowsily, "Just waiting for my wife to finish her shopping."

Hunters Bring Out Firemen

Mason—Hunters built a fire in a hollow tree to smoke out a coon they were trailing. Hours later, Mason firemen were called to put out the fire, something the hunters had forgotten to do. When conservation officers read of the incident in a local paper, they sought to arrest the hunters for illegally molesting a racoon in his den.

Queen Again—It's News

Brethren—Miss Opal Fay Baker was Manistee county's queen of youth and beauty at the 1938 county fair. In 1939, she was chosen queen of the Northern Michigan Potato and Apple Show at Traverse City, representing 31 counties. She didn't know of this recent election until show officials asked her to pose for a photograph.

Meet After 47 Years

Cedar Springs—Charles Booth of Grand Rapids learned only recently that Ed Hearrington of Solon Center was his neighbor 20 miles north. They were boyhood friends, who had not seen each other for 47 years.

Study Nature First Hand

Whitehall—Pupils of Miss Jueta Stoffer at Conklin school became interested in nature study this year. Some collected various types of bees nests, thinking they were empty. After a day in the heated schoolroom, however, the pupils found they were mistaken, as baby bees came swarming out into the room.

Three Times and Out

St. Johns—Baseball rules applied to an Elsie resident charged with garage thefts here. On his first visit, the man took a set of seat covers. A month later he was back again and absorbed a horn ring. But when he came the third time, the sheriff was waiting for him. He was fined in justice court and placed on probation.

Illness Hits Twice

Spruce—On a Thursday Ilene Tacia underwent an operation in an Alpena hospital for chronic appendicitis. Friday evening her brother Howard was rushed to the same hospital with an acute attack of appendicitis, and was operated on Saturday morning.

Goat Scares Kids

Birmingham—A nanny goat which left home caused consternation among local grade school children recently. The goat ended up in a yard which children passed on their way to school. Seeing the horns on the animal, the youngsters were afraid to go by. While a patrolman dispatched to the scent was wondering what to do, the owner appeared and took the situation in hand.

The operator of a large number of trucks has suggested that all commercial vehicles on the highways be painted a standardized shade of yellow as a safety measure. He said that tests made by his company indicate that yellow trucks can be seen at a greater distance than trucks painted any other color.

isn't as bad as it cnuld be, for a year ago it snowed every single, solitary day from December 21st to January 4th—28 inclns in all. And we're lucky here, too, considering there was a 15-inch snowfall at Traverse City, 18 inches in Kalkaska cnunty and, according to Sam Tokoly, 18 inches un a level in the vicinity of Elmira. Charlevoix hasn't over 5 or 6 inches of snow at the most. The thermometer dropped to 10 above Wednesday night; the south arm of Lake Charlevoix is frozen over up as far as Ironton; there was a skim of ice on Round lake Tuesday morning. Will bet boats operate to Beaver Island for another month or more, at that!

With the naming of Robert Bridge as local chairman for the Finnish Relief Fund, Inc., headed by Ex-President Herbert Hoover, Charlevoixans have the opportunity to aid brave little Finland, a country that represents the things we Americans hold dear—democracy, decency, integrity. Hundreds of thousands of women and children have been driven out of their homes—destitute, cold, hungry. If you wish to show your support, go into the Charlevoix County State Bank and make your contribution to the Finnish Relief Fund.

If, when you go tu pay your taxes, you are inclined to grumble about the tax rate, let me remind you Charlevoix's is much lower than most northern Michigan cities. Boyne City's, for instance, is $41.45 per $1,000 valuation for the year, compared to our $33.40. If you still aren't satisfied, just ask yourself: "What have they got that we haven't?"

Of all the exchange papers that come to my desk each week, there's none than I get more real enjnyment out of reading than Al Weber's Cheboygan Observer. It's true I don't always agree with Weber's ideas along some lines of thought, but I'm right here admitting that when it comes to his manner of writing—done in plan, simple phrases and grammar everyone can understand—there's none to beat it.

For the information of sportsmen generally, the Conservation Department has renewed for another 5-year period the regulation limiting the take of rainbow (steelhead) trout per person in one day from Lake Charlevoix to five; also renewed for a 5-year period the regulation making it unlawful to spear fish in the waters of Susan Lake.

Boy, did I get in bad last week by announcing school opening Tuesday, January 2, instead of Wednesday, January 3, following the holiday vacation! Some will tell you people don't read the newspaper, but Supt. Nnrth will vouch they do, for he just about wore out the telephone answering calls from those making inquiry regarding the erroneous announcement. Accept my apologies.

I believe a nice way to start the new year out would be to remind you folks this column is for your enjoyment and information. So if you have any item that is unusual, information of general interest, or a joke that can be enjoyed by everyone—including the person it is on—just communicate with the writer.

JOHN H. KOCH VICTIM HEART ATTACK TUESDAY

Prominent Summer Resident Succumbed at Miami, Florida

Charlevoixans will learn with deep regret of the death Tuesday nt Miami, Florida, of John H. Koch, prominent Charlevoix summer resident.

A telegram received Tuesday by Mrs. R. F. Sloan from her brother, Dr. W. W. Mitchell, brought word of Mr. Koch's death from heart attack. He was 76 years of age.

Mr. Koch came to Charlevoix in 1916 from Toledo, Ohio, after spending several summers at Petoskey. In June, 1920, he bought the Meech property and built the Colonial Club. The entire block was subsequently improved with construction of three fine residences and landscaping. He purchased a large block of property on Meech street north of Petoskey avenue in 1926, made street improvements and built several residences. In 1935 he bought the Winder property (site of the old Hotel Charlevoix) also other parcels in the same block which were later transferred to the city for the establishment of East Park. Other holdings included the Western Union building, later sold to O. Gatti. The Colonial Club was sold to Messrs. Davis and Meek of Toledo, Ohio, in 1937.

Mr. Koch was a consistent booster for Charlevoix and numbered among his acquaintances besides local residents, summer visitors from throughout the country.

Details of funeral arrangements are not available at this time.

MR. AND MRS. CRAM OBSERVED GOLDEN WEDDING AT GRANDSON'S MARRIAGE

On Sunday, December 31, the golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. R. O. Cram of this city, and the wedding of their grandson, Willard G. Crom, to Miss Marian Smith, were joint affairs at Central Lake.

The wedding ceremony took place at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Martin G. Smith, Rev. G. A. Jackson performed the double ring ceremony in the presence of the immediate families and a few friends, with Mr. and Mrs. R. O. Cram as the honored guests. Attendants to the bridal couple were Miss Margaret Smith of Erie, Pa., sister of the bride, and Eldon Foltz of East Lansing.

The bride was becomingly dressed in an afternoon gown of gold and mauve silk crepe and wore a lovely orchid corsage. The bridesmaid was gowned in cranberry red, and wore a corsage of Talisman roses and Illies-of-the-valley. The rooms were simply decorated with bouquets of white baby mums and large yellow chrysanthemums, symbolizing the two weddings.

The young couple presented a corsage of yellow roses to the groom's grandmother, and a boutonniere of the same flowers to his grandfather, before the ceremony.

A large, daintily decorated wedding cake, and ice cream in molds representing golden bells, were served to the guests.

Mr. and Mrs. R. O. Cram have been residents of Charlevoix since 1894, and have the congratulations of a host of friends on celebrating their 50th wedding anniversary. The bridegroom, their grandson and son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Alexander of Central Lake, attended school here and has many acquaintances who extend their best wishes. The young couple will reside in Lansing, where he has employment.

PRESIDENT'S BALL PLANS PROGRESSING

CHAIRMAN WILL NAME LOCAL COMMITTEE SOON

County-Wide Celebration to Center in Dancing Party Scheduled January 30th at The Argonne

Plans are being made throughout the county for the 7th annual President's Birthday Ball, which is scheduled for Tuesday evening, January 30th, at The Argonne.

Roy Winegarden of Boyne City, has accepted the chairmanship for Charlevoix county and, within the week, will complete the formation of committees in the several cities and villages to handle local campaigning for the event.

It is understood plans are also under way to form a county chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, Inc., the organization which carries on national campaign against this dread disease with funds raised from Roosevelt Birthday parties throughout the nation. In the local chapter would be vested responsibility for such work within the county. Proceeds of the dancing party at The Argonne and other contributions will be equally divided, half going to the national organization and the other half to the county chapter.

Charlevoix citizens are again urged to make contributions to the fund and also reserve the date of January 30th for participation in this nation-wide effort.

RURAL ELECTRIC MEETS SCHEDULED

FARM PROBLEMS WILL COME UP FOR DISCUSSION

Gathering at East Jordan, January 15th; Marion Center Grange Hall on January 16th

(By B. C. Mellencamp)

Many farmers are asking the question: "Can I afford to use electricity to milk my cows, to light my poultry house, to operate an electric refrigerator, to run my cream separator, or to pump my water?" Again many customers are inquiring as to the size of motors to operate certain farm equipment and the types to purchase. These are just a few of the requests that the REA officials are constantly receiving.

We are indeed pleased to announce that all of these situations and conditions will be discussed at a series of two meetings to be held next week in Charlevoix county. The first meeting will be held Monday night, January 15th, in the East Jordan community room beginning promptly at eight o'clock in the evening. The second meeting will be held in the Marion Center Grange hall (about 4 miles south of Charlevoix on the Ellsworth road) on Tuesday afternoon, January 16, beginning promptly at two o'clock. D. E. Ebinger, rural electrification specialist from the Michigan State College, will be present to lead the discussion. He is spending his entire time in the electrification field and has some startling information of interest to all users of electricity. This is such a new field that very few of us really know how to efficiently use the energy.

LAKE CHARLEVOIX NOW CLOSED TO NAVIGATION

Ice Formed Sunday Night Too Heavy for Str. Stuart, Log Carrier

Navigation on Lake Charlevoix closed Monday when the Stc. Stuart failed to negotiate ice formed by Sunday night's low temperatures.

The steamer has been engaged since early spring carrying logs from Beaver Island to Boyne City for transportation by truck to the Antrim Iron Co. at Mancelona. Ice fields encountered Monday were too heavy for the boat to negotiate. The boat proceeded to Petoskey to unload its cargo and will go into winter quarters at Cheboygan, it is understood.

Operation of the Charlevoix-Beaver Island mail boat Mary Margaret by Capt. Leroy Allers will continue as long as St. James harbor, now free of ice, remains open. Airmail service during the season of closed navigation will again be furnished by Rudy Pekrul, Petoskey aviator, it is understood.

RAYDERS DEFEATED BY ROGERS CITY "5"

DROPPED FRIDAY NIGHT CONTEST BY 27 TO 18 COUNT

Display Best Form of Season Despite Defeat—Next Three Games Are Away From Home

Charlevoix high school's Red Rayder basketball team met defeat again here last Friday night, losing by a 27 to 18 score to Rogers City's class B Hurons.

While showing decided improvement over earlier form and giving the best exhibition of the season, the Rayders could not match play of the more experienced Rogers City combination.

The Rayders out-scored the visitors in the first quarter by a 5 to 3 margin, and in the fourth 7 points to 6. The second and third periods, however, found them badly out-classed. Rogers City tallied 7 points while holding the Rayders scoreless in the second, and managed 11 points to Charlevoix's 6 in the third stanza. Charlevoix led 5 to 3 at the first intermission, Rogers City 12 to 5 at the half and 21 to 11 at the third intermission.

Jake White led the scoring for Charlevoix with 6 points. Corey scored 4, Stevens, Rowe, McGhan and Kohler 2 each. For Rogers City the veteran Newhouse was high with 10, followed closely by Mickette with 9.

The Rayder reserves were nosed out by Rogers City reserves in a close hard-fought preliminary by a 11 to 9 count. It was the Rayders' first loss in four contests. The visitors led 3 to 2 at the quarter, 7 to 2 at the half and 9 to 5 at the third intermission. Charlevoix staged a spirited cally in the final period which fell short of overcoming the visitor's lead.

The Rayders will play three contests before returning to their home hardwood. They meet Gaylord on January 12, play January 16 at Petoskey and January 19 at East Jordan. The next home contest brings the conference leading Boyne City aggregation on January 26th.

ALL-TIME RECORD IS REPORTED AT STRAITS

Vehicle and Passenger Traffic During '39 Highest on Record

Reports from the state ferry service at the Straits of Mackinac indicate a new all-time record for vehicles transported in the year 1939.

With final figures remaining to be checked, State Highway Commissioner Murray D. Van Wagoner reported a total of 279,918 vehicles carried by the state service last year. This exceeds by 24,850 vehicles the number transported in 1938 or a percentage increase of 9.7. The previous all-time high was set in 1937 when the state boats transported a total of 274,749 vehicles. There was almost a two per cent increase in 1939 over 1937.

Passenger and revenue totals showed similar increases. A total of 486,720 passengers were carried and total receipts at the Straits were $508,728. The peak day for traffic was September 3 when 4,219 vehicles were successfully handled.

HORRORS OF WAR DEPICTED IN MOVING PICTURE

Showing of "The Fight for Peace" at Methodist Church Friday Evening

If there is one thing the United States does not want—it is war! Our government and people want peace. Sometimes we have to see the real results of war to appreciate the blessings of peace.

This opportunity will be afforded at 8 o'clock Friday evening at the Methodist church in the showing of the moving picture entitled, "The Fight for Peace." The movie besides being historical, shows what war really is as a destructor of property and human lives. It opens with the running story of the current armament race by all nations. It shows the upheaval of Russia and the success of Stalin. It portrays the close of the World War and the "Big Four" outlining the peace treaty. There are scenes of the rape of China, Ethiopia and Russia. It shows the results of undeclared warfare both east and west of the United States.

This picture is not being shown to make money, but rather to portray the hellishness of war. An admission will be charged to defray expenses of obtaining and showing the movie.

ODD FELLOWS WINNERS FIRST CRIBBAGE GAME

Team scores, with seven tables at play, gave the Odd Fellows a total of 12,664 points to 12,445 for the Masons, a margin of 219 points. Joe Williams turned in a count of 946 to lead the Odd Fellows, while George Priest's 947 points was high for the Masons.

The next contest will be held at the I. O. O. F. hall, Monday evening, January 15. Play starts promptly at 8 o'clock.

SHOT AT RANDOM

By Ken Usher

I'm told that new daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernie Robinette's was born with a tooth. What a start the young lady has in life! Born on the first day of a brand new year and with a food chopper to start out with! It gave me quite a "start" and probably will Ernie and the Missus, too, to find out that an old saying has it "a child born with a tooth is the sign of another child in the family soon."

Are Charlevoix citizens so utterly devoid of civic pride they would let the board of commerce fall completely into discard? That's a homely, but honestly put sentence. Two recent attempts have been made to hold an annual meeting, elect officers and get organized for the 1940 season. There was not a quorum present at either meeting. A meeting has been called for Friday night, January 12, at the city hall, to complete a board of commerce organization. Let's forget personal feelings — justified or otherwise — and put civic interests uppermost.

Sunday morning's temperature reading of zero was the low mark for the winter so far. Lake Charlevoix and Round lake froze over completely. The fish boats have broken up the ice in Round lake, but Lake

LANSING LETTER

By GENE ALLEMAN

Field Manager, Michigan Press Association

Although crystal gazing at this time of the year is apt to be done through rose-colored glasses, 1940 forecasts for Michigan have been in significant agreement by predicting:

1. Reasonable prosperity for wage-earners and farmers.

2. Improved financial condition for state government.

3. National spotlight on Michigan's political figures—Arthur Vandenberg of Grand Rapids, Thomas Dewey formerly of Owosso, and Frank Murphy of Detroit.

All in all, they point to an interesting year for Michigan.

While the present European war makes the American scene subject to uncertain economic fluctuations, all signs now point to a long and exhaustive struggle overseas. The domestic industrial, business and farm forecasts are all predicated in a degree on

Michigan Apples Bring $103 a Bushel

OF INTEREST TO FARMERS
By B. C. Mellencamp

Setting Out Young Pine Seedlings Emphasized in the 1940 Soil Conservation Program

The new 1940 Soil Conservation Program offers great encouragement to farmers by allowing an additional thirty dollars earning power above the regular allowance, providing the farmer plants young pine seedlings. This will be extremely helpful to a farmer who has already earned his payment by seeding, the use of lime or fertilizer and the other practices which earn payment, and still would like to set out three or four thousand young pine trees on land that is not suitable for general farming. If, for example, you can earn thirty dollars in soil building payments and have already earned this by the regular practices, you can now earn thirty dollars more if you set out an average of 650 young pine trees per acre on four acres as each acre is credited with five units or $7.50.

The payments earned are sufficient to more than pay the cost of these trees and the time spent in setting them out. These trees may be secured from the Michigan State College or the State Department of Conservation. On certain types of land that is light, lacking in vegetation and very hilly, it might be well to use Jack Pine. Two year old seedlings can be purchased for $2.50 per thousand or two year old transplants at $5.00 per thousand. Red Pine comes at $3.50 per thousand for two year old seedlings. White Pine costs $3.00 per thousand for two year old seedlings and $4.00 for three year old seedlings. Norway Spruce comes at $3.00 for two year old seedlings. In view of the fact that there is a big demand for seedlings, it is necessary to order these as early as possible for spring delivery. Last year many farmers who requested trees were unable to get them because the supply had been exhausted.

We shall be very glad to assemble your orders in the extension office. All you need to do is to send the necessary money for the number and kind of trees that you want and we will do the rest. They are sent so that they will arrive at about the right time to be set out in the spring. Last year 75,000 trees were set out in Charlevoix county, which is a much greater number than in any previous year. With the extra credit for setting out trees, a much greater number should be planted on many farms in the county. Think this matter over and, if you are interested, get in touch with either the county soil conservation office or extension office.

Soil Conservation Committeemen Are Now Conducting Township Meetings

The county committee, consisting of Walter Henley, Charles Shepard and John Taylor, has set aside the month of January for conducting the educational campaign of the new 1940 soil conservation program. Plans have been made to hold these meetings in all of the community centers throughout the county.

A most interesting feature of these various meetings has been the showing of film strips and slides which have recently become available. The film strips show very accurately the history of agriculture since 1910. The good years of 1910 to 1914 are followed by the great demands on agriculture during the World War. Then the price decline is discussed after the war followed by the great depression of 1929. Next is shown the results of the government Agricultural Adjustment Programs starting in 1933. The slides are of local subject matter and are in color. Following a discussion of the program, these film strips and slides conclude a most interesting and enjoyable program.

Already community meetings have been conducted in the Tainter District, Wallooo lake community, Marion Center, Norwood, Barnard, Horton's Bay and North Bay (Bay township). This week meetings are being held in Chandler, Hudson, Boyne Valley and Wilson townships. It is hoped that each farmer will attend his own community meeting and become fully acquainted with the Agricultural Adjustment Program. Very soon farm visits will be made to each farm in the county which will show the allotments and earning ability possible in the program.

1940 FOOD NEWS PLEASES COOKS

Michigan housewives need not even be accurate budgeteers to applaud news that many of the important food commodities are in such ample supply that there's good eating in sight without too great a strain on the pocketbook.

Although members of the home economics extension staff at Michigan State College recommend a cook make at least on occasional food budget plan, news nationally is that most foods are plentiful enough.

Estimates of the United States Bureau of Agricultural Economics include the prophecy that egg supplies ought to be ample and that quantities of dairy products are expected to be adequate. Fresh winter vegetables in generous quantities are backed up by a good supply of canned vegetables in storage.

Dried and canned fruit in considerable volume augment plentiful fresh fruit supplies especially of oranges and grapefruit.

Cooks worrying about meat for the frying pan or the roaster can aid the farmers and packers and those pocketbooks again, if they remember that the pork supply is so great it has raised the total meat supply higher than it has been for several years.

Besides all these, there is that great abundance of American wheat, plentiful for both domestic and export needs. So budget or no budget, the cooks apparently have little to worry them.

TAXES EXCEED HIGHWAY COST

Private motorists, trucks, buses, and other highway users contribute far more than their share of the cost of state, county, and local highways, H. E. Stocker, assistant professor of transportation, New York University, concludes after a study of highway costs and income from automotive taxation. The study was made to determine if any subsidy exists in favor of highway users. "The study shows," reports Mr. Stocker in a booklet issued by the National Highway Users Conference, "that state, county, and local highways are not subsidized, but that in 1936, the latest year for which data are available, the highway users actually contributed $270,348,000 in excess of their share of the cost of all rural roads and highways, including urban extensions and arterial streets."

The figures show that total net expenditures for state, county, and local highways in that year were $963,518,000. The income from special vehicle taxes in the same year was $1,233,866,000—an excess of $270,348,000 paid by highway users in addition to the sum actually spent for roads.

If all taxes properly chargeable to the highway users, such as filling-station taxes, auto-dealers' taxes, parking-lot taxes, and general taxes on trucks and buses, are included in the compilation, Mr. Stocker adds, there is a balance of $675,390,000 excessive taxes paid by the motorists and other highway users.

The excess tax collection is at the rate of 5.7 per cent on the valuation of motor equipment, garages, terminals, and filling stations, compared with a tax rate of 1.39 per cent assessed against Class 1 Railroads, the report concludes.

TRUE SIGNIFICANCE

Senator Arthur Vandenberg is learning fast. Taking a cue from the President's witty strokes at his press conferences, the senior Michigan senator has resorted to sprightly jibes which may have the nation laughing him right smack into the White House.

His opening kickoff of the new year, in which he joshed the Democrats for doing an about-face from the true significance of the Jackson Day dinner—celebration of the retirement of the national debt—had even the victims themselves giggling in the privacy of their own homes.

Senator Vandenberg's letter to Jim Farley, informing the latter that he would be delighted to attend (even at $100 a plate) any real Jackson Day dinner celebrating a balanced book rather than a 42 billion dollar deficit, must have made the President's brain twitch to think of a "snappy" comeback.

When the able Michigan senator pleaded for a debt extinguishment party "which even Old Hickory himself" would not be ashamed to attend, we bet the remnants of the brain-trust started for the bomb-proof cellars, there to remap their leader's chuckle campaign.

The die is cast. From now on it's going to be a great battle—of witticisms and wisecracks. President Roosevelt has met his match.

WORTHWHILE WORK

The 4-H club is commended as an organization that keeps entirely aloof from politics or from attempts to control public policies, either local or national. The growth of this club movement is not only one of the marvels of this era, but one of the best omens for the future of the country.

The secret of 4-H club achievements is clear to anyone who stops to think. The farm boys and girls have succeeded because they set out to find out what was right with agriculture instead of what was wrong.

Those really interested found out so many things were good that they inevitably became engrossed in making them better.

When young people really make up their minds to do something they do it with all their might. With so much energy behind it the 4-H movement had to succeed.

In the future as in the past, a good many farm boys and girls will be attracted to the cities. But those who get interested in 4-H club work are likely to find farm life good and satisfactory. They will continue to make it more so.

INDUSTRY

It has been an axiom that the busier a man is the more he can be counted on to do those things entrusted to his care. For it is the busy man who keeps his word and gets things done. The fellow with little to do is the one who fails to do even that little.—Grit.

Mark Sullivan, columnist, speculates on the disagreement between Vice President Garner and President Roosevelt. We know Garner wants the Democratic presidential nomination, and on account of conflicting beliefs in public policies, it is thought Roosevelt does not want him to have it. Garner is the idol of conservative Democrats, and he will be given the nomination if they have their way.

If the average citizen were to do some of the things nations do, he would be a crook.

INDIFFERENT

Years ago a representative in the state legislature was quoted as saying he didn't take any newspaper, didn't read and didn't need to read because he knew more of things going on than the editors. Why should he apply his overstuffed brains to the task of perusing columns that contained no news he didn't already know? Whether this fellow who boasted of no desire or need to read, roosted himself on a high pedestal of omniscience through personal contacts, through telepathic impact, or through some other occult power, we do not venture to guess. It is a fact, however, that too many persons—usually men—are content to let the world's panorama of both foreign and local events go by without giving heed. Too many are indifferent to the stirring affairs of a disturbed social order, and find time for everything but to keep informed.—Wayne (Neb.) Herald.

Income taxes could be a lot worse. Suppose we had to pay on what we think we're worth. And when you're thinking of those taxes the old trusty pipe will help a lot to ease those troubles . . . and if it will help you feel any better the Federal cigarette tax is the highest tax in the world. Ho! . . . hum.

OPERATE CONSERVATION PATROL BOAT IN WINTER

Home Port Shifted to Frankfort During Present Winter months

Patrolling Great Lakes' fishing grounds in fair weather and foul during the last decade, officers of the conservation department detailed to enforcement of commercial fishing regulations have confiscated approximately 135 running miles of gill nets.

"Patrol No. 1," the department's patrol boat used in enforcement work on the Great Lakes, has made port during the decade with 58 confiscated deep trap nets, six small trap nets and eight pound nets. Four hundred and fifty boxes of gill nets were seized.

Replacement value of confiscated gill nets is about $20,000, that of trap nets $29,000.

The record of confiscation of illegal equipment, or that illegally set, and of arrests and prosecutions scarcely indicates the day-to-day routine of the boat's crew—the inspection of nets and gear which goes on constantly, the assistance given in the gathering and planting of spawn and fish, the confiscation of fish illegally taken or taken in illegal nets, the measures taken to prevent violations.

Only seldom do officers detailed to duty on the boat make arrests—they have appeared as complainants in fewer than 70 cases taken into court during the decade. Instead, they get the evidence, local officers in fishing ports who have scented violations make the arrests. During the decade, fines assessed convicted violators in cases in which the boat's crew has figured have totaled about $2,200.

Sale of confiscated equipment has netted about $10,000. In many cases, confiscated equipment has been sold to original owners. Much of it has been destroyed because of its condition or because of lack of conformity to law.

The patrol boat will be in constant service during the present winter, operating out of Frankfort as home port. Car ferries keep a channel open.

HIGHWAY INFORMATION SERVICE IS MAINTAINED

Daily Summary Road Cooditions Given During Winter

The state highway department is again operating a winter highway condition information service covering the entire state.

State Highway Commissioner Murray D. Vun Wagoner has sent out directions to departmental units thruout the state outlining the system to be used in reporting road conditions. The service is set up on a daily basis.

County headquarters will gather information and relay it to their district headquarters before eight a. m. each morning. By nine a. m. this information has been summarized and recorded in the Lansing headquarters. A general report covering the entire state is then prepared and relay back to the local units.

"This service has been in operation for the past several winters," Commissioner Van Wagoner said. "We find that hundreds of individuals as well as newspapers and radio stations find this information very useful. It is used by the maintenunce division in directing field operations during storm periods."

The road condition information is available to the public at the Lansing office of the state highway department; at branch offices in Escannba and Detroit; at district offices in Crystal Falls, Newberry, Cadillac, Alpena, Grand Rapids, Saginaw, Kalamazoo, Plymouth; and at county maintenance garages.

COMMERCIAL FISHERMEN WILL MEET AT BAY CITY

Program Aimed to Aid Industry Is Called for January 27th

Sportsmen, commercial fishermen and the department of conservation representatives will meet with the Michigan Junior Chamber of Commerce at Bay City January 27, to discuss methods of preserving Michigan's million dollar fishing industry.

F. Granger Weil, chairman of the Junior Chamber of Commerce conservation committee, said that reports by fishermen and the conservation department reveal that proceeds from commercial fishing have been cut in half the past few years. Cause for the depletion of fish has not been determined, Weil said, but he warned there is danger of extermination of whitefish and other commercial species.

The conference at Bay City has been called at the request of commercial fishermen, sportsmen and the conservation department.

BOBCAT BECOMES PLAYMATE OF GLENNIE CHILD

Constant Company With Humans and Kindness Have Tamed Animal

A bobcat, captured when but a few days old last June, has become the pet of Patricia Perry, 15, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Perry of Glennie, Alcona county.

By keeping it almost constantly in their company and treating it with kindness, Patricia and her father have so overcome the kitten's natural fear of humans as to be able to let it run freely in the yard occasionally. Patricia has even taken it to school.

CHEVROLET ANNOUNCES SIX MILLIONTH CAR

Turned Off Assembly Lines at Flint Plant on December 26th

In connection with the 28th anniversary of his association with General Motors, M. E. Coyle, general mnnager, Chevrolet Motor Division, today announced the completion of the six-millionth automobile built during the past six years by the industry's leader.

During this period, when Chevrolet has averaged a million-a-year production, Mr. Coyle has served as general manager of this largest G. M. unit. He became affiliated with General Motors December 26, 1911, the first year that saw auto production in the country pass the 200,000 mark.

Chevrolet's six-millionth car during this six-year period came off the assembly line at Flint December 22, giving the company the unique distinction of having been the only auto manufacturer to maintain such an average in recent years.

ANNUAL MEETING CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH HELD TUESDAY NIGHT

The 57th annual meeting of the Congregntional church was held Tuesday evening, January 9th. Reports for 1939 were given and officers elected for 1940.

The finances were in good condition, all bills paid, some needed repairs to the steeple underway and a sinking fund established to provide an outside basement exit. The benevolence apportionment of $350.00 had been paid in full.

The Ladies' Aid Society with its three auxiliary circles and the Woman's Missionary Society, had rendered excellent service. The average church attendance was 96 and the average Sundny school attendance 128.

A $3,000.00 budget was adopted for the year beginning October 1st and the "Every Member Canvass" in November largely underwrites it.

Most of the officers were re-elected. Charles Heise was named a trustee for one year in place of Dr. Carleton Dean, who has moved away, and Mrs. Fred Cartier is a new member of the Board of Deaconesses.

The Ladies' Aid served light refreshments and a social hour followed the business session.

A most cordial invitation is extended to all customers of the Top O' Michigan Rural Electric Company to attend their nearest meeting. Any problems that you may have, either in the home or outside, will be answered by Mr. Ebinger, who has had wide experience in all types of rural electrification. During his visit he will assist the company in setting up numerous demonstrations throughout the county. Already Charles Healey, East Jordan, is in a position to know how much it costs him to milk his herd of cows by the use of electricity. Charles Withers of Charlevoix has a separate meter attached to his water pump and is now keeping records on the cost of this important farm service. He also has a mater attached to the washing machine and iron for the same purpose. Earl Hricker, East Jordan, is keeping records on the cost of operating his cream separator. Walter Heileman, East Jordan, will light his poultry house by the middle of the month to determine the advantages of this practice.

It is well to remember that in all war news there lurks some propaganda.

There are no office hours for leaders—staying at the top is harder almost than to get there.

PAMPHLET EXPLAINING SOCIAL SECURITY BENEFITS NOW AVAILABLE

The Social Security Board has issued a pamphlet, "Monthly Benefits Begin in 1940," explaining payments to be made to wage earners reaching the age of 65 and to certain surviving members of families of workers who die after December 31, 1939.

W. Scott Hamlin, manager of the Social Security Board's field office at Traverse City, announced today that copies of the new pamphlet may be obtained free at his office.

It is explained in the pumphlet that workers attaining the age of 65 can now file claims for monthly benefits. Benefits are payable from the beginning of 1940 to qualified wage earners who have retired from regular employment. The applicant must show that he (1) has been employed in jobs covered by the Social Security Act in at least 6 calendar quarters since January 1, 1937 and (2) has earned at least $50 of wages in each of these 6 quarters.

In addition to the retired worker's own benefit, supplementary payments are provided for his wife at age 65 or for his unmarried minor children under 18. Payments will also be made to the surviving widows and onmarried minor children of workers who die after December 31, 1939, if each worker had at least 6 calendar quarters of employment under the act and wages of at least $50 in each quarter.

Calf Tips Scales

Ithaca—Frank Altenberg of Newark has a purebred Brown Swiss bull calf that tipped the scales at 243 pounds when he was just four weeks old. At birth the calf weighed 157 pounds. It is a perfect specimen in every way.

Freaks Win Prizes

Bad Axe—Huron county farmers won prizes with freak farm products in a local contest recently. Among the exhibits were a 3½ pound potato, a pumpkin weighing 72 pounds, an ear of yellow dent corn weighing 19 ounces, a 26-pound citron, and a four-foot marrow squash.

Alky Explodes; Driver Burned

Dearborn — Kenneth Bowers recently learned that a match can be as dangerous at the front end of a car as at the gas tank. He recently lighted one to see if the radiator of his car was full. Fumes from vaporized alcohol exploded, burning Bowers about the face and head.

First With Song

Birmingham — The popular song, "God Bless America," was first sung in the city of Birmingham outside of its radio presentation by Kate Smith. It was used as the closing number of a church chorus program. Manuscript copies had to be secured from Miss Smith months before the song was published.

Six Generations Living

St. Johns—When Kenneth Ordiway was born here recently, he not only became the great- great grandson of Mrs. Alice Dobson, 93, but became the sixth generation of the Ordiway family, all living in Clinton county. The attending physician at Kenneth's birth was the same one who ushered his father into the world 20 years ago.

City Has Friend

Frankfort—This city has an unknown friend who for the second year has presented the mayor with a check for $500. The donor specified the money be used for labor on any project chosen by the city council. Last year it was used for road building.

Got Rifle, No Deer

Oxford—When Jess Knapp went north hunting, he was armed with an old shot gun. While roaming thru the woods, he saw a new rifle leaning against a tree. Knapp came home without a buck, but with a new gun.

Kid's Balloon Flies

Vassar—Buddy Welsh was astonished to learn that a toy balloon he had filled with hydrogen traveled more than 250 miles in a day. It was found near St. Mary's, Ontario, the day after it was released here.

WHEAT CHOKES FIELD BINDWEED

A cute little member of the morning glory family is sneaking up on hundreds of Michigan farmers and threatening to take over entire fields. A new management process involving two successive fall seedings of winter wheat, however, seems to be the secret of killing off field bindweed, the pest.

Practical ideas of farmers in the Thumb District paved the way to the weed control system. S. T. Dexter of the farm crops staff at Michigan State College tested out these methods and found them useful.

In brief, he says, the grain crops get started to heavy growth so early in the spring that the perennial bindweed gets cheated of sufficient sunlight. The spindly plants thus die out.

Thorough soil preparation by plowing or harrowing in midsummer gives the bindweed a start. The field then is worked with duckfoot shovels on a cultivator-harrow and the new shoots cut off in successive cultivations on or about July 15, August 1, August 15 and September 1.

Then the winter grain goes in and contributes its bit the following spring toward further elimination of the field bindweed. Another midsummer and early fall kicking around of the soil takes care of latent seed supplies of the weed and another crop of wheat can go into the soil. The third successive summer of cultivation sees the bindweed give up, at least to such a degree that ordinary crop cultivation takes out the rest of the weeds.

Persistent attention to the three summers of cultivation is necessary, warns Dexter, else previous treatment loses its effect. The system proves popular in that it provides winter soil cover, no crop is lost, and other weeds are controlled in the same period.

EDITORIAL

PUBLIC CONTROL THROUGH REGULATION

Protagonists of public ownership of the electric industry cry loudly that the destinies of electric utilities should not be left to private enterprise, that they should be turned over to "the people" and managed in behalf of the general welfare by "the people."

As a matter of fact, the people actually own and control the electric utilities to a far greater extent under private ownership than they could ever hope to under a socialistic policy of government ownership.

The private utilities are now stringently regulated by the people in every phase of operation, through state and federal agencies. Their profits, if any, after the tax collector gets through with them, go to hundreds of thousands of bond and stockholders throughout the country.

The people have been able to control the private utilities through reasonable public regulation. It is safe to say that if the industry is socialized under government ownership, it will become a bureaucratic menace to the entire system of private enterprise—and the people will have very little to say about it.—Public Service Magazine.

A THIRTY-HOUR DAY

Channing Pollock has written many great plays. At 58 he is at work on two books, his autobiography and a book on how to attain happiness. He works from seven in the morning until seven in the evening every day in the week. Near the age when the average man is looking forward to retiring, Pollock is working harder than ever.

In a talk I heard him give recently he said: "All my life I have been looking not for a 30-hour week, but for a 30-hour day!" The men who have built America are men who tried to put 30 hours of achievement into every day! They did not want more hours in which to loaf, but more hours in which to work and create and accomplish wonders!

Edison, Ford, Carnegie, Patterson, Burbank—our leaders have always been great workers. What this country needs is not a 30-hour week but more men with the spirit and determination to pack 30 hours of thinking and working into each day.

No man has ever been able to loaf his way to success. He can't do it now. More work, not less, is still the answer.—From the Friendly Adventurer.

"SQUARE AS A BRICK"

All of us have heard and many have used the phrase, "Square as a brick." But some of us have questioned the compliment intended since Bricks are not square.

Yet when the phrase was originated bricks were square — had four equal sides.

An old English writer says: "He stood four square to everybody else, as does a brick." That was a compliment.

And in this age of policy and expediency, a man who so stands is a most valuable asset to society.—Frank B. Craig.

No one can build for tomorrow without today's foundation.

"Another Thin Man" Stars Powell and Loy

Shifting with a deft pace from baby parties to bizarre crime, from marital mirth to murder thrills, and from palatial Long Island estates to the dives of New York, "Another Thin Man," latest of the sparkling "Thin Man" series, comes January 13-14 to the Palace Theatre.

It teams that favorite screen pair, William Powell and Myrna Loy, once again as the shrewd and witty Detective Nick Charles and his charming but somewhat daffy wife, Nora. Their gay banter, which enlivened "The Thin Man" and "After the Thin Man," the other pictures in the series, gets away to a new high in this offering due to the introduction of a Thin Man, Jr., the baby whose arrival was predicted at the end of the preceding picture. The laughs, centering around Nickie, Jr., as played by eight-months-old Willinm Poulsen, reach a hilarious climax with a baby party given in his honor by underworld pals of Detective Charles.

"Here I Am a Stranger" Daring Modern Drama

A daringly significant story of modern life that's out of the beaten path, with Richard Greene on the threshold of his greatest opportunity in his first starring role and a great supporting cast—such is 20th Century-Fox's new drama coming January 17-18 to the Palace Theatre, "Here I Am a Stranger," with Richard Dix and Brenda Joyce featured in a cast including Roland Young, Gladys George and others.

Katharine Aldridge, beautiful photographers' model who made her film dehut in Elsa Maxwell's "Hotel For Women"; Russell Gleason, son-in-law of the screen's Jones Family; George Zucco, Edward Norris and Henry Kolker complete the cast line-up.

SUNDAY DINNER SUGGESTIONS

By Cora Anthony
Director of A&P Kitchen

Ment is usually the food which gets budgets into trouble but at present all are reasonahle in price. Outstanding values are to be found in poultry, smoked and fresh pork, lamb and forequarter cuts of beef. Rounds and loins of beef and veal cost more but are not expensive.

Egg prices continue to be most attractive with ample supplies coming to market in spite of the continued cold. Butter is somewhat higher but still under average winter prices.

Generous supplies of green vegetables from California, Texns, Florida, Cuba and Puerto Rico are nvailable at reasonable cost. Citrus fruits and apples are the chief fruits in market and all are cheap.

Sales Taxes Soar

Michigan basked in better times during 1039.

Proof is seen in the soaring sales tax revenue collcted by the state

According to Walter F. Reddy, managing director of the state board of tax administration, a total of $7,908,000 more was collected during the six months ending December 31 than during the previous period.

Aside from efforts to effect economy in payrolls and department spending, the state adminlstration is pinning its chief hope apparently on a continuation of good business In 1040 with a resultant rise in state revenues such as from the sales tax and liquor. As for the $26,898,000 deficit inherited one year ago from the previous administration, neither state officials nor the state legislature have agreed upon a definite plan to this financial problem.

Governor Dickinson has said repeatedly that he opposed the imposition of new taxes. But whereas his predecessor campaigned on a pledge to reduce state payrolls by many millions, Dickinson has been content to balance the budget—or practically so, at least—and to rest the administration's case on a stand that the constant rising curve of state government costs be leveled off.

Hartman for Economy

By firm insistence on economy, Budget Director Gus T. Hartman has incurred the hostility of many special groups.

Realistic to the trend of increased centralization of responsibility at Lansing, Hartman recently declared:

"Once a tax is imposed, it is never removed. We have already reached the staggering stage under the burden of taxation. The time to fight for good, economical, practical government is now.

"State appropriations have increased $46,000,000 n year from 1930 to 1940. This is aa increase of $40,500,000 in aid to local units and $5,500,000 in administrative and operating costs. The increase iocludes $27,000,000 a year for new aetivities, such as old age assistance, aid to dependent children, and aid to blind, and emergency welfare relief. The major increases of ald to local governments went to schools and welfare."

Hartman's views against new taxes have been echoed generally by other state officials. Even the proposal of Melville B. McPherson, state tax chairman, that the date for collection of the state intangible tax be advnnced from January, 1941, to January, 1940 has met with widespread opposition. Vote-seeking officials didn't like the idea of collecting a "new" tax before the 1940 November elections.

High Wages

Michigan, manufacturing center for automobiles, furniture and paper, fared well industrially during 1939. Leaders predict sustalned and even augmented production and sales during 1940.

Federal economists have been insisting that a slump would take place during the first six months—at least a tapering off from the high point of production following the declaration of war last September 3. But the automobile industry, for one, is anticipating a good sales year for 1940, and that means much to the entire state.

Wayne county with its General Motors, Ford, Chrysler and Hudson plants led all counties in the Upited States during 1939 in industrial wages.

The automobile worker receives the highest wage per hour of nny specialized group in the nation. Rubber workers are second.

As any Michigan resident well knows, the automobile industry sets the pace for Michigan prosperity. It reaches into scores of small towns where automotive parts are made, aod it feeds thousands of dollars to tourist sections for fishing, hunting, and vacations.

Welfare Home Rule

While local officials were putting pressure on state officials at Lansing for more welfare assistance, Attorney General Thomas Read bolstered up administration resistence last week. He ruled that county welfare boards may refuse to provide relief for the poor in cities or townships that hnve failed to provide for funds to solve their own welfare problems.

Read said point-blank that the burden of relief, under the new home rule welfare act, was plainly a responsibility of local units of government. He opined that supervisors had authority to add a levy to the tax roll of any muoicipality or township which was not financing its own welfare adequately.

Charlevoix looks like it was ice-locked for winter. Perhaps local readers of this column wonder why the chatter regarding things right here under our nose, but for their information will remind them we have a lot of summer readers who are interested in everything going on in Charlevoix, most particularly the weather. It's about the only way of letting them know we're not snowed in like a bunch of Eskimos.

"Shorty" Sternberg and Roy Ranger have provided the prize fishing information of the week. "Shorty" landed a 13-pound mackinaw trout on a perch outfit on the south arm of Lake Charlevoix near Holy Island last Sunday, and Roy snared a 12¾-pounder at the same place Monday. Incidentally, it has been some years since mackinaw trout were taken from the south arm and the size of this fish is something to brag about, too. J. C. Marshall, fishing with Sternberg, caught a 10 pound lawyer (fish). Today (Wednesday) saw the first fish shanties on the west shore of Lake Charlevoix. It looks like the ice fishermen are due for their inning now. Perch are biting good on the arm, smelt at Boyne City and Ironton, mackinaws and whitefish where you find them. What more could a fellow ask for?

Quoting Editor Al Weber in the Cheboygan Observer: "We discover in the Publishers Auxiliary that John Fleming, an Ohio editor, has taught his dog to nod his head 'yes' when the editor asked him if he would vote for President Roosevelt. That's a darned mean trick to teach or play on a dog."

An incident of last Friday morning was an automobile skidded into and broke down the south protecting gate of the highway swing bridge over the channel between Round lake and Lake Michigan should be a warning to the city street department and motorists alike. Motorists should drive carefully when approaching the bridge. The street department should keep the street well sanded on both sides of the bridge during the WINTER.

Just got through telling last week how the Sheriff's department failed to receive a call over the Christmas and New Year's holidays when along comes the city police department report by Chief Clarence Heise showing a record number of 59 calls during the month of December. Guess I'll let you draw your own conclusions.

Looks as though even the rabbits have gone modern. At least one would assume as much when learning Don Swinton's Belgian hare just recently presented its owner with a single offspring.

The opportunity again affords itself to laud the board of education and city council for furnishing a skating rink at the school grounds for Charlevoix youngsters. The rink provides a safe place—far removed from the lurking dangers of the lakes—for children to enjoy skating.

Harry Gregory and the Missus are located at Cincinnati, Ohio, for the winter. Harry is working for Arthur P. Taylor, well known Belvedere Club summer resident. Lyle Beaudoin has joined Mr. Taylor's sales force, too.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Goldman, Mr. and Mrs. (Lenore Goldman) Jess Meyer and Miss Edith Winemán, all of St. Louis, Mo., found Charlevoix as much to their liking in winter as in the summer over the New Year's. They were at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Art Ranger for nearly a week. Sleigh rides, skiing, hiking and the invigorating outdoor pastimes northern Michigan affords in winter were theirs. Too bad more of our summer residents don't get up to see what a swell place Charlevoix is during winter.

There's something mighty suspicious about the city political situation, or else I don't know my Charlevoix! Here it is one day less than a week from January 16, the deadline for filing nomination petitions, and do you suppose anyone can even get an inkling regarding who's going to run for this or that? Either people are perfectly satisfied with the officers they've got, or else it is the lull before the storm. Next Tuesday will tell the story.

"Andy" Essenberg and family have moved to Charlevoix. During the 11 years he's been salesman for Brown Motors, Inc., Andy has driven back and forth from Ellsworth. He's now decided, and we'll agree with him, it's time to settle down here.

If you want a better lump coal, try Marne. Sold by Charlevoix Co-Ops. Co.—Adv. 2t1.

WINTER TAX DEADLINE EXTENDED TO FEB. 1ST

Council Set Ahead Penalty Limit at Monday Night's Session

The deadline for payment of winter taxes without collection penalty was extended by the city council Monday night from January 9th to February 1st.

The council authorized purchase of additional smoke masks for the fire department and chemicals of extinguisher equipment.

A payroll aggregating $11,815.80 included the final payment of $6,000 to contractors on the electric system extension program.

In consideration of an easement across the Charlevoix Lumber Co. property for the Michigan avenue storm water sewer now being installed, the council has agreed to grade and repair the cement sidewalk along the west side of the Lumber Co. property on North Bridge street.

GOLDEN GLOVE TOURNEY AWAITS OPENING GONG

Entries Indicate 20 Bouts Each of Four Nights of Boyne City Event

Word is received that John Worth, veteran fight referee, will be on hand to handle the center of the ring for the American Legion second annual Golden Gloves Tournament to be held in the Boyne City gymnasium, January 15-17-19-20. Remembered from last year as a top-notch third man in the ring, Worth will insure fight fans a clean, fast show as well as assistance in naming the winners of the many bouts.

Judging from the numbers of entries now in, the show will pull off upwards of twenty bouts on each of the four nights of the tournament, starting at 7:30 and running far toward midnight. Each evening will see sixty rounds—less the number of one and two-round knock-outs—of action in the eight classes from the 112 pound flyweight up to the 175-and-over heavyweight division. With the arrival of entries from as far away as Mackinaw City, it is expected that the list of fighters will far exceed that of last year.

Weighing-in and physical examinations will start at 1 p. m. on Monday, January 15. The first gong will sound at 7:30 that evening.

With all details well in hand and now waiting for the opening gong, fight fans are sure to see four nights of real fistic entertainment.

FRED A. LELAND, SUMMER RESIDENT, IS DEAD

Succumbed Saturday, January 6th, at St. Louis, Missouri

Charlevoixans will learn with deep regret of the death last Saturday in St. Louis, Mo., of Fred A. Lelund, prominent Belvedere Club summer resident. Mr. Leland succumbed at St. Luke's hospitnl from complications following a major operation several weeks ago.

Mr. Leland numbered among the earliest Belvedere Club summer residents. He was 69 years of age. He retired last June after heading the Southwestern Freight Bureau for 31 yeurs.

Surviving are the widow, Mrs. Henrietta Lelund, a son, Austin P. of St. Louis, Mo., and a daughter, Mrs. James R. Ingham of Buffalo, N. Y.

POSTAL RECEIPTS SHOW DECREASE DURING 1939

Drop of $763.69 Revealed by Figures Released at Local Office

Despite record stamp sales prior to the 1939 Christmas season, total receipts for the year ending December 31st, showed a drop from the previous year, according to figures released by Postmaster J. M. Foster.

Stamp sales aggregated $17,891.70 during 1939, a drop of $763.69 from a total sales of $18,658.39 in 1938. Figures for 1937 were $19,089.49, also in excess of the 1939 total. Figures for preceding years were $18,435.17 in 1935 and $18,512.32 in 1936.

LITERARY AND SEWING CLUB OFFICERS FOR ENSUING YEAR WERE NAMED

The ladies of the Methodist Literary and Sewing Club met at the church last Thursday afternaon for election of officers.

Those elected were Mrs. O. D. Hammond, president; Mrs. Clarence Withers, vice-president; Mrs. Clayton Trimble, secretary; and Mrs. Joe Williams, treasurer. The retiring president, Miss Jennie Black, was presented with a lovely gift in appreciation of her work during the pnst year.

Following the business meeting a delicious supper was served for the club members, their hushands, and other guests, with covers laid for about fifty persons.

Card of Thanks

The Church of God wishes to thank the fire department for their fine work in putting out the fire which threatened for a time to get beyond control, but by their persistence and hard work they finally succeeded in saving the building with but a few hundred dollars-loss. We also wish to thank the city for the use of the community hall for our services Sunday.—Adv. 2t1pd.

SPORTSMEN ARE WARNED TO RETURN GAME TALLY

Conservation Department Compiling List of Delinquents This Year

Most hunters furnish the game division of the department of conservation with reports of their success or failure, returning the cards which are attached to their licenses.

Some hunters do not.

The law provides a penalty for failure to return the cards but the department in other years has invoked the law only infrequently.

Now, however, the department is preparing to list all hunters who fail to return their 1939 report cards. Last day for return, under the law, is February 15, 1940. Printed cards will be machine punched for all reports received before or on that date. Sorted in numerical sequence, the cards will be run through tabulator machines which will turn up license numbers of delinquent hunters automatically.

Given such a list, the department will decide how it can best impress delinquent hunters with the importance of prompt return of the cards.

Such return is important because the department's game management effort, in large part, is determined hy hunter success or failure.

Mimeograph supplies of all sorts handled at Courier office.—Adv. 8tf.

ORGANIZE COUNTY POLIO CAMPAIGN

COMMITTEES NAMED FOR PARTIES JANUARY 30TH

President's Ball at Argonne and Dance at St. James Arranged—10c Contributions Solicited

Charlevoix county will play its usual important role in the national fight against infantile paralysis again this year with two President Birthday balls to be held Monday evening, January 30th.

Roy Winegarden of Boyne City, county chairman, has completed organization of committees to carry oat the campaign in the county. Committee chairmen named are J. M. Foster of Charlevoix, John Haasler of Boyne Falls, Frank Crowell of East Jordan, and James Gallagher of St. James. Mr. Winegarden will be Boyne City chairman.

Two dancing parties will be held ns one means of raising funds. The county-wide party will be held as usual at The Argonne. Due to their isolation at this time of year, Beaver Islanders will hold a dancing party at St. James. Arrangements have already been made for the hall and music by Mr. Gallagher, the island chairman.

Another means of raising funds will be the distrihution in the county nf 1500 cards designed to hold individual contributions of 10c, following the "March of Dimes" plan of last year. Charlevoix's quota has been set as 500 dimes.

Formation of a Charlevoix county chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, Inc., insures proper handling of funds left in the county as a result of the campaign.

It is also interesting to note that Michigan plays an important role in the national campaign against this dread disease through selection of the Michigan Department of Health laboratnries as a midwest center for experiment. A virus laboratory was established last fall at Lansing with the aid of a $12,900 grant from the Foundation.

SPEARING SEASON ATTRACTING SPORTSMEN

Winter Fishing Subject to Same License and Creel Rules as Summer

With thick ice forming fast on Michigan's inland waters, fishermen are losing no time in finding good locations for their shanties.

The spearing season on inland waters ends with the last day of February. Jacks or other artificial lights may not be used, and trout streams and certain other specified waters are closed to all spearing. Species which may be taken by spearing are carp, suckers, mullet, redhorse, speedshead, lake trout, smelt, northern pike, muskellunge, whitefish, ciscoes, pilotfish or Menominee whitefish, catfish, bullheads, dogfish and gar pike.

Winter fishing is subject to the same license and creel regulations as apply to summer fishing, the fish division of the department of conservation points out, except that bluegills may not be taken through the ice at night, and in five southwestern counties non-residents are not permitted to fish through the ice from Janaary 1 to the last Saturday in April. Since January 1, the new 1940 one-dollar license has been necessary.

The winners substituted freely, using 11 players during the cnntest. Coach Kipke used various combinations during the game also, but none matched Gaylord's stride.

Scoring 4 points, McGhan led Charlevoix's scoring. Bergman, Carey, White and Gill scored 3 each, Stevens 1. Lovelace was high for the winners with 13 points.

The Rayder reserves handed Gaylord's second-stringers a sound thumping, winning by a 20 to 10 margin. They had previously won from Gaylord by a 25 to 13 count. Gengle, Mitchell, Staley and Novotny each accounted for 4 of Charlevoix's points. Swanson and Lusk scored a goal apiece.

BOARD COMMERCE OFFICERS NAMED

E. J. EDWARDS CHOSEN PRESIDENT FOR 1940

H. I. Ochs Elected Vice-President; Fred Cartier, Earl Young, E. J. Smith, Kay Fitch Are Directors

The Charlevoix Board of Commerce was organized for 1940 at a well attended meeting held last Friday evening in the community room at the city hall.

E. J. Edwards was unanimous choice for president to succeed Clair S. Webster, whose term had expired in Octoher. Harley I. Ochs was elected without opposition for vice-president, succeeding O. P. North.

Four directors were named, two for terms of three years and two for terms of one year to fill vacancy. Chosen for the longer term were Fred E. Cartier and Earl A. Young. Those elected for one-year terms were Katherine Fitch and E. J. Smith. Others making up the board of six directors are William C. Bellinger and Clarence B. Meggison.

Selection of Mr. Edwards as president pats the leadership of the organization into the hands of one of its most active members and retains the experience gained over a period of several years. Likewise the election of Fred Cartier and Earl A. Young brought to the board of directors two veteran boosters for Charlevoix summer resort and civic interests. Miss Fitch and Mr. Smith are new-comers as officers of the organization, but not new as civic boosters.

The naming of committees is anticipated at an early date in order that plans for the 1940 summer season may be put into shape as quickly as possible.

An attendance of 38 persons, representing business and professional interests of Charlevoix, were present at the meeting.

SHOT AT RANDOM

By Ken Usher

No doubt Clare Staley, Gordon Dennis and "Stub" Kipke will be interested in the accomplishment of Edward Foster, a Bellaire resident, who recently killed a red fox with an axe. They've been chasing fox in Hayes township for days and are having a hard time getting close enough for a shot, let alone knocking one off with an axe.

The relief situation brings up some puzzling problems for those responsible for its handling. Down at Midland the board of supervisors passed a resolution restricting relief clients to one dog per family when they found some families on relief harboring as many as five dogs. The board's edict limiting dogs also banned automobile licenses for relief recipients.

Am happy to "back up" from the intimation expressed last week that Charlevoixans were so lacking of civic pride they would let the Board of Commerce fall into decay. Friday night's meeting proved otherwise, and a new organization is rarin' to go for 1940. It is well, too, for right in our own neighborhood we have Traverse City about to launch a campaign to raise $30,000 for resort promotional efforts during 1940. That's a lot of money, and they'll get it, too.

ganizations are cooperating with the newspaper publishers' group and the state department of agriculture in the preparations.

The $300,000,000 tourist industry will be represented by managers of the four tourist associations. Spokesman for this growing "cash crop" will be J. Lee Barrett of Detroit. Honored guests will include Hugh Gray of Grand Rapids, Tom Marston of Bay City and George Bishop of Marquette, each one known state-wide for his contribution to the development of the year-round vacation and recreation business.

Governor's Maple Syrup

From Governor Luren D. Dickinson, farmer state executive, will come a sample of Michigan's famed maple syrup. Dickinson is a connoisseur of this delicacy, producing it each spring on his Eaton county farm near Charlotte.

According to the federal crop reporting service, maintained at Lansing in cooperation with the state department of agriculture, the Michigan maple syrup industry produced 213,000 gallons in 1939, an increase of 82,000 gallons over 1938. The maple yield also produced 5,000 pounds of maple sugar for use principally in candies.

Michigan agriculture enjoyed a good year in 1939, having a total cash income of $131,749,000 compared with $119,746 for the previous year.

While the state is not generally regarded as being in the "corn belt", yet the corn crop headed the entire food list in 1939 with a total value of $31,449,000. Winter wheat was worth $11,340,000, while oats brot in $13,668,000.

Fruits and Juices

The growing importance of Michigan fruit juices as an outlet for huge surpluses is to be emphasized by the use of three fruit juices and two vegetable juices on the "All-Michigan" menu. The juices which offer a wide variety of vitamins with different appeals to the taste include apple, carrot, cherry, grape, and tomato.

The total value of Michigan fruit crops in 1939—apple, peach, pear, plum, cherries and grape—was $9,978,000, a substantial increase over the previous year.

Because Michigan is a leading fruit state, it is fitting that the importance of fruit to the state economy would be personalized by appearance of 1939 Cherry and Peach festival queens.

Poultry and Meat

Michigan's all important poultry and meat industries will also play a leading role in the publishers' enterprise.

Choice Michigan turkeys, supplied by the Michigan Turkey Producers Association, will be supplemented by a variety of select cold meats furnished by the nation's only farmers' cooperative packing company.

Apple, cherry and pumpkin pies will be made the old-fashioned way with lard from Michigan's corn-hog belt, recognized as such by the federal government.

Field crops are to be in prominence with the famed, lowly bean, sugar beet, potato and peas providing satisfaction to meet the most discriminating gourmet's fancy. Composite supplies of these delicacies, furnished by growers' associations, come from more than 53 counties. Also of interest is the fact that the other 30 counties are to be represented on the unique menu.

Upper Peninsula

From the Upper Peninsula will come manufactured dairy products.

They will be in recognition of the growth of the dairy industry in this section above the Straits. Production of all cheese in the Upper Peninsula since 1921 has increased from 597,000 pounds to more than 9,000,000 pounds in 1939. Michigan now ranks third in the production of Italian cheese with more than 1,800,000 pounds, the manufacture of this cheese being entirely confined to the Upper Peninsula. During the past decade processing of condensed milk has been increased from 4,500,000 pounds to 13,260,000 pounds.

Last year, for the first time in history, Michigan jumped into first place in the production of honey. Through the state department of agriculture, drip cannisters containing choice Michigan-produced honey will also tempt the appetite.

Approximately 25 different fruit and vegetable condiments, along with rolls and coffee, will go to complete this "All-Michigan" tribute to the food industry. It will be a novel and news-worthy recognition of the part which Michigan agriculture plays in the state's economy.

The Republicans are promising work for everybody when they are returned to power. That's just what a lot of people are afraid of.

INWOOD

We are having real old-fashioned winter weather.

Mr. and Mrs. John Fratrick Jr. were visitors at the Wm. Ager home Wednesday evening.

Mrs. Orton VanDusen and Mrs. Clarence Murray motored to Petoskey last week one day.

Miss Ilo Bassett and Kenneth Ager were visitors of Mr. and Mrs. John Fratrick Jr. Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Murray were visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Boss of Charlevoix Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Warner and daughter were visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Murray last week Tuesday evening.

We are very sorry to hear that Mr. and Mrs. B. Farmer have been on the sick list. We hope they are on the road to recovery.

Ronald Lyons has returned to his home here after spending a couple weeks or more in Grand Rapids with friends and relatives.

Mrs. William Ager entertained the Barnard Ladies' Aid last week Thursday. There were twelve present. A lovely dinner was served at noon and afterward they had their business meeting.

The Inwood Ladies' Aid met with Mrs. Glen Cummings last week Wednesday with thirteen members present and one visitor. After a regular business meeting the hostess served a lovely supper.

Mrs. Clarence Murray and Mrs. Clyde Warner attended a leaders' meeting at Boyne City last week Tuesday to receive material on the next home economics club meeting, of which they are the leaders. The next meeting will be this Friday afternoon at one o'clock sharp, at the Barnard Grange hall. Everyone try and come.

FAIRVIEW-BANKS

Snowing a little every day.

Our scarlet fever patients are getting better and will soon be out again.

Roy Rushton of Central Lake, the Rawleigh medicine man, was in our locality Wednesday.

Mrs. John J. Parsons, who has been seriously ill for a couple weeks, is recovering nicely at this writing.

Some of our young people were entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Timmer Monday evening.

Jacob DeGroot is on the sick list at present at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bert DeGroot in the Bentley Hill district.

Our January thaw of Saturday and Sunday, with rain and slush aplenty, took a severe cold Monday morning early, and changed into a snowstorm.

Rev. J. T. Holwerda of the Christian Reformed church of Ellsworth, is in receipt of a call to become pastor of the Christian Reformed church of Zutphen, Michigan. He became pastor here in 1935.

Mr. and Mrs. Koo Klooster and Mrs. John Timmer of Ellsworth, who had been in Grand Rapids for a few days, returned home last Thursday. They went to visit I. Horrenga, who is taking treatment in the Cutlerville Hospital. Mrs. Horrenga stayed there with him.

A very large crowd attended the auction sale at the Rubingh farm last week Wednesday. People from all parts of the county were present, and everything brought good prices, and this was very remarkable, that about all, or to be exact, 15/16 of it was paid in cash. Somebody said to me: "That's on account of our Democratic administration. People never had so much money at hand as today."

HAYES NEWS

Mrs. Dan Srigley visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. Evers last Tuesday..

Mrs. Henry Hair was a Charlevoix visitor Thursday, also called on Mrs. A. Evers.

Mrs. Wm. Gregory left last Thursday for a visit with her daughters and other relatives in Detroit.

"Old Man Winter" surely seems to be making up for lost time now. All the roads in Hayes township with the exception of the trunk lines are blocked at this writing.

Florine Hamlin celebrated her 17th birthday anniversary last Saturday evening with a dinner party for about 15 young friends. The evening was spent in playing games. Everyone reported a very good time.

Twenty-two friends of Leona Struthers surprised her with a birthday party last Friday evening. The usual good time was enjoyed when young people get together. The climax of the evening was a delicious pot luck lunch.

What might have proved to be a very disastrous fire occurred last Thursday at the Wm. Gregory farm when the pump house burned to the ground. It was situated so close to the house that the wall was badly scorched. Had the wind been in the south it would have been impossible to save the dwelling.

IRONTON NEWS

(Too late for last week)

Carl Knudson and Lyle Walker are working in Mancelonn.

The surveyors are still busy. They must be going to do something on the route 66 pretty soon.

Raymond Richardson of East Jordan was a guest of Paul Hanson Tuesday and Wednesday of last week.

"Pete" Mitchell returned home Tuesday after spending the holiday season with his sister in Gloucester, Mass.

Mrs. P. Anderson and daughter Lillian and Mrs. L. Brown, were guests last Thursday at the George Hanson home.

Lloyd VanCamp and his father returned to their home in Detroit Sunday after spending several days at the Glen Williams home.

Frances Emmons has returned to her home in Detroit after spending the holiday vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Emmons.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Carlson and family of Cleveland, Ohio, spent the holiday season at the home of the latter's brother, Albert Carlson.

Mr. and Mrs. Arlo Wickersham and family have returned from South Bend, Ind., after spending the holiday season with the latter's sister.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Price made a business trip to Ann Arbor Tuesday. Their daughter, Nancy, stayed in Charlevoix with Mrs. Winifred Baumback.

Datus Dean has been quite sick with the flu the past two weeks, but is improving. We always dread our annual flu epidemic and not many seem to escape it.

Marjorie and Mildred Knudson have returned to their school work in Traverse City after spending the holidays with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Knudson.

Sam Alexander tested the ice Tuesday and there is seven inches and travelers can cross on the south side of the channel or cross on the ferry, which is still making its regular schedule.

Mr. and Mrs. John Porter of East Jordan, Dr. and Mrs. Saltonstall and Dr. Young of Charlevoix, also S. W. Mower, were dinner guests last Friday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Dissette.

Not many attended the church services Sunday. It is too bad for Rev. Parker always has such a good sermon and spends a great deal of time and thought preparing it. We would like to see more of our friends and neighbors every Sunday at 12:15. Sunday school is at 11 o'clock.

J. W. Mosher celebrated his ninetieth birthday last Wednesday, and seems to be as strong as the best of men. He runs the village grocery store, the grist mill, does his own cooking and housework, also cares for his team and chickens, which is something a great many can't do. We all extend congratulations to Mr. Mosher.

The holiday season is over and most of the decorations have been taken down. We miss the cross made of evergreens, from the south side of the church, its blue lights were beautiful and made a bright spot in our little village for travelers all through the night. Also the tree covered with red lights that Mr. and Mrs. F. Milward placed on the shore in front of their home for Paul Hanson to enjoy.

Paul Hanson was a happy boy all through the holiday season. He was remembered with greetings and gifts from all his friends, both far and near. He was especially happy when a group of twenty local young people led by Mr. and Mrs. Dissette, serenaded him Christmas Eve, singing Christmas carols and later enjoyed an evening's visit with them. Refreshments were served and it made them all happy to see Paul very much improved.

A village of fish shanties is on the lake in front of S. W. Mower's boathouse. Perch fishing is real good and we hear that Roy Ranger of Charlevoix caught a twelve pound trout Tuesday and "Shorty" Sternberg caught the prize, a thirteen pound trout, on Monday. Mrs. Lester Prough caught a two and a half pound perch. Jay Miller, our champion bass fisherman of Dixon, Ill., should be here to try his skill at winter fishing through the ice.

Sunday was a rainy, bad day for getting out to church and Sunday school.

Your correspondent has been fortunate for three Sundays in hearing sermons from the pulpits of First Methodist at Albion, First Methodist at Ann Arbor, and First Presbyterian at Ann Arbor. About 800 people were present at all places.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Mason of north of Eastport, have been very ill with colds. People from town have called on them. We hope that Mrs. Moses, Mrs. Burns and Mrs. Loper will soon be improving. Short calls at the home, even if one does not go into the house, we believe would be much appreciated.

In the present solicitation for funds for infantile paralysis, we do not understand why all the funds gathered should not be left at home for medical aid to the children of Antrim county or Charlevoix county or whatever place it may be. And it doesn't need to be on any certain person's birthday, or any certain date. Warm Springs has their turkey feast every Thanksgiving, which is more than the most of the children of Antrim county have. Then too, why not have an accounting by the Warm Springs Foundation before there has to be an investigation. People should know in all these ventures for raising funds for charity just how and what their money is used for. As for the writer, not one cent of our money will go to any cause unless there is an accounting.

Anybody who is in doubt as to how much the people of our own county need help, should just take a trip about the county and see for themselves just what straightened circumstances people are in since the former work relief has been cut off. There is a big chance for the Christian people at the present time to aid those in need.

Jack Klooster of Mapleville returned last week from a visit over the holidays with relatives in Grand Rapids, and to look for work. He says he had no luck.

Edward Dawson has been drawing hay and wood for people of Grand View and Central Lake and Bay View neighborhoods. Feed appears to be quite a scarce article these days.

Ebon Dawson and others are cutting cordwood for the Antrim Iron Company at Finkton. The Hall Company of Traverse City are lumbering the timber off the old Philip Mudge farm that Martin Elsinga has purchased this winter. They may do some for G. A. Liskum and J. W. Morse.

Mrs. Walter Anderson and son, Dickie, visited Saturday at the John Dawson home while Mr. Anderson was working at Ellsworth. Junior went along and visited at the Forest Dewey home.

The fall of about three feet of snow is the greatest we are told, from Detroit to Ishpeming. People from Calumet, who were at Ann Arbor, tell the writer that they have about seven inches of snow there. Some say it will stay, some that it will go away. If it stays, we are liable to have quite a long, cold summer.

About 800 people attended the Josie Rubingh sale at Ellsworth Friday. Edward Dawson took several over in his truck. Probably a tenth of those present made purchases, but people like to get together to visit. It is said the sale went good, except for horses. A young team sold for $250. The genial and old-time William Byers of Charlevoix, and Mr. DeYoung, cried the sale.

Albert Loper has been hired by the village of Central Lake to plow its streets, and he also plows for others. This is a great help, especially since we have had such a heavy fall of snow. Mr. Loper and wife visited relatives at Kewadin over the week end.

The county plow has been doing good work plowing the roads. Friday, they plowed the DeVries crossroad, which has usually been impassable during previous winters. This Monday morning it is full again.

A. J. Triplet of Eastport returned last week from a visit with relatives of his son-in-law, Lawrence DeVries, at Grandville, Michigan. He also visited with other relatives in Detroit.

Sympathy goes out to survivors of Mrs. Eugene Chapin who passed away at the hospital Saturday morning. She leaves a husband and three children. She was a much respected Christian lady of this place. She had resided here of late, but the family had lived a considerable time at Ells-

DISTRICT HEALTH UNIT

Vaccinate for Smallpox

In the counties of Antrim, Charlevoix, Emmet and Otsego, the health department carried on a total of 5,460 vaccinations in 1939 with the result that not a single case of smallpox was reported in our area. As a result of the vaccinations carried on in this area by the physicians and the health department we have not had u case of smallpox for the past eight years. Up until the time of the establishment of the health department, which actually started complete operation in 1931, smallpox was always present, the smallest number of cases being ten in this area in 1926 and the greatest number reported in 1929 which was 156 cases. With the organization of the health department in 1931, an extensive vaccination program was carried on with the result that only five cases occurred during that year in this district.

An average of 100 cases of smallpox is reported annually in Michigan. In 1939 more than 300 cases were recorded in our state. There is evidence thut the disease is being spread to other communities of the state and only immediate and general vaccination will serve to check it. Isolation of the victim offers little insurance against transmission since the virus of the disease can he communicated to others before a diagnosis of smallpox can he made.

Vaccination confers immunity from smallpox for a period varying from five to ten years. The modern procedure is simple, effective and is rarely followed by the reaction formerly encountered.

The doctor cleanses the skin of the upper arm with alcohol, places a droplet of vaccine on the site and merely rubs it into the skin with a sterile needle using only enough pressure to carry the material into the superficial layers. No bleeding or scarring results.

If an individual is immune to the smallpox organism, a tiny papule or pimple will appear at the point of vaccinution, within 48 hours and will shortly disappear. Partially immune persons will exhibit a similar reaction from three to seven days after vaccination. Those who have never been successfully vaccinated will show a papule in four to five days after the procedure. This reaches its maximum size about the ninth day.

Authorities contend that universal vaccination for one generation would wipe out smallpox. Unfortunately, this is a goal that may never be attained. But if every family head could be made to realize that every case of smallpox is a disgrace, conferring unnecessary disfigurement and, with some forms of the disease, resulting in death, re-vaccination at five year intervals would become far more general than it is at the present time.

"Henry Goes Arizona"

Recently the Jauregi ranch echoed again to the clank of cowboys' spurs and the bang nf six-shooters for location scenes in "Henry Goes Arizona," new comedy-drama featuring Frank Morgan as a Broadway dude who turns cowboy, which opens January 20 at the Palace Theatre.

A commissary department with a food truck, outdoor kitchens, folding tables and other equipment was set up back of the ranch house to feed Frank Morgan, Virginia Weidler, Guy Kibbee, Slim Summerville, Douglas Fowley, Owen Davis, Jr., about sixty Hollywood cowboys and members of the production crew.

"Emergency Squad" Thrill Quota High; Story, Stars Bright

Thrills come by the battalion in the precarious lives of the heroes of the big city "Emergency Squad," and the motion picture camera has managed to capture most of them in n highly graphic manner in Paramount's film about the service, "Emergency Squad," which opens January 20 at the Palace Theatre!

Louise Campbell, as the newsgal who finds romance as well as a story on her big assignment, and William Henry, Richard Denning and Robert Paige, as three heroes of the "Emergency Squad," garner acting honors, well supported by Anthony Quinn, John Miljan and John Marston.

Mystery-Comedy Tone's First Film Since Stage Hit

Marking the return to the screen of Franchot Tone after a sojourn on the Broadway stage, "Fast and Furious," coming to the Palace Theatre on January 24, 25, affords the young actor a new type of role. In this comedy-mystery he plays the book expert-amateur detective husband of Ann Sothern and is given free rein to show his flair for comedy.

worth. At the present time (Monday) we have not heard of funeral arrangements.

The young people and some older ones, met Saturday evening at the Homer Loper home in town for an old-fashioned spell down. Misses Esther Gay and Virginia Davis chose sides and tested their memories on the words taken from the "One Thousand Commonest Words" of the Ayers list. Esther Gay's side won. This will be a weekly affair each Saturday evening all winter. In the spring at the last meeting, they intend to challenge a like club of some other town. So, get ready you spellers of other places, and refresh your memories on the Ayers list.

A twelve-year-old Polish boy in the writer's school, gave five points that the government should follow to recovery: 1. Drop the relief administrators; 2. Let industry handle its own affairs (the courts or arbitrators settling disputes); 3. Stop the strikes; 4. Buy home products from farmers instead of from foreign countries; 5. Send checks direct to county treasurers for relief work, co-operating government with farmer or city employers and government paying one-half and employer one-half.

PHELPS NEWS

We extend our greatest sympathy to the Cook family.

There were four children absent from Phelps school Monday.

Mrs. Allen Howell and children were Sunday visitors of Archie and Albert Balch.

Mr. and Mrs. Gus Postma and family were visitors of William DeJong Friday evening.

The Phelps school children are very interested in the book "Freckles" which the teacher is reading to them.

The bus driver of the Phelps community could not get through the route Monday morning so the children walked to school.

The person interested in the Sabbath question should be interested in the sermon Sunday. In following the Gospel according to Mark the Sabbath will hold an important place next Sunday. Do you know why the Christian Church adopted the first day of the week for worship?

Did you ever read in the Bible about the First Day Sabbath and the Eighth Day Sabbath? Did you know that there is no place in the New Testament that enjoins remembrance of the Sabbath Day?

One interested in the application of the Bible teaching to affairs of today and to the immediate life of each one of us will enjoy the pastor's Sunday school class. Discussion begins at 10:30.

—And now that an interest in Charlevoix's welfare has been expressed through willingness of a group of individuals to take over the duties of board of commerce officers and directors, the efforts of this group will be as easy and productive of results as cooperation of the city council will allow. Inasmuch as the city council controls the purse from which funds used by the board of commerce for its promotional activities are drawn, they have absolute control over the latter group. Such a situation should not be abused. For if it is, it would have been better not to have re-organized the board of commerce at all. Speaking frankly, good city management, and successful promotion of activities which bring material benefit to a community—particularly one depending almost solely upon its resort business—are both important, one not more so than the other. One cooperative gesture I can think of right at the present time would be for the council to clean the slate of unpaid bills from 1939. If someone erred in the past, it certainly is no reflection upon the present board of commerce organization, nor should be used as a "club" over their heads. The only satisfaction any individual can gain by serving in a board of commerce organization is that resulting from productive effort. A city with an active board of commerce should be justly proud of the individuals so willing to serve. Let nothing hamper their efforts!

Statisticians figure the per capita debt for every man, woman and child in the United States is $345. If you ask me, that's bankruptcy for a lot of us! It certainly would make life's problems simple if we could all run our financial affairs in the "red" like the government does.

Cards from Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Solomon and Joel Johnston make me envious in view of present near-zero temperatures. The Solomons are basking in the sunny climes of Lake Worth, Florida, and Mr. Johnston tells us about the lovely weather at New Orleans. I think "Sol" was dropping a hint to the boss when he said lots of Michigan people are there and expenses are very reasonable.

When Jack Gallagher remarked: "Instead of a January thaw, we're going to have winter," he apparently knew what he was talking about. Our January thaw was abbreviated to the extent of a mixture of rain and snow Sunday and since then a nor'wester, accompanied by snow flurries and temperatures ranging as low as 5 above zero has brought us our first real touch of extended winter.

MICHIGAN STATE COLLEGE INVITED WOMEN

Extensive Plans Are Under Way for Farmers' Week Program

There'll be no neglect or lacking in the programs arranged for the rural women who attend the 25th annual Farmers' Week program at Michigan State College, January 29 through February 2.

By using staff members, borrowing authorities from other departments and by arranging for capable guest speakers, the home economics staff at the college is planning a rounded out series of sessions.

In acquainting visitors with what is happening out in the world, Dr. Marie Dye, dean of home economics at Michigan State College, has scheduled Dr. M. M. Knappen, head of the college history department, for a talk on the current European situation. Another of similar note will be presented by Darrel Brady, world traveler and lecturer, who will present a lecture illustrated with motion pictures on present conditions in Europe.

Student showing of costumes made in fall term college work is another feature during the week.

Staff members will not neglect suggestions about how to make purchases, how to better manage homes, how to cook meats.

"Fond Fads and Fallacies" is the title of another feature scheduled twice to accommodate those who attend. "Planning Our Family Life" is the subject assigned to Mrs. Lydia Ann Lynde, formerly on the college staff and now extension specialist in parent education for the United States Department of Agriculture.

GOVERNOR ENDORSES 7TH ANNUAL EASTER SEAL SALE CAMPAIGN

Michigan has made rapid strides in the care of handicapped children. Much, however, remains to be done. There are hundreds of crippled children throughout the state in need of our combined efforts; there are many who can be cured of their afflictions; many who can be partially cured; and many who can be trained for useful citizenship despite their physical disability. All this, of course, is expensive.

What the state government can do through its limited resources is not enough. Private contributions are necessary if the work is to be carried on to the needed extent. The state expends large sums of money in this work, but I realize it does not completely cover the field. Efforts of private organizations will always be necessary.

I cannot commend too highly the Michigan Society for Crippled Children, incorporated under the laws of Michigan since 1921, and its sponsoring of the Seventh Annual Easter Seal Sale, to be conducted throughout the state from March 1 to March 24, inclusive. May I urge your support?

(Signed) L. D. Dickinson,
Governor.

MAY TAKE STATE VOTE ON STRAITS BRIDGE SPAN

Study Has Shown Project is Feasible, Authorities Report

Plans looking to the construction of a bridge across the Straits of Mackinac are nearing the point according to the Mackinac Straits bridge authority, where the people of the state will be asked to decide whether the span is to be built.

As 1939 ends, the authority said, a field study of the engineering and economic feasibility of the structure has been completed and submitted to a consulting engineering firm for analysis and a report. The latter will include an estimate of cost and a tentative design.

Chairman G. Donald Kennedy said, "If the report is favorable, it then will be up to the people of the state whether the bridge is built. They will have all the facts before them, methodically arrived at and analyzed by the best engineering opinion."

Preliminary ice studies, Kennedy said, indicate that any structure with strength enough to bear the spans required to bridge the straits would be immune to ice pressure.

Kennedy said the state highway planning survey had completed a traffic survey and prognosis at the straits, disclosing out-of-state traffic comprised 22.7 per cent of the present straits ferry burden, that Wayne county contributed 22.6 per cent of the traffic and the entire lower peninsula 61.6 per cent.

Kennedy said Rep. Fred Bradley of Rogers City, would make a fresh attempt in the next session of congress to obtain a construction permit for the bridge. It previously had been approved by the United States senate and has been regarded with favor by the army engineers.

CHURCH OF GOD WILL DEDICATE BUILDING

Special Series of Services Scheduled Saturday and Sunday

Members of the Church of God will celebrate the completion of a church enlargement program with dedication services beginning Saturday, January 20th and continuing through Sunday, January 21.

Services will be held at 7:30 Saturday evening and at 11 a. m., 2:30 p. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sunday. Rev. E. M. Powell of Midland, will be the speaker at all services. The dedication will be at the Sunday afternoon service with pastors of all Charlevoix churches participating.

The building program, interrupted by fire causing heavy damage the evening of Sunday, December 31st, has been completed. The church seating capacity has been doubled. A good portion of the labor was donated by members of the church.

TWO-WAY RADIO ADOPTED BY CONSERVAT'N DEPT.

Sixty-Nine Sets Ready for Use in Field Next Spring

Two-way voice communication by radio will facilitate work of forest fire suppression in Michigan in 1940 through recent addition of new equipment. One-way radio communication from forest fire observation towers was established just one year ago.

Present equipment is portable, and may be used in a tower, in an automobile, or on the ground. With it, different fire control units about the border of a fire may talk with each other across the fire, and with the nearest tower, which in turn reports to district headquarters by telephone. Sixty-nine sets are ready for use.

ADVERTISING BUDGET FOR YEAR SET

BOARD OF COMMERCE COMMITTEE REPORTS PLANS

Cut of $1,000 From Last Year's Outlay Shown Despite Ambitious Promotional Activities

Conemplated resort promntional activities of the Board of Commerce advertising committee, first of the organization's groups to round out its program since organization two weeks ago, were divulged Monday night.

Headed by Fred E. Cartier, chairman, the committee outlined a tentative program calling for an out-lay of $1,890, which is approximately $1,000 less than last year in line with a plan to curtail expenditures to actual needs.

Of the amount set in the budget, $300 was previously contracted for a page advertisement in the West Michigan Tourist & Resort Association directory. Other items in the budget call for an expenditure of $450 for resort folders to augment the now nearly depleted supply, $150 for postage, $50 for telephone and telegraph, $50 for freight and express, $100 for local advertising and publicity, $125 for printing and incidentals, $65 for rental of 5 Charlevoix sign locations throughout the state, $200 for advertising, $200 for miscellaneous expenses, and $200 for representation at the National Sports and Boat Show in Chicago and a similar exhibit in Cincinnati, Ohio.

In presenting the budget, it was pointed out the only set expenditure included the $300 for directory advertising, $450 for folders and $65 for sign site rentals, and that the remainder would depend largely on demands during the season.

The advertising committee budget was given tentative approval and will be followed by budgets of the various other committees to be determined by their activities for the coming year.

PRESIDENT'S BALL TUESDAY EVENING

7TH ANNUAL COUNTY EVENT AT THE ARGONNE

Support Solicited in Nation-Wide Campaign for Funds to Fight Infantile Paralysis

Charlevoix county's seventh annual President's Birthday Ball, sponsored in connection with a nation-wide effort to raise funds for the fight against infantile paralysis, will be held Tuesday evening, January 30th, at The Argonne.

Roy Winegarden of Boyne City, county chairman, and Joseph M. Foster, local chairman, state that most gratifying response has been given to efforts of the various community committees. A sample of this fine cooperation, Mr. Foster pointed out, was 100% response by Charlevoix Kiwanis members in the purchase of tickets for the annual party.

The "March of Dimes" campaign, another means of raising funds, has also met with hearty support. This year, for the first time, a dancing party supporting the campaign will be held at St. James on Beaver Island. This event is in charge of James Gallagher, chairman of the island committee.

Funds derived from the President's Ball will be divided equally, 50% remaining in the community under control of the Charlevoix county chapter of the National Foundation, and 50% going to the national headquarters.

W. J. Kerns, operator of The Argonne, has announced that Howard Davenport's "Gents of Swing" will furnish music for the party and that special arrangements are being made to make the evening a most enjoyable one for those attending.

Citizens are urged to either attend the ball or contribute financial support.

RAYDERS DEFEATED IN TWO CONTESTS

DROP GAMES TO PETOSKEY AND EAST JORDAN

Rayder Reserves Annex Two Wins in As Many Starts—Play Boyne City Here Friday Night

The Red Rayder varsity squad absorbed two more defeats while the reserves annexed a pair of wins during the past week.

The two teams divided honors with Petoskey last Tuesday night, the varsity losing 38 to 15 and the reserves winning 22 to 19. The same results came from tilts at East Jordan last Friday night. The varsity dropped a 23-13 decision and the reserved topped the Jordanites by an 18 to 16 count.

Charlevoix's defeat was the second at the hands of the Petoskey Northmen. The Rayders scored first, rolling up 3 points before Petoskey clicked to lead at all the quarters, 6-4 16-7, 22-12. Petoskey used 12 players, Charlevoix 8.

McGhan paced the Rayders with 7 points, Bergman had 4, Gill and White 2 each. Young was high for Petoskey with 11, Garby next with 10.

The reserve victory came after a thrilling contest. Charlevoix led 9 to 6 at the half and 17 to 11 at the third intermission. Swanson led the attack with 7, Mitchell scored 5, Gengle and Martin 4, Novotny 2.

The Rayder's performance in holding the fast-stepping Jordanites to a 23 to 13 count Friday night may be taken as an indication of improved form.

Playing on Jordan's small court, the Rayders led 2 to 1 at the quarter and trailed only 11 to 7 at the half. They were out-scored 6 points to 2 in the hird stanza and 6 points to 4 in the final period.

McGhan topped Charlevoix scoring with 4 points. Carey scored 3, Kohler, Bergman and Stevens 2 each.

D. Gee and Isman scored 6 each, V. Gee and Bulow 5 each for the winners.

Charlevoix's reserves staged a final quarter rally to defeat East Jordan's second-stringers. Jordan led 6 to 3 at the quarter, 7 to 6 at the half and 13 to 11 at the third intermission. Charlevoix's 7 points to Jordan's 3 in the final stanza won the contest. Novotny's 6 points were high for Charlevoix. Staley scored 4, Mitchell 3, Martin and Swanson 2, Gengle 1.

The Rayders return to their home court Friday evening, January 26, for a tilt with Boyne City. Considered the strongest team in the class C conference from early season results, Boyne has lost successively to East Jordan and Harbor Springs in recent weeks. A bang-up good contest is anticipated.

SHOT AT RANDOM

By Ken Usher

The first ice fishermen put in their appearance on Round lake today. While the lake has been frozen over a week, fish tugs have kept a channel open allowing them to land at the Booth dock. When we consider local temperatures well above the zero mark, Charlevoix isn't so bad in winter compared to lower Michigan, other mid-west states and even in the south.

The request of Charlie Hyers for a street light near his residence on Robinson road, out in the Ward Addition south of West Garfield avenue, was pigeon-holed Monday night by the city council and thus unceremoniously ended an effort of several weeks. I don't suppose it is good manners to be critical on such an incident, but the inconsistency apparent on this matter is so obvious, I just couldn't help it. When I stop and think of 40 boulevard lights burning nightly on Dixon avenue from Prospect street to the depot where not a single person lives, the same condition on several other city streets, the flood lights for hockey and skating rinks, etc., it hardly seems consistent that a citizen and taxpayer should be turned down on such a modest request. The only reason I could gather for turning the request down was that installation of a street light for Hyers would cost

By GENE ALLEMAN

Field Manager, Michigan Press Association

If you were a candidate for the governorship of Michigan, what would YOU do about that annoying $30,000,000 deficit in the treasury at Lansing?

Here is a question that is easier to propound than to answer.

Many an aspirant for office has made serious campaign promises during speech-making tours, pledges which he honestly intended to carry out but which he seemingly was unable, after election, to fulfill. Somehow, realities are different when the candidate-elect arrives at Lansing. New situations develop like plagues of locusts. Pressure groups protest at economy at their expense. Other interests demand additional state aid, and so it goes!

Being governor of Michigan is no child's play. The more we view the Lansing scene the more we appre-

Non-residents may not fish through ice on lakes of Berrien, Branch, Cass, St. Joseph and Van Buren counties from January 1 to opeulag of trout season. Bluegills and sanfish cannot legally be taken through the ice between hours of 6 P. M. and 6 A. M. Resident persons over 17 must have 1940 fishing licenses. OF INTEREST TO FARMERS

By B. C. Mellencamp

O. I. Gregg, Landscaping Specialist, to Give Illustrated Lecture on Home Beautificatioo

The public is cordially invited to hear an illustrated lecture on "Beautifying Your Home Surroundings" in the Boyne City library on Thursday, January 25th, beginning promptly at eight o'clock in the evening. Mr. Gregg has a wonderful collection of colored slides showing scenes thruout Michigan.

Any person interested in setting out shrubs, flowers, and ornamental plants, or in their care and attention, should be at this lecture. We would like nothing better than to have the room filled with folks who enjoy beautiful surroundings.

If you are uncertain as to what types of shrubs and flowers to use, these colored slides will show you the arrangements that will please you.

Remember that there is no admission charge and we want to cordially invite you to attend.

Livestock Judging Contest a Feature of Farmers' Week

The 1940 Farmers' Week program starts on January 29th and continues through February 2nd. Any farmer in the county, who can get away from his regular duties for a week, should not miss this opportunity of hearing outstanding speakers, visiting the various departments, and receiving the very latest information on agricultural practices. All of the various farm organizations in the state will have their annual meetings during the week.

I want to especially call the attention of farmers, who plan to attend the week, to the livestock judging contest. Three farmers from the county will constitute a team and will compete with other teams throughout the state. No active 4-H club member, high school or college student, cow tester, farm managers, herdsman, or instructor is eligible to participate. Contestants will be required to judge ten rings of livestock consisting of two rings of each of the following classes: dairy cattle, beef cattle, draft horses, sheep, and hogs.

It would be a credit to this county if a judging team could be developed. If you plan to attend Farmers' Week kindly get in touch with your county agent by telephone, collect, so that a team can be developed and proper arrangements made for transportation. We have never had Charlevoix county represented on a judging team so let's give it a try this year.

AT THE MOVIES

Eddy Given New Singing Partner In "Balalaika""

Blazing a musical trail from Petrograd to Paris over the strife-torn Russia of the Czars, the screen operetta, "Balalaika," coming to the Palace Theatre January 27, 28, presents Nelson Eddy and Ilona Massey, Hollywood's newest singing star, in a thrilling, colorful and romantic musical drama.

"Balalaika" is based on the London stage musical success by Eric Maschwitz and is heralded as one of the most stirring and colorful musicfilms of the year.

The cast supporting Eddy and Miss Massey includes Charlie Ruggles, Frank Morgan, Lionel Atwill, C. Aubrey Smith, Joyce Compton, Walter Woolf King and Dalies Frantz.

"Heaven with a Barbed Wire Fence" A Refreshing Romance of the Road

A refreshing romance of the road comes to the Palace Theatre on January 31 in "Heaven with a Barbed Wire Fence," the 20th Century-Fox picture featuring Jean Rogers, Raymond Walburn, Marjorie Rambeau, Glenn Ford and Nicholas Conte.

Jean is seen as a "hitch-hike" girl; Glenn Ford, a promising newcomer from the stage, is seen as a boy "on the road." She's afraid and friendless, he's lonely and broke. Headed nowhere, fast, without a hope or a dream between them, you'll agree that it takes nerve for a pair of kids like this to fall in love. But that's just what happens and you'll join in their tears and heartaches and laughter as you roam the road with them in "Heaven with a Barbed Wire Fence."

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SOCIETY

Sunday morning service, 10:45.

Sunday school, 12 o'clock.

Meets first Wednesday evening of each month at 7:45 p. m.

Reading-room open Saturday, 3 to 5 p. m.

We cordially invite the public to our service and reading room.

"Truth" will be the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Christian Science churches throughout the world Sunday, January 28, 1940.

The Golden Text (Isaiah 25:1) is: "O Lord, thou art my God: I will exalt thee, I will praise thy name; for thou hast done wonderful things: thy counsels of old are faithfulness and truth."

Among the Bible citations is this passage (Psalm 117: 1, 2): "O praise the Lord, all ye nations: praise him, all ye people. For his merciful kindness is great toward us: and the truth of the Lord endureth for ever. Praise ye the Lord."

Correlative passages to be read from the Christian Science textbook "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, include the following (p. 127): "If God, the All-in-all, be the creator of the spiritual universe, including man, then everything entitled to a classification as truth, or Science, must be comprised in a knowledge or understanding of God, for there can be nothing beyond illimitable divinity."

Read "Only An Eagle" A Thrilling Aviation Yarn

This story by Leslie T. White tells about the new life in the air that thousands of American boys and girls are living today through government co-operation. There's romance, too, in this timely narrative that every red-blooded American will enjoy. Watch for it in This Week, the color-gravure magazine with Sunday's Detroit News.

A number of people were kept home from North Holland church Sunday as roads were badly blocked with snow.

Jordan River and Bush Sunday schools are continuing sessions thru the winter months. Two weeks ago and a week ago Jordan had 10 and 11 people in attendance. Alice Hawley, a young lady teacher of the primary class, is furnishing the fuel for the furnace.

Ivan Hopfer is left to superintend South Milton Sunday school, as his mother, with William Hopfer, have gone to Florida for the winter. The twins are remaining to attend school at Elk Rapids high.

Charlevoix Church of God people of the "Little Stone Church" of which School Commissioner Palmer is one of the members, have just completed an addition to their church and had dedication services there last Sunday, we are told. Rev. Pulsipher is pastor.

Miss Ida Brouwer and A. Snitseler, who have been quite ill, are improving in health and able to be out again. Mr. Biscum has been giving them some assistance in the outdoor work.

Rev. Gay of the F. M. church, made a hurried trip out this way last Friday (Bay View), but had to get back soon before he got snowed under, and even the mail man did not get through Thursday and Saturday.

Rev. G. A. Weaver, in a letter, tells us that he "went down" with heart trouble shortly after putting up 1200 Christmas gifts, and was ordered by his physician to remain in bed and keep quiet. His many Sunday school patrons, as well as others, will be glad to hear of his recovery soon. He is now entering his 49th year of missionary work in the counties of Cheboygan, Emmet, Charlevoix and Antrim. While at Ann Arbor hospital we met a nurse from Cheboygan county who had known him for years, who gave him high praise, and said the young people up there call him "Uncle Al", a designation we had not before heard.

We are glad to hear that Mrs. Elias Burns, who has been very ill, as well as Mrs. Earl Kennedy, are improving slowly in health. Mrs. Walter Anderson of Creswell, was a recent caller at the Kennedy home. Mr. Anderson has had pretty difficult driving to and from his work at Ellsworth during the terrible storms.

It was with much pleasure that people of the Bay View neighborhood haled the appearance of Julius Essenberg of the Atwood store last Thursday morning, bringing their stock of groceries. They had been without them for over a week, on account of the blocade of country roads. We can sympathize with Admiral Byrd, who spent six months alone in his snow bungalow. The mercury here, however had not registered below zero, while freezing temperatures had been recorded in Florida. It now looks like another "Jnnuary thaw", but like the other, may be subject to taking a bad cold.

Ye correspondent had a nice visit with the Robinette families at Ann Arbor and Ypsilanti recently. They are planning on having a reunion at Central Lake park next July for our former Grand View school members. Five of the Robinettes were pupils of ours. Of the 64 pupils we had 25 years ago, only about 36 remain alive. Teachers nowadays think they have a large school if they have 20 pupils. Of the 64, we had 16 in the 8th grade, 10 passing the examination, and 16 in the first grade. The school building in which we then taught five years, was not as large as now. Mrs. Gladys Robinette Meggison is now a resident of Ypsilanti. A program is planned for by the younger generation, and the older ones will probably reveal some of the tricks that were played at that time.

Versile Dawson is now night employee at the county garage, standing ready to answer calls for assistance from anyone who gets held up by the snowdrifts.

The snowplow people kindly made a road into the William McGuire home when Norine was taken back last week from the Pallister Hospital after a bad spell of pneumonia.

Rev. Gay and wife visited Monday with the George Bartlett family at Eastport.

Harris Sage went into the ditch with his car and had to be pulled out. The accident occurred near Larabee's corner.

Welford Davis came through with the mail Monday, following the snowplow, and lots of mail to gather up. One mail box contained 20 letters.

About 200 people attended the Townsend meeting held at Central Lake high school auditorium Monday night. The speaker gave a good talk and that, with the pictures, well explained the Townsend plan. He showed pictures and figures from the plan of taxation in Haiti, that proved that a two per cent tax on sales would bring the necessary amount to raise the $200 a month needed. It is the first Townsend meeting the writer ever attended, and the plan was so well explained that anyone could understand it. The feature that we liked best about it was the opening by prayer, given by Rev. Wall, and the display of and salute of the American flag. One seldom hears the flag mentioned anymore. Then too, many patriotic songs were sung. It would be well if the schools would put on such a program once in a while.

WIDOWS AND CHILDREN ARE PROTECTED BY SOCIAL SECURITY PLAN

It is estimated that 200,000 children will be protected by the Federal Ald-Age and Survivors Insurance system in 1940 because monthly benefits will be paid to the families of insured workers who die.

In case an insured worker dies leavlng a widow with young children, she will receive regular monthly payments for herself and for each child under age 16 or 18 if in school. The widow's monthly payment will be three-fourths the amount due her husband, and each child's monthly payment will be one-half.

Example: A widow and two children survive an insured worker. It is found that his average wages were sufficient at the time of his death to give him a monthly benefit of $24. His widow's monthly payment would be three-fourths of $24, or $18; and each minor child would get one-half of $24, or $12 per month.

The total monthly payment to a wage earner's family cannot be more than twice the amount of his basic benefit and never more than $85. After the youngest child reaches age 16 (18 if in school), payments to the widow will stop until she reaches age 65. After her 65th birthday she will again begin to receive monthly payments amounting to three-fourths of her husband's basic benefit.

HOOK AND LINE FISHING RULES UNIFORM

Allows Two Lines With Maximum of 4 Hooks in Michigan Waters

Two lines or poles or tip-ups, both under immediate control, and a maximum of four hooks is the winter rule for ice fishermen along Michigan's Great Lakes shores, same as for fishermen on inland wanters.

The new Michigan sportsmen fishing law enacted by the 1939 legislature made most sport fishing regulations uniform in all the waters over which the state has jurisdiction. Formerly it applied only to inland waters, and persons fishing in Great Lakes waters, who pay no license fees, enjoyed greater privileges than inland fishermen.

Besides making most regulations uniform, the new law prohibits bluegill fishing through the ice at night, closes some southwestern counties to ice fishing by non-residents, and institutes the new-type general resident license which is sufficient for both man and wife.

OF INTEREST TO FARMERS
By B. C. Mellencamp

Landscaping Lecture by O. I. Gregg, Landscape Specialist, Scheduled for Thursday, January 25th

All lovers of flowers and shrubs will be interested in hearing a lecture on beautification by O. I. Gregg, landscaping specialist from the Michigan State College, in the Boyne City library on Thursday night, January 25th, to start promptly at eight o'clock. If you are interested in beautifying your home surroundings, you certainly will want to enjoy this lecture and the wonderful pictures that so nicely show what can be done.

During the day five more plans will be developed by Mr. Gregg. This service is greatly appreciated by those interested in making their homes more atractive. Approximately one huadred outlines for beantification have been developed in the county during the past ten years. Many farm homes have been greatly improved hy merely setting out a few shrubs and plants.

Our olservntions lead us to think that it isn't so much the cost as it is the lack of deslre and fack of appreciation of beauty that is responsible for so few homes being landscaped. A small expenditure of from fifteen to twenty dollars will accomplish wonders. Each day of the year you are receiving the interest on the small investment in the form of more pleasant and attractive surroundings.

BROKEN ANKLE BROUGHT HARROWING EXPERIENCE TO HUNTER WEDNESDAY

Jim Whitley, 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Whitley, has recovered from exposure resulting last Wednesday when he crawled to the Colon McKenzie residence from Bell's Bay on Lake Michigan after breaking his ankle in a fall while hunting alone.

It required from 2 to 10:30 p. m. for Whitley to cover the distance from the woods in his condition. His plight was discovered when he crawled onto the porch and knocked at the door of the McKenzie home on the old Norwood road at the west outskirts of the city. The fact he was well clothed and was forced to keep moving to reach home probably saved him from freezing in the near zero temperature and snow storm.

After first aid treatment at the McKenzie home, the youth was taken to the home of his parents.

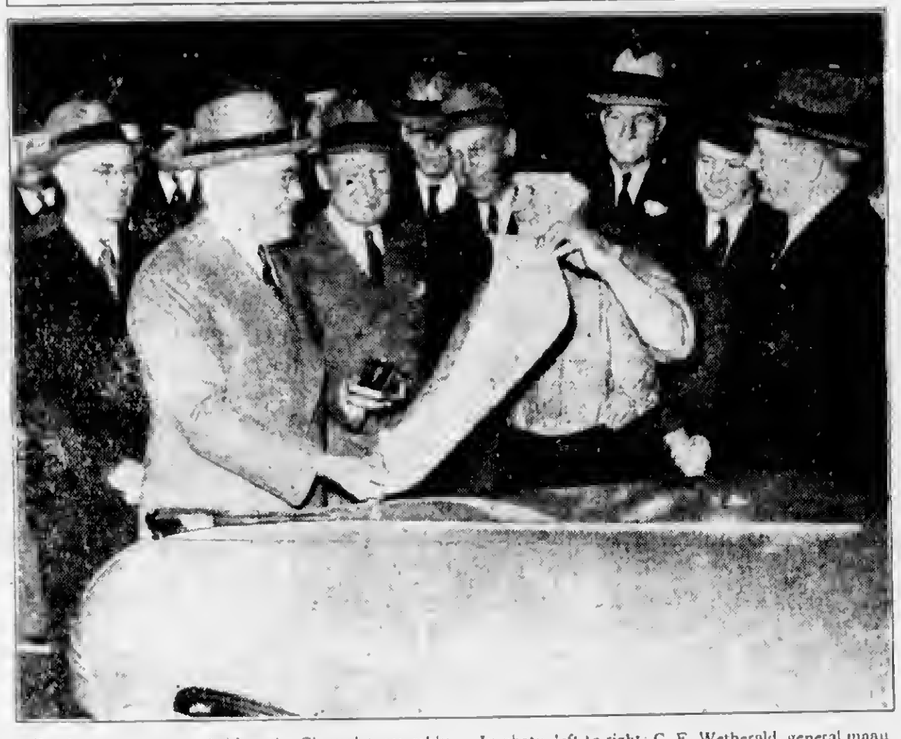
General Motors Builds 25-Millionth Unit



Brief ceremonies were held in the Chevrolet assembly plant at Flint, January 11, marking completion of this car, the 25-millionth unit built by General Motors. In behalf of the thousands of workers who had a hand in its manufacture, 75 members of the final assembly line crew handed M. E. Coyle, Chevrolet general manager, a commemorative scroll for presentation to W. S. Knudsen, president of General Motors. Veteran Chevrolet employes, and executives of the Buick and AC Spark Plug divisions, were present as special guests.

In photo, left to right: C. E. Wetherald, general manufacturing manager, Chevrolet; Mr. Coyle; H. H. Cortice, general manager Buick Division; A. P. Sloan, Jr., chairman of the board, General Motors; Fred Brown, veteran Chevrolet employe; C. S. Mott, vice president, General Motors; C. E. Wilson, executive vice president, General Motors, and Mr. Knudsen.

The car was taken at once to Detroit, to play a major part in the "March of Men and Motors" celebration staged that night in the Masonic Temple.

DISTRICT HEALTH UNIT

Diphtheria on the Increase in This Area Because of Lack of Immunization in Children

A diphtheria carrier is a person who, without symptoms of a communicable disease, harbors and disseminates the specific germ. In diphtheria a case becomes a convalescent carrier in one month after onset, toxin-producing bacilli persist in the nose and throat and has become a chronic carrier if the bacilli persist two months after onset. Carriers probably play a much more important role in the spread of the disease than was formerly thought, and a carrier who is a foodhandler and whose daily routine brings him in contact with susceptibles is a serious menace. Carriers are mainly responsible for the continuation of many diseases from year to year.

Diphtheria has always been an important cause of death, but its prevalence and fatality have been declining gradually. About two-thirds of the deaths from this disease occur between the ages of six months and five years. With our knowledge of the cause, methods of spread, diagnosis, detection of causes, treatment with antitoxin, and most of all, the way in which immunity of the individual may be safely established, diphtheria should continue to yield before the attack upon it until it approaches the vanishing point.

We have had two deaths in Petoskey in 1939. These were the first diphtheria deaths that Emmet county has had since 1928 which means Emmet county went without a diphtheria death for eleven years.

Diphtheria is prevented by artificial immunization — two doses of toxoid spaced at sufficient intervals apart are administered to protect children. If your child has already received the immunizing doses for diphtheria, we urge you to take him to your physician for a Schick test to determine whether immunity exists, as not all who receive toxoid become immune. The Schick test is performed by injecting a small dose of diphtheria toxin into the skin of the forearm and often a control is injected into the other forearm. If after three days or longer there is a distinct area of reddening which later becomes brownish in the center and scales then the body has not developed sufficient antitoxin, is susceptible, and more toxoid for immunization should be given. No parent should deny his child this protection against diphtheria early in life. The importance of early protection is shown by the fact that diphtheria is a childhood disease and that 60% of the deaths occur under five years of age.

Immunity following toxoid treatment begins to develop a few weeks after the initial inoculation and reaches its full strength in from two to six months following the injection. Therefore, it can be seen that it is not an emergency measure to be applied during an epidemic, but should be provided as soon as possible before your child enters school.

EDITORIAL

CITIZEN CONTROL OF GOVERNMENT

There will be no $100,000 township hall in Royal Oak Township, Oakland county, merely because the township officers could have gotten half of the funds from federal sources. The citizens of the township refused to let their officials issue further revenue bonds against the township water system to cover the other half of the hall's cost. The system already has a $200,000 debt to be liquidated.

In Republic township, Marquette county, last fall, officials permitted and encouraged non-taxpayers to vote on a water bond issue. It was passed, but economy-minded citizens forced the voiding of this illegal vote and the $30,000 bonds were not issued.

Other developments of more recent date include these:

An Ingham county road commissioner has been indicted for taking a bribe from a contractor, who also faces trial. Another county employe has also been arrested. The deputy treasurer of Gratiot county has fled from an embezzlement charge. The legal adviser to a former state auditor general and a newspaper publisher have been indicted for misuse of state funds in connection with state tax sale advertising. Citizens have been so aroused by the conduct of township officials in Marenisco township, Gogebic county, that they have demanded grand jury action, which is about to get under way.

Laxity in the conduct of local and county government is a basic cause of waste and high taxes. The citizens of Michigan have become thoroughly aware of this fact. Their officials, including some members of the legislature, have given indication recently that they are prepared to act accordingly. There is good reason to hail the expanding scope of citizen control of government.

ciate the difficulties which beset the state executive in his endeavor to execute his duties.

Wielding The Axe

For example, if there was ever an economy-minded state legislature, it was the 1939 one. Admonished by Governor-elect Frank Fitzgerald to effect savings in the cost of government, the lawmakers wielded the axe judiciously.

When they were finished, the budget was nearly balanced on paper.

If general revenues totaled more than $82,000,000 the legislature in a compromise with the school teachers earmarked the next $2,000,000 to go to the public school fund.

In the meanwhile, the state welfare fund is beginning to run precariously low; C. I. O. labor leaders are demanding a special session to authorize another $10,000,000 for welfare needs; and the state deficit is not less than it was a year ago, but in fact it is said to be a little higher.

What to do?

The choices are few.

Bond Issue, Economy?

Politicians of both parties are in agreement that a special bond issue, to retire the $30,000,000 red-ink entry, would be turned down overwhelmingly by the voters.

Another choice is more economy. This is an old oratorical device. But how is this economy to be accomplished? Auditor General Vernon J. Brown has revealed that Lansing is a tax-collector for local government to the grand tune of $132,000,000 a year. The state's grants-in-aid come to this surprising total; thus actually the major part of the state's bill is not for state government at all!

Total state revenues come to about $160,000,000 a year.

Grants to local governments aggregate $132,000,000, leaving only $32,000,000 for state needs.

Are you, the local taxpayer, going to support a state economy campaign that doesn't really economize much at Lansing at all, but which comes right back home in your own community to pinch you, here and there?

The question of state finances, we again emphasize, is not easy to answer.

How About New Tax?

This year is campaign-time. So consider then another choice of solving the problem—levying a new tax or increasing a present one.

Senator Don VanderWerp chairman of the senate finance committee, recently referred to the need for additional money and the desire to retire the state deficit. Additions to state hospitals, affording accommodations for 2,000 persons seeking admission, cannot be utilized fully because the 1939 legislature appropriated only $1,000,000 to equip and operate them whereas $3,500,000 a year is necessary. Furthermore, 25,000 persons are eligible to receive old age pensions but state appropriations are not sufficient to care for them. (Old age lists now total $77,000.)

"The state government can't continue to operate without additional taxation," concludes VanderWerp.

Tax possibilities: Restoration of the state property tax, such as has been done in California to meet demands of special pressure groups for more state aid! imposition of luxury taxes on tobacco, amusement admissions, etc.; a temporary increase in the state sales tax, now 3 cents on the dollar.

New taxes are not popular with the average voter.

But some answer must be found. The Michigan citizen can't have his cake and eat it, too. If more social benefits are to be granted, means should be found to finance them. Unless, of course, Michigan emulates the example of the federal government's 10-year record of annual deficits, not in millions but in the billions.

Local Highways

If Murray D. Van Wagoner is a candidate for governor, as some observers believe he will be, then one of the 1940 political issues will probably be highways.

That is a reasonable assumption, for Van Wagoner is the highway department commissioner and president of the American Road Builders Association.

County road commissioners, for example, look longingly at the sales tax fund, now that state highway revenues have been earmarked for highway purposes. Louis Webber, their Lansing representative, believes that the 1941 legislature should tag $10,000,000 for local road needs.

School teachers will probably be back, too, in 1941 insisting on more state aid. And so it goes—hospital beds, welfare funds, pensions for widows and orphans, crippled children care, old age pensions and a long parade of genuine social needs.

the city $100, according to the city superintendent's figures. What's a poor taxpayer to do in this era of high-powered efficiency?

A woman well known to many Charlevoixans headed the committee in charge of the annual luncheon of the Women's National Republican Club of New York City, held last Saturday, January 20, at the Hotel Astor. She was Mrs. Ira A. Campbell, sister-in-law of P. D. Campbell, this city, and wife of Ira A. Campbell, a local product. Signifying importance of the event was the fact that wives of four former Presidents of the United States, Mrs. Calvin Coolidge, Mrs. Herbert Hoover, Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt and Mrs. William Howard Taft, were present. The speakers included District Attorney (Gang Buster) Dewey, Rep. J. William Ditter of Pennsylvania, chairman of the National Republican Congressional Committee, and Mrs. Margaret Culkin Banning, noted novelist. Shall we say: "Another native daughter makes good."

On Tuesday of last week Fred Cartier herded together a group of winter sports enthusiasts to provide atmosphere for winter sports publicity pictures in Charlevoix. The occasion resulted from a visit here of E. Sanger and Willis Player, photographers representing the Booth chain of daily newspapers in Michigan, and Jim Took, publicity director of the West Michigan Tourist & Resort Association. This trio of publicity gatherers were on a tour of northern Michigan winter sports centers to obtain photos for a page publicity spread in the Booth papers published in Detroit, Flint, Grand Rapids, Saginaw, Bay City, etc. Never saw the time yet when Fred wasn't equal to any occasion, and Tuesday's accomplishment was no exception. Nice going, Fred!

Even though Charlevoix's basketball team hasn't polished up enough to win a game so far this year, and we're watching the Rayder reserves, next year's basketball material, if you please, bowl over all opposition, there's no reason why we shouldn't be interested in other teams in our district. Boyne City's wide swath through class C ranks has been narrowed down somewhat since East Jordan and Harbor Springs took their measure. It all points to real competition between the three above named teams in the district tournament scheduled this year at Harbor Springs. There ought to be some games worth watching, and here's hoping Charlevoix's rapidly improving combination hits the top by tournament time.

W. E. "Bill" Flynn and Don Clothier must have thought of Charlevoix at the same time, for Monday's mail brought letters from both. "Bill" started his letter with the remark: "It is a long time between drinks," meaning, of course, between letters. He stated the season started out with a "bang" at Highland Pines Inn in Southern Pines, N. C., and ventured the prediction Charlevoix should have a big business this coming season. Hope he's right. As for the Clothiers, they're still at Miami, Fla. Don says: "We can't seem to tear ourselves away from the Magic City." They expect to start working their way northward soon, however. The Missus has a "bug" for sea shells and Don says they'll likely hit Fort Myers, Sarasota and Clearwater, where the shells are supposed to be exceptionally beautiful, on the way home. The letter ended thusly: "Thanks for sending the papers. They look pretty good to us and, believe it or not, we will both be glad when spring comes and we are back at the old stand. No place like Michigan and home."

Charlevoix's beloved Dr. R. B. Armstrong celebrated his 73rd birthday anniversary Monday. Although bed-ridden on the occasion, it can happily be announced he is improved from a period of serious illness. Testifying to the esteem in which Dr. Armstrong is held, were greetings by card, telephone and telegraph from townspeople and friends throughout the country, his children and, perhaps most cherished, a cablegram from his son, Dr. Robert Bruce Armstrong Jr., now in hospital work in Switzerland. Replying to a suggestion he wish for ten million dollars before cutting his birthday cake, the venerable physician characteristically remarked: "This day has been proof that money never counted for much." Here's wishing for your speedy recovery, "Doc."

JUDGE PARM GILBERT IS GIVEN HIGH HONOR

Named Traverse City's Most Outstanding Citizen for 1939

Judge Parm C. Gilbert, judge of the 13th judicial circuit, was honored by his fellow townsmen at the annual Traverse City chamber of commerce banquet recently for his work in preventing juvenile delinquency.

While nearly 500 members of the organization looked on Judge Gilbert was awarded the medal for being Traverse City's Outstanding Citizen for 1939. The medal was presented by W. J. Hobbs, himself a winner of the award in former years.

When Judge Gilbert took his seat on the bench nearly twenty years ago he immedintely saw the necessity of keeping children out of the toils of the law. One of his first suggestions and one on which state social workers have spent considerable thought, was a segregation camp similar to the present CCC camps. A law creating such camps was passed by the legislature but died because of lack of finance.

Among methods adopted by Judge Gilbert are periodical conferences with parents of boys and girls who are problem children and also with school authorities concerning students who may possibly end up in court unless preventive measures are taken. Instead of paroling youths to regular parole officers he turns them over to luncheon clubs, churches and other organizations. Rarely do these young folks come back to his court as second offenders.

It is estimated that Judge Gilbert has kept scores of boys and girls out of correctional institutions through his program.

The state director, Ben Hennick, was at our last Junior Farm Bureau meeting. Mrs. "Ben", along with the state president, George Baur, and Pat Raymond, were there too.

Using a cold stove as a simile, Mr. Hennick showed us how to get kindling temperature and above from the Junior Farm Bureau.

Fred Willis is to head the committee to investigate the chances of having a meeting place in town. His assistants are Clifford Struthers, Chuck Cellner, and Freda Willis. There are many rumors concerning a Junior Farm Bureau band and a sleigh ride party.

OTTER TRAPPING LEGAL IN SPRING

ALLOWED FOR FIRST TIME IN FIFTEEN YEARS

Lower Peninsula Season for Both Otter and Beaver is Scheduled March 20 to April 10

For the first time in 15 years, Michigan trappers next spring will have an otter trapping season, coinciding with the beaver season, in most of the upper peninsula and in 13 counties of the lower peninsula.

Season dates set by the conservation commission for both beaver and otter trapping are April 1 to 15 inclusive in the upper peninsula, unchanged from 1939, and March 20 to April 10 inclusive in the lower peninsula, five days later than last year to give trappers more ice-free days for setting traps.

Some trappers, who have inadvertently taken otter in beaver traps, and some trout fishermen who regard otter as a predator have complained of the increase of otter in some localities under continuous complete protection. Carcasses of all otter taken must be turned over to the conservation department for scientific study. Under field conditions, otter has proved a most difficult animal to study because of its wide individual range and secretive habits.

The special license to trap both beaver and otter costs $2 and is available to Michigan residents only. Take is limited to eight beaver and two otter by each trapper. All pelts must be sealed at the conservation district headquarters nearest the place of trapping, for a fee of $1 each, on or before April 15 in the lower peninsula, or April 22 in the upper peninsula. Traps may not be set within 50 feet of a beaver lodge, hole or dam. Firearms may not be used.

Twenty-four counties are open to otter trapping: Gogebic, Ontonagon, Baraga, Iron, Dickinson, Marquette, Delta, Alger, Schoolcraft, Luce, and Houghton county south of the canal, in the upper peninsula; and Chebygan, Presque Isle, Otsego, Montmorency, Alpena, Kalkaska, Crawford, Oscoda, Alcona, Missaukee, Roscommon, Ogemaw and Iosco counties in the lower peninsula.

Beaver may be trapped in all of these areas and in 21 additional counties: Menominee, Mackinaw, Chippewa, Emmet, Charlevoix, Antrim, Leelanau, Benzie, Grand Traverse, Manistee, Wexford, Mason, Lake, Osceola, Clare, Gladwin, Arenac, Newaygo, Mecosta, Isabella and Midland.

Trappers may learn from the nearest conservation officer which streams and parts of streams in these counties will remain closed to beaver and otter trapping by special designation.

ATTENTION IS CALLED NEW TAX LAW RULING

Chattel Mortgages Subject to Tax Under Intangible Tax Law

Frank F. Bird, register of deeds, today called attention to the ruling by Melville B. McPherson, chairman of the State Tax Commission, that chattel mortgages will be taxable in 1940 under the new intangible tax law.

Mr. Bird stated that all chattels now on file with the register of deeds office, which have been satisfied, should be discharged by the mortgagees, as the register's chattel mortgage files will be the basis of investigation for payment of the intangible tax on chattels.

Mr. Bird said thousands of dollars worth of personal properties are covered by these obsolete chattel mortgages which still remain on file with the register of deeds and which appear in our files as "live" chattels, on which the intangible tax will have to be computed. It would be much cheaper and easier for the mortgagees to pay the small fee prescribed by statute to discharge these chattels, than to have to include them in the intangible tax report which will have to be made prior to March 1, 1941.

CITY MOURNS DEATH DR. R. B. ARMSTRONG

BELOVED PHYSICIAN DIED EARLY WEDNESDAY MORNING

Passing After Illness of Several Weeks a Shock to Family and Citizens of Community

Charlevoix today mourns the death of Dr. Robert Bruce Armstrong, pioneer northern Michigan physician and one of this community's most beloved individuals.

His death followed an illness starting in early December and the passing of Mrs. Armstrong on December 12th. The end coming as he slept early Wednesday morning, was a shock to his family and the community.

Dr. Armstrong was born January 22, 1867 at Ormal, N. Y., the son of James and Helen Armstrong. His mother died a week after his birth and he came with the father and a sister to Saginaw in the fall of the same year. Following graduation from Saginaw high school, Dr. Armstrong attended and graduated in 1890 from the University of Michigan pharmacy school. He was chemist at the New York State experiment station at Genevn that summer and in the fall entered medical school at the University of Michigan.

He married Maud Studor at Saginaw on June 28, 1893. She taught school while he completed his medical course with graduation in 1894. On July 1 of that year, the couple came to Petoskey, where he was employed at the Calkins drug store. That fall they moved to Charlevoix.

Dr. Armstrong's practice in the earlier years could be described as a series of major operations performed on dining room and kitchen tables, of long drives through rain and winter blizzards in the days when there were no hospitals, no x-ray machines, no automobiles, and few telephones to assist the country doctor. Volumes would be recounted of such experiences, all of which endeared him in the hearts of the public he served. An outstanding incident, one which brought him national prominence, was a flight 27 years ago this winter in a Selfridge field army plane over Lake Michigan to Beaver Island to treat a youth whose skull had been crushed by a falling tree. Airplanes were then in their infancy. Only one of three planes leaving Selfridge field reached Charlevoix.

DELINQUENT TAX LIST

TWO MEN ESCAPED DEATH IN RAIL CROSSING CRASH

Walter Moore, Truck Driver, Seriously Injured in Mishap Friday

Walter Moore and George Sarasin, employes of the Argo Milling Co., narrowly escaped fatal injury Friday afternoon when the northbound Pere Marquette passenger train struck a truck in which they were riding at the crossing off Ferry avenue leading to the Argo coal yard.

Moore, driver, received a broken neck, fractured ribs and deep cut over one eye, according to Dr. F. F. McMillan. Sarasin suffered a fractured wrist.

The train, running behind schedule, crashed into the front end of the truck which was upon the track where, stopped when Moore saw the approaching train. The impact drove the motor through a nearby coal shed and fortunately tossed the vehicle clear of the track without dragging it. Had the truck been further onto the track, both men would probably have been killed.

COUNCIL SUPPORTS BOY SCOUT TROOPS

GIVES FUNDS TOWARD CITY'S QUOTA IN COUNCIL

Growth of Scouting Activities in Charlevoix Reviewed by C. S. Webster in Making Request

The city council Monday night took the initial step in assuring continued participation of Charlevoix Boy Scouts in the activities of the Scenic Trails Council, representing the northern Michigan area, with an appropriation of $75.

The council action resulted from a request made by Clair S. Webster, member of the district finance committee, and one of a group of four attending a district committee meeting held January 23rd at Petoskey. Present at this meeting as representatives of the Kiwanis Club, sponsors of local Boy Scout activities, were Robert Bridge and Otto Krueger in addition to Mr. Webster, also Rev. G. R. Parker, local scout leader.

In presenting the request before the council, Mr. Webster reviewed the growth of the Boy Scout movement in Charlevoix during the past year. He reported membership had increased from eight to nearly thirty, and outlined the activities of local scout troops.

It is the plan of Charlevoix sponsors of scouting to enroll the aid of the board of education, board of supervisors and interested individuals in raising the city's quota. The Kiwanis Club has contributed $25. The city's quota to the Boy Scouts of America, the organization providing year around leadership for the Scenic Trails Council which directs activities in northern Michigan, is $200. Additional funds to finance activities of Charlevoix troops will be sought.

It wouldn't be human not to brag just a little about the kind of winter weather we're having. For the benefit of those who hiked to Florida and other southern climes to escape our winter blasts and ran smack-dab into the coldest temperatures the south has experienced in years, I want to say the thermometer here has been comfortably near the freezing mark for some time and has only been down to zero once.

At the annual meeting of the Charlevoix Sportsman's Club considerable time was devoted to the discussion of ways and means to prevent dogs running at large to prey on small game and deer in this vicinity. In this connection, it is interesting to note that Traverse City law enforcement officials have agreed to impose a fine of $5 and costs or five days in jail upon owners allowing dogs to run at large. Session at Boyne City to Determine Merits of County Survey

A most important and vital discussion will take place Wednesday afternoon, February 7th, when the county land planning committee will meet and decide whether or not a most intensive land survey will be made of Charlevoix county.

The group will meet in the county agent's office, Boyne City at 1:30. H. A. Berg, state land planning committeeman, will be present and discuss the advantages of having this intensive land study.

Last year five counties were designated for this study. This year an additional group of five counties will be included in the study and an invitation is extended to Charlevoix county to be one of the five in which the work will be carried on.

COUNTY FAILS REACH QUOTA TB STAMP SALE

Tuberculosis Assn. Reports Results Below Return Last Year

Charlevoix county has not yet reached its 1938 total in contributions to anti-tuberculosis work, the January compilation of Christmas Seal returns to the Michigan Tuberculosis Association reveals. The county, at the end of the second month of the annual sale of tuberculosis seals, however, was within 9.5 per cent of its 1938 returns.

Over 90 per cent of returns are in according to Harry D. Bennett, secretary of the Central Trust Company, Lansing, and treasurer of the association. It is possible that the remainder of the returns will bring Charlevoix county's total up to the 1938 mark, Mr. Bennett said.

SOILS COMMITTEEMEN BANQUET FEBRUARY 8

Annual Farmer-Businessman Affair to be Held at Peninsula Grange

The Charlevoix county soil conservation committeemen, headed by Walter H. Henley, chairman, now making arrangements to hold a farmer-businessman banquet at the Peninsula Grange hall, the evening of February 8.

Twenty-seven farmer-committeemen will invite as their guests various business and professional men throughout the county. This will be the second year in which the farmers and their city guests have met to discuss the benefits of the farm program, and the efforts now being made to advance agricultural interests.

Following the banquet a very interesting program has been planned. Film strip pictures will be shown which clearly illustrate the need of a farm program. Carrying out the purpose of the meeting a member or representative of the state committee will be present to assist in conducting a general discussion among those present.

PURE-BRED LIVESTOCK DIRECTORY IS PLANNED

Will List All Owners of Registered Animals in County

The Extension Service is developing an accurate list of all owners and breeders of purebred livestock in Charlevoix county.

Letters have been sent to all farmers asking them to report back the number of purebred animals and young cattle eligible for registration. When the reports are all summarized, a livestock directory will be developed, probably in combination with three or four other counties adjacent to Charlevoix county. Copies of this directory will be given to all farmers and others interested in agriculture.

There has been a long-felt need for such a directory. In addition to the livestock data, the names of all farm organizations will be given. It is expected that this directory will be completed early in the spring.

DATE FOR AUCTION OF STATE LANDS NOT SET

Public Will be Notified When Department Makes Disposal

The conservation department is not advertising tax-reverted lands for sale, nor does it deal through any agents, the lands division of the department is informing persons now making inquiries. State lands in 47 counties north of the Muskegon-Bay City line are administered by the department.

RAYDERS LOSE TO BOYNE RAMBLERS

DEFEATED BY 40 TO 20 SCORE HERE FRIDAY NIGHT

Rayder Reserves Defeated Boyne by 14 to 11 Count in Close Tilt—East Jordan Here This Week

Red Rayder basketball squads divided honors with Boyne City's Ramblers here Friday night, the varsity losing by a 40 to 20 score and the reserves winning by a 14 to 11 count.

As contradictory as it may seem in view of the final score, Boyne had to come from behind to win from the Rayder varsity team. In a spurt of old-time form, Charlevoix out-played and out-scored Boyne in the first period, gaining a 9 to 6 advantage. They held the lead until mid-way into the second period when Boyne forged ahead 15-14 and from then on it was a Boyne walk-away. The visitors led 19 to 14 at the half and 32 to 17 at the close of the third period.

The difference between the two teams was mainly E. Dietze, lanky Boyne center, who accounted for 19 of his team's points. W. Dietze, other half of the brother combination, scored 10 and Stackus, diminutive guard, added 8. Stevens led the Charlevoix attack with 7 points, Carey scored 4, Bergman 3, McGhan and White 2 each.

Intense rivalry between the two teams was apparent in moments of rough play and the temper of the fans.

Charlevoix's reserves continued their string of victories with a 14 to 11 win over Boyne's reserves. It was a close contest throughout. The score was tied 5-all at the quarter, Boyne led 9 to 5 at the half, Charlevoix 12 to 11 at the third intermission. Charlevoix's scoring was divided between Swanson, Mitchell, Martin and Novotny with 3 points each. Gengle scored 2. Stackus led Boyne with 5 points.

The Rayders play at home again this week, meeting East Jordan in a return game. Jordan won from the Rayders by a 23 to 13 score.

LANSING LETTER

By GENE ALLEMAN

Field Manager, Michigan Press Association

County supervisors who "received everything we asked for" in the 1939 legislature's home rule welfare act; according to Melville R. McPherson, chairman of the state tax commission, now propose new and drastic changes.

In the first place, the supervisors would have the state get out almost entirely of the welfare field.

Supervisors would hold complete control over how the welfare money is handled, and the state would set aside one-third of its sales tax revenues—or approximately $15,000,000 in a normal good year—for relief needs of the counties.

The blessing of Gov. Luren D. Dickinson on the supervisors' plan was duly proclaimed in the name of economy. The 1939 legislature had appropriated $8,750,000 for welfare needs, a reduction of nearly one-half

THIS WEEK IN WASHINGTON

By Your Congressman
Fred Bradley
11th District Michigan

The public, employers and labor organizations have been clamoring for the repeal, or at least changes in the method of administration of the Labor Act. Most everyone knew something was wrong.

Last session hearings were held before both the House and Senate Labor committees. But whatever might have resulted from these hearings was forestalled by the White House "must" order to keep hands off the law.

It was at this stage that Rep. Howard Smith, Virginia Democrat, proposed a resolution calling for the investigation of the Labor Board itself. This was authorized by the house and Mr. Smith, a former judge, was named as chairman.

This committee started work only a few weeks ago, but already it is bringing to light some of the weak spots within the board personnel itself.

Girls Hired as Attorneys

Out of 104 review attorneys now on the board's payroll, 17 are girls, some of them without any court experience whatsoever and just out of law school. Several had not been admitted to the bar in the District or any state until after they were hired by the board.

To these review attorneys were assigned important labor controversies, some of them involving the welfare of thousands of workers. Testimony introduced tended to show that it was a common practice to go outside the record of the hearing for evidence in deciding cases.

The girls not only reviewed the cases from the evidence in the record, but it was a common practice to discuss their cases orally with members of the board before writing their reviews.

It is only fair to state that it would be physically impossible for the members of the board to read all the testimony, some cases running into thousands of pages of transcript. But on the other hand, if the work is to be delegated to subordinates, it seems that competent attorneys might have been engaged to review the work. Salaries paid ran as high as $4200, sufficient to engage attorneys with some experience in general court practice.

New Dealers for "Leftist"

The investigating committee is taking its material from the files of the board and bringing in the review attorneys to testify as to their acts while working on the cases assigned to them. Included in the files were letters from New Deal brain trusters, recommending the employment of certain of the young ladies now on the payroll as review attorneys. Jerome Frank, chairman of the SEC, recommended one young lady as a liberal with a definite "left turn". Asked to explain what was meant by this term, the witness expressed her ignorance. Judge Francis Biddle, recently appointed as solicitor general, recommended one of the ladies for a job. Lee Pressman, attorney for the CIO, "detailed" one lady attorney for work on labor cases.

Edmund C. Toland, counsel for the investigating committee, asked one young lady attorney if she knew the rules of court practice by which the credibility of a witness was determined. She said she did not.

Mrs. Caroline Aggar Fortas, an attractive blonde, testified she completed her law course at Yale in February 1938, she was engaged as a review attorney for the labor Board March 3, 1938 and was admitted to the bar "sometime later that month." She remained with the board until last December when she was transferred to the Department of Justice at a salary of $3600 a year. Her husband, Abe Fortas, is also on the government payroll, receiving a salary of $9,000 as counsel for the Federal Emergency Administration of Public Works. There were other similar cases of husband and wife both on the federal payroll.

The committee is expected to complete its investigation in time to submit its recommendations for changes at this session.

Trade Treaties Under Fire

An outstanding legislative battle is forming over the reciprocal trade agreements. Under a 1934 act, Congress legislated this new power to the Department of State. This power expires in June of this year and the administration is very anxious to have it extended.

Hearings before the House Ways and Means committee opened last week with two members of the president's cabinet as witnesses. Secretary of State Hull appeared to defend the 22 trade agreements already entered into and Secretary of Agriculture Henry Wallace next appeared.

Republican members of the committee contend that the trade treaties have operated to lower farm prices, through permitting importations of many products from lower standard of living nations of which there is already a surplus in this country.

Questioning the cabinet members, Rep. Reed of New York declared that the administration had two distinct programs definitely in conflict. The department of agriculture restricts crops and spends the taxpayers' money in an effort to raise farm prices, while the department of state negotiates treaties permitting foreign nations to dump their surpluses in this country.

During 1938-39, stated Rep. Reed, Secretary Wallace's department spent spent 313 millions of taxpayers money to purchase 25 commodities designated as agricultural surpluses. At the same time these same products were being imported through the application of lowered tariffs.

Hearings will likely continue for several weeks before any legislation is submitted to Congress.

AT THE MOVIES

Beloved Songs in "Swanee River"

The best-loved songs of Stephen C. Foster, the great American troubadour, are heard in "Swanee River," the 20th Century-Fox technicolor production, featuring Don Ameche, Andrea Leeds and Al Jolson at the Palace Theatre on February 3-4.

Ameche, who plays the composer, and Jolson, who plays E. P. Christy, minstrel king of that colorful day, sing several of the songs, and other melodies are rendered by the famous Hall Johnson Choir.

"Joe and Ethel Turp Call on the President" Brings Damon Runyon Tale to Screen

Ethel and Joe Turp begin their screen careers by proxy in the persons of Ann Sothern and William Gargan in the filmization of Damon Runyon's widely-read story, "Joe and Ethel Turp Call on the President," which comes to the Palace Theatre for a two-day showing February 7-8.

Featured in the cast with "Mr. and Mrs. Turp" are Lewis Stone, momentarily forsaking his famous characterization of "Judge Hardy" to enact the Chief Executive, Walter Brennan, Marsha Hunt and Tom Neal. Brennan, twice winner of the Academy Award for the best supporting player performance, has what is hailed as the finest role of his career in the new comedy drama.

ELECTRIC FUSES PROTECT HOMES

Whether the house is just being wired for the first time or has had an electric system for years, it is well for every adult member of the family to understand what the fuse box is for and what to do if a fuse blows out, says Helen Noyes, home management extension specialist at Michigan State College.

Fuses, or circuit breakers, are the safety valves in the electrical system. Extra fuses should be kept on hand in case one blows out. There should be enough circuits, each controlled by a fuse, to carry all the appliances the home is likely to have.

When a fuse blows out it's usually an indication that there is a short circuit or an overload. Perhaps too many appliances have been connected to one circuit. This trouble occurs frequently in houses wired several years ago, before people began to have such a variety of electric devices, such as mixers, dishwashers, waffle irons, percolators, fans, razor and warming pads, as well as the refrigerator, washing machine, laundry iron and vacuum cleaner.

By removing fuses one at a time and noting which lights and outlets are "dead", the blown fuse may be found. A list of the lights and outlets on each circuit, placed near the fuse box, is a help. If the cause of the difficulty is known, it is a simple matter to insert a good fuse. If the trouble has been merely an overload, the remedy is fewer lights or appliances on that circuit.

If a broken or loose wire has caused a short circuit, the repair must be made by one who knows how, before a good fuse is inserted. Otherwise, the fuse will go out again.

The biggest drawback of a lot of this "presidential timber" we have been hearing about is that it hasn't got its growth.

A GREAT AMERICAN ANNIVERSARY

This week all America is celebrating the 30th anniversary of the establishment of the Boy Scout movement in America. The movement has its enthusiastic supporters everywhere. Indeed in its three decades nearly 9,000,000 Americans have been Scouts, Cubs and leaders. Today there are over 1,330,000 boys and men actively enrolled.

Now as never before, American adults are giving their time, energies and financial support to time-tested boys and girls organizations that help mold their children into types of citizens that will guarantee the continued existenee of the United States along the pattern set by the nation's founders who gave America its democratic form of government and its precious heritage, the constitution and its bill of rights.

Supplementing existing organizations such as the home, church and school, the Boy Scouts of America engages boys' leisure-time energies in outdoor life and activities of cultural and practical values which lead boys to become dependable men.

Every president of the United States since William Howard Taft has been an enthusiastic supporter of Scouting and every American who knows anything about Scouting's beneficial program acknowledges it as worthy of continued confidence and trust.

BOYNE'S "SMELTANIA" ATTRACTS SPORTSMEN

Restaurant on Ice, Taxi Service to Shanty Village Offered

Smeltania, the famous fishing village on the ice, has materialized on Lake Charlevoix a mile off shore from this pretty resort town and has begun its official "corporate" existance for 1940.

And the smelt are coming. Citizens of Smeltania report eatches of from 200 to 500 of the silver sided little delicacies to be no unusual catch in a night of fishing.

In fishing for smelt a tiny minnow is used for bait and two hooks are usually attached to the line. Right now they are fishing deep, in about 60 feet of water, but as the year progresses toward spring the fish come closer to the surface.

By proclamation "Mayor" Bill Smith of Smeltania has declared the smelt season open and has invited all fishermen and sportsmen to come up and have a try at the sport. "There are plenty of fish shanties for rent and plenty of equipment to go with them," he says.

A new addition to Smeltania this year is a restaurant on the ice where they will serve fried smelt, minutes fresh from the lake, hot coffee and sandwiches. It is hoped to have a taxi line operating from the mainland soon.

LATE WINTER SNOWFALL AIDS DEER CONDITION

Heavier Fawns Reported by Conservation Dept. Field Men

Heavier fawns among deer captured in 10 traps in the Cusino game nrea in the upper peninsula indicate how much Michigan whitetails have benefited from the late winter. Fawn weights are considered n good index of herd condition, and with males averaging 73½ and females 73 pounds, this index is the best in four years of January trapping for the deer feeding experiment.

Bucks averaged 139 pounds and does 127 pounds, according to conservation department game men of the Cusino area. Because of mild weather, deer did not yard in the Cusino region until about the first of January, a month later than usual. The present good condition of the deer is expected to help the animals withstand the severe months ahead.

In the lower peninsula, investigation by game men revealed that deer had not yarded by the middle of January, though where the snow was deepest—12 inches in Otsego county—they were seen in numbers in the vicinity of the yards. Deer observed were reported to be in good condition.

WISCONSIN BORDER CONTROVERSY IS SETTLED

Two States Agree oo Motor Vehicle License Arrangement

Peace has been restored on the Michigan-Wisconsin border, after 18 years of controversy between the two states over motor vehicle licensing, as the result of an agreement reached between Harry F. Kelly, secretary of state and Wisconsin officials during a recent conference in Chicago.

Provisions included in the agreement are:

1. Passenger vehicles, including cabin trailers, registered in either state are extended full privileges in either state for a period of 90 days. However, in case residence is established in the state where the vehicle is not licensed, a new license must be obtained in the resident state.

2. A private trucker operating his own vehicles and hauling his own goods from one state to the other is granted full license privileges in both states.

3. Truckers may not engage in intra-state transportation, described as picking up and delivering produce in n state other than that in which they nre licensed.

4. License plates issued in one state for dealers, manufacturers and drive-away vehicles are valid in the other.

CONSERVATION CLUBS URGE PLANTING TREES

Ask Farmers Take Advantage of Federal AAA Allotment

Members of the Michigan United Conservation Clubs are urged by the extension forester of Michigan State College, Ira Bull, to participate in proposals of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration and thus help utilize the $30 federal allotment for every farm that can be earned only by forest tree planting, including windbreaks, forest plantations and shrubs for wildlife food.

Farmers who this year plant trees and shrubs, or 300 trees in a windbreak on their farms are eligible to receive $7.50 an acre under one of the provisions of the agricultural conservation program.

"Michigan United Conservation Club members," states Mr. Bull, "who are vitally interested in more food and cover for wildlife on Michigan farms should urge and cooperate with farmers to take advantage of this provision. Planting trees by club members on the land of cooperating farmers would most certainly increase the acreage planted because the planting seasons come when the farmers are very busy."

"The supply of trees for planting is still ndequate, but to be assured of the exact species and size desired, orders should be placed as soon as possible with the forestry department of Michigan State College which is cooperating by supplying the stock at cost."

Prices at cost range from $2.50 to $10 per thousand depending on size and species.

BARBER SHOP QUARTETS MAY COMPETE FOR TITLE

Grand Rapids Schubert Club Announces State-Wide Contest

Just who can sing "Sweet Adeline" or "Honey" or any of the other barber shop melodies the best in the state of Michigan is no longer going to be a secret.

The Grand Rapids Schubert Club is announcing its first Michigan championship tournament for barber shop quartet singing to be held in Grand Rapids on March 9. Any four male singers in the state, provided they are not professionals, can compete in this tournament for honors that may lead to national recognition. The Schubert Club wants quartets from all over the state to come and take part in this event. The singing is to be entirely informal and no quartet is to be allowed to go classical or high brow. They must sing the old timers.

The First Annual Championship in Barber Shop Quartet Singing is to be judged by George Welch, mayor of Grand Rapids, a trombone player; George A. Murphy, a singing teacher, and Karl Wecker, director of the Grand Rapids Symphony orchestra and a violinist. They know very little, if anything, about barber shop quartet singing and thus everyone has a chance for a prize. The singing will be done on a stage set up as a barber shop with chair, clippers, wash stand, towels and even barbers.

There is no entry fee. Application for entry blank can be made to the Schubert Club, Grand Rapids, Mich.

Last Monday night the Charlevoix Junior Farm Bureau was entertained for a short while by some boxing. Several games were led by our very able member, Elsie Hilton.

For the business the meeting was turned over to Cal Carey. We discussed banquets and their preparation along with the chances of giving one. After appointing Fred Willis to establish our meeting place for the next few months, we found our time was nearly over. A few songs were sung and the 25 members present decided it was time to adjourn.

COMMERCIAL LICENSE ALLOWS MORE LAKE TROUT

Some hook-and-line fishermen along Great Lakes shores, discovering that the daily limit of five lake trout under the sport fishing law applies to ice fishing as well as summer fishing, are expected to take out commercial fishing licenses, for which the minimum fee is $10.

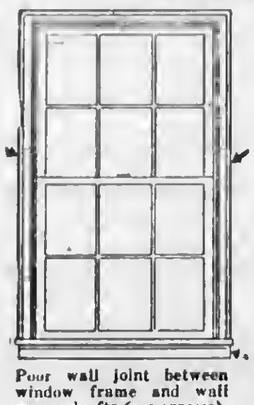
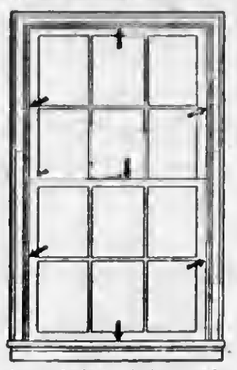
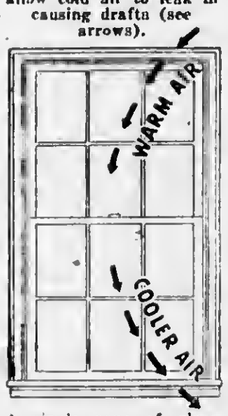
EASIEST TIME TO CURE DRAFTS IS WHEN YOU BUILD!



Poor wall joint between window frame and wall causes drafts (see arrows).



Poor fitting window sash allow cold air to leak in causing drafts (see arrows).



A single pane of glass cools warm air quickly. Cool air drops to floor causing drafts.

WATCH THESE THREE PLACES IF YOU WOULD STOP THEM

There is just no excuse for drafts in your new home, because drafts are definitely curable if you will watch just three places—and all three places are around your windows.

First and foremost offender in the making of drafts in your new home is the window frame. Now you've never bought window frames so you don't know anything about them and that is one reason why so many home builders have drafty windows, because they were careless about the window frame that went into their homes. Now, we aren't going to go into detail about window frames. We just want you to remember that the most important thing about a window frame is how it joins the wall. If it makes a permanent leakproof weathertight joint with the wall—fine and dandy. If it doesn't, you'll have drafts, no end of drafts. How can you make sure about a weathertight joint? Just specify that the window frames used in your new home have wide blind stop construction. This special construction should be familiar to your contractor.

Proper Fitting Necessary

Next in importance to window frame is the window sash (the part of the window that moves within the frame). Many home builders buy window frames in one place and sash in another with the result that the sash and frame never fit properly in spite of trimming and cutting on the job. And sash that don't fit properly cause drafts, and more drafts. The modern trend is towards what is known as complete window units that are delivered with frame and sash precision fitted to each other at the factory. Many of these window units are even complete with weatherstrip. In any event be sure that the window sash are fitted properly to the window frame and you'll eliminate another big source of drafts.

Glass Cools Air

Now here is the third cause of drafts. It's warm air being quickly cooled against a single pane of glass. The cold air then drops to the floor. This flow of air causes drafts. What's the cure? A double pane of glass. Some windows are made so that this double pane of glass fits on the inside of the window, while the most common is the ordinary storm windows which are hung on the outside. Whether your double glass is inside or outside, the result is the same. The glass that is within the heated room is kept warmer by the dead air space between the double panes. Result: Warm air is not cooled so fast; no cool air—no drafts.

DISTRICT HEALTH UNIT

Sulfapyridine for Pneumonia

Physicians are regarding the approach of winter with far less dread than at any time since pneumonia become an annual problem, particularly in densely populated areas. They are placing their trust in the new chemical compound sulfapyridine, perfected in England, and now exhaustively tested.

It is estimated that whereas the mortality in the larger city hospitals from pneumonia has ranged from 30 to 40 per cent, it is now fairly well stabilized at about 5 per cent. Cases formerly considered hopeless — including those diagnosed at a late stage and those occurring in patients with pre-existing maladies such as chronic Bright's disease, cancer, tuberculosis or heart involvement — now frequently yield to sulfapyridine therapy.

The evidence is indisputable that the drug not only reduces the death rate but lowers materially the cost of treating pneumonia and lessens the period of convalescence. Moreover, the more common complications such as empyema, or collection of pus in the cavity between the chest wall and lung, can be largely avoided through the timely administration of sulfapyridine.

Fears that the drug might prove harmful to some persons have not been substantiated in thousands of cases in which its effects have been studied. Only a negligible number of patients have reacted unfavorably.

Sulfapyridine is little short of miraculous in its action but it cannot do the impossible. It cannot be used to advantage when pneumonia has already advanced to a point where the natural defenses of the body are unable to operate. Therefore, it is extremely important that the physician be summoned at the first signs of fever, cold and pain in the chest.

Social Hygiene Day

In asking the state to join in the fourth annual national observance of Social Hygiene Day—February 1—Dr. H. Alfou Moyer, state health commissioner, today listed the gains which Michigan can report in the fight to control syphilis.

The cause of syphilis is known, it can be readily diagnosed, and the drugs to overcome it are at hand. Syphilis can be treated successfully. And for Michigan, Dr. Moyer emphasized two facts:

1. The public is asking to be informed, and more people are getting the facts about syphilis than ever before.

2. Treatment is available for every infected person, if he will visit his doctor or make arrangements thru his health officer.

"Syphilis is a dangerous, communicable disease," Dr. Moyer pointed out, "and doctors and health officers throughout the state are cooperating to bring it under control. The prevalence of the disease varies in different communities, but the national estimate is that syphilis infects one person out of 20.

"The attack rate is highest in young adults from 20 to 30—and the crippling and damaging effects of syphilis are most evident in the 40's and 50's, when earning power normally is at its maximum. Early diagnosis and prompt treatment by a qualified physician is the best guarantee of cure."

The state has two new laws intended for the detection and prevention of syphilis. The first, passed in 1937, requires a medical examination including a blood test for every bride and groom before a marriage license may be issued. The second, adopted in 1939, provides for blood tests for expectant mothers.

Syphilis is not hereditary, but 60,000 syphilitic babies are born annually in the nation because their mothers were infected. The prenatal blood test, which doctors are now required to make as part of the care of an expectant mother, will reveal infection. If treatment is started before the fifth month of pregnancy, it is almost assured that the baby will be born free from the disease.

By means of federal grants, the State Health Department gives financial aid to major cities carrying on venereal disease programs. City health departments which have been assisted include Detroit, Kalamazoo, Jackson, Flint, Grand Rapids, Pontiac, Saginaw and Bay City. The State Health Department laboratories at Lansing, Grand Rapids, Houghton and Powers last year made more than 200,000 blood tests and microscopic examinations.

The state furnished without cost to physicians the necessary drugs for treatment of syphilis. Treatments, to be successful, must be continuous, and kept up for many months. The treatments do not interfere with employment.

Wrestles With Buck

White Cloud—Harold Menold, 19, won't forget the recent deer hunting season quickly. He shot his buck through the neck, then cut its throat. About that time things began to happen. The buck started to kick, and engaged Harold in a wrestling match that lasted several minutes before Harold finally won.

Shoots Rare Raccoon

Tecumseh—A black silver raccoon was the trophy secured by E. W. Fish during the '39 hunting season. Considered rare in Michigan, the animal weighed 18 pounds. Its jet black fur was very dense, and it had slight silver markings over the eyes and tail.

COOKING FOR TWO MAKES REAL TEST

It's easy enough for the young homemaker to learn how to cook with the aid of a recipe book and the advice of friendly neighbors. But it takes real ingenuity to plan meals for two persons, without wasting food or letting the menus become monotonous, explain members of the home economics extension staff at Michigan State College.

To know exactly how many servings you can get from a certain amount of all the common foods, is the first step suggested by the federal bureau of home economics for the wise planning of meals-for-two.

Many times considerable savings can be made through buying food in fairly large quantities, even when the family is small. The skillful buyer compares the prices of foods in different-size containers, and figures out how much she can save by getting the larger sizes. When there is food to be kept from one meal to the next, well-arranged shelf space, covered jars, and refrigerator dishes of different sizes are important kitchen aids.

If a cook makes use of the economies of purchasing in large quantities, it is important to plan meals for several days in advance. Use of a large can of fruit or cooking more vegetables than are needed for one meal, can still permit varying a menu scheme by serving them in entirely different ways. When there is a roast, left-over meat can be combined with different vegetables each time it reappears.

Will Hitler Have a Fatal "Accident"?

Is Germany's Fuehrer nearing the end of his reign? Was the Munich explosion the "handwriting on the wall?" In the blacked out capitals of Europe these days, the men in the know' are whispering strange predictions. One of the men who is in contact with those on the inside is Henry C. Wolfe, who forecast the Hitler-Stalin Alliance while the two gentlemen were still engaged in hurling insults at each other. This Week, the magazine with Sunday's Detroit News, asked Mr. Wolfe to give the "low down" on the war's next big development and it's coming to you next Sunday! from the previous year's expenditures, and it had put the home rule responsibility right on the supervisors' lap.

Dearth of funds, however, has been disconcerting to supervisors as well as state officials. The latter particularly dislike the idea of a special session in 1940 for several good reasons, these being mainly the present $30,000,000 state deficit and the unpopularity of any new taxes.

Local Control

Under the supervisors' tentative plan as approved by the governor the counties would also take over responsibility for the spending of other millions—$4,000,000 of aid for dependent children, and $800,000 for crippled and afflicted children.

But while the counties were getting more money for relief purposes, they would leave to the state the administration of state old-age pensions. Again the legislature is asked by the supervisors to step up its appropriation for this form of assistance from $10,000,000 to $12,000,000 annually to be matched with an equal amount by the Federal government.

It is estimated that this increase, providing $4,000,000 annually, would assure pensions to 25,000 more persons who are now eligible to receive them.

Eighty per cent of the relief jackpot would be allocated to counties on a population basis, according to the supervisors' scheme, and 20 per cent would go to a state fund for emergency needs. Whereas the supervisors' formula is based on population, city officials of metropolitan centers have insisted that relief should be allocated on the basis of actual need on the theory that industrial cities often are harder hit with unemployment than small towns.

The city vs. rural controversy thus may break out into new fury as a result of the supervisors' plan. It will likely be challenged by Detroit and other large cities in Michigan. Labor complications are also foreseen.

Liquor Row

Action of Governor Dickinson, a national and state anti-saloon league leader, in deserting his fellow townsman and temperance-living neighbor, Murl H. DeFoe, was one of those things that makes the Lansing scene of news interest these days.

DeFoe, member of the state liquor commission, believed that the state was putting too much money into liquor inventories, that a reduction of this investment would afford a cool million dollars for welfare use, and that, anyway, the commission was paying too much attention to a few distilleries.

Orrin A. DeMass, Detroit, commission chairman, countered with denials. DeFoe declared he would decline to sign any more orders for purchases with the "big six" distilleries until February 5, the new "buying" meeting.

Then the governor intervened. Despite his personal ideas about temperance, Dickinson said he would sign liquor purchase orders if it were necessary.

It was all a bit disconcerting.

The dispute gave another airing to the problem of liquor purchases and sales, a state business whose gross sales in 1938 totaled more than $37,000,000—5,236,000 gallons of whiskies, gins and rums and 102,873,000 gallons of beer. Last year, liquor sales increased nearly 20 per cent due to better times.

Winter Sports

With winter's cold blasts assuring plenty of ice skating and tobagganing, the Upper Peninsula will celebrate a number of community winter sport festivals during February. The events will continue through Washington's birthday.

Escanaba and Newberry stage their carnivals February 2, 3 and 4. Marquette's showing will be February 6-11; Negaunee, February 8-10; Gladstone, February 9-11; Iron Mountain February 10-12; Sault Ste. Marie, February 14-17; Munising, February 17-18; Ishpeming, February 19-22; Houghton, February 14 to 17.

The all-peninsula queen contest will be held at the Soo on February 17th.

Members of the Escanaba Ski Club made a trip to Tahquamenon Falls last Saturday and Sunday, believe it or not.

In the Lower Peninsula the winter sport centers include Grayling's big toboggan-skating-skiing park, Alpena, Petoskey and Ionia. Winter sports offer a new development for Michigan; a healthful recreation for its residents, and a source of additional income for many communities.

erse county is quoted as saying: "One not familiar with the situation cannot believe the number of complaints we receive from property owners and schools about dogs running in gangs. We have begged, threatened and pleaded with owners to keep their dogs at home or under control, but they have refused to take these warnings seriously. By increasing the size of the fine, perhaps we can impress upon them that we mean business." Traverse City's methods might be worth looking into.

Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Schaerer, well known summer residents who have gone from Detroit to St. Petersburg, Fla., for the winter, report an unusual incident. While driving, they came up behind a little Austin car with lettering on the back, "Blind Man Drives This Car." Their curiosity aroused, they went back to see what it was all about and found on the left side of the car the words, "See Other Side," which, upon investigation, had the lettering, "We Sell Venetian Blinds."

You will be surprised, as I was, to know how many potential airplane pilots we have in our midst. When you see that little yellow ship of Rudy Pekrul's flying round above town, the pilot might be Marvin Taylor, our genial Kroger store manager, Fred Hardy of the coast guards, Bill Hansen, who works at the Charlevoix Terminal Co., or Edwin McCann, who now lives at Onaway and drops over occasionally to get in more flying time. All four have in enough time to make solo flights and some are not far nway from a pilot's license.

The perch fishermen are sure having their inning now! Ever since last Saturday the catches being taken from Round lake are really something to write about. Those big yellow-bellies, you know, and plenty of them, too. Bernie Ward and Milo Todd have speared some big pike and I saw Earl Harrington going up the street the other day with a whoppin' big lawyer as well as limit catch (50) perch. I want to say the boys earn their fish, too, for when I ventured out to where they were fishing Sunday morning, I found the ice just about one inch thick. Will tell you frankly, that's not enough footing between me and blue water.

The time is certainly proper for the annual pat on the back of the city street department for its efforts in keeping the city streets free from snow. Within the past month an almost constant snowfall, reported as much as 60 inches, has piled up the heaviest in years, yet the streets have been kept in splendid driving condition. No matter what the requirement, day or night, the work has gone on.

Sportsmen generally will be interested in a recent news bulletin released from the Boyne City district conservation headquarters calling attention to the fact that Lake Charlevoix and Round lake are classified by law as "inland waters," not as connecting waters of the Great Lakes. This opinion is based upon the fact that connecting waters of the Great Lakes are defined as being those waters which actually form the connecting links between the Great Lakes. Thus Round lake and Lake Charlevoix are "inland waters," but as such, are especially designated, along with several other lakes which empty directly into the Great Lakes, as open to fishing throughout the year of fish on which the season is not closed, such as lake trout, whitefish, smelt, etc. Another special ruling allows the taking of 50 perch, where a limit of 25 applies to inland lakes. The law, however, prohibits the sale of perch and all other game fish taken from the two lakes. Also the take of rainbow (steelhead) trout is limited to 5 per person in one day, and the season extends from the last Saturday in April to November 30th, while in rivers the limit is 15 and the season runs from the last Saturday in April through Labor Day. The new 1940 fishing laws allow taking 10 bass from the Great Lakes. The limit from Lake Charlevoix, however, remains at 5.

MAY REFUSE LICENSES TO TARDY GAME HUNTER

Consider Asking Legislature Put "Teeth" in Game Report Law

Refusal of hunting licenses to persons who do not report their success or lack of it, as required by law, may be the penalty imposed in future for such failure.

Conservation officials, perturbed by the slowness with which returns due February 15 are trickling into department offices here, are considering such penalty as an effective means of securing hunter cooperation.

The department, as the law now stands, has authority to bring charges against hunters who do not return the report cards attached to licenses. Fine and imprisonment are penalties now provided by law.

Such actions against offending hunters, however, can be less effective than refusal of licenses, the department holds.

4-H CLUB LEADERS ATTENDED BANQUET HERE

Thirty-Five Present at Program Last Wednesday Evening

A most profitable gathering took place at the Charlevoix Hotel on Wednesday night, January 24th, when 35 4-H club leaders and rural teachers met and discussed various features of the program.

O. F. Walker, district agent, and Miss Lois M. Corbett, representing the State Club Department, led the discussion and suggested forms of activity. Practically every school in the county is carrying on some type of 4-H club work. The great interest in hot lunch clubs still continues.

The Spring Achievement Day will be held in the Boyne City high school gymnasium the early part of April. By previous decision of the 4-H club council, it was deemed advisable to have each of the three cities entertain this huge exhibit each third year. Next year Charlevoix will act as host and the following year East Jordan.

The enrollment is not complete as yet but indications point to about the same number of 4-H club members as last year.

ONE-SIXTH STATE AREA IN PUBLIC OWNERSHIP

State and Federal Agency Have Title to 6,500,000 Acres

Nearly 6,500,000 acres of land, approximately one-sixth of the total area of the state, is now in public ownership, either state or federal, according to figures just released by the department of conservation.

Approximate state owned acreage totals 4,450,000 including the estimated 2,000,000 acres which reverted to the state last November 3. Included also are 1,075,000 acres in state forests, 500,000 acres in state game areas, and 30,000 acres in state parks, a total of 1,605,000 acres which are administered by the department.

Federal holdings include 1,666,543 acres in national forests, approximately 100,000 acres in waterfowl refuges, 115,000 acres in submarginal land projects and 120,000 acres in national parks.

Unadministered lands held by the state approximate 2,845,000 acres.

TOURIST WEEK COMMITTEES PLANNING A BUSINESS SURVEY

When "Know Michigan Tourist Week" rolls around April 14 to 21, the general committee will "know the answers" about employment and revenue which the tourist industry contributes to Michigan, according to C. S. Webster, Charlevoix county chairman.

County committees in west Michigan, including Charlevoix county's group composed of Mr. Webster, Barney Milstein of East Jordan, B. C. Mellencamp of Boyne City, Garnet Rickard of Boyne Falls, and Lloyd McDonough of St. James, are being provided now with a questionnaire to be circulated among the business places in west Michigan to secure answers.

J. J. Bachunas, general chairman, in announcing that the questionnaire had been prepared, said, "We know that the tourist industry provides a lot of employment in the resort areas and we know that a substantial amount of the annual revenue of the communities is traceable to the tourist business. When the questionnaires are in the results tabulated we will know just how much."

"The questionnaire will make the business people of Michigan think about the tourist business and impress them with its importance," Mr. Bachunas continued. "I have found that in many cases they do not realize where the business is coming from. I talked to a wholesale grocer recently who first told me that he could trace none of his business to the tourists but in checking up discovered, to his astonishment, that fully 15 per cent of his annual business was due to the tourist industry."

"If we can awaken the businessmen of Michigan to this condition we will have done a good thing," he said. "So far as employment goes we know that relief figures in the resort counties show a definite reduction in the resort season but accurate figures on numbers never have been obtained."

The West Michigan Tourist & Resort Association suggested to the census bureau that questions might be included in their forms to bring out these facts but it was impossible to get them included.

The questionnaire will ask for the name of the city, the type of business, if it would be necessary to let any of the regular force go if not for the resort business, if they hire additional help during the resort season and how many; and what percentage of their annual gross income they attribute to the tourist business.

MEETING CHERRY GROWERS SCHEDULED FEB. 7

Session at East Jordan to Discuss Asking Federal Assistance

All cherry growers of Charlevoix county are invited to attend a meeting to be held in the East Jordan community room Wednesday afternoon, February 7th, at 1:30.

The purpose of the meeting is to discuss the latest efforts of cherry producers to raise the price level which, during the past few years, has been below the cost of production.

Mr. Langworthy of Traverse City, state chairman, and others from Traverse City will be present to discuss this new project. The first phase is to bring pressure on Congress to have canned fruits and vegetables included in the Federal Marketing Act. Upon favorable action, several ordinances could be developed which would establish size and quality grades, new marketing outlets and other features that would bring about a better situation for cherry producers.

CITY MOURNS DEATH DR. R. B. ARMSTRONG

Dr. Armstrong was active in civic affairs, serving in numerous offices and as mayor of Charlevoix in 1907. He belonged to the Masons, Knights of Pythias, Kiwanis and numerous fraternities, was a member of the American Medical Association, Michigan State and Northern Michigan Medical Societies. He was an ardent sportsman, a great lover of the outdoors.

As the physician of visitors to this summer resort city, Dr. Armstrong counted intimate friends throughout the United States. Perhaps his greatest asset was his disposition. It has been said, and truthfully so, that he cured more illness with a radiant smile and contagious disposition than with medicine. Those who knew Dr. Armstrong must have benefitted in many ways from that friendship, however casual. Any tribute which might be paid him in mere words would be insignificant.

Surviving him are three daughters, Mrs. Clayton Hamill Redfield, Oak Park, Ill., and Mrs. Edward K. Shanahan of San Diego, Calif., who were with him at his death; Mrs. George Edwards Wantz of River Forest, Ill., who only returned to her home Tuesday; a son, Dr. Robert Bruce Armstrong, Jr., nt present in Switzerland.

Funeral arrangements have not been completed at this time.

STATE OF MICHIGAN

In the Circuit Court for the County of Charlevoix in Chancery.

In the Matter of the Petition of Vernon J. Brown, Auditor General of the State of Michigan, for and in behalf of said State, for the sale of certain lands for taxes assessed thereon.

To the Circuit Court for the County of Charlevoix, in Chancery:

Vernon J. Brown, Auditor General of the State of Michigan, respectfully shows unto the Court:

1. That he is the Auditor General of the State of Michigan and makes and files this petition under, by virtue of and pursuant to the provisions of Act No. 206 of the Public Acts of 1893, as amended, and Act No. 126 of the Public Acts of 1933, as amended;

2. That Schedule A annexed hereto is the tax record required by the act first above mentioned and contains the description of all lands in the aforesaid county upon which taxes which were assessed for the years mentioned therein, have remained unpaid for more than one year after they were returned as delinquent, the description of all lands in said county heretofore bid off in the name of the State and thus held and upon which taxes which were assessed subsequent to the tax for which such lands were sold to the State have remained unpaid for more than one year after they were returned as delinquent, and the description of all lands in said county which are delinquent for any installment of taxes under the provisions of the act last above mentioned;

3. That extended separately in said schedule against such description of said lands therein contained are (a) the total amount of delinquent taxes upon said description for the non-payment of which the same may lawfully be sold at the next annual tax sale, (b) interest computed thereon as provided by law to the first day of May, next ensuing, (c) a collection fee of four per cent nnd (d) fifty cents for expenses, all in accordance with the provisions of the act first above mentioned;

4. That all of the aforesaid taxes, interest and charges are valid, delinquent and unpaid, and have remained delinquent and unpaid for sufficient time to authorize and require, as provided by the foregoing acts, the sale of the aforesaid parcels of land against which they were assessed and are extended in said schedule at the next annual tax sale for the non-payment thereof, and that the said taxes, interest, collection fee and expenses so extended in said schedule against each parcel of land therein described constitute a valid lien upon each of the said several parcels of land described in said schedule as therein and against which extended in favor of the people of the State of Michigan, the payment of which lien this court may enforce as a preferred or first claim upon such lands by the sale thereof.

Wherefore your petitioner prays:

a. That within the time provided by law this court may determine and decree that the aforesaid taxes, interest, collection fee and charges are valid and constitute a valid lien upon each of the said several parcels of land described in said schedule as therein extended;

b. That within the time provided by law this court make a final decree in favor of the State of Michigan against each parcel of said lands for the payment of the several amounts of taxes, interest, collection fee and expenses, as computed and extended in said schedule against the several parcels of land therein contained;

c. That said decree provide that in default of the payment so ordered of the said several sums computed and extended against said lands in said schedule, the said several parcels of land, or such interest therein as may be necessary to satisfy the amount decreed against the same, shall severally be sold as the law provides;

d. That your petitioner may have such other and further relief in the premises as to this court may seem just and equitable.

And your petitioner will ever pray, etc.

Dated: January 9, 1940.

VERNON J. BROWN,
Auditor General of the State of Michigan, for and in behalf of said State.
